THE BIG MAN HUNT IS ON

Rough Riders to Run Down The Desperate Band of Train Robbers.

HIDING PLACE LOCATED

A Wyoming Refuge For Criminals and Outlaws to be Cleansed of Its Inhabitants.

Fifty Bandits for Whose Heads Large Rewards Are Offered, Will be Routed Out of Their Den and Captured Dead Or Alive—The Man Hunters to go Out Thoroughly Equipped.

Casper, Wyo., June 13.—The hiding place of the most desperate gang of criminals and outlaws that have ever been allowed to run at large in this or any other country, has at last been located and, the "Hole in the Wall," for years the refuge for outlaws, promises to be cleansed of its desperate inhabitants. The daring robber band which looted the Union Pacific Express at Rock Creek recently, and escaped to the "Hole in the Wall," are to be systematically hunted to their death. To this purpose the several railroad managers with interests in this State are organizing posses, and the outlaws will be given no rest. It is expected two hundred men will engage in the big man hunt.

The State, express and railroad companies have offered an aggregate of $3,000 each for the heads of the members of the band. In addition the men who engage in the chase will be armed and fed by the corporations and big cattle companies of this section. They are enabled to enlist a typical band of rough riders, and every man of them a dead shot. Many of them are cowboys, others are old frontiersmen who have fought Indians in the same territory over which they will now pursue the bandits, and still others are the trained detectives of the big corporations. The man hunters will be accompanied by Indian trailers, bloodhounds and pack trains.

The men are all to be sworn in as deputy sheriffs, and will be in charge of the officers of the several counties in northwstern Wyoming.

A gorge so narrow that two horses cannot walk abreast is the only gateway into the "Hole." There are paths over the granite wall for men, but not for beasts. Leading in from Montana there are also two or three obscure routes, that eventually enable one to reach the rendezvous of the outlaws, but they are known to but few trailers and Indian fighters.

The six road agents who looted the Union Pacific express will not oppose this small army alone. It is estimated that at least fifty men, on whose heads prices have been set, and who are wanted in many States, are to be found hiding there. Many of them are convicted criminals, and some under sentence of death. It is commonly stated that Bob Taylor, the condemned Missouri murderer, is living there, herding cattle for another murderer—George Balke—who killed his wife at Cheyenne.

The Foreign Wheat Crop.

London, June 13.—The "Mark Lane Express," in its weekly crop report says Belgium, Holland, Italy and parts of Austria-Hungary promise average wheat crops. In France, Germany, Spain and Poland the crops are fair, and there are hopes for a full, average crop. In Russia the drought is too prevalent to allow a hopeful yield of either wheat or rye. In Roumania, Servia and Bulgaria a short wheat crop is regarded as inevitable.

Killed Man Who Testified Against Him.

Chicago, June 13.—Chicago proposes Brown, a respectable citizen of this place, was shot to death by David Harris, who was convicted of a crime and sent to the penitentiary several years ago. Brown was in a buggy with his son, when Harris emerged from a crowd, stepped up to the vehicle in which the Browns were seated and shot the elder Brown through the heart.

His Teeth Were Blown Out.

Altoona, Pa., June 13.—John Boyle, of Chester, was so much impressed with the feats of the fire-eating man at the circus that he thought to imitate him. Filling his mouth with gasoline he put a lighted match to his lips. The explosion forced the fire into his lungs, blew out his teeth and communicated to his hair. He died at the hospital.

Valuable Papers Destroyed.

Brazil, Ind., June 13.—Thieves broke into the general store of W. E. Eppert & Co., at Carbon, north of here, and blew open their safe, after wrapping it with bolts of fine flannel. The explosion demolished the entire safe and destroyed a lot of notes and mortgages. Only about $100 in money was secured.

Mexico's Yield of Gold.

City of Mexico, June 13.—President Robbinson, of the Mexican Central Railway, has estimated that Mexico will probably produce $12,000,000 worth of gold this year, and predicts that when the richer mines are reached by railways, the country's gold production will raise to $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 annually.

Woman Strangely Missing.

Lima, Ohio, June 13.—The police have been asked to locate Mrs. Lizzie Harter, a married woman from Spencerville, Ohio, who came here some time ago to visit her parents. It was learned that she had left for her home last Thursday, but has not been seen since.

Two Years for a Life.

Williamstown, Ky., June 13.—After being out 20 hours the jury in the case of Henry Jones, for killing Albert Jeffers, returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter, and fixed his punishment to two years in the penitentiary.

Clothes Caught Fire.

DEWEY AT SINGAPORE

His Health Has Improved Since He Left Hong Kong.

London, June 13.—A despatch to the times from Singapore states that the American warship Olympia, on which Admiral Dewey is returning from Manila to the United States, arrived there on Sunday afternoon. Admiral Dewey landed on Monday morning and was received by a guard of honor. He called at the Government House, after which he returned immediately to his ship, where the Governor returned his visit.

The Olympia's departure is fixed for Friday next, but she may leave sooner. Admiral Dewey will reside aboard the cruiser in the roadstead, and will not accept any invitations.

He looks very worn, but says he has enjoyed the voyage and that his health has improved since he left Hong Kong.

Porto Rico Army Prisoner

Chicago, June 13.—Rafael Ortez, a native Porto Rican, was placed in the Minnesota State Penitentiary at Stillwater to serve a life sentence for murdering Private Burke of the Sixty-seventh New York Volunteers at Singas, near San Juan, in last February. An altercation occurred in a cafe, and in the fight Ortez drew a razor across Private Burke's throat, killing him instantly. The Porto Rican was sentenced to be shot, but President McKinley commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Sergt. Harris and Private Brady left Porto Rico with the prisoner on May 29, and arrived at New York June 6. Sergt. Harris kept his mission secret and came West without making a stop until he had turned his prisoner over to the Warden at Stillwater.

Groceryman's Skull Crushed.

Chicago, June 13.—Charles Vernier, who conducts a small grocery at 100½ South Des Plaines street, was murderously assaulted in his store by a hold-up robber.

Vernier was taken to the County Hospital in an unconscious condition, and the surgeons said they did not believe he would recover consciousness. The district in which the assault and robbery occurred is infested with criminals and lawless acts are of daily occurrence. The assault occurred in broad daylight and the street was thronged with passers-by, yet nobody saw the crime committed.

Mrs. Cannon Held the Fort.

Altoona, Pa., June 13.—Mrs. William Cannon, through whose land the Greensburg, Jeannette & Pittsburg trolley line was run, under her protest, could get no satisfaction from the officers to whom she presented her claims for damages. Having no money with which to bring suit in the regular way, she adopted the expedient of doing her family sewing on the track of the company. Sitting in a rocking chair, her youngest child in her lap, she defied the motorman to run over her. When the crew from the car attempted to remove her by force, she pulled a revolver from under her sewing. Mrs. Young held her position until the superintendent of the road arrived and gave her a written promise that her claims should have prompt attention.

Chanut Estate Insolvent.

White Plains, N. Y., June 13.—Samuel F. Swinburne, the transfer tax appraiser, appointed by Surrogate Silkman to estimate the collateral inheritance tax upon the estate of the late Jean M. Chanut, the glove importer of New York City, who was lost on the steamship La Bourgogne, has filed his report. The findings of the appraiser shows that the estate is insolvent, and that therefore there will be no tax. The assets, as sworn to by the executrix, are $12,702.75, while the debts of the deceased amount to $56,639.63.

Coughed Up a Cherry Stone.

Altoona, Pa., June 13.—George W. Powell, a well-known railroad man, has coughed almost incessantly for six months. He had been reduced from a robust man of about 200 pounds to an invalid of ninety pounds. Having gone to his mother's home to die, he coughed up a large cherry stone which had become imbedded in his lungs. The coughing has stopped and Powell will get well.

Dewey Declines Gift of a House.

Washington, June 13.—Admiral Dewey will not accept the home which the American people are preparing to give him. This comes from the Admiral himself, he having cabled a friend in this city that he must decline to accept it, but that if a fund was raised for that purpose, he would take the money and invest it in a home for sick and disabled sailors.

Woman Shot Instead of Thief.

Chicago, June 13.—Three men, attempting to hold up a man near Ohio street and La Salle avenue, were surprised by Policeman Langlois. A lively shooting followed. In the affray a woman, named Nettie Behman, was shot in the groin and died at the County Hospital.

OVER TWO HUNDRED KILLED

Another Frightful Tornado Destroys Life and Property in Northwest.

MANY TOWNS RUINED.

Rain and Wind Combined Carry Away Thousands of Dollars Worth of Property.

Houses and Bridges Carried Away and Fruit and Crops of All Kinds Ruined—Many Families Carried From Their Flooded Homes on Rafts—Many Cities in Darkness.

St. Paul, June 13.—A tornado is reported to have swept over Hastings, Minn., and Hudson and New Richmond, Wis., being probably the centre of the hard storm that gave St. Paul and Minneapolis such a hard rain and blow.

One report places the number of dead at the last named place at 200.

Wires are down from here, and it is difficult to verify reports.

The operator at Burkhardt Station, near New Richmond, Wis., reports: "Many people killed and injured at New Richmond."

There are repeated rumors that the tornado at New Richmond, Wis., has killed 250 people.

LaCrosse, Wis., June 13.—The worst rain storm in seventeen years swept over this section and nearly five inches of rain fell. It came down in sheets, doing great damage to railroad property. All railway communication, except on the C. B. & N. from South Dubuque and the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee line, is cut off.

Fifty families in North Lacrosse were compelled to desert their homes in boats, and the water is still rising. Much live stock was drowned.

Nearly every bridge in the Lacrosse River valley is gone. There were no mail trains on the Milwaukee or Burlington roads to this city to-day.

Winona, Minn., June 13.—The storm that has just passed here was the most severe ever known. Dams and bridges were swept away on all the water courses, including a stone arch bridge built to protect South Winona. The entire south side is under water, and many families have been carried out on rafts. A large stone bridge over Gilmore Creek was carried away.

Every street in the city was flooded above the curbing, and many families were driven out. The Mississippi has risen a feet and a half since the storm, and all wires are down. It is reported that the C., M. & St. P. steel bridge at Minnesota City has gone down, and great damage at Fountain City.

Fruit and crops on all lowlands are a total loss. Several horses and cattle were drowned, and the railroads report many washouts.

Minneapolis, June 13.—One of the most severe storms that ever passed over Minneapolis prevailed here with relentless furry. For fully an hour midnight darkness fell over the city, and the sky had all the appearance of a tornado. There was little wind, however, but an immense volume of water fell, the gauge showing 2.34 inches.

Bridge square, in the lower part of the city, was afloat for a time, and was passable only in boats.

A cyclone passed two and a half miles southeast of Hudson. Harry Mattison's house, barn and all his farm buildings were blown flat. The family was in the cellar, and no one was hurt.

May Be More Bloodshed.

Manchester, Ky., June 13.—Sheriff White has been arrested and charged with the murder of Tom Baker, who was the leader of the Baker faction in the Baker-Howard feud. The sheriff is under the same military guard that was sent here in a vain endeavor to protect Baker's life, but Col. Williams has taken every precaution to see that his new prisoner, if found guilty, shall pay the penalty without the premature fate of his alleged victim. Nevertheless, blood for blood is the cry of Baker's relatives, and those who know them say they are sure to get it.

Chops Down His Friends.

Pine Bluff, Ark., June 13.—Sam Davis and Joe Hopper, two wealthy planters of Summerville, were talking pleasantly together when the latter becoming suddenly insane, picked up an axe and split Davis's head open, death resulting instantly. Hopper attacked several others, badly wounding them, but was finally overpowered and lodged in jail at Hampton. Hopper said that he had been called by God to kill his friends.

Fitzsimmons Declines.

New York, June 13.—Robert Fitzsimmons has declined to accept a benefit at th Coney Island Athletic Club Saturday evening, June 17. Fitz does not think it fair that Jeffries should receive half the gate receipts and this is the reason the affair will not take place.

Wind, Hail and Rain at Ruma.

Red Bud, Ill., June 13.—A terrific wind and hail storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, visited the village of Ruma, five miles south of here. The house of Henry Kueker was blown down, trees uprooted and growing wheat was blown flat on the ground.

Wants $50,000 Damages.

New York, June 13.—Miss Lesbia M. Bostwick is trying to prove to Justice MsAdam and a jury, in the Supreme Court, that she is entitled to a verdict of $50,000 from Malte Lieven Stiemgranat for breach of promise of marriage.

Heavy Frost in New York.

Middletown, N. Y., June 13.—Sullivan and Delaware Counties have been visited by frost an eighth of an inch thick, damaging the corn and potato crop and even the grass.

"There is probably no disease that more requires, in the process of cure, the healthy action of every organ, than dyspepsia. Again, there is no disease with such a pronounced mortal sympathetic influence. Abernethy made the axiom, "To cure a gastric disorder, every organ must be exercising its functions." The Father of Medicine gave the science the equally notable proverb: "The stomach hath its wholesome or its debasing effect on the body. * * * A good stomach signifies health; an evil one, disease."

The Hematological Bureau has, in the interests of medicine, conducted a series of researches on Ripans Tabules, a domestic remedy of large and growing favor, and, in pronouncing a therapeutical estimate, cannot be more emphatic than to use these two familiar good words as texts. Depending upon the chemical and physiological agreement of tests, and confirming the same by repeated clinical proof, we determine this remedy of value, because:

I. It acts to cure functional disorders of the stomach by primarily acting upon that organ and at the same time carrying a like corrective action to the other organs of the economy.
II. By curing gastric disorders it is contributory to the health of the entire system.
In demonstrating this determination, we are led to attribute them because of certain physiological actions, which may be specified and described as follows, viz.:
1. It converts albumen into peptone.
2. It stimulates the gastric glands, so that the flow of gastric juice is increased. This flow is normal and physiological.
3. It has an antiseptic action, by virtue of which it prevents the decomposition and fermentation of the contents of the stomach.
4. It has a like antiseptic action in the intestines.
5. It dissolves any and all unhealthy mucus that may sheathe the walls of the stomach and intestines. It is to be noted, however, that in the action of dissolution, it may cause a detachment of the mucus, which may pass out of the stomach and intestines before before being acted upon.
6. It relieves gastric and intestinal pain.
a. When caused by irritating ingesta.
b. When due to local neuralgia.
7. It is operative at either high or low temperatures.
8. It has a tonic effect on the mucous membrane, especially on the mucous membrane of the intestines.
9. It acts equally as well in the presence of a constant amount of acid as in its absence.
10. It relieves vomiting, except, of course, where there is a condition of stomachal inflammation.
11. It acts at once, and its continues acting as long as the food remains in the digestive tract.
12. Its action has no relation to the concentration of the feed, or to the presence of liquid in the stomach and intestines.
13. It accelerates metabolism, both of organic and inorganic matter.
14. It diminishes the amount of uric acid relatively.
15. It influences sufficiency of hepatic action.
16. It is restrictive of tissue waste. One of our French consultants describes it as an aliment d'epargne.
17. It has a tonic effect on the unstriped muscles of the stomach.
18. Immediately after its exhibition there is an acceleration of the pulse rate, showing that in some considerable measure the dynamic power of the heart is increased.
19. No condition of disease of the stomach arrests or impedes its action, excepting where there is destruction of continuity of structure, as in ulceration, etc.

DEVOURED BY WOLVES

A Mother's Desperate Fight Fails to Save Her Babies.

Wichita, Kan., June 13.—Mrs. Allie Johnston had a desperate fight with wolves in Beaver County, Oklahoma, near Cantonement. She fought a pack of 30 big gray wolves for half an hour, in attempting to save the life of her two infant babes, aged two and three, but the babes fell from the cart and the angry animals seized upon them respite the brave woman's attempt to drive away the beasts. After a while she became exhausted and fled, leaving the hungry wolves devouring the bodies of her children. She ran through the timber for half a mile to her home, where she summoned her crippled husband from his sick bed and they hastened back with guns, and after killing several wolves finally drove the pack away. This is the first instance of the kind reported from Oklahoma for many years. During the last three months wolves and coyotes have been getting quite bold in Beaver County and carried away hundreds of hogs and even small steers. The farmers hunted the pack, killing many, but were never able to drive them entirely away.

Beaver County is heavily timbered, especially around Cantonement. Mrs. Johnston was returning from Cantonement with medicine for her invalid husband when attacked. She and her children were in a cart. After she had driven some 200 yards into the timber the pack ran out and jumped on the horse she was driving. It was frightened so it ran away, throwing Mrs. Johnston and the babes out. The wolves at once attacked her. She is completely prostrated, and may die of the shock.

Struck at With an Axe.

San Francisco, June 13.—A mysterious assault was made in Oakland upon H. K. Belden, the San Francisco manager of the Hartford Insurance Company. Mr. Belden had just retired when the door bell rang. He opened the window and a man at the door said he had an important telegram. Mr. Belden had just slipped on a robe and went to the door, which he threw open, extending his hand for the despatch. As he did so he saw the man aim a blow at him with an axe. He slammed the door, but the handle of the axe ht him on the shoulder and the weapon flew over his head into the hall. The assailant then fled. Mr. Belden can assign no reason for the assault and the police have no clue.

Charivari Fun Ends Sadly.

Wichita, Kan., June 13.—Mrs. Ray Higgins, a bride of two hours, is dead and her husband and young brother badly injured as a result of a charivari party given them at their home near Watonga, Okla. One of the party, Harry Randall, pointed his shotgun at the young couple and fired. The bride's face and breast were filled with buckshot. She fell, shot through the lungs and died an hour later. The bridegroom was shot in the face, and a small brother of the bride was also wounded, neither of them fatally, however. After the accident the charivaring party fled. No arrests have been madeyet.

Christian Healers Held.

Buffalo, June 13.—George H. Kinter, a Christian Science healer, and James C. Saunders, charged with manslaughter in the case of seven-year old Ralph L. Saunders, the son of James C. Saunders, who died at the residence of Capt. Semple of the Thirteenth United States infantry at Fort Porter, on May 22, of pneumonia, while under the care of Kinter, have been held by United States Commissioner Robinson for the United States grand jury.

Brothers Charged With Murder.

Rushville, Ind., June 13.—George Palmer, aged 50, was shot by some unknown man in a private alley in the rear of the postoffice, and died without giving the name of the murderer. Abraham and John Leonard, brothers, aged respectively 23 and 25, are under arrest on suspicion.

Col. Cooley's Will Filed

White Plains, June 13.—The will of the late Col. Alfred Cooley, of Mount Vernon, has been filed in the Surrogate's Court at White Plains. The estate, amounting to $120,000, is bequeathed to the widow of the decedent, and a special bequest of $500 each to his son and daughter.

Furniture Store Burned.

Bedford, Ind., June 13.—The Fair, one of the largest furniture stores in the city, burned to the ground. The entire stock is a total loss. The building was known as the Snyder Block, and was almost totally destroyed.

THEY WILL NOT ARBITRATE.

Consolidated Railway Company at Cleveland Refuses to Change Rules.

STRIKE GROWS SERIOUS.

Woman Leads an Attack on the Cars and Takes the Conductor Away While the Crowd Cheers.

Euclid Avenue Crowded From Curb to Curb With Strikers and Their Sympathizers—Police Break the Blockade—Many Car Windows Shattered—Other Trades Unions May Aid Strikers.

Cleveland, June 13.—A woman led the striking street car men in an attack upon cars of the Big Consolidated Railroad when three cars were started and were stoned by a mob. When they reached the city they were again attacked and windows were shatered.

The woman was particularly aggressive and the crowd cheered wildly when she mounted one of the cars, took the conductor by the arm and led him off.

As soon as the cars clear Lakeview they must cross the Nickel Plate tracks. There is a city ordinance compelling the conductor to go ahead and give a signal for the approaching train. This the first two conductors failed to do, and motormen have been arrested for failure to comply with the city ordinance. Others profited by experience and complied with the ordinance.

Scenes of violence became more frequent as the strikers and those who sympathized with them surged about the company's cars, and occupied Euclid avenue from curb to curb. When a fifth car from Lakeview came dashing into town the crowd surrounded it, and in three minutes it came to a standstill.

About 8,000 people lined Euclid avenue. Ice wagons and van carts were purposely pushed across the track. Trolley ropes were cut and the cars were stalled in the midst of angry crowds.

The police charged and finally succeeded in breaking the blockade. A small boy threw an egg at one of the cars. Professor Kinnicutt, Y. M. C. A. physical director, grabbed him and swung him out into the street. The crowd was angered, and Kinnicutt was in danger of being roughly handled when two policemen went to his rescue. By this time the police, being so numerous, the crowds became discouraged and began to disperse.

Six of the rioters are under arrest. No one has been seriously hurt but several persons have been slightly bruised by missiles. The strikers are not making the trouble, but idle spectators and sympathizers are doing the work.

A battalion of fifty policemen under Chief Corner was sent to Lakeview to keep the peace and several hundred deputies have been sworn in to help maintain order.

The Company has absolutely refused to accept the mediation of the State Board of Arbitration, and this makes matters look as though the end of the strike was a long way off, as the men have openly declared that they will never return to work under the old rules of the road. The company says that the rules as laid down are to their liking and that they will not consent to any changes being made.

The strikers sent communications to various labor unions of the city, asking co-operation, and as a result of this a meeting of the City Federation of Labor was called at which it is said the members present voted to make a general call out of all classes of organized labor in the event that the trouble is not satisfactorily settled within the next forty-eight hours.

Six Injured in a Wreck.

New York, June 13.—A special train on the Long Island Railroad ran into the rear end of an accommodation train at Goose Creek station. Six persons were seriously injured. Four of these are men and two women. The officials of the road say the accident was due to a fog, which made it impossible for the special to see the red "tail lights" on the accommodation.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 13.—During the examination of the negro Morrison, charged with having assaulted Mrs. Morgant Robinson, a determined effort was made by a mob to lynch the culprit, and only prompt action of the Sheriff, who was well armed, saved the black man's life. It took the Sheriff and twenty deputies to disperse the mob and land the prisoner in jail.

FIFTEEN WERE INJURED

Serious Accident to Chicago, Rock Island and Express.

Chicago, June 13.—As the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific west-bound express train of ten cars was entering Geneseo, Ill., 160 miles south of Chicago, the smoker and two chair cars left the track and crashed into a stock train standing on a siding. Fifteen persons were injured, the three passenger cars were demolished and the stock train locomotive was disabled. The persons seriously injured are the following:

NEGROES LYNCH NEGRO.

Taken From Jail at Sardis, Miss., for Attack on Colored Woman.

Sardis, Miss., June 13.—A colored man named Simon Brooks was lynched by a mob of 500 negroes near here, having been taken from the jail some time between midnight and dawn.

A negress named Armstead, while returning from a shopping tour to her home, was assaulted by Brooks and another negro. The woman's throat was cut, and she was severely beaten about the head and her jaws were tightly tied to prevent breathing. Her body was then concealed in rubbish.

The woman rallied sufficiently to give the alarm and the names of her assailants.

Death by Caterpillars.

Wolcott, N. Y., June 13.—Farmers in this neighborhood will be careful hereafter how they crush apple-tree worms. One of the oldest and most prosperous farmers in Huron Township, Jacob De King, has just been buried, and before his death he ascribed his malady to the caterpillar. Mr. De King had cut his thumb in repairing a barbed wire fence, and soon after the wound had healed went into his apple orchard and with his bare hands crushed the nests of caterpillars, worms and all. Soon his hand began to swell, blood-poisoning set in and he died. A month ago his son-in-law died from boils caused last year by crushing apple worms with his hands.

Strike On in New York.

New York City, June 13.—There is a big strike on the East side. The members of the children's Jacket Makers' and Knee Breeches Makers' unions, numbering about 6,000 men and women,, decided to stop all work until their employers would agree to make an advance of 30 per cent. in all salaries. It is expected that the strike will be extended to Brooklyn before it is over. This would bring the total number of strikers in the two trades up to nearly 9,000 persons.

Police and Coroner Differ

Mount Vernon, N. Y., June 13.—It has not yet been determined whether Charles Brauch, who was found dead in the yard of his home on the outskirts of Mount Vernon, committed suicide or was murdered, and John Adams, who is alleged to have quarrelled with Brauch, is under arrest to await the result of the inquest. The police hold to the theory of suicide, while the Coroner says there is much to be explained before he will be satisfied that Brauch killed himself.

Tacoma, Wash., June 13.—While Gen. Charles King, who recently returned from the Philippines, was making a speech to a serenading band at an informal reception here he was overcome by exhaustion and had to be carried into the house. Favoring Prompt Taxpayer.

The Orange Journal observes that delinquent taxpayers are favored by a reduction of the interest penalty from time to time, but there has been no way whereby the prompt payer of taxes could receive a rebate. By the passage of a law by the recent Legislature, however, it is within the power of municipal authorities to favor the prompt taxpayer and make it an object for all to pay their taxes without delay. The law is as follows:

1. It may be lawful for the Common Council or other governing body of any municipality of this State to provide by ordinance or resolution that any person paying taxes in any municipality in the year in which said taxes are or shall be assessed, and between the time when the tax duplicate shall have been delivered to the collector of taxes and the date on which by law taxes become delinquent in said municipalities, may be allowed a discount at a rate of not exceeding 6 percentum per annum from the date of such payment to the date on which taxes become delinquent as aforesaid.

2. This act shall be construed to apply as well to taxes assessed or to be assessed during the present year as to all taxes to be hereafter assessed; and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

The Journal thinks the Legislature was certainly right in acting on the theory that the prompt taxpayer is entitled to as much consideration as the delinquent.

One view of the situation in the Philippines is taken by the Newark Call in the following: "It will prove most unfortunate if the rumors of troubles between President Schurman and General Otis are true. The inclination will be to put most faith in the soldier, especially as he seems to be well supported by other American authority in the Philippines. The difference would embarrass the Government somewhat, but it would be quite as bad in its effects upon President Schurman and the university of which he is chief. It was a matter of much surprise when he entered upon the duty of Commissioner to the Philippines. His work at Cornell must necessarily suffer, and there was every probability that his new post would cause controversy, from which the college interests could scarcely hope to escape.

Even if "Count" VanNess does not succeed in getting any pecuniary benefits from his hold-up of the Street Railway Company he is getting plenty of free advertising. Today's New York papers devote big stories to the "Count" and his picturesque and novel attempt to prevent the trolley people from crossing his property. It is a slow week when Plainfield or vicinity cannot stir up some good story for the metropolitan journals.

Orange has taken the first step towards owning the water supply plant of its city, the Council last night passing a resolution that the necessary resolutions and ordinances be prepared to bring about such a result. In this connection we are reminded that it is about time Plainfield took some decisive steps along the same line. We have heard plenty of talk, but no action of substance.

Paterson hopes to be a first-class city after the next census is completed. The population of the city is now estimated to be considerable over 100,000. The change of the class of the city will necessitate many changes in the municipal government.

There is no more worthy charity than the Babies' Camp. Help it along.

HON. DAVID BREMNER HENDERSON.

It is all over but the formal recording of the vote. Hon. David B. Henderson, of Iowa, is to be speaker of the next house of representatives. It looks now as if he will have the unanimous support of the Republican members. Mr. Henderson has represented the Third Iowa district in nine successive congresses. He was born in Scotland and is 59 years of age.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The headquarters of George Washington on the Valley road in Montclair, which the Daughters of the Revolution have been endeavoring to preserve as a landmark, will soon be a thing of the past. The owner of the property, a Mr. Crane, now in California, is to have the building torn down and the ground divided into building lots. The building was erected in 1715. In 1780 it was the temporary headquarters of Washington and Lafayette.

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 13.—The work of laying water pipes through Main street was started yesterday morning and if nothing prevents will be completed this week. This, when completed, will complete the work in the borough and it is hoped to have water in the pipes by July 1st, that is to supply the boroughites. The Water Company is now planning to have a big celebration July 4th.

A family that has been residing in the borough for sometime, decided Saturday last to change their residence and they moved to Plainfield. So far as can be learned no one has expressed any regrets that they have gone away from the borough.

Last Sunday evening a short programme was presented at the Baptist church in honor of Children's Day. A number of recitations and songs by scholars and an address by the pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher, was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Last Saturday evening a pleasant sociable was held at the parsonage of the Seventh Day Baptist church. It was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, and was well attended.

Mrs. Thomas Thomas and daughter, Miss Nancy Thomas, accompanied by Miss Jennie Churchill, are spending a few days with relatives at Princeton.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer, of Church street, has been entertaining her sisters, the Misses Addie and Annie Fenner, of Plainfield.

Miss Pauline Kratzel, of Cranford, and Mr. and Mrs. Weiderhaupt, of Staten Island, spent Sunday with Paul Kratzel, of North avenue.

Miss Anna Sirisky and Miss Anna Conklin, of Raritan, spent Sunday with B. Sirisky, of North avenue.

Elston Woodland, of North Plainfield, was in town yesterday looking after some business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Boice, of Washington avenue, are visiting relatives out of town.

Mrs. C. A. Douglass is entertaining her niece from Staten Island for a few days.

Mrs. S. B. Stryker, is entertaining company from Somerville for a few days.

Roswell Ward has been entertaining relatives from out of town for a few days.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 13—The property owners along Mountain avenue are disappointed in the action of the Board of Freeholders in turning down their petition asking them to accept the avenue from Park avenue to the Plainfield line, as a county road. The Board thought it would be a bad precedent to establish, for if it was granted they would be expected to accept petitions from other towns through the county, and as the road was not a necessity it was thought best not to grant the petition. Well, Scotch Plains has lived a number of years with Mountain avenue in the condition it is in and will probably continue to live, but it certainly would have been a big improvement not only to the village, but to the county road system. This improvement to a short mile of road would have meant a continuous macadam from Newark to Somerset street in Plainfield.

Willie Stanbery, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R Stanbery, entertained a number of his young friends at a birthday party at his parents' home in Fanwood yesterday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock, and a pleasant two hours was spent by the little ones playing games, etc., after which refreshments were served. The young man, who has reached the age of seven, received many happy congratulations and a number of very pretty presents.

The closing entertainment of the public school will be held in the assembly room of the building tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. An interesting programme has been arranged and at the close an exhibition of school work will be held in the several classrooms.

The ladies of the Methodist church held their annual strawberry festival in Excelsior Hall last night and it is needless to say it was a success both socially and financially and a neat little sum will be turned into the church treasury.

The night telegraph service at the depot was discontinued beginning Sunday evening, and for the present no operator will be in attendance. The office will be open for the sale of tickets only.

Fanwood Council, R. A., meet in their rooms this evening. An interesting programme has been arranged by Orator Collins and a large turnout of members is desired.

Mrs. Acheson and child, of Hazlet, this State, have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark.

Mrs. Thomas Cleaver has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. Allen, of Plainfield.

The Exempt Firemen held a meeting in their rooms last night.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." To freshen old furniture, wash in lime water; when dry, apply a coat of oil.

Wipe tarnished or fly-specked gas and lamp fixtures with a damp cloth; let dry, then cover with a coat of white paint; when this is dry, re-gild.

Cover pantry shelves and washstands in common use with oilcloth. It is inexpensive, comes in bright colors and pretty patterns, and if occasionally wiped with a wet cloth, keeps clean and fresh.

When the mica in stoves becomes discolored take out the piece if possible, and put them in a vinegar bath for a few hours; then polish with a soft dry cloth. If they cannot be removed, rub with a cloth dipped in hot vinegar and polish as before.

To clean a piano, use lukewarm water, white castile soap and a piece of cheese cloth. Wash a small surface, work rapidly, and dry, first with a piece of old soft canton flannel; then polish. Go over the woodwork in this way. These directions are given by a piano dealer.

When ink is spilled on a carpet or garment at once cover the place with a thick paste of starch and cold water to the depth of an inch and let dry. Or take up with blotting paper, wash well in sweet or sour milk, then cover with white corn meal and leave twelve hours. For dry ink stains, soak in milk, and repeat the above several times.

To make a serviceable covering for a dining-room or kitchen floor, nail, wrong side up an old Brussels carpet to the floor of the attic or outbuilding, then paint with a thick coat of linseed oil and burn umber. When thoroughly dry, give a coat of good varnish. Let it lie ten or twelve days. It should be tacked to the floor loosely, as it shrinks some during the process. Clean the same as oilcloth.

To brighten gilt picture frames and ornaments, to a pint and a half of water add sufficient flower of sulphur to give a golden tinge; in this boil four or five bruised onions. Strain, and when cold apply with a soft brush. Prepared gilding, carefully applied, will restore tarnished gilding. If broken or defaced, fill with putty before gilding.

A paint that dries quickly, for floors, is made by dissolving with heat three ounces of glue in three quarts of water. Stir well remove from the fire and beat in three pounds of yellow ochre. With a new whitewash brush apply a thick coat. When dry, apply a coat of boiled linseed oil. To oil a new hardwood floor, mix thoroughly four quarts of raw linseed, two quarts of turpentine and one pint of best Japan varnish.

A novice can paint a window sash nearly as well as a professional by using a piece of tin the size of a pane with a handle. Wipe off any adhering paint with a cloth moistened with kerosene. To imitate frost glass put some putty in cheese cloth and twist the ends to form a pad, then with it pat the glass until well covered with a milky white stain. When perfectly dry give a coat of good varnish.

Wash grained and varnished woodwork with cold tea. If the least bit of soap is necessary to remove finger marks around door knobs, or to clean window sills, rinse immediately in clear water. Soapy water irretrievably injures graining. In cleaning base boards a short handled mop will do excellent service and save great fatigue. It is also useful in washing the tops of doors that otherwise cannot be reached without a chair or step-ladder.

To wash a pillow or bolster, double a sheet and sew side and ends together, leaving an opening on one end a little more than the width of the pillow. Open pillow, sew the two together and shake feathers into the sheet. Wash thoroughly in soapsuds, rinse, wring with machine and dry in the sunshine, shaking often to lighten the feathers. Before returning the feathers to the tick, coat the inside of it with thick flour paste and let dry; or, what is better, rub the surface of the tick with melted beeswax, so the fluff and feathers will not work through.

Do not wrap silver or plated ware not in daily use in flannel; it contains sulphur, which is likely to tarnish it. Wrap in blue tissue paper, then in unbleached canton flannel, and enclose in heavy wrapping paper to exclude the air as much as possible. To polish silver that has become badly tarnished moisten a soft cloth in sweet oil; then with any tested polishing powder rub the silver until the spots have disappeared. Then rub with chamois skin and the powder, and finish polishing with a clean piece of chamois.

Try a mixture of benzine and powdered borax to remove iron rust from white cloth; for mildew, an application of white chalk and borax. All fruit, tea and coffee stains are more easily removed by dissolving a little borax in the boiling water, that is poured through them. When upholstered furniture is infested with moths sprinkle it with powdered borax dusting it well into the crevices. To clean woodwork add a tablespoonful to a pint of hot water and use a flannel cloth. A nice lather for cleaning light woolens is made by adding about a tablespoonful of the powder to a gallon of water.

For sizing to be used on whitewashed walls before papering, dissolve half a pound of glue in a little hot water, then pour it into a pailful of boiling hot water, stirring carefully until well mixed. Apply hot and let dry a few hours before applying the paper. Take great care to cover every part of the wall. Note that the part near the ceiling and baseboard is not overlooked, as there the brush is likely to slip. A professional panter gives the following receipt for paste: For a medium-sized room, sift three pounds of wheat flour and mix it into a stiff paste with cold water; stir into it slowly two gallons of boiling water, stirring constantly until it swells and turns yellow. Winter wheat flour makes the best paste. A little carbolic may be stirred to repel insects. CLARIBEL.

PRIZE SUGGESTIONS.

THE TWO LETTERS BELOW SELECTED FROM "MANAGING HELP."

A Contest Conducted by New York Journal and Prizes Awarded Mrs. Mary F. Lambert, of Allston, Mass, and Mary Ford, of New York.

I am a servant girl and these are my views: I think every servant should have two evenings and every other Sunday afternoon and evening out. This gives her a chance to see her friends without their coming to the house where she works. I think she should be allowed to have company when it is her Sunday in. If her girl friends come it is very well to see them in the kitchen, but if her sweetheart calls she should no doubt much prefer to see him alone. If there is no sitting room for the servants they ought to be allowed to see their friends in the dining room if it is in the basement and they do not interfere with the household arrangements. But there must be a limit to the girl's company. She must not expect to have her friends call too often. I think a servant should have an afternoon off once a month or so to do her shopping, as it is late when her work is finished, and if she needs anything she has to get it at the nearest little store, where they charge much more than they do in the big stores down town. A girl should have a certain amount of work to do every day, and if she does it up quickly and well she should not be made to put in the time thus saved in helping others of the servants who have lingered around trusting to some such luck to get their portion of work done. That makes a girl feel that no matter how hard she tries she is never through. On the other hand, if one girl is not able to do her work the others should do all they can to help her. A mistress should never encourage her servants to carry tales to her about each other, and the help should never speak unkindly of their mistress, as these seeming trifles lead to more changes among the servants than any amount of hard work. I have always found that when I look out for the interests of my mistress she always looks out for mine. A pleasant word from a mistress does no harm and it makes a girl feel that she is not a mere machine, she goes about her work with a light heart.—Mary Ford.

In referring to the servant question it must be remembered that poor work is as often the fault of the mistress as of the maid. In cases where several servants were employed each one should have her appropriate work assigned, but with the full understanding that if needed she is called upon for work outside that which she considers her own. If the mistress of the house shows herself ignorant of any of the duties belonging thereto, she has no reason to look for or expect satisfactory service from those in her employ. A firm but kind government, judicious rules, requiring implicit obedience, give larger promise of faithful and prompt work and far more respectful service than an ignorant but exacting housekeeper can ever expect to find. While demanding prompt attention to the work to be done, those employed should receive such kindness and watchful care for their interests and comfort as employers would wish their children to have if similarly situated. Make their rooms as pleasant and comfortable as possible. If the arrangements of the house will permit, see that those who have the hot and dirty work to do have the means for daily or frequent baths, which is as much for the employer's comfort as for theirs. Ample time should be allowed them for keeping their clothes in order. In making a contract with a girl for any position in the family, the mistress of the house should very carefully explain the rules by which she regulates the time and labors of those she employs. Give every privilege that can be allowed consistently with the duties to be performed, and for the girl's own best interests. One afternoon and evening of leisure each week is all the time that can be spared conveniently from household duties, and as much as the servant can have and attend faithfully to her own sewing and keep her clothes in repair. All the other evenings after the ordinary work is over will be needed for this important attention to her own garments. To allow the servants more time would be apt to lead to idle habits. When two, three or more girls are needed in one house, the question of how much company they can be allowed at the house is important. If one girl has the privilege of allowing her friends to call when they choose, the others will expect the same privilege, and justly. This will cause confusion and disorder in their regular duties. It should be settled that visits cannot be permitted till after the day's important work is over, and that by 10 o'clock visitors must leave, the kitchen and range be put in order and the girls all in and ready to retire to their needed rest. Nor should a kitchen full of visitors be allowed at any time, nor the dining room be used for their guests. I do not approve the policy which permits the many visitors that naturallly call where there are two or three girls to be invited or expected to bring their meals with them. On the contrary, it should be distinctly forbidden. In engaging help, be slow to decide. Seek all the information possible. Be sure of substantial, reliable credentials as to their worth and honesty; then, this once settled, let them see that it is the wish of their employer to trust them. Locking up closets where the food is or putting aside the best part of the food from the first table is a good recipe for making crafty, dishonest servants.—Mary F. Lambert.

The Bride Provides Table Linen.

It is an old and pretty custom for the bride to provide her table and household linen. Even if she brings nothing else to the new home she must bring the linen. The following outfit is advised: Three pairs of sheets to each bed similar in size; three pillow-slips to each pillow, or five between every two pillows of the same size; three soft and three rough towels a head; of bath or Turkish towels you should allow two a head; or if bath sheets are used you should allow three between two people; from four to six tableclothes, with half a dozen napkins for each; three or four sideboard cloths, twelve doilies, three or four tray cloths and two or three 5 o'clock tea cloths; three round towels for each roller, three or four kitchen tablecloths twelve dusters, twelve each of glass tea and kitchen cloths, four pudding cloths and some dust sheets.

SKIRTS.

The Clinging Style Still Holds the Foremost Place.

Skirts continue to be perfectly plain and tight at the top, without a fold or plait, and to flare around the foot more or less, according to the nature of the material employed. The thinner the goods the more ripples are allowed, and for these goods accordion plaiting is largely used. Stiff and heavy goods are cut so as to show but few undulations.

Circular ruffles and flounces are a favorite method of giving a flare to the base of thin skirts. These are of varying height, according to taste, and either one or several are used, plain or trimmed. The flounce is almost invariably higher at the back than in front unless it is to arranged on the skirt as to simulate a tunic.

Skirt linings continue to be incorporated with the outside, being held against the goods by inside stitches along the seams. The opening occurs at the side rather than the back in the case of tight skirts without plaits and is concealed under a band of trimming or a strap or is made decorative with ornamental buttons.

The picture illustrates a costume in which the skirt has a triple redingote of pastel blue wool goods opening over a front of blue and white printed foulard. The bodice is of the blue wool and forms a plastron with epaulets, bound with cream silk. The collar and little yoke are of the blue and white foulard, as are the tight sleeves. The belt is of cream silk.

FUR CLOTHING.

How to Care For It During the Summer Months.

Furs should be beaten carefully with a light switch before being put away for the summer. The dust and lurking moth eggs are thus removed, especially if the beating is followed by a gentle combing with a coarse toothed comb. Benzine kills insects and does not injure furs, but it evaporates quickly, while moth balls have so offensive an odor that it is highly unpleasant to use them for any article of personal apparel. The best way is to sprinkle Persian insect powder on the furs and to keep them in tightly closed bags or boxes, bringing them out frequently for renewed beatings and fresh powder.

Bran water softens and whitens the skin and is useful as an application for sunburn. The preparation is simple—a handful of bran is boiled in a quart of water; the water is strained and used while it is fresh. It is more effective warm than cold.

An illustration is given of a simple and attractive outing costume for a girl. It is of navy blue English serge and has a plaited skirt. The loose sack has a sailor collar and revers of white flannel, bordered with lines of blue stitching, and the collar and vest are also of stitched white flannel. The plain sleeves are tight, the buttons of mother of pearl. With this costume is worn a sailor hat of white straw, with a band and bow of blue and white striped ribbon.

WHEN TWILIGHT BRINGS YOU NEAR

When the sunset lights are fading in the west,
And stars begin to gleam across the sky,
The tender twilight brings me peace and rest,
While, dear, to you my heart's best longings fly.

The miles that lie between us seem as naught;
Your form comes gliding softly to my chair,
And looking into mine with eyes love-fraught,
Your fingers wander idly o'er my hair;

Your loving touch a benediction seems
That calls my nobler, truer self to life;
I long to realize my manhood's better dreams
And be a worthier actor in the strife.

With purifying love your dark eyes shine,
The last light lingers on your dusky hair,
And then you gently draw your hand from mine;
I glance to where you knelt—you are not there.

And so at twilight-time my thoughts of you
Bridge over all the miles that intervene,
And bring you to me ever good and true,
With none to sever, naught to come between.

MIRIAM'S DREAM.

"You won't really go at this time of the year, will you?"

"Rather! I'd go in December if Dick were at the end of the journey."

"Well, I would not cross the Atlantic in the middle of November for a dozen sweethearts."

Miriam laughed gleefully. She and Dick had been separated for three years, and now he has fallen into a good berth in Toronto, and had written to her to decide whether they should both spend their winter in loneliness or whether she would go to him and settle down at once as his wife.

Miriam did not hesitate a moment, she set aside the shortest time possible for winding up her affairs in England and arranged to sail in the "Sivonian" from Liverpool to Halifax.

"But you'll have a dreadful overland journey after that; it must be a long way to Toronto," said her friend Nora. "I don't know how you'll get through, all by yourself."

"Ah! but I'm not going to! Dick has been sent by his firm to New York on some business, and he intends to take a berth in the Meldrum, a coasting steamer, which will bring him to Halifax about the same time that I get there."

Miriam was in a fever of joy, and was altogether oblivious of such small matters as intense cold, a pitching, rolling ship and battened down hatches. The good ship fought gaily through a stormy ice-threatened sea, and at last a morning broke, when the sun shone fair, and the waves, sank into a comparative calm. Passengers swarmed on deck, congratulating each other on their escape from prison, and the anxious captain sighed with relief to think that the worst was over. He was upon his bridge, stamping up and down to keep the blood circulating in his feet, when ahead of them he saw a strange speck dancing on the waves.

As it drew nearer he found it to be an apparently empty boat; and he sent off one of his boats to tow the stray to the steamer. When it reached the side, however, the limp form of a sailor was lifted from it. Under care and good treatment the blood began to run again through his stiff veins, and he was able to tell what had befallen him. But before that happened his boat had been hauled on deck, and the name upon it, Meldrum, made known.

"How funny!" cried Miriam, "a steamer sailing from New York to Halifax is named Meldrum."

"Ay! missie," said a sailor, omniously, "and this is one of her boats."

"But how can it be? How could it have got loose out here?"

"If that poor chap lives he can tell us that, and no one else perhaps."

After some time the sailor's words began to beat into Miriam's stupefied brain; she tried to speak to someone standing near, but her tongue would not move, only her knees shook so much that she nearly fell. Her neighbor drew her to a seat.

"Is the Meldrum wrecked?" Miriam asked with tragic eyes.

"I do not know; but I hope not; that poor fellow will tell us if he lives."

That evening it was known that the "Meldrum" had collided with another vessel in the storm, and that though all boats had been lowered they had, one after another, been swamped. The rescued sailor had just jumped into one when its ropes snapped, and he was therefore, the only person saved.

The stewardess took the tidings, with a cup of tea, to Miriam, as she lay inert and despairing on her sofa, and she let the woman gossip out her news without uttering a sound. At last, the stewardess went away, and Miriam lay still, not thinking, only suffering.

Later she crawled into her bed, where through the night, visions of Dick, as a boy, as a youth, as a man, rushed through her mind. Sometimes she saw his face shining through the darkness, but when she clasped him round the neck he was cold as ice and wet with salt water.

When she awoke she was out on the upper deck and not alone. By her side stood someone—a huge man, a giant, who seemed to reach to the sky. His clothes changed their color from light to dark, from black to brown. His great body undulated all the time, and when he put his arm round her he seemed to be surrounded with a dry suffocating warmth. Then he pointed a long arm to the northeast, and seemed to slip farther away, though he still stood by her side; the monster lengthened into miles. Miriam followed him with straining eyes, when a flash of lightning lit up the sky and sea. It played for a moment round a distant spot, which the giant was touching and in that moment she saw a picture which she never forgot.

In the little circle of light a boat rocked helplessly upon the waters; under a sail were crouched some dozen people, trying, by huddling together to keep the warmth in their bodies She knew that Dick was there, and called his name shrilly; there was a sudden movement in the human heap a white face peeped out, and then the vision passed.

Miriam lay in her berth, the new dawn already lightening the sky. Then feverishly she got up and went on deck, to see nothing but the grey sky and greyer sea, to hear nothing but the throbbing of the engines and the sough of wind and waves. Breakfast time came, but she heeded it not; for hours she stood immovable, gazing to the northeast over the bulwarks. What did that dream of hers mean? Was Dick floating somewhere helplessly with other passengers?

It was noon when the wind, veering, sent a cloud of smoke over her head and a shower of black smudges upon her hands; with them came a passing sensation of warmth. This slight incident awoke some vague memory connected with her dream.

The black column of smoke changing at its edges to brown, thinning out until she could see the gray sky through it, starting ever from her side, and yet reaching far into the distance, caught her eye.

Inspiration followed quickly. The smoke was the giant of the night before, and where it pointed lay Dick and his companions! sight danced into her eyes, hope beat strongly in her heart. She turned a glorified face to the ship. What could she do? How save them?

She saw a foot surmounted by blue cloth moving methodically on the deck above, and in a moment flew up the stairs leading to the captain's bridge. The captain turned round sharply at the sound of strange footsteps and peremptorily ordered her down. Clutching his arm she cried:

"Captain! They are out there under the line of smoke! A dozen survivors of the Meldrum are drifting helplessly and nearly dead!"

The captain glanced in the direction indicated. How should this frantic young woman have seen what his practiced eye could not discern? Then he guessed that she was the person who, they said, had lost her lover in the wreck.

"My dear," he cried, patting her hand, "go to your berth and lie down. You are in great trouble."

But the haggard hopeful eyes stared brightly at him.

"For the love of humanity, captain, use your glass. You will see them. I know you will."

To humor her he took a careful survey of the horizon, upon which the sun was shining. At first he shook his head, then he stood for a long time examining the spot under the thin edge of the line of smoke. He rubbed his glasses well and looked again, then said, quietly:

"Something is there! Sit down in that corner and wait!"

The course of the steamer was altered slightly, a boat lowered once more to gather in the ocean's drift. To his intense surprise the captain saw that the distant object was really a boat, without sail or oar. How could this girl have known it? Then the group of people became visible, all evidently in the last stage of exhaustion, and he went over to Miriam and told her to look through his glass, and see if her friend were there.

She took it from his hand with a wild sob, and gazed long and steadily at the coming boat, then gave the glass back, in the midst of a passion of weeping, nodding her head to signify that she had seen Dick. Then she set herself to regain self-control by the time the boat came in. When it did she was waiting in the hospital for her beloved.

For the next twenty-four hours she shared the duties of nurse with one of the stewardesses, and saw Dick's eyes open with the first gleam of consciousness in them. With a contented look at her he fell asleep, and on the ship's arrival at Halifax he, with all those who had been saved, were well enough to be moved to more comfortable quarters on shore.

The captain made friends with Miriam during those few hours, and learned how it was that she knew the boat was afloat. He could hardly believe it, and he could not explain it, but was contented to accept the fact as it stood, and to be present at the simple ceremony which made Dick and Miriam man and wife.

A Remarkable Vane.

On the roof of a brewery at Maidstone is to be seen one of the most remarkable vanes in England. It represents an old brown jug and glass. The jug, which is made of copper, stands 3 feet 6 inches in height and 3 feet in diameter, and is capable of holding 108 gallons. The glass, also of copper, has a holding capacity of eight gallons.

Dummy Fruit

Bunches of bananas made of papier mache have been introduced as signs on the wharves of New York where the depredations of hoodlums are frequent. It is proposed to add wooden peanuts for the benefit of policemen and other friendly samplers of the stock in trade.

THY SPIRIT WALKS WITH ME.

I know thy spirit walks with me,
Else why should I,
So often, often think of thee,
So tender and so true to me,
In days gone by?

When springtime gladness fills the land,
In autumn sear,
On misty moonlit summer night,
When winter skies with stars are bright,
Then thou art near.

The wild bird's sweet and plaintive note
From leafy dell,
The voice of waters soft and low,
Where pebbles stay their onward flow,
The Sabbath bell.

The glow which falls from sunset skies,
Across the sea,
The perfume borne by passing breeze,
From lightly shaken flowers, all these,
Bring thoughts of thee.

I know thy spirit walks with me,
And glad am I,
To feel that now thou knowest full well
The love my lips refused to tell,
In days gone by.

—MARY E. ORR.

OUR DRESSMAKER.

Miss Peckitt used to come to our house to sew. She sewed my frocks and she sewed my pinafores, and sat among her tapes and pins and yard measures telling me old stories that no one else cared about, for Miss Peckitt had no relatives, and had always, as she said, kept herself to herself.

And of all her stories the one I liked best was the one about the pincushion. It was a large, heavy cushion, and I wondered why Miss Peckitt always brought it with her when she came for the day.

"It has a brick inside to keep it steady when I pin my work to it," she said, "and I carry it with me because it was the last thing my young man made for me."

"O, did you ever have a young man? Do tell me about him!"

At 10 years old one is not discreet. I suppose Miss Peckitt was not inclined to be hard on youthful indiscretion. She threaded her needle and began:

"It was when I was a young girl."

She could not have been more than 30 at this time, but to me she seemed immeasurably old, as I said:

"It's a long time ago, then," as sympathetically as I could.

"Yes," she said, "a long time. He was the son of a farmer, and we was courting ever since we was quite little things and went to Sunday school. But it was not to be."

"What happened?"

"Why, his father died, my dear, and when it came to looking into things it was found he'd borrowed money on the land, and the interest hadn't been paid. So, then, my Willie said he'd pay the interest and all, if they'd only wait. But they wouldn't—and the old place was sold up—house and buildings and the beasts, and the land with the standing crops. They may say it's law, but it ain't justice."

She bit off her thread sharply and I said it was a shame.

"So it was—a black shame. My Willie would a' paid them every penny if they'd only a' waited. But no; they sold the old place, and it fetched more than they looked for, and there was near $1,000 over, and that they gave to Willie, as was only fair. And after the sale was over I saw nothing of him for two days, and then he came to me looking like a dog that the boys are after with stones.

"'I'm off,' says he; 'with this bit of money I'll make a fortune over in America, which is a free country, and I'll come home for you, my girl, or I'll write and you'll come to me.'

"'If it was to the world's end,' says I.

"Then he gave me this pincushion; it seemed a funny present, being quite plain, as you see, and it had big stitches, but sewn strong, and I almost laughed as I took it. I was glad after that I hadn't laughed, for Willie he says:

"'Blossom, my dear, do you know what makes it so heavy?"

"So I said, no, I didn't."

"'It's a brick of the old south wall at home,' says he, 'where the yellow rose is, and where the apricots fruit so free, and it's covered with a bit of silk gown my mother was married in—it's faded, but you can see the rose sprigs on it yet. You'll keep it for my sake?"

"Well?" I asked, for Miss Peckitt had stopped abruptly.

"Well, that's all," she said, shortly; "he never come back, but I know he was true—and he would ha' come back if he'd been living, and the Lord's will be done," she added.

"Did you keep the piece of the old dress?" I asked, "when it wore out and you ripped it off? I should like to see it."

"I never ripped it off," she said; "I covered it with a bit of damask, meaning to show it to him fresh and bright when he come home; but I dare say it's worn out now, underneath, with all the needles and pins I've stuck in it—worn out."

Time did not stand still in our village. A bicycle factory reared its gaunt ugliness by the church, and the moss-grown well was replaced by a galvanized iron pump. The old families moved away, and new people came; smarter people, in their gimcrack way, who got their dresses made in the county town, and despised Miss Peckitt's old-fashioned patterns. I was finishing my education in France and Germany. When I came home I hardly knew it. Almost my first visit was paid to the little white house with the green railings.

"It will do the poor thing good to see you," said my mother. "I fear she is horribly poor. She gets hardly any work now. And she won't accept anything she does not earn."

She did not know me at first, and was dusting a chair that was already of a spotlessness to shame our chairs at home, when suddenly she recognized me—the shock shattered for a moment the reserve years—she threw her thin arms around my neck and kissed me—faltered an apology for the "liberty," and then sat down on the doubly dusted chair and cried piteously.

I listened to such a tale of poverty and self-denial as my young ears had never heard before. Work scarce and growing scarcer, hardly enough to live on, and to crown all, the urgent necessity of saving, for hoarding every possible penny.

"But why?"

"For my funeral, my dear," she said. "I've kept myself respectable all these years, and if the parish was to touch me I should turn in my coffin—I know I should."

"Your needle's crooked," I said, fighting with a choking feeling in my throat. "Let me thread you another."

"Dear miss," she said, "this is the only needle I've got. It's not so crooked—and a cent's a cent—and needles in penny packets isn't what they used to be. No, and I won't let you buy me even needles, miss. It's the principle I think of; I won't be beholden."

"You've got the old pincushion there, still," I said; "there must be lots of needles in that; let me empty out the sawdust and see. I'll put it all back carefully."

I think Miss Peckitt's will must have been weakened by long fasting and trouble, for she let me rip up one side of that sacred cushion and pour out the bran into that little black tea tray with the gold border. I found in that bran sixty-seven good needles, to say nothing of broken ones.

Then I began to put the bran back, and as I pushed it in to make it hard and tight I felt a hollow in the brick. There was something in it. I pulled it out.

"O, Miss Peckitt," I cried; "look what I have found in your pincushion!"

A little canvas bag—and in it several bills and a little letter.

"My Dear Blossom: This is $250 of my money, so as you will have something if I am not lucky with the rest. You will find this when you rip off the cover. If all goes well, as please God, it will, it will pay for things for our home. Your true friend and affectionate lover.

"WILLIAM BEALE."

"Pay for things for the house? It will pay for my funeral."

Miss Peckitt was on my mind. I had seen that the money and the words from the dead had brought her more pain than joy—and after dinner that evening I slipped on a dark cloak and ran down the quiet street to a little white house. I opened the door softly and peeped in.

There was a fire in the grate, and before it in the armchair with the patchwork cushion sat a middle-aged man. Miss Peckitt sat on his knee and her arm was around his neck. In her cheeks was the "fresh color" I had never seen there, and in her eyes the light of youth and hope.

"It's my Willie," she cried; "he's come back! O, miss, dear, to think of it—he was coming home to me, with his fortune made and the ship was wrecked, and him and the others has the reserve of years, she threw her thin only fetched away by a ship the other day."

I am sure they were both persons of sentiment, because they bought back the old farm, with its south wall where the apricots "fruited so free," and when they went to church Miss Peckitt wore a gown of faded silk with a rosy sprig. The cousin in Maidstone had been faithful to his trust, and there was enough of the silk that the bridegroom's mother had worn at her marriage to clothe the little bride on her wedding day.

Never Caught Napping.

There are several species of fish, reptiles and insects which never sleep during their stay in the world. Among fish it is now positively known that pike, salmon and goldfish never sleep at all. Also that there are several others of the fish family that never sleep more than a few minutes a month. There are dozens of species of flies which never indulge in slumber, and from three to five species of serpents which the naturalists have never yet been able to catch napping.

Warships in Wax.

By the admiralty's orders perfect models are made in paraffin wax of every new English battleship before it is laid down, and these models are tested in a tank at Haslar. The models are from 12 feet to 24 feet long, and the tank is 400 feet long and 20 feet wide. The models are made of wax because it is a material which does not absorb water or change its weight, so alterations can be easily made. Also the material can be melted up and used again.

The Useful Ant.

It is generally known that any small dead mammal or bird, when left near an ant hill, will ultimately be found picked clean of flesh quickly. It has been lately demonstrated that they can be made useful in the direction of skeletonizing specimens. Prof. Bernard has been employing ants as his servants. While in Florida he had a fox squirrel thus skeletonized in a single day. The only agents employed were ants.

HIS FRIEND'S CRIME.

Milly Broughton was the only daughter of a Welsh collier in a small village in Glamorganshire.

The girl was known by young and old in the colliery district as "Our Milly" and "Our Lassie," and she was looked upon almost as the property of the various pits.

That she had many suitors was not to be wondered at, but only two out of them all received any encouragement from her. One was the local preacher, the other was the young man who played the harmonium at the chapel, and who was looked upon as a musical genius in the district.

It was Milly's 18th birthday, and it happened to be a Monday—a day on which most colliers do not work. Milly had received numerous little presents from her various admirers, which she had strewn on the kitchen table, before which she sat contemplating them with a beaming face.

A man was coming toward the cottage—it was the miner preacher.

Milly received him with signs of pleasure. She showed him the various articles on the table, expatiating on the kindness of those from whom she had received them.

"I, too, have a present for you, Milly," the young man said presently, as he took out of his pocket a little morocco case, and out of it a ring. He took Milly's hand and placed the ring upon her engagement finger.

"You and I have loved each other a long time now, Milly," he continued. "I should have asked you to allow me to do this before, but it was only this morning I heard that I was to be made an overseer. So now we shall be able to keep house."

Milly tried to stop him more than once, but he paid no attention to her.

"Morgan," she said at last, "you are a good fellow, and I like you, and am glad to hear you have got the rise at the pit. I hope we shall always be friends; but I cannot marry you—David is to be my husband—that was settled last night between him and my father."

For a whole month Morgan kept away from the pit, in consequence of which he lost his preferment.

One day, a few hours after the pits had commenced work, Morgan came to Milly looking very pale.

"Do not be frightened," he said, "but David has met with an accident—a slight accident. He had been exploring a used-up pit where he thought there was a seam of coal that could be got at. He had uncovered a lot of stuff and found the seam. He took me down this morning to see it.

"While stripping some of the surplus a lump of coal fell across his leg. He has lost a little blood, and is resting. He thought if you would bring down a bandage or two we might set him right between us. You see he does not want any one to know of his discovery just yet, so you must not hint to any one of it."

Milly went with Morgan immediately. He led her to the pit, which was in a very out of the way place.

Milly entered. Morgan immediately followed and closed a door behind him—a door rudely made, but strong. Then he told Milly that David was not hurt at all, and that he had brought her to this place in order to tell her that he could not live without her, and that he might make her promise to marry him. He tried persuasion and threats in vain, and at last left her, telling her that he would call each day with food and for her reply.

He went back to his work in the pit at once, making excuses for his absence. He had hardly commenced to ply his pick when a tremendous explosion took place. All the outlets from the mine were completely blocked. Morgan found himself in the dark, lying prostrate on his back, with a quantity of coal upon him. Each hour seemed as though it were a day. What would she do for food? Again and again he shrieked, his mind overcome with horror. At last a voice answered his cries. It was the voice of David. It did not take him long to remove some of the fallen coal and extricate Morgan.

And then for five dreary days they remained prisoners in the darkness. At last the time came when Morgan was so faint that he could hardly move. David's strength, meanwhile, had kept up wonderfully, and he did all he could to cheer Morgan. The latter, who used to pray and preach so much, had now not one prayer to offer. David could not comprehend this.

"Why don't you pray, Morgan?" he asked.

"I can't," came faintly from Morgan's dying lips.

"Is there anything on your mind?"

"There is—Milly."

In spasmodic tones, with long pauses, constantly interrupted by exclamations of horror from David, Morgan told how he had inveigled Milly into the old pit and had imprisoned her so that she could not possibly escape, and left her only food enough for one day.

It was a terrible story to hear in that dark vault, without a gleam of light or a clear hope of escape. The story was hardly finished when, with a shout as savage as that of a wild beast deprived of its mate, David sprang up and seized the dying man. He lifted him in his arms with the intention of dashing him down again.

Suddenly a gleam of light appeared in a far corner. Milly herself entered the cave. David became powerless and dropped Morgan at his feet.

Milly had not been long in her prison when she escaped. She had heard of the explosion, and since then, by day and by night, for many hours at a time, she had traveled through all the old mines, searching for a passage to the exploded one. She was just in time to save her lover from the crime of murder. Morgan, however, did not live many hours longer.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Twenty members of Franklin Council Jr. O. U. A. M., rode to Rahway last night on their bicycles and made a fraternal visit to a lodge in that place.

Cyclists who have occasion to ride along West Front street are not saying pleasant things about the trolley company for they have had a lot of crushed stone spread along their tracks in a way that makes riding anything but pleasant.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

If the weather permits there will be an attractive card offered at the Plainfield Driving Association track next Saturday afternoon, and several good races will be arranged. Some of the best horses in this vicinity will be present and a good time is expected.

TENNIS.

The New Jersey State championship lawn tennis tournament was opened on the courts of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club yesterday afternoon. There was a large field of entries for the singles, including such well-known players as S. C. Millett, J. P. Paret, F. B. Alexander, C. Cragin, R. M. Miles, Jr., and F. T. Miles. In the doubles W. A. Larned and his younger brother have entered and will play together. E. P. Fischer and O. M. Bostwick are also paired. Only the singles were started yesterday. G. H. Miles drew an easy match and earned a place in the semi-finals. From his form he should be on one side of the net in the final matches.

DUNELLEN POSTMASTER.

ADAM DEALAMAN TO SUCCEED CHARLES CORIELL.

Latter Will Retire on Account of the Charges Made Against Him—The New Appointee is a Grocery Merchant.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 13—It is practically settled that Adam Dealaman, the grocer, will be postmaster of this borough to succeed Charles Coriell, who was relieved from the position for misappropriating $535 of the Government money. This appointment will meet with the approval of Dunellen residents, who have the highest regard for the fitness and special adaptation of Mr. Dealaman for the position of postmaster.

In connection with this appointment a few things are brought to mind in connection with the appointment of Mr. Coriell by the President. Among the candidates for the position at that time was Mr. Dealaman, who was led to allow his name to be used. On his petition he had the names of a majority of the prominent workers in the Republican party at this place, and he was urged to push forward his claims. He did so, but a few days before the appointment was made Mr. Dealaman secured evidence that made him believe that Mr. Coriell would get the plum, and such was the case.

Since Mr. Coriell has been out of the office the position has been filled by Dr. Brakeley, who is one of Mr. Coriell's bondsmen. The man securing the office is obliged to furnish bonds for $8,000. Mr. Dealaman does not intend to change the present location of the office, preferring to keep it entirely separate from his business, and he will keep the office where it is. It is not likely that Miss Gaskill, the efficient assistant at the office, will be removed, for she has much knowledge concerning the office and is a valuable person to assist in the work of conducting it. Mr. Dealaman is receiving congratulations from his numerous friends upon his success in securing the position, and there is no doubt but what the efficient service of the office will be strictly maintained during his administration.

—The world will listen when you have got something worth saying. For example: Fine white goods at Peck's.

—Capt. J. D. V. Boynton and Mrs. Boynton, Newark; Mrs. Dr. Wm. D. Martin and Miss M. L. Wagner, Elizabeth; Mrs. M. D. Morrison and two daughters, South River; Peder Olsen, piano and sewing machine agent, Smith street, Perth Amboy, were in town yesterday to have their feet treated by Mr. Brown, foot specialist, 145 West Second street.

Moore & Sons Company, which operates the Crescent Iron Works at Elizabethport, yesterday gave notice to their several hundred employes that after tomorrow their pay will be increased 3 per cent. and also that an additional 3 per cent. will be paid at the end of a year to all employes who make full time in that period.

CLOSING OF SEMINARY.

FINAL EXERCISES AT THE "CHESTNUTS" THIS MORNING.

The Programme Included a Dramatic Number Which Was Produced in Excellent Form by the Fair Students.

The closing exercises of the Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street were held this morning in the Seminary Hall, where a stage had been erected and prettily decorated for the morning's entertainment. The chanting of the Lord's Prayer in a most impressive manner opened the exercises and was followed by the song "May Bells and Flowers," given by a chorus of girls under the direction of Charles Lewis, the instructor in vocal music.

Some of the teachers of the Seminary, believing that the varied qualities called into exercise by the performance of a child's play were educational, had arranged and adapted the old German legend, "Briar Rose, the Sleeping Beauty," to suit the abilities of the younger children of the Seminary. The dramatis personae:

The Princess.....Grace Kaufman
The King.....Helen Harman
The Queen.....Lucie Budlong
Prince.....Bessie Flanders

Court Ladies, instructors to the Princess.

Lady Gwendoline.....Louise Curtis
Mistress of Music.
Lady Winifred.....Christina Scott
Mistress of Painting.
Lady Freda.....Helen King
Mistress of the Dance.

FAIRIES.

The Good Fairy.....Helen Hooley

Do.....Helen Timpson
Be.....Clara Clark

GNOMES.

Crinkle Root.....Josephine LaTourette
Ground Root.....Alice Titus
Sweet Cicely.....Julia Fitzgerald

The play was given in two scenes with a closing tableau that needed no words to tell the story. The first scene representing the nurse singing a lullaby to the princess was very effective. Then followed the gifts of the faries to the princess and the curse of the wicked fairy who predicted that before the princess was eighteen years of age she would die from the prick of a spindle. To avert this fate, the good fairy declared she would cause the princess and the whole court to sleep a hundred years and the King published the edict that all spinning wheels should be banished from the kingdom.

The second scene represented the Princess in the eighteenth year of her age, miserable in her possession of the gifts bestowed by the fairies, for she needed to learn nothing. In disperation she resorted to the plan of instructing her teachers, needing a baton of musical instruction, she went to an overlooked corner of the tower where she found a spinning wheel and the fatal spindle, which when produced, filled the court with dismay. Then followed the long sleep from which she was awakened in the third tableau by the Prince, whose kiss restored her to consciousness.

The parts were all well taken, especially the leading ones. The dancing of the minuet, the spinning wheel song and the gifts of the brownies were particularly pleasing. The costumes of the fairies were very beautiful, and the whole performance commanded the closest attention and most hearty applause from a large audience.

Between the scenes, beautiful songs by the chorus of girls, showed the careful training of Prof. Lewis.

On the side walls of the hall was an exhibit of the pupils' work under the instruction of Miss Eidlitz, of New York.

The Seven Ages of Man.

When his dad is a big object with whiskers that says "boo!" to him.

When his papa is the biggest and best of men.

When his school teacher knows better than his father.

When, after all, the old man does know better than his school teacher.

When he knows better than either his governor or his school teacher.

When his daddy again comes forward in his opinion, as a pretty smart man.

When he is striving and hopes, some day, by hard work, to be as smart, or just a little smarter, than the old gentleman.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

MUSIC RULED THE HOUR.

ENJOYABLE RECITAL GIVEN BY MISS ADA GRACE MARSH.

Young Women Who Took Part Acquitted Themselves in a Creditable Manner—Informal Reception Followed.

A very enjoyable musicale was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Ada Grace Marsh and her pupils, at Miss Marsh's home on Franklin place. The parlors were filled with an appreciative audience composed of relatives and friends of the young students, and the excellent programme was greatly enjoyed.

The young women who took part and the selections they rendered were as follows: "Ruin of Athens," by Beethoven, Miss Frederica Mead; "Preziosa," by von Weber, Miss Marion Grace Marsh; "La Gracieuse," by Burgmuller, Miss Hope Ivins; "Pan," by Godard, Miss Louise Booth; "Valse, D flat," by Chopin, Miss Anna Richards; "Serenade," by Burgmuller, Miss Isabelle Scott; "Air de Ballet," by Chaminade, Miss Helen Martin; "Nocturne, E flat," by Chopin, Miss Genevieve Lee; "Less Huguenots," Meyerbeer-Thalberg, Miss Laura Long; "Scherzo, B flat, minor," by Chopin, Miss Frances Weir. Miss Weir also played a dainty composition written by herself, entitled "A Fancy," and as an encore Raff's "La Fileuse." The pupils were assisted by Mrs. Nellie Udelle Smith, who played a violin solo, the first movement from Suite 3, by Ries, with her usual skillful execution and depth of feeling. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Charles L. Lewis.

The first numbers on the programme were by very little girls, who showed both careful training and personal application in the manner in which they played quite difficult compositions, with correct fingering, positions of the hands, and expression. None of the solos were played from notes. The older girls gave their more elaborate music with equal success, varying much in style, but all showing an understanding of the music they were rendering, and proving by their excellent tecnique and warmth of feeling that their year's work had had excellent results. At the close of the programme Miss Marsh and her pupils held an informal reception.

SUNDAY IN WESTFIELD.

No Saloons Open, and Even Barber Shops and Drug Stores Closed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 13.—A dry Sunday prevailed at this place. For the first time in many years past it was impossible to obtain a glass of intoxicating liquor in Westfield township. All saloons were closed tight and the bar exposed to the view of passersby.

Cyclists and other thirsty visitors were compelled to go out of town to buy a drink, as were also the thirsty citizens. The notorious Garwood roadhouses which, it is said, never close, were locked to the public. Drug stores also closed from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 7 to 9 p. m. Bicycle stores were closed all day, and more than one wheelman with a punctured tire walked out of town or took a train. Fruit stores and barber shops suspended business at noon. It is said this rule will prevail in Westfield hereafter on Sundays.

PUSHING ROAD FROM PATERSON TO TRENTON

Route of the Midland Railroad Has Been All Staked Out.

ONLY 28 MILES TO BUILD.

WORK OF CONSTRUCTION WILL BE BEGUN SOON.

Eleven Miles Between Whitehouse and Flemington and Seventeen Miles Between Morristown and Paterson, by Way of Caldwell—Rail Communication With Twenty Towns to Be Established.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, June 14—After several months of hard labor the staking out of the proposed route of the new Midland Railroad, to connect Paterson with Trenton via Morristown, has been completed by Civil Engineer J. E. Melick and his corps of surveyors. The new railroad will bisect diagonal ly the northern section of the State, and but twenty-eight miles of railroad are necessary to be constructed to carry out the designs of the promoters.

The railroad will open up new sections of the State, and by intersecting the main lines of older railroads will form connecting links for railroad traffic, the necessity for which has been long felt. The first railroads built in New Jersey naturally ran from the large western cities across the State to Newark and New York Communities that happened to be off these lines, lying perhaps midway between two such lines of travel, stood still in growth and saw newer communities spring up which have not yet stopped growing.

Eleven years ago ground was broken for the first part of the new Midland Railroad at Whitehouse, making a junction with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. This connection permits all rail traffic over the following roads: Baltimore and Ohio, Philadel phia and Reading, Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania and Flemington, which place is only eleven miles from Whitehouse. By the hardest kind of work, and with but little financial assistance, a railroad was pushed through from Whitehouse to Morristown. Farmers along the line furnished supplies and assisted in the work, for which they accepted stock of the company in payment. Today the road, which is known as the Rockaway Valley Railroad, does a paying business shipping farmers produce to market centres and returning freights of merchandise. A large portion of the frieght received in Morristown arrives over the Rockaway Valley Railroad daily.

The construction of the eleven miles of railroad between Whitehouse and Flemington, and the building of the seventeen miles of road between Morristown and Paterson, via Caldwell, where connection will be made for Newark, will make a direct beeline from Paterson to Trenton, also making closer connections with the county seats of Passaic, Essex, Morris, Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties, as well as with the State capital.

Careful estimates have been made of the freight and passenger business along the proposed line, and Mr. Melick says the most conservative have arrived at the opinion that within four years the road will pay for itself. The proposed new road will open railroad communication with twenty communities, besides having the effect of reducing transportation rates that now are so high that but little profit is left for the farmers.

Engineer Melick, having completed his surveys, expects soon to be able to begin work on the extension of the line, the construction of which is being financeered by Messrs. Haines Brothers, 100 Broadway, New York.

Spring Lake Filling Up.

Spring lake, belonging to John I. Holly, on the road leading from Park avenue to South Plainfield, is slowly filling up again, and will soon be the beautiful sheet of water so much admired by all passing it. The earthen bank on the lower end of it recently gave way, on account of the overflow channel becoming clogged up, and the living springs, from which the pond is fed, filled it so full that the embankment gave way and emptied the pond. The icehouse on the side of the lake has collapsed from old age and inattention and is no longer used for storing ice. It should be moved now, as it looks unsightly.

Service for Veterans

Next Sunday afternoon at the W. C. T. U. rooms there will be a service for the G. A. R., of this city, and all persons residing in this city, who are veterans of the Spanish-American war. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of Monroe Avenue church, will make an interesting address and a full attendance of veterans is desired.

THE COMBINE GROWS.

NORTH JERSEY LINES TO BE ORGANIZED WITH $4,000,000 CAPITAL.

Chandler W. Riker, of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, is at the Head of the Great Trolley Corporation

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 14.—A new street railway combination with a capitalization of $4,000,000 will be organized as soon as the courts confirm the sale of the New Jersey Electric Railway Company's property which last Saturday was transferred to Chandler W. Riker, one of the biggest stockholders in the Plainfield Street Railway Company, for $1,500,000.

The new corporporation will be called the White Line Traction Company, and is to control, it is said, all the Passaic lines not owned by the North Jersey Street Railway Company, and also control the New Jersey Electric Railway Company, the Paterson, Passaic and Rutherford Electric Railway Company, the Hoboken and Rutherford Electric Railway Company and the North Hudson Street Railway Company. This will bring the street railways of Northern New Jersey under control of three big corporations—the White Line Traction Company, North Jersey Street Railway Company and the Orange and Passaic Valley Railway Company.

As the same capitalists practically own each system, all will unite into one company, it is said, by next fall or winter. Vice-President Hobart, Bernard M. Shanley, of this city, and E. F. C. Young, of Jersey City, are leading factors in the latest deal, and are the real incorporators of the White Line Traction Company, which filed papers with the Essex County Clerk last Friday. In addition to its $4 000,000 capital stock, the new company may issue $4,000,000 bonds.

SWINDLES BICYCLISTS.

PRETENDED AGENT GETS MONEY FOR L. A. W.

Officers of the Organization Are Hot on His Trail and if Captured He Will be Pushed to Full Extent of the Law.

Thomas L. Davis, alias William E. Hammond, a swindler notorious to the officials of the League of American Wheelmen, is working throughout New Jersey, and the State officers of that organization are hot on his trial and hope to repay his efforts by a dose of Jersey justice. Hammond's method is to represent himself as a agent of the League and secure paid-up applications for membership. A letter to J. C. Tattersall, Secretary-Treasurer of the New Jersey division of the L. A W., says:

"William E. Hammond, the notorious swindler who has been securing applications all over New York State for the L. A. W. and keeping the money, is now at work over in your State, working under the "non de plume" of Thomas L. Davis, giving address at 91 Montgomery street, Jersey City. We have received four complaints so far from people in your section that have been duped. I would suggest that you try and get your consuls on his track, and see if you can be more successful in locating him than we have been. His latest recruit is Louis Meyer, Jr., 469 Central avenue, Jersey City; he was swindled on the 17th of May."

League officials in this State will appreciate any clue that may be furnished them of Davis' whereabouts.

GIFT TO FIRE LADDIES.

Graceful and Fraternal Act of Engine Company Members.

Eight members of Engine Co., No.2, went to Perth Amboy last evening and presented Lincoln Hose Co., No. 1, with three handsome pictures and the old ballot-box used by the company for so many years. The boys were royally entertained at the house of Lincoln hose, where a clambake had been prepared especially for the occasion. Robert Eick, of No. 2, made the presentation speech. The fire laddies report a very enjoyable time. The pictures and ballot-box will be preserved as souvenirs. They are the last of the effects belonging to members of Engine No. 2, which has now disbanded owing to the department being formed into a paid system.

FOUR HOURS IN DITCH IN DYING CONDITION

Sad Fate That Overtook Young Man on the Track.

WAS WALKING TO 'FRISCO.

STRUCK BY FREIGHT TRAIN AND FATALLY INJURED.

Without Money or Friends in the East, William Cosgrove was Tramping it to His Home on the Pacific Coast—In Helpless Condition Beside Tracks From 1 to 5 This Morning.

One of the most interesting cases ever treated at Muhlenberg Hospital is now detained at that institution, and the physicians in charge cannot give any hope for recovery.

William Cosgrove, aged 19 years, is the patient. His home is in San Francisco. His father is dead, but he has a mother, brothers and sisters, all of whom reside in SanFrancisco. Young Cosgrove has been tramping for sometime past in the hopes of getting something to do. He was unsuccessful, and as a last resort he started Monday to go home. As a method of reaching there he intended to walk.

Last evening he passed through Plainfield.

About 1 o'clock this morning, while he was nearing Dunellen, a westbound freight train came along at a high rate of speed, and before the young man could get out of the way he was struck and thrown a considerable distance.

He remained where he fell until 5 o'clock this morning when he was found by some people who happened to be in that vicinity. A horse and wagon was secured and he was brought to the hospital about 7 o'clock.

An examination was at once made and it was learned that Cosgrove was suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg, and also a fracture of the spine. It is the fracture of the spine that makes recovery impossible, and no hopes of his recovery is entertained.

The engineer of the freight evidently did not know that he had struck anyone for it is said that he did not stop his train. If he had known of the accident he would surely have brought his train to a stop. Those in charge of the hospital have notified the boy's mother.

TROLLEY SCARED HORSE.

Narrow Escape From Serious Injuries of Two Men in a Buggy.

Two men residing in the vicinity of Bound Brook had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon while driving home. They had reached Lincoln when a trolley car in charge of Motorman Thomas Collins put in an appearance. The horse immediately became frightened and began kicking. The inmates of the buggy were thrown out and the wagon was smashed to kindling wood. The horse became frantic and finally got away, and for all that is known he is still running, while the men were left by the roadside with what was left of their wagon. The harness was also wrecked to a considerable extent.

People who were riding in the trolley car say that the motorman could scarcely be expected to prevent the accident, as the horse became unmanageable so quick that help was impossible. That the men were not killed is a mystery to all who saw the accident. The names of the motorman and conductor were taken, also those of several passengers on the car.

Mr. Collins is the same motorman that ran the car that struck and killed a horse belonging to Mr. Rogers, of New Market, several months ago. However, he is considered a careful man on the car. The names of the two men in yesterday's wreck could not be ascertained.

G. A. R. MEN ENTERTAINED

ELIZABETH VETERANS GIVEN A GOOD TIME BY PLAINFIELD COMRADES.

Pleasant Remarks Indulged in by Both Hosts and Visitors—A Potato Race Made Lots of Amusement for All.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., together with the members of the Woman's Relief Corps, joined last evening in having a good time. Thay also entertained members of Kirkpatrick and Dahlgren Posts, of Elizabeth, and several members of the Ladies' Aid Society from that city. Post No. 73 held a short meeting first, after which the visitors were invited to the room, where everyone had a good time. Commander C. B. Stephens, of Post 73, presided, and seated beside him were Mrs. E. C. Morse, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Mrs. Cannon, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, of Elizabeth.

After a few remarks by Commander Stephens, Past Department Commander W. C. Smith was introduced and made a few happy remarks. Other remarks were made by Comrades Oakley, Walsh, Ball, of Elizabeth, while Mrs. Morse, of the local corps, and Mrs. Cannon, of Elizabeth, made appropriate remarks. Mrs. Morse recited a pleasing selection in connection with her remarks.

Other features of the programme was a piano solo by Miss Jennie Smith, several recitations by Miss Josie Murphy, and a vocal solo by Miss Cannon. The closing feature was a potato race, and this proved very exciting to all. Miss Cannon, of Elizabeth, won first prize, securing a beautiful plate, while her father received the booby prize, a comical toy. This closed the programme, after which the members of the Woman's Relief Corps served ice cream and cake to all present, and the balance of the evening was passed in a sociable manner.

PATRIOTISM TO ABOUND.

GLORIOUS FOURTH AT MOUNTAIN PARK INN.

Mrs. Darling, Founder of the Daughters of American Revolution, Will Be Prominent in the Celebration.

Mountain Park Inn will be a centre of patriotism July 4th. Old Glory will wave on the Washingtonville heights and will mark the occasion and give enthusiastic ardor to the welcome extended to Mrs. Reeves, the well-known and successful manager of the new "Inn," which has already received the approval of New York society.

Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, well known to the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, is a guest for the season. As Founder General of the Hereditary Societies of Descendants from the Founders and Patriots of the Colonial Revolutionary Periods of the Republic, Mrs. Darling's extended acquaintance and knowledge of historic facts is heard around the world much like "the first gun of the Revolution." It is a recognized truth that wherever she is found a wave of patriotism follows.

Mrs. Darling's brother, John Quincy Adams, with his family, will spend July at the "Inn." Mr. Adams is secretary of "The Betsy Ross Flag House Association," also the Founders of Order of Founders and Patriots of America. He is to deliver the address July 4th. The Declaration of Independence will be read. Mrs. Darling will read an original poem and present to the "Mountain Park Inn" a picture of the birth of our Nation's flag, which will be supplemented by "The Story of the Flag," by the regent of the Betsy Ross Chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, Mrs LeRoy Sunderland Smith, who is a guest of the hotel for July.

Madame Valda, a celebrated artist known in both worlds as a prima donna and colleague of Patti, will be present and sing "The Star Spangled Banner" as only Valda can sing "The Song of Glory."

The occasion is limited to friends of the guests and to those who receive invitations from Mrs. Reeves.

TROLLEY WILL PASS CITY OF THE DEAD.

Feasible Plan Presented to Hillside Cemetery Association.

ON THE WAY TO METUCHEN.

ARLINGTON AVENUE ROUTE NOW PRACTICALLY ASSURED.

Set of Plans Presented to Directors of the Cemetery Association Last Night and Approved by Them—To Pass Oval Track and the Hillside Golf Links—Will Open a New Territory

H. C. VanEmburgh, representing the Plainfield Street Railway Company, appeared before the stockholders of the Hillside Cemetery Association, at their annual meeting last night, and presented a plan for the extension of the trolley road out Arlington avenue from West Fourth street to the city limits which is expected to assure the success of the enterprise. The great difficulty that the street railway company has had to cope with in making this extension is objection of the cemetery association.

As planned now the route is laid out Arlington avenue to Randolph road. It will run over this latter thoroughfare past the Crescent Oval racing track to a point east of S. F. Randolph's residence. There it is intended to have it turn to the south and run over a new street to be built eight feet wide to the property of Alexander Randolph.

There the road will curve to the east and skirt the north side of the property owned by the Hillside Cemetery Association and finally tap Woodland avenue. From there it will run to the city limits at the edge of Middlesex county, passing the golf grounds of the Hillside Golf Club.

The plans presented met with the approval of the directors of the cemetery association, who said that they would sign the necessary consents under such an arrangement. This means that the line will be built in a short time.

It is only a matter of a short time before the line will be built through Middlesex county to connect with the Brunswick Traction Company's road at Metuchen, which would give the latter company connections with Plainfield in two directions—Dunellen and Metuchen—and will eventually connect Plainfield with all the towns of Northern New Jersey having trolley roads.

Besides Mr. VanEmburgh, E. H. Gaddis and Lawyer Charles M. Moffett were at the meeting as representatives of the trolley company.

Protect Our Food.

The doctors inform us that alum is a poison, and that alum baking powders should be avoided because they make the food unwholesome. Prominent hygienists, who have given the matter most study, regard these powders as an evil that should be suppressed by state action. In Minnesota and Wisconsin alum powders are not permitted to be sold unless they are branded to warn consumers of their true character, while in the District of Columbia the authorities have under the direction of Congress, adopted regulations to prohibit the use of alum in bread altogether.

Are not the people of other states, as well as those of Minnesota and Wisconsin, entitled to warning of a danger which is apparently menacing them at close hand, is not the whole country entitled to absolute protection, as the people of the District of Columbia are protected, by legislation which is entirely prohibitive?

Until we can have protection in the form of a statute, how can our state boards of health, state analysts or food commissions better serve the public than by publishing in the newspapers from time to time the names of the baking powders which they find to be made from alum?

Meantime, it will aid the housewife in designating the alum powders to remember that all powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are of this dangerous class. Pure cream of tartar powders are usually sold at from forty-five to fifty cents a pound.

EFFECTS OF DROUGHT.

HIGHER PRICES IN VIEW FOR ARTICLES OF FOOD.

Poultry is Already Dearer in Price, and Vegetables are Not as Plenty as They Should be at This Season.

The effects of the drought are being felt in the markets of the city, as housewives and others will soon discover in the way of the higher prices they will have to pay for various articles of food. Poultry is already dearer than usual at this season of the year, and market poulterers say it is going higher. The reason for this, they say, is that large numbers of young chickens are being killed by the heat, and shipments to the city are small.

Vegetables and fruits have suffered considerable damage from the drought. Whole fields of vegetables, such as cauliflower, spinach and lettuce, which are of slow growth, have been scorched and withered, and the supply of small fruits has been materially curtailed. Dealers are sending to Canada for vegetables, and they say that prices will be high throughout the season, as it is too late for the home farmers to attempt to supply the demand.

The drought has even affected butter, the marketmen say. The heat and lack of moisture have made the grass "weedy," and "weedy" butter is going to be the result. Such good butter as there may be will cost more than the usual summer prices.

"With the exception of lamb, the drought will not materially affect the quality or price of meat this season," said a butcher yesterday. "The effect will be felt next year, however, when there will be a lot of poor meat on the market, and I believe it will cost as much, if not more, than good meat does now."

PARK CLUB'S FOURTH.

A PRIVATE CELEBRATION OF THE DAY DECIDED ON.

No Intention of Antagonizing the General Celebration—The Usual Fine Fireworks Display Will be Held in the Evening.

There was a meeting of the board of governors of the Park Club last evening and all the members were present. The question of adhering to former custom and holding the usual Fourth of July celebration was introduced and it was unanimously agreed to hold it as usual.

A committee, consisting of W. J. Roome, E. S. Hooley, E. M. French, E. T. Wilson and H. D. Hibbard, was appointed to make complete arrangements for the celebration. There will be an afternoon and evening programme of special interest. Of course, the fireworks will be in the evening, and they will be a very fine display.

The committee has no idea of antagonizing the big celebration to be held in this city, but do not feel as though they ought to give up their celebration for the other. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., who is an ex-officio member of the committee, will have general supervision of the celebration.

Mr. Hunt, a new resident in Washington Park, was elected a member of the club at the meeting last night.

After the council finished its business a collation was served the braves and the pipe of peace indulged in. The visiting Red Men report a pleasant time.

LEFT HIS FORT TO APPEAR IN COURT.

"Count" VanNess Asks for a Hearing by Judge Runyon.

CASE TO BE HEARD MONDAY.

VANNESS' ASSISTANT ALSO WANTED BY POLICE.

But Roundsman Frederickson Was Not Able to Locate Him—"Count" Was Late in Getting to Court—Accompanied by His Lawyer—VanNess Says That He is Not an Obstructionist.

The city officials found it necessary this morning to send Roundsman Frederickson to the improvised home of "Count" John K. VanNess on the surveyed route of the Scotch Plains extension of the local trolley system, to serve a warrant of arrest on the "Count" in order to get him into City Court to answer to the charge of shooting firearms within the city limits last Saturday night while trying to get the proper range for his cannon to annihilate any trolley employee who should try to invade his property.

Even the officer's visit did not have the effect of bringing the "Count" into court on time. After waiting for half an hour for the offender to appear the court adjourned, but just then the "Count" drove up in his barouche, accompanied by his lawyer, George Ball. Judge Runyon reconvened court at once and the "Count" was arraigned.

After both he and his lawyer had spent some minutes in studious reading of the complaint and ordinance, which it is alleged he violated, Attorney Ball stated that he desired to enter a plea of not guilty for the "Count," and ask for an examination at a later date. Judge Runyon set Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock as the time, and the "Count" was released on his recognizance.

Besides the charge against the "Count" another complaint of a similar kind has been issued against William Hunter, a colored man employed by the combative property-holder. The warrant for his arrest was given to Roundsman Frederickson, but when the officer arrived at the "Count's" shanty-like domicile the colored man was nowhere to be found. He had flew the coop. He is charged with helping the "Count" to fire the cannon Saturday night.

After court adjourned the "Count" spread the map of his property before Chief Grant and with a wealth of picturesque and emphatic language explained the situation and told the Chief that the trolley company was all wrong in the stand they had taken against him.

"I am not an obstructionist," declared the "Count," "all I want is fair treatment."

Information from Elizabeth is to the effect that the land Van Ness is defending against the trolley company does not belong to him, but to a John Marsh, of Scotch Plains. A $3,000 mortgage is held against the property by a son of Assemblyman Martin, of Hunterdon county, and there are also other mortgages on record. Colonel Hine, who is interested in securing the right of way for the trolley company, says that a deed for the property will be delivered to him, as the company has purchased the property in dispute.

THE OLD WAY.

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion by Dieting a Dangerous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quanity usually taken, in other words the starvation plan is supposed by many to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure has been proven time and again, but still the moment dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ, every nerve and every fibre in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well cooked food, and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50 cents for full sized package at all drug stores.

FILIPINOS DRIVEN BACK.

Lawton Succeeds in His Purpose After Meeting With Strong Resistence.

NATIVES PUSHED BACK.

The Secretary of Gen. Pio del Pilar, Leaves Natives and Flees to the American Lines for Safety.

Our Troops Suffer Greatly From the Exhausting Heat—Dewey Sends Report on the Capture of Lieutenant Gillmore and Party—Ensign Standley Says Gillmore Did Not Obey Instructions.

Manila, June 14.—The fighting at Las Pinas continued hotly all day long. Gen. Lawton called out the whole force of 3,000 men and at 5 o'clock he was able to push the insurgents back only 500 yards, to the Zapote River, where they are entrenched. The plucky insurgents resisted desperately and aggressively. They attempted to turn the left flank of the American troops. The American loss is conservatively estimated at sixty.

Washington, June 14.—The following cablegram from General Otis was received at the War Department.

Lawton's troops had severe engagement with enemy in strong entrenchments at crossing Zapote River, near Bacoor, Cavite province; have driven the enemy with heavy loss. Our casualties sum thirty.

Natives scattered and in retreat. Doubtful if they make further stand. (Signed), OTIS.

Luna Assassinated

Washington, Juce 14.—The report has reached here that General Antonio Luna, one of the bitterest foes of the Americans in the Philippines, has been assassinated by orders of General Aguinaldo, the Filipino leader.

Luna has recently found himself in opposition to his chief's views and has not only disobeyed orders, but once stopped Aguinaldo's peace commissioners while on their way to Manila to treat with the Americans. Aguinaldo ordered his death and his orders were carried out by some of his fanatical followers.

The report of his assassination caused great excitement among the Filipinos in Manila.

Manila, June 14.—Gen. Lawton, who occupied the towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas, went aboard the gunboat Helena afterwards, and examined the coast south of Las Pinas for the purpose of ascertaining the position of the insurgents who fled on the approach of the American forces.

The Secretary of Gen. Pio del Pilar, who is next to Aguinaldo in command of the insurgents, deserted on Saturday and fled to the American lines. He informed Gen. Otis that the natives would abandon Paranaque and Las Pinas and would take a stand on the bank of the Zapote River, where their strongest position is located. The information given by the Secretary was apparently true. Last year the Filipinos destroyed a Spanish battalion, numbering 800 men, at Zapote.

The engineers are repairing the bridge that gave way when the Americans attempted to cross it, the rebels having sawed the stringers almost in two before retreating.

Supplies are being forwarded to the troops without loss of time, and there is no danger of the men suffering from lack of provisions and ammunition. Military wargons are conveying supplies by the road from Manila, while native lighters are transporting them to Paranaque by the water route.

On the march Saturday from San Pedro Macati a great many of the American troops were compelled by the intense heat to fall out, and some fears were entertained that they would be either shot or captured by the Filipinos who skulked in the rear. Fortunately most of them after a short rest were able to rejoin their comrades, and now nearly all the stragglers have been accounted for. Nearly 600 men suffered from heat exhaustion.

Drove Engine 1,060,918 Miles.

Terre Haute, June 14.—No other man ever traveled as many miles as did Andrew Walker, who lies dead here. He was the oldest engineer of the Vandalia Railroad. Walker became an engineer in 1852 and his diary shows that he was at the throttle for 1,060,918 miles, or more than forty times around the world, and never had a serious accident.

High Biker Crossed a Trestle.

Collinsville, Conn., June 14.—Joseph Foucher, of Waterbury, claims the medal as champion high trestle bicyclist. He rode over the trestle across the Farmington river. It is 78 feet high, 2,000 feet long and the tires are in places 20 inches apart. He says he is going to wheel over the Poughkeepsie bridge across the Hudson.

Wants Contract for Soldiers' Wives.

Philadelphia, June 14.—The Union Labor League will make a prompt appeal to President McKinley to withhold contracts for $1,000,000 worth of army clothing from alleged sweatshop bidders and give the work to 3,000 soldiers' wives, widows and daughters here.

SPANIARDS KILLED.

Reports of Three Murders By Bandits in Cuba.

Havana, June 14.—Civil Governor Ruis Rivera has telegraphed to Gen. Brooke that a number of bandits attacked a store on the Nueva Paz sugar estate and murdered two Spaniards and wounded another.

A band of outlaws have murdered a Spaniard near the town of Guanajay, province of Pinar del Rio.

The Spanish Club, El Golpe, was visited by the Chief of Police, who had been informed that its members were the promoters of disorders by Spaniards, especially on the occasions when a Spanish steamer leaves for Spain. The last brawl at La Punta is ascribed to the club. The President explained to the Chief of Police that the club was lawfully constituted, whereupon the latter withdrew, but he has ordered his subordinates to keep a careful watch on the club, whose only object, according to the detectives, is to make trouble between the Spaniards and Cubans, and to carry on an anti-American propaganda.

The Cuban Club is collecting signatures to a petition asking for the expulsion from the island of Nicholas Rivero, editor of the Diario de la Marina, who is a conspicuous member of the Golpe Club. Senor Rivero daily writes strong articles against the Cubans and his actions and those of other members of the club have excited the animosity of the Cubans.

Gen. Lee has returned from Bejucal, where a great demonstration was made in his honor.

Gen. Gomez is sick again, which has made it necessary for him to postpone until next week his trip into the interior.

The payment of the Cuban army continues to progress satisfactorily.

Barry arose, seized a second butcher-knife and he stabbed Norton in the abdomne. Norton threw down the cleaver, wrested the knife from Barry, chopped his arm half off and hacked him on the head. Barry bled to death.

At the time of the explosion David Kidnocker was screwing the lid on and was frightfully burned. How he escaped is miraculous. Two other men were knocked down, and several girls in the factory were panic-stricken when the explosion occurred. There were 100 employes in the factory at the time.

Officers of the State Lyceum will call the attention of the State Board of Health to it. They demand it be interred and join with the state camp officers in refusing to permit burial on her lot in the grounds, according to her last wish. An ugly fight is on.

OTIS TO HAVE 35,000 MEN

A Larger Army for the Philippines Than Was at First Thought Necessary.

THE ORDER IS ISSUED.

The Number of Men in Each Infantry Company Will be Increased to a Considerable Extent.

By Special Order General Otis' Command Will be Re-enforced at Once—His Army to Consist of 35,000 Men For Fighting in the Field—Additional Troops to be Sent to Manila Soon.

Washington, June 14.— Gen. Otis is to have an army in the Philippines of 35,000 men, instead of 30,000, as at first proposed and an order has been issued increasing the number of men in each infantry company in the Philippines. Additional regular troops are to be despatched to Manila as soon as transports arrive at San Francisco.

The order issued provides that each infantry company and cavalry troop shall have 128 men. Each infantry company now has 112 men and each troop of cavalry 100 men. By this means and with the increase of the army by 3,100 men, secured through a recent decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury, it is intended to give Gen. Otis the 30,000 regular troops he wants. This number does not include signal corps, engineer and hospital corps detachments. Under the decision of the Comptroller, the enlisted strength of the regular army had been increased from 65,000 to 68,100. The Comptroller held that the hospital corps of the army, consisting of 2,600 men, and 500 men allowed for a recruiting reserve, were not included in the 65,000 men authorized by the reorganization law.

As soon as the regiments have been recruited to their full strength of 1,536 men, or 128 for each company the War Department will set about executing plans for sending 5,000 additional men to Gen. Otis, thus increasing his fighting force to 35,000. These plans have been considered and have been practically outlined, but the details are not obtainable.

A general order has been issued by the War Department assigning more regular troops to the Philippines. This contains the first direct admission that the Government has decided to reenforce Gen. Otis's command by regular troops instead of volunteers.

Constable Shot Them Both.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 14.—Constable Hotallen, of Newton, Sussex County, had a desperate fight for his life on a lonely mountain road. The constable was pursuing James Campbell, of Newton, accused of beating his wife and threatening to kill her. He overtook Campbell and his brother, Jason, near the State line after a twenty-mile chase. When Hotallen undertook to place handcuffs on the men they seized him, beat him about the head and chocked him in a horrible manner. Hotallen got one hand free, grasped his revolver and, lying on his back, fired two shots into James Campbell's body. Jason was also hit twice. The constable brought both here. It is thought that James will die.

San Saba County Feud Revived.

Austin, Tex., June 14.—Word has reached here of the assination in San Saba County of two of the principal witnesses in the murder cases from that county now pending in the District Court. A little eight year old living in Brooklyn, N. Y., has had excruciating spells of indigestion. He looked scrawny and was so generally miserable that his mother said Eddie had rather go hungry than not because his food distressed him so. She had tried so many remedies without avail that she had become about discouraged, but the remarkable change wrought in a little playmate of his by the use of Ripans Tabules finally induced her to give them to her son. Three times a day for several weeks he took half a Tabule. "Did you ever see such a changed boy?" was the exclamation of his mother recently to a friend who had not seen him for two months "His peevishness and the other miserable symptoms have been effectually routed by the Tabules. It seems almost like a miracle to me," she continued, "to see him and his food on such good terms. There is now no catering to his capricious appetite and that alone makes my life much easier." Ripans Tabules have taken up a permanent residence in the medicine closet of that family

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

MURDERERS CONDEMNED

Heinous Crime to Be Expiated on the Gallows in Texas.

Fort Worth, Tex., June 14.—Three Texans have been condemned to death by hanging by the Criminal Court of Appeals. They are Jim Garlington, alais Jim Darlington, of this city; Tom Wright, of Dublin, Rev. G. E. Morrison, of Panhandle City. Garlington is one of the five men who attempted to hold up a Santa Fe passenger train near here July last, and as a result, Engineer Williams and Fireman Whittaker were both shot and killed and their bodies kicked off the engine.

Wright brutally murdered Constable John Adams, of Erath County, by holding him with one hand while with the other he riddled him. The crime of Rev. Morrison was the most heinous of them all. He deliberately set about to put his wife out of the way, in order that he might be free to marry a young woman at Topeka, Kan. One Sunday morning he placed poison in an apple, which his wife ate just prior to her brutal husband going to church to occupy the pulpit. When he returned home she was dead.

Oregon Volunteers Return

Washington, June 14.—A cable despatch from Gen. Otis relative to the departure of the second Oregon regiment, states that the regiment will be taken to San Francisco first, for the reason that one ship could not carry all of them, and it was desirable to send with the two ships required, sick and wounded soldiers, a detachment of the signal corps and others who were homeward bound. It is said that as soon as the Oregon regiment arrives at San Francisco the soldiers who do not belong to it can be unloaded and the ships then proceed up the coast to the Columbia River and Portland.

Paris, June 14.—Baron Christiani, who assaulted President Loubet with a cane at the Auteuil races June 4, was sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

The Judges deliberated thirty-five minutes and delivered judgment, saying that, according to the articles of the Penal Code under which Christiani was sentenced, he was liable to from two to five years' imprisonment. There was a general exclamation of surprise when the prisoner was sentenced to four years' imprisonment and also to pay the costs of the trial. Christiani listened unmoved to his sentence.

Race Troubles in Florida

Tallahassee, Fla., June 14.—Four telegrams have been received at the executive office from the mayor of Dunnelton, a small mining town near Ocala, Fla., asking that troops be sent there at once. RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERERS

Many Cities and Individuals Respond Liberally to Call for Assistance

OVER $150,000 IN MONEY

The Unfortunate Cyclone Sufferers in the Northwest Remembered by the Generous Public.

A Touching Appeal From a Wisconsin Congressman Results in Large Relief Funds Being Raised—A Nebraska Town Completely Wiped Out of Existence and Many People Killed.

Omaha, Neb., June 14.—A tornado struck the town of Herman, in Washington County, and wiped the place out of existence. Herman is a place of about 300 inhabitants, in the extreme northern part of Washington County, and is on the line of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway. The storm was general all over the eastern part of Nebraska, and at Omaha a cloudburst did great damage. A conductor on the train from Sioux City passed through Herman not long after the storm and he says not a building is left standing in town.

He counted tweleve dead bodies lying in th estreets. The fatalities will undoubtedly run up to a hundred if not higher.

A special train has left Blair, the County seat, ten miles distant, for the scene of the disaster carrying surgeons and supplies.

New Richmond Wis., June 14.—The district wrecked by the cyclone Monday night has been gone over and the ruins searched thoroughly. From the latest summing up of figures it is known positively that 316 people were killed and there are about fifty that are not accounted for, but may not have been killed.

An unusually large crowd of strangers was in town. They sought shelter wherever they could find it. More than fifty bodies were buried when the buildings took fire.

A number of these unfortunates were only injured, but being pinned under the wreckage, they were slowly roasted to death.

Twenty-six bodies were found in one cellar.

A traveling man just arrived was talking to a merchant at New Richmond when the storm burst. The merchant was carried away and killed and the traveling man was thrown through a window, receiving only a few scratches.

Other passengers say the track of the storm was half a mile wide and that the greatest loss of life was where the people went into the cellars.

Instead of being swept away from their foundations the frame buildings were lifted and then crushed down into the cellars, killing the refugees like rats.

The property loss will reach fully $2,000,000.

Milwaukee, June 14.—The following telegram was received from Congressman John J. Jenkins, from New Richmond, Wis., addressed to the Governor and Chamber of Commerce:

"The city wiped out by storm. Every business building and contents and over half the dwellings and contents total loss. Many hundred dwellings partly ruined. Over one hundred wounded. Forty dead bodies; many missing and ruins burned. Local people making heroic efforts and giving freely of what little they have left. With few exceptions no food or clothing. Not an article of goods, wares or merchandise left.

"Must have immediate relief: will require aid for some time. Not a coffin or article to bury the dead. Practical destitution prevails. Will you notify the public and ask them that aid be forwarded as soon as possible."

In response to this telegram which reached the tender spot in the heart of every citizen in Milwaukee, the rich and poor alike, President Cottrell, of the Chamber of Commerce immediately called a general meeting of all classes to provide a means of relief for those who lost all of their earthly possessions in the frightful storm. The meeting was largely attended, principally by representative business men and about $31,000 in cash was paid in to the relief fund which was immediately forwarded to Congressman Jenkins, at New Richmond for distribution. Ten thousand dollars of this fund was donated by the Pabst Brewing Company. Fully four car loads of provisions of various kinds were also subscribed and the Wisconsin Central Railroad Company for its contribution took the goods to the stricken city by special train.

St. Louis Does Herself Proud.

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—The people here realizing by their sad experience three years ago, when the city was wrecked by a tornado, what prompt assistance means, in such cases, have not waited to be called upon to assist those who have met a like fate at New Richmond, Wis. Contributions to the amount of $57,000 were gathered in inside of three hours and in less than five hours a draft for this amount was on its way to the striken Wisconsin City. There will also be several car loads of merchandise sent at once.

Detroit Sends Relief

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—A meeting was called here at which $15,000 in money was paid into a fund which was immediately forwarded to the relief committee in charge of the distribution of funds for that purpose in the Wisconsin Cyclone district.

Chicago Responds Liberally.

PREPARING FOR TROUBLE

Police Think There Will Be a Lively Time in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 14.—The police are ready for a battle with the strikers, and expect that there will be much more trouble before the fight between the street car magnates and their employes is over.

"We have about 300 men, mostly imported, to run our cars. All our former employes were discharged Monday at 7 a. m. The company has not receded from its position one inch and we shall continue our efforts to operate cars. We will not try to run cars at night for the present however, for obvious reasons."

Following this announcement made by the general superintendent came an imperative order from the superintendent of Police to arrest every striker of sympathizer who boarded the cars.

Women are playing a very prominent part in the warfare, and the enthusiasm which they have displayed for the cause of the men has created much surprise.

Not only are the wives and female relatives of the strikers thoroughly aroused, but women of wealth and fashion have mingled with the crowd and endeavored to induce the new conductors and motormen to leave their jobs. In many cases they have given money out of their own pockets to induce them to do so.

Riot in Buffalo; Three Shot.

Buffalo, June 14.—Between thirty and forty stevedores and freight handlers, climbed aboard the whaleback Samuel Mather, which was lying at the Minnesota iron ore docks, and opened fire on a gang of about fifty iron ore handlers who were working in the hold of the vessel. Between 150 and 200 shots were fired. John Malyek, 30 years old, was shot in the back and is not expected to recover; Joseph Marek was shot in the shoulder, and Mike Smith received a bullet in the right shoulder. The injuries of the two latter men are not serious.

Girl Bandit Was Nervy.

Florence, Ariz., June 14.—After a desperate fight for liberty, during which she tried to get the drop on the pursuing Sheriff, Pearl Hart, alias Pearcon, the Arizona female bandit, has been landed in the county jail with her male accomplice, Joe H. Boot. The Sheriff says the woman is a very tiger cat for nerve, while the man is a weak, morphine-depraved specimen of humanity, lacking both nerve and intelligence.

Big Steamers in Collision.

New York, June 14.—In a dense fog off Long Branch two steamships met in collision. One, the German steamship Macedonia, is believed to have sunk, and the other entered this port in a badly disabled condition. So far as known no lives were lost, though no word has yet been received from a missing boat set adrift from the wreck and containing three passengers and ten of the crew.

Woman Had Fits 100 Hours.

Philadelphia, June 14.—Viola M. Brown, who died here at the German Hospital, lay in fits for one hundred hours before death relieved her. A week ago she attempted to commit suicide with gas at her boarding house. She was removed to the hospital and remained unconscious, save for [illegible] interval, until her death.

Engine Tumbles Into a Trench.

Newark, N. J., June 14.—While Truck No. 4 was answering an alarm in Chapel street it toppled over into a trench dug along the roadway. Driver Charles Wagner fell under one of the horses and was seriously injured. Several firemen were thrown into the trench and the truck was badly wrecked.

Stains on Graveyard Stone.

Sayville, L. I., June 14.—Vandals are defacing tombstones here, and if they are caught will be severely punished. Many of the most costly monuments have been indelibly stained by having masses of greasy paint thrown against the tops of them, whence it trickles over the entire surface below.

New York Strike Spreading.

New York, June 14.—The strike among the garment workers' has spread to Brooklyn and at present there are over 9,000 persons out. The whole trade may be tied up before the strike ends.

Austrian Consul Going.

Vienna, June 14.—Herr F. Stockinger, the Austrian-Hungarian Consul at New York, has been appointed Deputy Consul-General at London and Director of the Commercial Department of the Austrian-Hungarian Embassy there.

Duke of Orleans Not Arrested.

Turin, June 14.—The Duke and Duchess of Orleans are at the Hotel de l'Europe here and will remain in this city for some days. The report of the Duke's arrest is false.

Helen Gould Remembers Them, Too.

New York, June 14.—It is said here that Miss Helen Gould has forwarded a contribution of $25,000 to the relief committee for the cyclone sufferers at New Richmond, Wis.

HABITS OF THE HORSE.

Fear of Wolves, Speed of Colts and the Habit of Shying.

Another animal which, when in a state of nature, lives in droves, is the horse. It is almost as defenseless as the sheep, and when a herd of wild horses is attacked by wolves there is no escape but in flight. In its wild state the horse's natural habitat is on the open plains, not in mountainous regions, but on the steppes of Asia, and when attacked by wolves its only safety lies in its superior speed. If the young foal were not as swift as its parents it would fall an easy prey to the pursuer, and so, within a few generations, the wild horse might be utterly destroyed by its enemies. The curious thing is that the foal is quite as swift as its parents. When one looks at it, even in its domesticated condition, it seems to be all legs, and one is surprised to see how easily the slight body is borne along on those legs, beside the mother, even when she is running at her swiftest rate. In that fact lies the safety of the wild horse from destruction, and the thousands of generations in which that useful animal has been domesticated have brought no change in the peculiar conformation of the foal's limbs, though it is no longer needed for its original purpose.

Another curious thing is that one of the faults of the horse of which we are apt to complain, we mean the habit of shying, is a survival of an old habit which was useful and necessary when its ancestors were still roaming wild upon the plains. Then every horse was constantly on the outlook for an enemy, and it did not look only with one eye. It habitually kept turning its ear in all directions, so as to catch the slightest sound which should indicate the presence of danger. Not only when a wolf was seen did the herd take flight; any sound, as of the wolf breaking through the long grass, caused an instantaneous stampede; and something of that habit still survives. The horse seldom fears the objects which it sees unless they appear suddenly; but the sudden appearance of some light thing driven by the wind, or some slight sound that perhaps may not be heard by his master, may cause an instant and involuntary shy, such as the poor brute would instinctively make if he were still wild upon the plains. How unjust it is, and how utterly stupid ,to justify his terror by whipping him for such a fault. To do so is to make him only so much the readier to shy again, remembering—and he is sure to remember—that, even if there has been no reason for his involuntary shying, there is something to dread immediately afterward. The only sensible way to deal with this remnant of wildness in the domesticated horse is to stop and let him feel that there is nothing to fear, and so break down the remnant of his old and perfectly natural habit of flight from possible danger.

An Important Decision.

In the course of time and courts New Jersey has witnessed many damage suits that were based on novel claims, but it is doubtful if there was ever one more unusual than that brought against the Mountain Water Company by the Scotch Plains firm as a test suit representing the association of mill owners along that stream from Summit to Plainfield.

On the face of the question at issue in the action it would seem that it would be almost an impossibility to assess damages against the defendants. The idea that any firm, or set of firms, could mulct another commercial enterprise for sinking wells and drawing water from the ground owned by them, is one that looks presumptious. But next to the highest tribunal of law in New Jersey has declared that it is not, providing the taking of this water by percolation is proven to be depleting the source of a stream of water along which certain rights and values have been established for years.

This decision of the Supreme Court in favor of the plaintiffs in the case in question is an important one, and will establish a precedent that will undoubtedly be reflected in other suits based on similar claims.

Along this line of thought the idea is forced upon the mind that if the Mountain Water Company is liable for damages for diverting the natural source of Green brook, then the Plainfield Water Supply Company may be held responsible for the same condition of things with Cedar brook. There is not the slightest doubt but that the local company's wells at Netherwood affect the source of Cedar brook and the millions of gallons of water pumped from them has resulted in making Cedar brook a tiny, sluggish stream in comparison to its condition in former years. Of course, there are no extensive mill rights along Cedar brook, but there were values dependable upon the volume of water in the stream as important, in proportion, to the posessors of them as those that existed along Green brook.

The decision of the Supreme Court raises the question: Is the Plainfield Water Supply Company liable to damages the same as the Mountain Water Company?

NEW HALL OF JUSTICE, SAN FRANCISCO.
The new Hall of Justice, San Francisco, is a stately and beautiful building. It is in Italian Renaissance, five stories high, with a central tower. The tower rises to a height of 110 feet. The city prison will be on the fifth floor. The corner stone was laid in December, 1896. It will be ready for occupancy in about three months.

To Fight the Trusts.

A lengthy letter has been received by Governor Voorhees from Governor Joseph D. Sayers, of Texas, inviting New Jersey's Chief Magistrate and Attorney-General Grey to a conference of Governors and Attorney-Generals at St. Louis September 20th, to consider the question of trusts.

According to his Excellency of the Lone Star State, the trust is to be discussed with a view of adopting some method to "force those in existence into dissolution, and also of preventing their further creation." Governor Sayers is of the opinion that if twenty states will combine to down the trusts, the desired result will be easily accomplished.

Governor Voorhees says that he will give the letter due consideration before replying to it. As New Jersey is just now growing rich through its chartering and taxing of trusts, it is doubtful if her Governor will participate in the conference.

From present indications New Jersey will not be one of the twenty in the combine.

As a result of the remarkable clean-up of taxes in the borough for 1898, Collector George Brown is having lots of complimentary words said about his administration. This one is from yesterday's Newark News: "North Plainfield has a tax collector who need never be out of a job. He has collected all the 1898 personal taxes except $20, and all the poll taxes for the same year except $50. This official ought to be able to make money teaching other collectors his system. Any man who can show such a record as this on personal and poll taxes is a wonder, or else the Plainfield taxpayers are different from other people."

There is a word a truth in what the late Henry Ward Beecher says about newspapers: "A newspaper is a window through which men look out on all that is going on in the world. Without a newspaper, a man is shut up in a small room, and knows little or nothing of what is happening outside of himself. A good newspaper will keep a man in sympathy with the world's current history. It is an ever-unfolding encyclopedia, an unbound book forever issuing and never finished."

In mingled sorrow and anger the New Brunswick Times is moved to confess: "There are lots of jays and cranks and chumps in the world, but it does seem that when the box was shaken, Middlesex county, and particularly that section of it in the immediate vicinity of New Brunswick, got more than its share." We always thought as much.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The discomforture experienced by Constable Gjettelson since the sad experience of last Tuesday, when a prisoner escaped from him, has completely unnerved him. In fact, the urbane officer has lost faith completely in human nature. Hereafter, when in charge of prisoners, the constable will guard against embarrassments of a similar nature by securely handcuffing his man.

A white leghorn hat in a show window at Bonn's millinery establishment attracts the attention of nearly all pedestrians—men as well as women—who pass the store. The novelty about this particular piece of head-gear is not the way in which it is trimmed as the materials used in the trimming. Instead of using green ribbons or feathers to give the desired effect, the almighty dollar, or at least a number of them are folded, twisted and rolled into the desired shapes, making a pretty though unique design that sets off the hat to good advantage. In all there are twenty-five brand new one dollar bills. The hat was designed by Mrs. Manny, the head trimmer of the establishment, and is a credit to her ingenuity.

Peter Schenck, New Jersey's famous hog killer and many years ago a celebrated hunter and trapper in Pennsylvania, and in the south, died Sunday near Princeton, in his 91st year. Farmers and butchers from far and near would seek his services, and not long ago "Uncle" Peter, as nearly everybody called him, slaughtered many head of swine. The old colored man, even in his advanced age, could handle the knives and butcher tools with astonishing activity and skill. "Uncle" Peter has been a conspicuous figure in Central New Jersey for many years. He was a weather prophet and also a great fisherman, and in his day, with dog and gun, a noted coon hunter. In his younger days he was a crack shot, with but few equals in this country.

A. J. Cassatt, the new president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is a Democrat in politics, or used to be, and was supposed to be the man who threw the influence of the Pennsylvania Railroad against Frederic A. Potts for Governor of New Jersey in 1880, and thereby secured the election of Ludlow. The result was not fortunate for the Pennsylvania, Governor Ludlow proving to be an anti-railroad man of the first-water. Mr. Cassatt made another mistake a few years later. He ordered General Sewell to put through the race-track legislation at Trenton, agreeing to a compromise with the Guttenberg-Gloucester track men. Up to that time the fight had been against the more disreputable racing, but the law rushed through by the lobby aroused opposition to all racing, and the great agitation which resulted in a constitutional amendment was the consequence. Mr. Cassatt was a racing man then himself, and allowed his personal wishes to sway his railroad judgment. He has been wiser since, and has been more conservative. He is identified with the North Jersey Traction Company and with many other enterprises, and has wonderful capacity for business. He is 60 years old, and in good physical condition. He was educated abroad as a boy, then at Troy Polytechnic Institute, and then in the railroad service as engineer and manager, to become a vice-president and now the head of the great system.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains. A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O I did not like it but after using it for one week nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains. Get a package today from your grocer, follow the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15 and 25c.

KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

June theatricals in Greater New York are conspicuous for the excellence of the programmes at Mr. Proctor's two houses—the 23d St. Theatre and the Pleasure Palace, 58th St. and 3d Ave. At both these modern-built theatres, every device for the coolness of the auditoriums and the comfort of audiences was introduced during their construction. Located in open areas, the Proctor houses are exposed to constant breezes and they are famous as quite the "coolest theatres in town." Next to the stage shows, this is the most desirable requisite in summer amusements. The stars of the bill June 19 and week at the Palace are: Mrs. Leiter, the famous beauty and society leader of Chicago. She will make her first appearance on the professional stage on that date in the comediatta, "A Stolen Kiss." At the 23d St. Theatre June 19 and week are: Lillian Burkhart, the charming comedienne; Frank Bush, the Hebrew jester; Waterbury Bros. and Tenney, musical artists; Smith and Cook, comedy acrobats; Hugh Stanton and Co.; Carrie Scott, comedienne; and a score more.

Appealed From the Award.

D. R. Dunham, the Rahway carriage manufacturer, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, have both appealed from the award made by the commission appointed by the court to appraise the value of the land belonging to Mr. Dunham on Irving street, Rahway, that has been appropriated by the Pennsylvania Company for its fourth track. The commission awarded Mr. Dunham $2,000, which he claims is too little, while the railroad company claims it is too much. Now the issue will have to be tried and decided at the October term of court by Judge VanSyckel and a struck jury.

WOMEN'S REALM

A BEAUTY SERMONETTE.

The Grimacing Act is Ruinous to Good Looks—Grow Old Beautifully.

Our faces get just as tired as our hands or our backs or our feet, and then, if we know enough, we long for the soothing touch of fingers trained to knead and pat and stroke our muscles.

The sensation is delightful. Ten velvety balls traveling around our chin, under our eyes, across our foreheads, and each ball carrying along a cool little dab of something creamy and soft and fragrant.

Many's the spell of cross-grainness I have had chased off in this way, says Dorothy Maddox in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Social indulgences must be paid for.

We are obliged to grimace. Some people call it "smiling." We expect our smirks to bring lines.

We look to the artful rubber to keep facial muscles so strengthened that they will resist the strain to which they are subjected.

We are also wise enough to learn a few massage tricks as well.

And how careful we are to get together delicate lotions that will help our 10 fingers to do the work demanded of them.

Imagine how the face of a woman pledged to six euchres a week and a whist or two thrown in must need massage. There is nothing on earth more cruelly unkind to good looks than these persistent efforts of ours to be agreeable. We cannot go into society with sealed lips and expressions that are funereal. We begin the great grimacing act from the moment we give our hostess our first handshake to the time for the final adieu.

We can actually feel, if we have grown sensitive upon the subject of wrinkles, the lines coming about our eyes, and around our mouth every time we contract the muscles.

We may be ignorant of consequences If so we let threadlike weaves appear, and that cunning scamp—Time—delighted to be allowed his will, sees to it that they become day by day deeper and deeper.

And there arrives a time when even a Venus mirror refuses to shelter defects. Our eyes are still bright, our color fine, our complexion free from blemishes, but, alas! a few crows' feet or a network of wrinkles spoils everything.

It is all folderol to tell a woman of 30 that she may look as young as a girl of 18. If true to the trust nature has reposed in her she has no need to envy the bud. If she has cared for each gift with which she has been endowed, she can afford to laugh at the pretensions of youth with all its gaucheries, all its insipidities. If, however, she has been negligent of the arts that beautify, an unbeliever in science as a cure-all for our inflictions, she must simply bear her punishment. She will be punished. Retribution may loiter. It arrives, if not promptly on time, early enough to torment, to harass, to reproach.

Life may not be such a picnic to any one of us that she desires to cling to youth. We may even long to end it. We should without delay be coached regarding the ironical rule which progress insists shall be learned, namely, that we are expected to be beautiful, wholesome, physically a delight and to please others and not ourselves.

How are our faces seamed? We should not hold the years we have lived responsible, but the lives we have led. Malice and snarling work havoc with the fairest faces. Defy the laws of common sense and hygiene and see where we will bring up. Go on from time to time, planning reforms without carrying out a single plan, and see how we will come out. There is no dissipation, it matters not how small, that does not leave its impress. I have no patience with a wheezy old age, with a sallow-tinted, bloomless maturity. I have no patience with a shriveled, parchment-like decay, with a lean or a fat old womanhood. Grow old beautifully. If we do not know how it can be done we should lose no time in finding out.

Cream and Black.

A very charming gown for those who prefer the cosy, comfortable room to a brisk winter morning's walk, is developed in soft cream velvet ribbon scattered over in irregular design.

The gown is not confined to the figure at any point after being attached to the yoke, which is of cream cashmere. Where more elegance is desired the yoke can be of heavy taffeta or velvet. There is a puffing of cashmere around the yoke which serves the twofold purpose of heading and trimming. The collar is very high and finished with a frill of soft silk or linen. The sleeves are after the bishop pattern only a trifle narrower. A band of the velvet is tied around the waist, finished with a tiny bow.

FOR GIRL WHO LOVES THE HOUSE.

"Ma, I made $10 cleaning house yesterday.

"Made $10?"

"Yes; Henry turned the piano to the wall by mistake and gave me $10 if I would leave it that way until fall."—Chicago Record.

PLUCKY WOMAN WAR CORRESPONDENT

Eliza Archard Conner, Who Is Carrying a Typewriter Around the World.

BY BESSIE DOW BATES.

Some of the most interesting articles which have been printed about the war in the Philippines have been written by Eliza Archard Conner, one of the very few women war correspondents who have ever entered this supposedly masculine field of journalism. But Eliza Archard Conner has always claimed that women were the equals of men in any field of work, and many times before has she demonstrated the truth of her theory.

The name of this veteran newspaper woman is known from one end of the country to the other, for hers has been an active life. She has been prominent also in the ranks of the woman suffragiste and as one of the leading members of Sorosis.

For more than a year Mrs. Conner has been on a roving mission which has taken her almost to the ends of the earth. Some 15 months ago she started for the Klondike. She took with her a typewriter. With her writing machine she is at home anywhere she may happen to find herself.

From Dawson City she sent a series of correspondence articles which were widely printed. They were full of bright and snappy stories about the gold seekers.

Leaving the neighborhood of the Arctic circle she journeyed south and sailed from San Francisco to Honolulu. From the Hawaiian Islands she sent another series of interesting letters, which have been read by many thousands.

From Honolulu Mrs. Conner started for the Philippines to act as war correspondent for the American Press Association. While off Yokohama the steamer on which she was a passenger encountered a typhoon. During the storm Mrs. Conner was thrown down a companionway and suffered a fracture of the bones of her left arm. She was thousands of miles away from home and friends. A less stout hearted person might have given up in despair, but not she. Accepting gratefully the kind attentions of new friends, she waited a short time to recover from the accident and then sailed for Manila by way of Hongkong.

Mrs. Conner has now been in the Philippines for several weeks, and her letters from there show no trace of gloominess. On the contrary, they are most entertaining and cheerful. She has followed up the movements of the American troops just as closely as any of her male coworkers and has even visited the firing line.

As an evidence of her pluck and determination it may be noted that her correspondence work is all done on her typewriter with one hand. Her left arm is still practically useless on account of the fracture, but the surgeons have told her that if she continues to exercise it a little every day she may eventually recover the use of this member. Although this regimen is a most painful one to follow, Mrs. Conner is sticking to it and expects to come back as sound as ever.

After finishing her work in Manila Mrs. Conner contemplates continuing her journey around the world, carrying her typewriter along with her. She may spend some time in China and Russia before she returns.

The career of this plucky woman war correspondent is a most interesting one. She was one of the pioneer women in journalism and has filled almost every position from reporter to editorial writer. She was born on a farm near Cincinnati, and her first newspaper work was done on the Cincinnati Commercial under Murat Halstead. In 1884 she went to New York and a year later became connected with the American Press Association as chief editorial writer.

Early in its career she became an active member of Sorosis, the "Mother of Woman's Clubs." In a report of a Sorosis debate several years ago the New York Sun said:

"When Eliza Archard Conner speaks in Sorosis, the women usually go home with something to think about. The slight, energetic woman, with the short gray hair and soft, clear voice, does not deal in platitudes, quotations nor encyclopedical data. She is a free lance and strikes out straight from the shoulder, regardless of what anybody thinks about it."

In carrying her typewriter around the world, penetrating into the gold regions and visiting the firing line in the Philippines she has lived up to her own belief.

Siebert in München hat der hiesige Stadtrath in Anerkennung der hervorragenden Verdienste des Jubilars um die Hebung und Verschönerung der Stadt Speyer beschlossen, den öffentlichen Platz vor dem Realschulgebäude und dem künftigen Amtsgerichtsgebäude, beide Schöpfungen v. Sieberts, Siebert-Platz zu benennen.

Frankenthal. In Großkarlbach ist der Oekonom Georg Drechsler, ein alter Achtundvierziger, im Alter von 74 Jahren gestorben. Drechsler wurde im Jahre 1849 wegen Betheiligung an dem pfälzisch-badischen Aufstand zum Tode verurtheilt, später jedoch zu 16 Jahren Zuchthaus „begnadigt," wovon er 6 Jahre verbüßt hat.

Ludwigshafen. Die Gemeindekommissionen von Ludwigshafen und Mundenheim kamen in gemeinsamer Berathung zu einer endgiltigen Einigung, so daß die Einverleibung der Gemeinde Mundenheim in die Stadtgemeinde Ludwigshafen unmittelbar bevorstehen dürfte.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Die bürgerlichen Kollegien der Stadt haben der Frau Oberbürgermeister Rümelin eine jährliche Wittwenpension von 3000 Mark bewilligt. Rechtmäßiger Weise wären ihr nur 1800 Mark zugekommen; in Anbetracht des Umstandes jedoch, daß Rümelin während seiner Amtszeit den größten Theil seines Vermögens zugesetzt hat, ist die Gemeindevertretung wohl im Sinne der gesammten Bürgerschaft höher gegangen, als das städtische Pensionsstatut vorschreibt.

Freudenstadt. Das 300jährige Jubiläum der Stadt soll am 18., 19. und 20. September gefeiert werden. Dem am zweiten Tag in Aussicht genommenen historischen Festzug werden der König und die Königin anwohnen.

Friedrichshafen. Neulich Morgens wurde der verheirathete Steuermann Brinasche vom württembergischen Dampfboot „Eberhardt" im Hafen von Rorschach ertrunken aufgefunden. Er scheint verunglückt zu sein.

Göppingen. Die bürgerlichen Kollegien dahier haben den sozialdemokratischen Gemeinderath Thiele wiederum zum Mitglied der katholischen Ortsschulbehörde gewählt.

Laupheim. Der erste Gewinn bei der Stuttgarter Pferdelotterie, 5000 Mark, fiel einem sehr bedürftigen Manne von Baustetten zu.

Münsingen. Die kranken Mannschaften, welche seither theils in Feldlazarethen des Truppenübungsplatzes, theils im hiesigen Bezirkskrankenhaus untergebracht wurden, sollen künftig in einem eigenen, massiv erbauten Lagerlazareth Verpflegung finden. Mit dem Bau, der auf 40,000 Mark veranschlagt ist, wird demnächst begonnen werden. Mit ihm ist der Ausbau des Barackenlagers dann vollendet.

Ulm. In der hiesigen Schwestermühle wurde dem 16jährigen Lehrling Karl Fischer von einem losgelösten Schleifstein der Schädel zerschmettert. Fischer war sofort todt.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Dieser Tage wurde der neue Hörsaalbau mit der Aula der technischen Hochschule festlich eingeweiht. Der Feier wohnten der Großherzog und sämmtliche Direktoren der technischen Hochschulen Deutschlands bei.

Heidelberg. Der Bürgerausschuß genehmigte den mit der Allgemeinen Elektrizitätsgesellschaft in Berlin abgeschlossenen Vertrag, nach welchem ihr die Herstellung und Inbetriebsetzung eines Elektrizitätswerkes in unserer Stadt übertragen wird, sowie die Deckung des zu diesem Zwecke erforderlichen Gesammtaufwandes von 1,000,000 Mark aus Anlehensmitteln. Den Betrieb des Elektrizitätswerkes wird die Stadt nach seiner Herstellung selbst übernehmen.

Mannheim. Eine unter den Schuhmachergehilfen drohende Lohnbewegung ist durch Vergleich beendigt worden. Es wurde ein Minimallohntarif vereinbart, der eine etwa 25prozentige Lohnerhöhung bedeutet. Die Arbeitszeit wurde auf elf Stunden normirt.

Mosbach. In dem Dörfchen Rütsch sind beim Baden in der Elz drei Kinder des dortigen Landwirths Boehrer ertrunken.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Metz. Der Kommandeur des Pionier-Bataillons Nr. 16, Major Brandt, und der vorübergehend zum Ulanen-Regiment Nr. 14 nach St. Avold abkommandirte Lieutenant Bruns von demselben Pionier-Bataillon hatten beide das Unglück, vom Pferde zu stürzen. Beide sind den Verletzungen, die sie dabei erlitten haben, erlegen.

A FAMOUS POISON CASE.

Anna Maria Zwanziger is a Name of Unpleasant Prominence in Crime.

SHE LIVED IN GERMANY.

Had a Reputation for Honesty and Probity Which Enabled Her to Secure Victims Very Easily.

Mental Constitution Peculiar—Had Passion for Poisoning—Her Crimes Only "Slight Errors"—Never Expressed Remorse or Repentance—Fortunate She was Discovered as She Could Not Control Passion.

In the so-called renaissance period of European civilization poison served many a purpose of political intrigue and personal vengeance. The demise of a victim was rarely followed by a judicial investigation save in instances where the ecclestiastical authorities found an opportunity to intervene.

In the early part of the nineteenth century there was a series of murders committed in Germany which have given to the name of Anna Maria Zwanziger an unpleasant prominence in the annals of crime. Anna Maria Zwanziger, or Anna Schouleben, as she called herself, was living in 1807 in Baireuth supporting herself by knitting. Her reputation for probity and her exemplary mode of life induced Justice Glaser, who was at that time separated from his wife, to take her as his housekeeper in 1808. In July of that year Glaser was reconciled to his wife, through the efforts, it seems, of Anna Schouleben, but within a month after the wife's return she was suddenly taken sick, though a strong and healthy woman, and died in a few days. Anna now left Glaser's service and went to live as housekeeper with Justice Grohmann. He was a sufferer from gout and was confined to his bed. In May, 1809 after an illness of eleven days, accompanied by strange symptoms, he died, and his housekeeper appeared inconsolable. Her good name and her skill as a nurse soon procured her another place, this time at Magistrate Gebhard's house, as nurse for his wife. Soon after her advent, Mme. Gebhard was seized with a violent illness and died in great agony. At different times within the next few months curious and suspicious symptoms—vomiting, spasms, etc.—visited several persons in the house, guests as well as members of the household.

Then a superstitious fear of the woman's unlucky presence, gradually deepening into distrust and suspicion, spread in the neighborhood, and Gebhard was induced to dismiss Anna from his service. He gave her, however, a written character for honesty and fidelity. But it was at her departure the strangest occurences were noticed. On the morning of that day, it was afterward remembered, she had exceeded the usual limits of her duties; she had filled the kitchen salt box from the barrel and had taken pains to make for the two maids some coffee, which they drank. Leaving the house with every sign of cheerfulness and affection, she took Gebhard's child in her arms as she said farewell and gave it a biscuit soaked in milk. Scarcely half an hour had elapsed since her departure when the child became alarmingly ill; in a few hours the maids were attacked in a similar way, and the kitchen salt box, with the barrel, proved, upon examination, to contain a quantity of arsenic. When she was apprehended shortly afterward a packet of arsenic was found in her pocket, and upon exhuming the bodies of Glaser, Grohmann and Gebhard distinct traces of arsenic were discovered in two of the three corpses. She was taken before a magistrate, and here the peculiar features of continental criminal procedure were strikingly brought out.

The circumstantial evidence of murder against her was in reality not strong. Now, the favorite German mode of obtaining results in criminal cases is by some means or other to extract a confession, and here, evidently, only a confession could furnish the necessary evidence. According to the most aproved methods, therefore, she was subjected to a long series of rigid examinations alone in the presence of the judge and a notary. All the cunning and adroitness of the judge were brought to bear, in order to entrap her into a confession, but for nearly six months, from October 19, 1809, until April 16, 1810, she absolutely denied every form of the charge against her. The fact that poison had been found in the two corpses was not announced to Anna Zwanziger until April 16. This produced the desired effect, for after two hours of stubborn composure, she broke down, wept, wrung her hands, and at length confessed to all the charges against her, and to several other murders that had passed for natural deaths. On September 11, 1811, she suffered death at the block, and her name is celebrated throughout Germany as the most infamous poisoner ever known.

There can be no doubt that her mental constitution was peculiar. She had a passion for poisoning and spoke of her deeds as only "slight errors" and "trifling offenses," never expressing any remorse or repentence. It was indeed fortunate for mankind, as she said, that she was to die, for she never could have ceased to poison.

A Deep Scheme

Together by our fire we sat,
Her hands were clasped in mine,
And in her musing face was that
Which spake a thought divine.

She turned a fearless glance to me
Which proved her trusting soul,
And then she breathed this subtlety,
"My dear, we're out of coal."

SHE HAD BEEN THERE.

Something of the Way She Had of Meeting Agents.

This man, who came up from the bottom of the ladder and now owns the majority of stock in a big piano factory, can afford to tell jokes on himself and enjoys them just as heartily as though some one else were the victim.

"I first began on organs," he relates, "on a very small scale and with a very small amount of capital. My first trip was to Michigan, and out in Van Buren county I had an experience. Walking from farm to farm, I met a jolly young fellow of whom I made inquiry as to where I would be most likely to make a sale. He seemed to be immensely tickled over something at the time, but I had no suspicion that I was mixed up in the reason for his mirth and hurried on to the house of a Scotch widow, where he said I would be sure to do business.

"Now, I had no way of knowing that the widow had been taken in by a professed organ seller who secured her name to a note that was represented as a contract, or that she was a sworn enemy to all traveling agents because of her loss. She was a big woman with a strong face and her eyes grew fierce as I stated my business.

"'Mon,' she exclaimed, 'did onybody see ye come in?'

"'No one,' I answered, in a puzzled way.

"'That's weel, for naebody will see ye gang oo.' Lassie, hand me the ax.'

"As the girl hurried in with the murderous weapon I found the lusty widow between me and the door, her face as solemn and determined as that of an executioner. I don't know what she would have done, but I do know that I took a header through an open window and struck out cross-lots for the depot."

Just What He Wanted.

One of the first men to reach San Francisco with a hoard of Klondike gold was an Irishman named Finnegan, who had been very poor before he struck it rich, and who, consequently was unfamiliar with many ordinary usages of a life of luxury.

"Oi say, yez kin bring me two dozen eyesters," he said, airily, as he took a seat in one of the finest restaurants in 'Frisco.

The oysters were soon set before him, and Finnegan, looking about him for something to put on them, and having knowing what the something should be, spied a bottle of Tabasco, and proceeded to season the bivalves not wisely but too well.

Impaling an oyster upon his fork, he thrust it into his mouth, then leaped to his feet with a terrific roar of pain, and began dancing about and yelling like a madman.

"See here!" cried the proprietor, rushing to the table, "keep still, or I'll put you out!"

"P-p-put me out, is it? Oi wish yez would put me out!" yelled Finnegan. "Me insides is blazin' loike a match-factory!"

Blissful Ignorance.

Bobby—I say, Miss Silverspoons, my sister Maud's going to marry your brother Dick; but don't say anything about it, because he doesn't know it himself yet.

A Great Regret.

"Well, Mrs. Jones," said the Good Lady as she let her eyes run over the room to see if she could identify anything; "I understand that your husband attended a revival meeting the other night and was so impressed by the error of his ways that he reformed?"

"That's right! assented the burglar's wife. "We've laid enough by to live on and Jim thought it best to stop!"

"I suppose, of course, that you're very happy over your husband's reformation?"

"No, I can't say that I am! I know I'm goin' to miss havin' him tell me all what the neighbors have in their houses!"

How He Won Her.

Tom—I'm surprised to hear of Dick's engagement to the wealthy Miss Antiquate. I was under the impression that she was a confirmed man-hater.

Jack—So she was, but Dick won her through diplomacy.

Tom—How so?

Jack—She asked him to order a bell for her bicycle and he told her that she didn't require one, as there was a belle on her wheel every time she rode it. After that he had everything his own way.

Circumstantial Evidence.

"Do you mean to say that my client was not strictly sober on the afternoon of the occurrence?" roared the lawyer for the defense.

"All I know is," answered the frightened witness, "that he put a nickel in a fire alarm box, turned the handle to the right, pulled the hook and called out the department. Then he wanted to make complaint against someone for running a fraudulent gambling device."

Refutation.

"What does that man mean by saying you made all your money out of politics?" exclaimed the indignant friend.

"I don't know," answered Senator Sorghum. "It ain't accurate, anyhow. It was in politics that I made my money."

WATSON DIDN'T SWEAR

One Time When He Badly Needed Assistance and Got It.

HE IS NOT A "CUSSER."

Says Hard Language Affords a Vent For Wrath Which is Better than Breaking Heads.

Bos'n's Mate Fuller the Champion Profane Man of Uncle Sam's Navy—With an Artistic Vocabulary Which Excited the Wonder of All Within Hearing Distance—Tackled a Jammed Cartridge.

John Crittenden Watson does not belong to the list of "cussing officers," yet as a man-o'-war skipper he never had a man of his ship's company aft for swearing. He was singularly indulgent of the hard swearers forward.

"Hard language helps a man along occasionally," he has been known to say to one of his deck officers upon overhearing a stream of maledictions from the lips of some old flat foot working at a stubborn job forward, "and it is better for the men to work off their wrath over fouled anchor chains in cuss words than to take it out of each other's hides."

Aboard one of the ships under Watson's command there was an old bos'n's mate named Fuller, who had the call throughout the whole navy as the champion profane man of the government's line of packets. Fuller never raised his voice when he swore. He would simply stand back and quietly regard the inanimate object of his wrath—a bent belaying pin perhaps or a slack ridge rope—and then he would open up in an ordinary conversational tone. But the utterances he gave vent to were sulphurous. It always took Fuller a good five minutes to work off what he considered the necessary number of remarks on such occasions, and it always seemed, when he was through that he had quite exhausted his whole vocabulary of profanity. But this was a mistake. The very next time anything went wrong with a bit of Fuller's gear he would start in on a new line that would contain absolutely not a single repetition of any of his previous performances. It was always a source of wonder to Fuller's shipmates, even the old timers, where he picked up the new ones, all of which were of startling originality and force.

These shipmates related only one instance in which he found himself at a loss for words. He was with a landing party from his ship, marching on the outskirts of Chemulpo, Korea. He stubbed his toe on a loose boulder in the road and fell on his face in the dust. He picked himself up and looked at the road. He opened his mouth to say something, but he had no words. He was dumb with wrath. Two or three times he attempted to begin, but it was no go. He was struck for once, so he pulled out a pistol and deliberately fired it into the air five times. He had to express his feelings in some way.

When Fuller was serving aboard Watson's ship, he was in good shape, and his frequent quiet outbursts kept the forward part of the ship keyed up with wonder as to what was coming next. One morning at big gun drill Captain Watson himself was superintending the exercise. One of the wooden cartridges became jammed in the breach of the 6 inch rifle to which he was devoting most of his attention. He wouldn't permit any of the gunner's mates around him to attempt to loosen the cartridge, but essayed the job himself. He tugged at the jammed cartridge and broke his finger nails over it, and still it wouldn't come out. It was a pretty hot morning on deck, and the perspiration began to roll off his face in streams, but he persisted in trying to loosen the stuck cartridge. He looked as if he would like to say a heap were he a swearing man, but he wasn't a swearing man. When he had been working for five minutes over the jammed cartridge with no success, he looked pretty helpless and miserable. He gave one final tug, but the stuck cartridge remained in the gun's breach. The skipper gathered himself together, mopped his forehead and looked at the gun.

"Confound it all," he broke out, "where's Fuller? Send me Fuller, somebody."

Fuller was on hand directly. He wasn't a gunner's mate, and he had nothing to do with the guns, but Watson wanted Fuller to tackle the jammed cartridge all the same.

"Fuller," said Watson, "try and get that dummy out of that gun."

Fuller looked at the stuck cartridge, and Watson retreated to the starboard side of the quarter deck. Fuller made two or three claws at the wooden cartridge, but it wouldn't come out. A gunner's mate could have got it out in a jiffy, but Fuller wasn't in that line of the service. He tugged away, but it was no go. Watson stood regarding the horizon on the starboard side of the quarter deck. Fuller spat on his hands and made one more try. The dummy didn't move a tenth of an inch. Then Fuller mopped his forehead with his neckerchief, clapped his cap on the back of his head, and opened up. It was great work, this performance of Fuller's, and no mistake. He eclipsed all of his former efforts. He stood with his hands on his sides, looking at the gun breech and saying things at it that no Morgan or Kidd or Teach or other heaven defying pirate could ever have equaled. The men stood around, just looking at Fuller in open mouthed amazement. They couldn't make out where he got them all. They were all in English, but the combinations were weird. The peroration was frightful, although delivered in the mildest tone imaginable.

When Fuller finished, he mopped his forehead with his neckerchief again and walked over to his commanding officer, who was looking over the starboard rail, apparently thinking deeply. Fuller saluted.

"It's stuck proper, sir," said Fuller. "I can't get it adrift."

"Well," said Watson. "I didn't think you could, Fuller, but I needed you. Thanks. You did very well. Go forward."

CYCLING COMMENT.

The twenty-five-mile road race on July 4th over the Elizabeth-Rahway course promises to be an event of considerable importance, and to attract a large field of entries. The road is in first-class condition, and with the exception of one small grade the course is practically level. The start will be made at 11 o'clock, in front of Astfalk's roadhouse, in the middle of the course, and the contestants will ride three times to Rahway and twice to Elizabeth, finishing at the point from which they started.

For the convenience of those wishing to train on the course two large barns have been secured at Astfalk's, and on the day of the race there will also be a large tent erected. Although the entry blanks have just been received from the printer, a number of entries have already been made, among them being that of Hauser, who won the time prize on Memorial Day, and who will ride from scratch. John C. Wetmore will be the handicapper. Among the prizes offered are a thirty-four pound racing tandem for the fastest time, seventeen pound racing single for second fastest, and road wheel for the third. Among the other prizes will be eight other wheels, a sewing machine, camera, watches, bicycle tires, lamps, etc. Full information and entry blanks may be obtained from the White & Blake Cycle Company, at Elizabeth.

TENNIS.

The most interesting match in the New Jersey State championship lawn tennis tournament yesterday afternoon at Orange, resulted in the defeat of F. B. Alexander, the Princeton College player, by George H. Miles, of the Orange L. T. C. In the second round Alexander beat Griffin a one-sided match. He then met Miles in the semi-finals and made a strong showing, winning the second set by superb fore-hand driving. Miles won out, however, and this places him in the finals. The match between Paret and R. M. Miles was long drawn out, there being little net play, as both men confined themselves to long, hard drives. Darkness prevented this match from being finished, and it will be played over again today. W. A. Larned and his brother Edward practised for the doubles, which will begin today.

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION.

Plans for the New Organization to Be Formed This Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 14—The active members of the New Jersey bar are greatly interested in the formation of the new bar association, which will be effected at Atlantic City next Friday and Saturday.

There will be at Atlantic City a delegation from eighteen out of twenty-one counties. So far as is known, there is no definite line of action decided on. All lawyers in good standing will be allowed to participate in the discussion.

It is expected that there will be an extended discussion on the question whether the Dunn Five Counsellor act shall be repealed and rule formulated to control the admission of young lawyers. Notwithstanding the large number of lawyers who have been admitted under the Dunn act, there is a strong feeling for a change in the law.

The new association will give much attention to the question of ethics, and they propose to make life unpleasant for lawyers who go through the profession carelessly or crookedly. Provision will be made to bring irregular lawyers to justice.

NEW BRUNSWICK MASONS.

Will Trebly Celebrate the Conversion of Church Into Lodge Room.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, June 14—The local Masonic lodges have arranged three celebrations in honor of the opening of their new temple on Remsen avenue. This temple was formerly the Remsen Avenue Baptist church, but has now been fitted up as a Masonic lodge room, and is one of the finest of its kind in the State.

The first event will be held Wednesday night, June 21st, when the two blue lodges, Union and Palestine, will celebrate. On the following Friday night Scott and Oliver Chapters will entertain, and Wednesday, June 28th, the Commandery will have its celebration. The complete programme has not been arranged, but will be known in a few days.

CENSUS SUPERVISORS.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, June 14—The list of the census supervisors for New Jersey has been handed in by Director Merriam. It is as follows:

For the First Census District, John H. Weatsell, of 151 Monticello street, Jersey City; for the Second District, Samuel A. Smith, of 8 Broad street, Newark; for the Third District, Jas. M. Denton, of Paterson; for the Fourth District, Chas. S. Tunis, of Imlaystown; for the Fifth District, Gen. Wm. F. James, of Riverton; and for the Sixth District, John Blowe, of Camden.

To Restore an Old Cemetery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 14—The trustees of the Presbyterian church have ordered Civil Engineer F. B. Ham, of Cranford, to survey the old historical Presbyterian graveyard, to make a map of it and if possible locate all graves and make a record to be preserved. Few bodies have been interred here since the establishment of Fairview Cemetery at this place twenty-two years ago. The gravestones and monuments are crumbling and falling down.

PERFORM FOR BABY CAMP.

"Daughters of Liberty" to be Presented in Aid of the Worthy Charity.

The young folks of Washington Park, feeling encouraged by their recent dramatic success, have decided to repeat the performance of "The Daughters of Liberty," the proceeds from admission to be devoted to the Babies' Camp Fund. The date set for the play will be Wednesday afternoon, June 21st. W. L. Saunders' barn will be used to give the performance. The play will be given with all the pleasant features which characterized its first production. The object for which the play is given is so worthy that there should be a large attendance. As the capacity of the building is somewhat limited the tickets will not number above a hundred. Secure your tickets early.

The articles of incorporation provide that a majority of the board of trustees shall be Baptists.

Not a Happy Lot.

Difficulties of the civil service examination are multiplied tenfold in the requirements set down by law of applicants for positions in the mail service of China.

In the first place an applicant must have strength and courage. To acquire these he goes through a very queer method of training. He wanders through mountains and valleys, forests and caves. The exact time to be occupied by the trip is fixed by law and a heavy fine is imposed for unnecessary delay. He must repeat these trips at night, and if he listens to the bad spirit and thereby fails to appear at the required time at a certain place he is sure to lose his rights to a position.

This is not all. He is obliged to carry an enormous weight for many miles and return with it within a given time. No allowance is made for his inability to defend himself against thieves and highwaymen, his road usually leading through a district thick with bandits.

In training the candidates eats very little—though he is used to this—and he tries every straining exercise. Then comes his real examination, under the direction of government officials. He is taken into a long room where, suspended from a high beam with strong ropes are very heavy sacks filled with rocks.

The candidates must give a swinging motion to all these sacks and then run to and fro between them, carefully guarding against a blow by one of the heavy weights.

Used Roses.

A man and his two sisters were recently made the victim of a thief whose weapons were only roses. They were seated in a railway car traveling through Germany when at one of the stops an elegantly dressed, thickly veiled woman entered the carriage, carrying a superb bouquet of roses. When the train started, the stranger dropped her roses. He picked them up for her, and, thanking him charmingly, she asked him to keep one. Then turning to his companions, she graciously offered each of them a few of the flowers. Naturally the courtesy was accepted, and the next thing of which the travelers were conscious was that the train had arrived at Berlin; that their veiled companion had disappeared, and that all of their money and valuables had gone with her. Of course, the roses had been drugged.

The police have discovered that the criminal is a young man, and that he has conducted a number of daring robberies in similar fashion. One must admit that it is the refinement of robbery, and, if one must be robbed at all, the rose method is preferable to sandbagging or garroting.

Ants Made Useful.

It is known that the body of any small animal or bird, if left near an ant hill, will be quickly picked clean of flesh. It has lately been demonstrated that ants can thus be made useful in the preparation of skeletons as scientific specimens. Prof. Bernard has been employing the insects as his servants. While in Florida he had a fox thus skeletonized in a single day, and the work was performed more satisfactory than is could have been done by chemical agencies or human hands.

RUSH ON AT THE SHORE.

SEASON IN FULL BLAST AT ASBURY PARK NOW.

Multitudes of Attractions in Vogue to Entertain the Visitors Who Seek Pleasure by the Sad Sea Waves.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, June 14—The hot weather which the hotel and boarding-house proprietors had been praying for has arrived, and in such large quantities as to raise their hopes and cause them to look forward to crowded rooms and busy corridors. Kind providence has done more to open an early season than all the other forces combined. The spring business was not up to expectations, and now that hot weather has arrived in earnest, the hotel people hope to recoup their losses.

The number of summer cottagers and hotel guests is larger now than has ever been known before at this time of year. Instead of dark hotel porches and bare benches along the ocean front, there is activity and good-sized crowds.

Founder Bradley is busy from early till late looking after his interests Of course the beach is the busiest place. The warm weather did not catch him unaware. Superintendent Snedeker soon had the boxes of bathing suits, towels and other supplies unpacked, and yesterday the Asbury bathing grounds were open and doing a good business. The life guards are on duty and several attendants are kept busy in the office renting houses and supplying information to applicants. During the past year the beach in many places has made up considerably and the bathing grounds are even better than they were last season.

The beach band has been contracted for and will begin its season's engagement next week. The music this year will be furnished by Harry Lambiase, who, for several years, led the band in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia.

The miniature railway on Atlantic Square, which proved such a big attraction last year, will be in full operation next week. The tracks are already laid and the locomotive will be here tomorrow. Founder Bradley's boardwalk aquarium and menagerie was in a state of depletion until late yesterday afternoon, when a monster turtle, weighing nearly 1,000 pounds, was bought by the founder and placed on exhibition. The turtle was caught in a net off Elberon and sold immediately to Mr. Bradley, who gave the lucky fishermen a good price for their catch. Mr. Turtle occupies the tank on the fishing pier formerly used by the sea lion Jubilee. The seal died late last summer.

It will only be a few days more before the roller toboggan, Moorish Maze, Electrical Casino, marionettes and the other amusements will be open for business.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. G. R. Vanderhoef, of West Front street, is visiting friends in New York city.

Miss Crowthers, a teacher in the Borough Public High School, was the guest of Bound Brook friends yesterday.

Chauncey F., the young son of Elmer E. Runyon, of Madison avenue, is critically ill with septic peritonitis, the resultant of appendicitis in a severe form. A consultation of physicians was held last night. Dr. Bull, a noted specialist of New York, was called in on the case yesterday.

Killed in The Philippines?

Jack Swick, of this city, is reported to have been among those killed in a recent engagement in the Philippines. Young Swick was formerly attached to the Third New Jersey Volunteers, but when that regiment was mustered out after the Spanish-American War, he joined the regulars and was sent to the scene of hostilities in the Philippine Islands. His parents live on Berckman street, near Second street.

Call Men Practiced.

Last evening the call men assigned to No. 3 hose wagon in the West End, went out for practice at the corner of Second street and Grant avenue. The men worked together in a commendable manner and gave evidence that they know a thing or two about handling fire apparatus. After drill the men had a spread which was an enjoyable feature of the affair.

To be Sent to Reform School.

In order to get her committed to the Reform School, Judge Runyon was this morning compelled to send Susan Barber, thirteen years, old to the county jail. From there she will be brought before Judge Vail and then committed to the Reform School. The girl seems incorrigible.

FELL WITH BABE IN ARMS.

Serious Accident to Mrs. Vreeland as a Result of a Bad Sidewalk.

Mrs. Vreeland, of Watchung avenue, and her one-year-old daughter, met with a serious accident Monday while walking along Manning avenue in front of Justice David Smalley's house. There is a very poor board walk in front of this property and Mrs. Vreeland, who was carrying her child, stumbled and fell with much force to the ground. The child's legs were sprained quite badly, and as Mrs. Vreeland is in a delicate condition, she suffered severely from strains. Her sister, Mrs. Haley, was with her. However, Mrs. Vreeland and the child are both doing well.

There are one or two very bad walks on Manning avenue, and the borough authorities should see to it at once that the right kind of walks are laid in their place.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WALZ.

Remains Arrived From Switzerland This Morning.

The remains of the late Mrs. Frederick H. Walz, of LaGrande avenue, who died suddenly while visiting Switzerland several weeks ago, arrived in New York today on the North German S. S. Kaiser Freidrich.

The remains will be brought to this city for interment in Hillside cemetery. The services at the grave will be very quiet. Rev. W. R. Richards will officiate.

The mourners will not remain in town, but will leave immediately for a quiet place where it is hoped that the health of Mr. Walz will be recuperated. The death of his wife has been a great shock to him.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

RAILROAD FARES ARE NOT CHEAP ENOUGH.

President Lounsbury on Needs of the City.

LEHIGH IS A BIG FACTOR.

THAT ROAD IS ANXIOUS TO GET INTO PLAINFIELD.

The President of the Board of Trade Discusses the Situation in an Interesting Manner—Present Rates of the Central He Considers Too High to Bring People Here to Reside Permanently.

Fred. C. Lounsbury, president of the Board of Trade, contributed the the following article to the Saturday Tribune of last week:

Plainfield must grow—must expand. Its situation is favorable. It has natural advantages which make for growth, and with proper care its growth will be vigorous, profitable and permanent. Obstacles must be met and overcome, and conditions already favorable rendered more favorable. In this letter I will mention one of the obstacles, and how, in a measure, it can be overcome.

When a business man moves his family to a suburban town he and his family leave relatives and friends, and an interchange of visits is sure to follow, but the frequency with which these visits can be made depends, in the great majority of cases, upon the expense involved. Low commutation rates solve the problem only so far as the head of the house is concerned. His family do not want to remain always at home, and when the wife begins to realize the expense involved in little trips to shop or visit "the folks," when the husband figures up the cost of taking two or three or more members of his family to a place of amusement in New York or the beach, etc., silent influences begin to work, which in many cases finally compels the family to again take up their residence in the city, while the same facts, realized in advance, prevent large numbers from ever making the effort to enjoy a suburban home.

The natural result is that the railroad fares cut a most important figure in the building up of Plainfield or any other suburb. We are told that fares from New York are just as low as on any other road leading out of that city, and this is true; but it is not a sufficient answer. The fare today is the same as it was fifteen or twenty years ago, and the amount of travel has increased enormously in spite of this. But today different elements are at work. The trolley car has made its bow, and is fast covering the country with cheap transportation for passengers. Today one can ride from the Battery in New York to New Rochelle, opposite Glen Island, for 8 cents, or from the New York side of the Brooklyn Bridge to Coney Island for 5 cents, and these are not isolated cases showing the cheapness of travel at the present day.

It is unreasonable for the railroad companies to demand, in face of the existing conditions, the same fares asked twenty years ago. Fares must be reduced all along the line, not only on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, but on every road leading out of New York which does a business carrying suburbanites. The break in prices is sure to come in the near future, and that company which has the foresight and courage to first adopt a new and liberal schedule will reap the reward which is sure to follow such a policy, as more people than ever before are anxious to leave the metropolis, but are held back on account of the high railroad fares.

Plainfield is unfortuate in having but one railroad to rely upon. While we admit that it is of the best, still the element of competition is missing, and any effort which will result in securing that element will be certain to prove beneficial to the city, and should have the hearty and united support of all business men and citizens generally. The accomplishment of such a purpose is nearer than is generally realized; and it is in the building of what is known as the Arlington avenue extension of the Plainfield Street Railway, extending to South Plainfield, which the Board of Trade is endeavoring, by such means as lay in its power, to hasten.

We fear that the people of Plainfield do not realize just what the building of this line means to our city. It means the opening up for building purposes of a beautiful section now practically out of the market; it means convenient access to our popular Hillside cemetery, and also to the golf links, but beyond all this, and of vastly more importance, it means the connection of the city of Plainfield with the Le-

MUSIC AT GOLF LINKS.

DELIGHTFUL LOCAL AFFAIR OF THE HILLSIDE CLUB.

The Event Given to Raise Funds to Furnish the Large Room at the Clubhouse—Under Charge of the Ladies.

The handsome house of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was thronged yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 to 7 o'clock when a delightful musicale was given for the benefit of the club. The oppressive heat experienced here in the city was scarcely felt on the hill, and the cool breeze was a welcome feature of the affair. Miss Maud VanBoskerck arranged the musicale which was given for the purpose of raising money to furnish the large room at the clubhouse. During the appointed hours there were over one hundred guests present, and $115 was taken in, of which amount $100 will be profit.

The clubhouse was attractively decorated with choice flowers.

During the afternoon a musical programme of unusual merit was presented, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. William L. Saunders, Miss Schroeder and Mrs. E. T. Douglass. There was also piano solos by Mrs. Harry Johnson, Mrs. A. H. Atterbury, a piano duet by Miss Marion Dumont and Miss Bessie Ginna, and a selection by the Misses Hyatt on the violin and piano. The vocal soloists were accompanied by Miss Hyatt on the violin.

The table where tea and cake was served was in charge of Mrs. Palmer Smith, Mrs. Chas. Freeman and Mrs. George Freeman, while Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman and Mrs. Daniel Ginna were in charge of the serving of lemonade.

There was a candy table where toothsome sweets were sold by the Misses Holly, while Miss Fanny Cox and Miss Ethel VanBoskerck had in charge the sale of boutoniers.

A RECEPTION TO PUPILS.

EXERCISES INCIDENT TO CLOSING OF MISSES DAYS' SCHOOL.

Entertaining Programme of Recitations and Music Rendered With Pleasing and Simple Grace by the Pupils.

A reception was given yesterday morning by the pupils of the Misses Day, of Mercer avenue, where a short programme of recitations and music was rendered with such simple grace, evident enjoyment and childish skill that the audience had only praise for the children and appreciation of the teachers' careful training. Misses Madeline Howard and Dorothy Douglass recited selections in French, and Misses Margaret Townsend, Elizabeth McGee, Dorothy Douglass, Madeline Howard and Gladys Peck recited selections from Longfellow's Hiawatha, where the memorizing, command of Indian names, intelligent expression and enthusiastic spirit were quite remarkable for such youthful entertainers. The piano solos by Elizabeth McGee, Gladys Peck and Margaret Townsend gave evidence of careful training in a good method.

Misses Madeline Reid and Marion Dwight were excused from their parts because of recent illness.

An interesting feature of the entertainment was the exhibit of art work. Under the instruction of Miss French, of Somerset street, the small sized pupils had done excellent work, drawing always from life and nature.

RUN DOWN BY A WOMAN.

A J. Leader the Victim of Another Bicycle Accident, in Which He Was Hurt.

A. J. Leader, of Duer street, is the owner of two bicycles, one he uses common, a '96 Victor, and the new one he is very choice of. Recently he has been riding his Victor, but for the next few days he will either walk or ride his new wheel, as last evening he was the victim of another accident.

He has had many accidents in his time, and if you ask about them he will frankly confess that he has had all kinds and styles during the past three years, but last evening he was run down by a woman on the corner of Second street and Madison avenue and the front wheel of his bicycle badly damaged and he himself thrown from his wheel and slightly injured.

The woman never stopped to inquire how badly he or his wheel was injured, but drove on and he therefore does not know who she is. Generally speaking, Mr. Leader is at fault when he has an accident, and gracefully admits it, but the one last evening was clearly the fault of the woman, as she insisted on crowding him between the curb and her wagon as they met at the corner, and the fair woman was on the wrong side of the street, besides.

Mrs. Adams, of Netherwood, will leave soon for a stay at Asbury Park.

PLANNING FOR THE BIG CELEBRATION.

Committee Met and Considered the Details.

ARNOLD TO HANDLE CASH.

PARADE COMMITTEE WILL HAVE SOLE AUTHORITY FOR LINE OF MARCH.

It is Expected That Each Organization or Individual That Puts a Float in the Parade Will Have to Pay the Expense of It—Committee to Meet Every Tuesday Evening Till the Celebration is Held.

Sixteen organizations were represented at last night's meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee. William Newcorn, chairman of the committee, presided. In the absence of Robert M. Clark, the secretary, H. G. Adams was appointed temporary secretary.

After the call of delegates the chairman said that in the appointment of the different committees he had selected men who he had every reason to believe were fully competent to fill the positions assigned to them and he trusted that every member of each committee would put his shoulder to the wheel and do his utmost to make the proposed celebration a grand success.

The chairman then said that as there had not been a treasurer appointed he thought it quite essential that one should be named at once. At the last celebration William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, had filled that position very acceptably and he would suggest to the meeting that Mr. Arnold be again asked to officiate in that capacity. He said that Mr. Arnold had been approached in regard to the matter and that he had signified his willingness to accept the trust if it were offered him. Upon motion it was unanimously moved to designate Mr. Arnold as the treasurer of the committee.

M. G. Fielding, from the Saengerbund Society, said that his organization had authorized him to state that it would pay all the expense for the floats that they proposed to have in the parade as well as for a drum corps. The chairman stated that all organizations were expected to stand their own expenses as regards the floats.

William G. Smith, chairman of the parade committee, asked as to the line of march—whether the committee had full power in the matter. He said that he did not like to assume so much authority; that there might be dissatisfaction, and he would prefer to have the opinion of the members of the general committee on the matter. He was given to understand that his committee had full power and what they did in the premises would be entirely satisfactory to all concerned. The chair informed Mr. Smith that all organizations intending to parade must notify the parade committee as soon as possible, which would give the committee some ides of the number of men that would be in line and it could then be governed accordingly.

Chairman Newcorn stated that the executive committee had power to look after the music, transportation, etc. Upon motion of Samuel Robinson, it was decided that regular meetings of the general committees be held each Tuesday evening, until the day of the celebration, at Red Men's Hall. The members of the printing committee were requested to meet tomorrow evening in the office of William Newcorn at 8 o'clock.

The meeting then adjourned to next Tuesday evening at the same time and place. The executive and finance committees later held a meeting and perfected plans for making the proposed celebration a grand success.

Train Struck Trunk

Yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock a westbound coal train picked up a trunk at the North Avenue station and twisted it all out of shape. A tub of butter was standing on the trunk and this was greatly damaged by the shakeup. The trunk was standing rather close to the track, but it is presumed that the engineer was sure he could pass without striking it. After the accident occurred the engineer stopped his train long enough to get the trunk out of the way.

FAIR SEX TO TAKE LEAD.

FRUHLINGS FEST WILL BE AN ATTRACTIVE EVENT.

To be Given at the Church of Heavenly Rest—Everything Will be Designed for Pleasing Affect to Sight

If Saturday should be a propitious day the Church of the Heavenly Rest will once more score a success for an excellent entertainment. The parish house has been a busy place for the last few days with the preparation necessary for a fair, and judging from the looks of things a very pretty effect will please the eye of the most fastidious. Booths of rustic work, bunting and flags of all conceivable tints and hues, Japanese lanterns by the score, pretty nic-nacs for wear and ornament, music from 3 to 10 o'clock by an orchestra of four pieces, all to be under the supervision of some of Plainfield's most attractive young ladies, will certainly repay the visitor for the trouble taken.

The flower and candy booth will be presided over by Miss Mary E. Wilson and Miss Alice Barlow, assisted by five scholars. The decorations will be lavender and white. The cake booth will be all white, tastefully decorated with honeysuckles and candelabra, and will be graced by Mrs. W. E. Albertson, Miss Florence Williams and her sister, Miss Brown, of Morristown. At the fancy work booth, all rustic and decorated in green and white, may be found Miss Alice Gilbert, Miss Helen Phillips and Miss Frances Phillips, assisted by eight scholars. The Japanese booth is certainly a work of art, all in brilliant, glowing red, with lanterns, fans and tiny flags, cups and saucers, etc. Mrs. Francis Gregory Moore, assisted by Miss Maria B. Morgan, Miss Florence Morrison and Miss Sophie Sauma, will be in charge.

Then the grocery department, all pink and white, with its miniature appearance of a modern grocery, will be under the direction of Miss Embury and Miss Martine.

The lemonade booth, or rather a well, will be in charge of Mrs. VanAlstyne and Miss Currie, assisted by Miss Arnold, Miss Leivers and Miss Marjorie Burke. And last, but not least, will be the ice cream booth, presided over by the superintendent of the school, Miss Alice Scudder Brown, and Miss Frances Vaughan.

Those who visit the Fruhlings Fest will be able to judge of the excellence of the work done at the Industrial School, and will, no doubt, be well repaid for attending.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

Washingtonville Public School Pupils Through With Their Studies.

The closing exercises of the Washingtonville Public School were held last evening. There was an opening chorus by the school, after which Albert Perra gave an address of welcome. A concert recitation by the school entitled "The Wish of the Chicken," preceded a recitation, "The Boy Hero," by Mary Troiano, after which a wreath drill was given by the school, also a song entitled "Vacation." "What Allied the Pudding," was the title of a recitation given by Addie Wyckoff, and Kitte Finger gave one entitled "Guilty or Not Guilty." The school then sang "Flags of Our Country," after which a "Mother Goose" play was given by the school.

"Our Heroes," was a recitation given by Willie Demler, and this was followed by a dialogue by the school entitled "Going Tomorrow." Elmor Acker recited "Something about the Philippines," and Edward Spicer recited "Good-bye." "Entertaining Sister's Beau" was an amusing recitation by Clara Wersing. The other two numbers on the programme were a song and chorus "The Owl and Pussy Cat," and a Katydid song by the school.

The exercises were held in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, and the decorations of flowers was very pretty. It was expected that Rev. C. E. Herring, of this city, would make an address, but he was detained and could not be present.

To be Presented in the Evening.

"The Daughters of Liberty," a juvenile play recently given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Washington Park, will be repeated on the evening of Wednesday, June 21st, for the benefit of the Baby Camp Fund. It will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening in Mr. Saunders' barn, and an admission of 25 cents will be charged.

WITH A RING THEY PLIGHTED THEIR TROTH

Robert M. Clark Takes a Bride in Brooklyn.

WEDDING WAS A QUIET ONE.

MARRIED LAST EVENING AT THE CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER.

The Happy Wife is Miss Lillian M. Dundon, an Accomplished and Popular Young Society Belle of the City of Churches—The Groom is a Prominent Young Lawyer of North Plainfield—Many Beautiful Gifts.

Robert Martin Clark, son of Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough, and Miss Lillian M. Dundon, of Brooklyn, were married at 8:15 o'clock last evening by Rev. Dr. Smythe, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, of Brooklyn.

The ceremony was performed at the rectory in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and a few friends.

The beautiful Episcopalian service was used and the happy couple plighted their troth with a wedding ring. The bride was attended by Miss Stella L. Dundon, her sister, and Miss Alice Nelson, of Bridgeport, Conn., who were the bridemaids. Edward O. Clark and Albert C. Clark, brothers of the groom, filled the function of best men. The bride was given away by her father.

The bride, who was of the blonde type, presented a charming appearance in a gown of white taffeta silk, profusely trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of jack roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the residence of the bride's parents at 656 Carroll street, where a reception was held. The house was beautifully and tastefully decorated with choice flowers and potted plants while an orchestra enlivened the occasion during the evening.

Many beautiful and costly gifts were received from friends and relatives in this city and elsewhere, among them being a silver tea service from the bride's uncle, Thomas Dundon, of Bridgeport, Conn., and cut-glass pieces from Richard Dundon, another uncle, of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark left this morning for a trip to Portland, Me. Upon their return they will reside with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., at 59 Jackson avenue. Mr. Clark's bride is the eldest daughter of John Dundon, a well-known citizen of Brooklyn. She is a lady of much culture and is highly esteemed by a large circle of friends in her native city.

The many friends of Mr. Clark in Plainfield will all unite in extending congratulations upon the auspicious occasion.

Thief Who Wants Perfume.

Bowley's drug store appears to have a particular attraction for shop-lifters of late. Last week a small bank, used for collections for the Babies' Camp, mysteriously disappeared from a conspicuous place near the cashier's desk. Since then a large bottle of choice perfumery has also disappeared from the store. These kleptomaniacs, as they are sometimes erroneously named, are the pest of the merchant and are the source from which arise much of the troubles that beset his otherwise flowery pathway.

Death of William Harris.

William W. Harris died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Amanda Klein, 334 East Second street last evening, aged 66 years. The funeral will be held from his daughters' residence tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The members of the Carpenter's Union and Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red Men and relatives and friends of the family are invited.

"JACK" SWICK'S DEATH.

HIS FATHER DOES NOT BELIEVE THAT HE HAS BEEN KILLED.

Was of a Restless Disposition and Said He Wished to See the World So He Joined the Regulars and Went to Manila.

Joseph Swick, father of Arthur Johnson Swick, who is familiarly known as "Jack," does not credit the report that his son has been killed in the Philippines. "Jack" is the eldest child. There are three children—Willard and Florence being the names of the others. The present Mrs. Swick is the second wife. She told a Press reporter yeeterday that "Jack" was considered a wild boy. He has not been satisfied with his home for some time; at least not since his father took a second wife.

Some years ago the boy left home because of some imaginary trouble he had with his stepmother, and he was gone nearly four years. When the war with Spain broke out "Jack" enlisted in the Third New Jersey Regiment. When the regiment was mustered out the young soldier returned to Plainfield and was warmly welcome at home. His parents were always very kind to him and did everything to make his stay pleasant.

But the boy, always of a restless disposition, decided to see something of the world and he enlisted in the regulars and was sent immediately to Manila. Several letters have been received from the young man since he left home, most of them, however, having been written to his old chums in this city. Mr. Swick does not appear to be much concerned over the reports about his son. He thinks that if the report was true he would receive official notification of his son's death. Joseph Swick, father of the young man, is employed in the carpet works, and resides at 137 Berckman street.

MORE RIVER POLLUTION.

RAHWAY DRINKS WATER WHICH IS BLACK WITH DYE STUFF.

Cranford Board of Health Aroused Over the Condition, Which is Due to the Hat Mills in Orange Valley.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 15.—At a meeting of the Cranford Board of Health, Tuesday evening, Chairman J. H. Crommell reported that he had made a tour of investigation for sources of the pollution of the Rahway river at this place, and had found that the stream above Millburn was soiled by dye stuffs discharged into the river.

The Rahway river at this place is known as the Cranford river, and is one of the beauties of the town. The finest residences are located along this stream, and for many years past the pretty water carnivals at this place have been held on this river. For some time past the Cranford Board of Health has had the matter of the pollution of the river under discussion together with the Township Committee, the Rahway officials and the State Board of Health.

The people of Rahway drink the same water which passes through this place, and which here has a deep black color on account of the dye stuffs, analine and potash, which is emptied into the river by the mills and other factories at Orange Valley.

The Cranford Board of Health is preparing to start an energetic fight to have the river pollution stopped.

DIED AT THE RETREAT.

Judge Charles F. Newton, of Woodbridge, was a Patient of Dr. Cooley.

The death of Judge Charles F. Newton, aged about seventy-four years, occurred this morning at Brookside Retreat, where he was taken about ten days ago a very sick man. He seemed to be generally broken down in health, and his relatives thought possible that a change would be beneficial, but he soon began to fail and rapidly grew worse.

The Judge was a resident of Woodbridge, and he is survived by a wife, and a son who lives in California. He also has a nephew residing in New York. Undertaker DeMott has the body in charge and the nephew will arrive in the city this afternoon and arrange for having it moved to Woodbridge where the funeral services will be held.

A Lodge Celebration.

Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, celebrated their one hundredth meeting and flag day last evening in their rooms in Sons of Temperance hall. The features of the evening was a musical and literary entertainment followed by refreshments to which the Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red men were invited to participate and enjoy the hospitality of the daughters.

CORIELL HELD FOR U. S. GRAND JURY.

Former Postmaster Must Answer Charge of Embezzlement.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

MONEY REFUNDED, BUT COMMISSIONER JONES HOLDS HIM.

Department Inspector Testified That a Deficiency of $348 Was Made Good in March, but a Further Discrepancy of $535 Was Found Last Month—Coriell's Lawyer Made Sharp Defense.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 15. — Charles A. Coriell, who is charged with the embezzlement of Government funds while Postmaster at Dunellen, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Jones yesterday for a hearing, and was remanded under $1,000 bail to await the action of the Federal Grand Jury.

Coriell was represented by former State Senator Robert Adrain, and United States District-Attorney J. Kearny Rice appeared for the Government.

Coriell is charged with having appropriated $535 of the money order account of the Dunellen postoffice. The only witness called was Postoffice Inspector Benjamin R. Shupp, who made the complaint before Commissioner Jones nearly a month ago. Mr. Shupp testified to having made an inspection of the accounts of the office on March 9th of this year, and finding a shortage of $348 in the money order department. The amount was refunded by Mr. Coriell himself. On May 1st a balance of $588.96 was due the Government, which, however, was partially covered by a reserve of $75.

Under order of the auditor of the Postoffice Department, Mr. Shupp made an examination of the accounts of Postmaster Coriell on May 4th and 5th and discovered a deficit of $535. Coriell, he said, was unable to make it up, and, after consultation with the four sureties of the postmaster, a note of Coriell's to cover the shortage was indorsed by one of the sureties and was discounted at the Bound Brook Bank. This money, the inspector said, had been handed to him by Abner S. Coriell, a brother of the postmaster, and had been deposited to the credit of the Government.

"Was Coriell asked what had become of the money?" Mr. Rice questioned.

"Yes," Inspector Shupp replied, "and he explained that he had lost $250 on a contract and had taken up individual notes to the amount of $450."

Mr. Shupp went on to say that he reported the deficiency and its subsequent liquidation to the department at Washington, and after consultation with Assistant United States District-Attorney Warren Dixon, had lodged a criminal complaint against Coriell, in the meantime having placed one of the sureties in charge of the Dunellen postoffice.

"Did you advise with Mr. Dixon," asked Mr. Adrain, "as to the propriety or legality of preferring criminal charges against Coriell?"

"As is the practice in such cases," Mr. Shupp explained in reply, "I advised with him as to the facts in the case, and the advisability of prosecution."

Mr. Adrain asked the inspector why he did not institute criminal proceedings when he found the shortage in March, but did when there was another deficiency in May. The money which was refunded for the later shortage was actually the money of Coriell, the lawyer held, for it was the proceeds of Coriell's note.

Mr. Shupp answered by pointing out that he made this distinction between the two cases. In the first Coriell had paid the money back himself, in the second, it had been necessary to acquaint the bondsmen, and although the money refunded might have come from a note of Coriell's, it bore the indorsement of one of the sureties and was paid to him by Coriell's brother, not by Coriell.

"Do you now insist upon holding the defendant?" Mr. Adrian asked the commissioner. "I do," the commissioner replied, "for in the letter of the law it does not make any difference how the money is paid back. The offence is not altered. In my opinion the defendant should be held."

"Well, the Grand Jury will never hold him," remarked Mr. Adrian.

"I'm not the Grand Jury," returned Commissioner Jones.

Coriell was then put under bail.

A BOLD ASSERTION

The Assertion Made In The Introduction to this Plainfield Citizen's Statement is Literally True.

There is only one proprietary article on the market which gives local evidence touching its merits; home proof to back up its claims; Plainfield evidence for Plainfield people. Statements from people we know in place of statements from strangers. That preparation is the one endorsed by

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, who says:—"Doan's Kidney Pills without exception are the best medicine I ever used. My kidneys troubled me for several years with dull, aching pain across my back, and at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night, stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. I was also subject to severe headaches and was more or less nervous. A kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient also existed and though I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

MR. HAVEMEYER TESTIFIES.

Tells the Industrial Commission at Washington About the Sugar Business.

HE ATTACKS THE TARIFF

President of American Sugar Refining Company Reads a Written Statement on the Subject.

Capital and Labor, He Declares, Will Adjust Themselves if Let Alone—His Company Means to Protect Its Business and Stockholders—What He Says a Customs Tariff Does.

Washington, June 15.—Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining Company, was examined by the Industrial Commission in connection with its investigation of trusts.

His testimony related almost wholly to the sugar industry and he opened with a vigorous attack on the customs tariff, which he declared was the "mother of all trusts," becoming such by providing "an inordinate protection to manufactured articles." This attack was made in a written statement which the witness read in a ringing voice.

He asserted that a tariff of 10 per cent. was as high as any tariff should be. He contended that sugar is discriminated against in the tariff in the interest of the Louisiana cane growers, the beet sugar makers and the sugar growers of Hawaiian Islands. To these interests he asserted the United States contributed $24,000,000, which was taken out of the pockets of the people. The protection on sugar amounted to only one-eight of a cent a pound, or about 3½ per cent. ad valorem. "It ought to be twice as much," he said. "What the sugar refining business has paid or is paying represents nothing more than an adequate return on the capital invested."

Congress should have put an internal revenue tax on the American production of sugar. The representations made in Congress concerning the trust, he declared, were untrue, and if it was a fact that the people suffered from trusts they must blame the protective tariff system, of which the trusts were merely the machinery.

"Capital and labor," he stated, "would all adjust themselves if let alone. The only way to prevent competition is to keep prices at a minimum—not necessarily in the interest of the consumer, but as a matter of business. He referred to the trust laws of some of the States as putting a premium on dishonesty, specifying the Missouri law. There were always two classes of people in a community—the industrious and those who wanted to live off them.

Replying to questions by Prof. Jenks, Mr. Havemeyer said the American Company was capitalized for much less than it was worth. "But for the clamor against trusts," he said, "it could be sold for three times its capitalization." Yet he thought the refineries could be duplicated for $35,000,000 or $40,000,000.

The late drop in the price of sugar had been caused by the starting of new refineries which had threatened to take 50 per cent. of the business. "It was a part of our policy to put prices down and let the opposition take the result, whatever it may be. Every sale made by the opposition displaces so much of the American Company's product," he said. "We must protect our own business."

Mr. Hvaemeyer said that what the company did it did not do for motives of philanthropy—that it had its own shareholders to protect.

"How many stockholders have you?" asked Prof. Jenks.

"About 11,000," he replied, and added: "Enough to take Cuba—and they would take it if they could."

The latter remark was made in a light vein. It was his opinion that the Cuban sugar should be brought in free of duty, and that this of course would bring refined sugar down to 3 cents a pound.

Speaking of the coffee business, Mr. Havemeyer said he was in the business, and in it to stay.

Ink Trust Forming.

Philadelphia, June 15.—The formation of the Federal Ink Company with a capital of $18,500,000 is nearly completed. At the present time about 95 per cent. of the output is either controlled by the new organization or they have options on the plants. The financial plan is to issue $3,500,000 preferred stock and $15,000,000 common stock. None of the works is to be closed, but each plant in the combination will be worked only on that line for which it is considered best fitted.

$32,000,000 Chair Combine.

New York, June 15.—The organization of the American Chair Company is practically completed.

The new concern is regarded as a trust and the proposed issue of stock amounts to $32,000,000, of which $12,000,000 is to be preferred. Charles R. Flint, of New York, was the prime mover and about eighty factories are included in the combine.

Heavy Rains in Michigan.

BOLTED CONVENTION

Uproar Among Pennsylvania Democrats When Cadwallader Left the Hall.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 15.—The mention of the name of William J. Bryan in the platform of the Democratic State Convention here caused John Cadwallader, Jr., a delegate from Philadelphia, to leave the hall.

When the platform was adopted Mr. Cadwallader said:

"Since the name of William Jennings Bryan is mentioned in the platform I shall retire and suggest as a substitute John McMenamin".

This announcement caused a great uproar. There were hisses and jeers and yells mingled with the questions "Who is he?" Mr. Cadwallader walked out and McMenamin was given his place.

Larger Army For Philippines.

Washington, June 15.—In the light of what has transpired in the Philippines recently the president is being urged to increase the army there not to 35,000 men but to 50,000 or 60,000 men, in order that General Otis can go in and finish up the campaign in short order. Friends of the administration believe that if an overwhelming army was sent to the Philippines it would further discourage Aguinaldo's followers and that peace would be the result in a very short time. It is not at all improbable that a call for additional troops will be issued within a very few days.

Carrie Jones Refuses.

New York, June 15.—George Beauregard Barrow, who planned and directed the abduction of Marion Clarke, was placed on trial before Justice Fursman in the Supreme Court, after Bella Anderson, alias "Carrie Jones," who has turned States evidence, had pleaded guilty.

The nurse girl, fearful and trembling was remanded for sentence and led away. Barrow and his wife, Jennie, against whom the confession of the girl will weigh most heavily, sat side by side, as cool as casual spectators. The defense of both will be insanity.

Colorado Smelters Strike.

Denver, June 15.—The 3,000 employes of the trust smelters in Denver, Pueblo and Leadville, walked out, after having extinguished the fires in the big furnaces and put everything in perfect order for a season of idleness. Within forty-eight hours, it is predicted, most of the mines in Leadville, Aspen, Creede, Ouray and the other mining camps of the State, with the exception of Cripple Creek, will be closed, throwing thousands of miners out of employment.

500 Men Stoned Street Cars.

Cleveland, O., June 15.—A serious and unexpected riot broke out at the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad crossing on Perkins avenue. Some 5,000 men are employed in the great machine shops in that vicinity, and a crowd of 500 of these held up five Wade Park avenue cars, blocking the tracks and stoning the cars. The small escort of policmeen on each car was powerless against the mob. Reinforcements of police finally dispersed the mob and cleared the track.

Canada Loses in Boundary Dispute.

Washington, June 15.— A brief despatch has been received at the State Department from Ambassador Choate, in which he says substantially that Great ritain will accept the American proposition for the provisional Alaskan boundary. While the officials do not go to the extent of declaring that the proposition has been accepted, they say that there is practically no difference between the absolute fact of acceptance and the assurance of Ambassador Choate.

DUNNELON MUCH EXCITED

Lynching of Two Negroes Causes a Lot of Trouble in Florida.

EXCITEMENT RUNS HIGH

The Lynched Victims Accused of Killing Another Negro Who Was Suspected of Murder.

Nine Others Rescued From the Infuriated Mob By Sheriff Nugent and an Armed Posse—Sheriff Thinks the Trouble Is Over But Will Hold His Posse in Readiness.

Ocala, Fla., June 15.—Much excitement was caused here over the reports of race trouble at Dunnellon, thirty miles southwest of here, the centre of the phosphate mining region. Sheriff Nugent and a posse at once left for the scene of trouble. The trouble was caused by the negroes lynching two negroes whom they accused of killing another negro, who, it is said, killed City Marshal Paine last month. On Saturday last the negro accused of the Marshal's murder was caught and brought to town. On Saturday night he was "missing," and it was rumored among the negroes that the whites had hired several negroes to take him to the river and "lose" him—in other words, drown him.

This excited the negroes, and in a short time a mob of twenty or thirty was on the streets threatening vengeance to these negroes and the whites. On Sunday evening the laborers of the Donnellon phosphate mine heard of it and at once organized to mete out similar justice to those implicated, and they came up to Dunnellon and joined the gang there. They succeeded in hanging two of the men, and were only prevented from lynching nine others by the appearance of Sheriff Nugent and an armed posse, who went down on a special train from Ocala. The nine men released were escorted to a place of safety and the negro rioters dispersed, reports from there say matters are quieting down. The Sheriff thinks the trouble is over, but will hold himself and posse in readiness to answer any call.

A retired sea captain, sixty years of age, well known to the reputable citizens of New Haven, suffered from an overworked and worn-out digestive apparatus. He had no faith in patent medicines as a cure for dyspepsia, but was induced by a friend to try Ripans Tabules. This he did with but little hope of benefit. After trying them for some time he said to the friend who had directed his attention to them: "Those Ripans Tabules were so effective from the start that I was amazed at the result. They are wizards. All the dyspeptic misery endured by me since becoming a landlubber has disappeared. I take one every night now, and feel so much rejuvenated by their use that I sometimes think I could climb a ship's rigging as well as I did thirty years ago."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores for FIVE CENTS. This box put up as this is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

OUTLAWS ARE CAPTURED

Rough Riders Kill and Capture Over Thirty of Them.

Casper, Wyoming, June 15.—A report has just reached here that the band of "rough riders" organized a few days ago to run down the band of outlaws who held up and looted the Union Pacific express, have been successful in their man hunt, but not, however, without blood being shed on both sides.

The robbers, accompanied by about twenty-five other outlaws, who have made the "Hole in the Wall" their hiding place for a long time, ventured out, armed to the teeth and prepared to fight to the death.

They opened fire on the rough riders, who had the "Hole in the Wall" surrounded, and a general battle was on in earnest and in short order. Both sides were armed with Winchester rifles, and at the first volley two of the rough riders were seriously wounded, but as the bandits were greatly outnumbered, the whole band was almost exterminated during the two hours fight which was carried on from behind rocks and other places of protection. All of those who were not killed outright surrendered when it was seen that further resistence was useless and their captors are now on their way here with the prisoners.

Sixteen of the outlaws were killed, six fatally wounded and ten were taken prisoner. Two of the pursuing party are fatally injured and four others are slightly wounded.

A detachment of the rough riders will make a visit to the "Hole in the Wall" and bring out what booty the robbers had stored there. The killing and capturing of this gang of desperadoes cleans out one of the hardest and toughest contingents of criminals that has ever infested the West.

One count accuses John Cavannaugh, Ed Kennedy, James Mason, John Coates, Mark Kerwin, James Bennett, John Henniger and Colonel R. E. Moseley with manslaughter and another with engaging in a prize fight.

Nansen Declines to Go.

Christiania, June 15.—Nansen has sent his reply to the English Geographic Society, which had proposed that he join the British antarctic expedition. He declines with thanks on the ground that he would not care to go, as a British naval officer would be in command. Nansen adds that he would much prefer a purely Norwegian expedition.

THE NATIVES DISCOURAGED

General Lawton Takes Bacoor Without Having to Fire a Single Shot.

ENEMY FLEEING SOUTH.

Disheartened by Their Recent Heavy Losses, They Fail to Make a Stand Against Americans.

General Pio del Pilar's Troops, Who Put up Such a Vigorous Resistance Tuesday Are Scattered in All Directions—The Native Governor of Cebu Said to Have Been Assassinated.

Manila, Jude 15.—General Lawton's force, which drove the Filipinos southward after a desperate all-day fight at the Zanote River has captured Bacoor without firing a shot.

General Pio del Pilar's troops, who made the most desperate resistance yet encountered by the Americans in the Philippines, are much disheartened by their losses and are in full retreat and have scattered in all directions. Their ranks are broken up completely and nothing like the semblance of military order prevails among the natives.

Their possession of artillery, fairly well served, added to their confidence, and they fully expected to win but the bravery of Lawton's command disheartened them and they were forced to yield to a display of superior military tactics and courage.

The native Governor of the Island of Cebu is reported to have been assassinated.

He welcomed the American troops when they took possession of Cebu and was counted a firm friend of the United States.

An accurate report furnished Gen. Otis of the last severe engagement when the natives resisted so desperately, shows that the American losses were ten killed and forty wounded. The majority of these casualties occurred while troops were crossing the Zapote River.

Manila, June 15.—General Lawton, with his staff and a troop of the Fourth cavalry, started to ascertain the nature of the insurgents' position. He rode five miles along the coast without discovering the enemy, to Bacoor, and found the town full of white flags. But there were no soldiers there. The women and children, who had fled to the woods at the bombardment, were camping in the ruins of their homes. The shells had almost knocked the town to pieces. The big church was wrecked and many buildings were ruined. Even the trees and shrubbery were torn as by a hailstorm.

Manila, June 15.—The Fourteenth Infantry swam the Zapote River, charged and carried the trenches, a heavy fusilade of artillery preparing the way, and covering the crossing. The insurgents broke for the woods before the fourteenth reached them. Almost at the same time the ninth and the twelfth infantry crossed a bar of the sea and came upon their left flank at a point where a body of marines with Maxim guns landed, under protection of the ship's batteries, and fired upon the enemy's left rear with a demoralizing effect. The twenty-first crossed the river by a bridge as soon as it could be mended.— Sixty-five dead Filipinos were found in the trenches, most of them shot through the heads. Several five-inch smooth bore guns were captured with ammunition marked "U. S. Navy Yard." After crossing the river the troops were withdrawn with the exception of the ninth and the twenty-first infantry, these regiments being left with four guns to guard the bridge.

As they were being formed into companies the insurgents commenced to fire volleys from the bamboo jungle 300 yards away. The regiments formed into line rapidly and coolly, though under fire and cheering, rushed to the woods, driving the enemy a mile away, the Filipinos disputing every foot. The fourteenth encamped across the river, the men caring for many of the wounded Filipinos. Eight prisoners were captured. The majority of the Filipinos wore red uniforms.

Otis Reports Casualties.

Washington, June 15.—Gen. Otis reports the following additional casualties: Wounded—Thirteenth infantry, June 9, M, Private Henry Masfelder, thigh, slight; Fourth cavalry, 10th I, Private William Riarden, leg, moderate; Ninth infantry, C, Privates A. F. Portezeng, shoulder, slight; B, Deforest Hutchinson, head, severe; Twenty-first infantry, C, Private Thomas Muller, arm, slight; First Colorado, M, Private Joseph P. Kearns, leg, slight; Eleventh, Private Edgar Pate, knee, severe. Cablegram, 12th, Thomas Healy, private, M, Thirteenth Minnesota, should have read Thirteenth infantry.

SAYS SHE IS TOPHEAVY

Naval Constructor Reports on the Cruiser New Orleans.

Washington, June 15.—Naval Constructor Bowles has made a report, in which he says that the cruiser New Orleans is topheavy. This opinion was reached after tests conducted at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The defect is structural, and in consequence will be found also in the New Orlean's sister ship, the Albany, now nearing completion at the Armstrong Shipyards, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. Whether the defect can be remedied has not been decided.

The two vessels will be topheavy only when not carrying any supplies or with a greatly reduced cargo of stores. The New Orleans went through the naval campaign in Cuban waters without a hitch and nobody suspected she was inclined to turn turtle. So long as the two ships have plenty of coal and other supplies on board there will not be the slightest danger of their capsizing, naval authorities say, and no fear is felt that the Albany, on completion, will not be able to cross the Atlantic with perfect safety. She must, however, be well loaded to prevent any possibility of trouble. The naval officials admit that both vessels are so long that it will not be expedient to make them any longer, and thus cause a more equal distribution of weight, as was done in the case of the gunboats Castine and Machias.

Heir to a Fortune Missing.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 15.—George Milford, heir to a fortune of $128,000 by the death of a relative in England, has disappeared from this city and no trace of him can be found. He came to Fort Wayne early in March last and was compelled to remain here in a hospital by reason of illness. He lost his wife and children in the tornado at St. Louis a few years ago, and consequently did not care to remian long in one place. When his health improved he left the hospital, went to a hotel and secured an attorney to assist in looking after the estate left to him. An attorney in the East was to assist, and was expected in this city last week, but so far as known he did not come. Milford has not been seen since Wednesday last, when he left his hotel expecting to meet the Eastern attorney. His friends have made efforts to locate him, but thus far have been unsuccessful.

Wheelmen Surrender to Police.

San Francisco, Cal., June 15.—Frank Simpson and Thomas Jones have surrendered to the police, admitting that they were the wheelmen who on May 27 ran over Hon. Timothy Guy Phelps near his country home at San Carlos. The men were riding a tandem, and in avoiding a milk wagon ran down Mr. Phelps, who was walking along the road. The cyclists aided Mr. Phelps to a wagon and left him, not thinking he was seriously injured. Fred Kennett, who accompanied them on their ride was also placed under arrest.

No Clew in the Barnard Case.

Dallas, Tex., June 15.—No clew has yet been discovered as to the fate or whereabouts of C. C. Barnard, the representative in Texas of J. S. & H. C. Starr, dealers in bicycles, vehicles and sewing machines, Decatur, Ills. Barnard's valise, checked at the Santa Fe passenger station in Dallas on Saturday night, is still there uncalled for. Dallas and neighboring towns have been thoroughly searched without developing the least trace.

Judge Lynched His Son.

Columbus, Ohio, June 15.—The case of C. J. Delaplaine, the Circleville attorney, who was on trial in the United States Court here on a charge of sending obscene letters through the mail, has been continued to the next term of Court. Judge Thompson took this action because of his uncertainty as to Delaplaine's mental condition. Physicians have testified that he knows right from wrong, but is not able to restrain his impulse.

Horseshoer Severely Injured.

Winfield Jct., N. Y., June 15.—Tobias Acker, a horseshoer of this place was kicked in the head by a vicious horse which he was shoeing and severely injured. Acker is the man, who won fame a few years ago by sailing from New York to Boston in a box. He is a professional swimmer and an all-round athlete.

Miners Refused More Pay.

Frostburg, Md., June 15.—All the miners in the Elk Lick or Myersdale region, numbering between 600 and 700, are on strike because their demand for an increase of five cents per ton for mining coal has not been granted. Their pay heretofore has been 40 cents per ton.

The Law, Not the Judge.

In order to comply with the law Judge Runyon was yesterday obliged to commit a thirteen-year-old girl to the county jail in order to secure her final commitment to the Reform School. Uninformed people may criticise the Judge for what seems to be a cruel action in sending such a precocious prisoner to the county jail where she will be thrown in with the dregs of humanity whose sense of shame and respect has long ago disappeared in the sin and iniquity that their very lives are steeped in. But the Judge is not to blame. It is the law.

It is a disgrace and a blot upon the name of the commonwealth that no Legislature and Governor have yet seen fit to enact a law that will enable an incorrigible child to be sent to a Reform School without being stigmatized with the brand of sentence to the county jail. Much agitation for a law of this kind has taken place, but no good has ever come out of it. Such a law is badly needed in New Jersey.

CAPTAIN ALFRED DREYFUS.

A crisis in the second act of a modern French tragedy is rapidly approaching. The court of cassation has ordered a revision of the Dreyfus case and the prisoner from Devil's Island will arrive in France late in June or early in July. The new trial will be held away from Paris, probably in Brittany.

New Jersey that is bothered with the sewage bed problem, for our next door neighbor, Summit, is struggling with the sewerage system in much the same manner as prevails here. For sometime past there has been much complaint about the condition of beds in Summit. As a result the State Sewerage Commission visited Summit a few days ago and found the beds far from being perfect, but improved over a previous visit. Because of the alleged nuisance caused by the sewer beds there is an effort on foot to get Summit to join in the proposed trunk sewer which has been planned for some of the Oranges, Irvington, Millburn and a portion of Newark. Present indications are that this trunk sewer, which, according to the plans drawn, is to empty into the Arthur Kills, will never be built.

F. C. Lounsbury, president of the Board of Trade, in his letter to the Saturday Tribune, reprinted in The Daily Press today, discusses the needs of Plainfield in a very clear and convincing manner. There is irony in the fact that though he can express such good ideas the organization of which he is the head seemed utterly unable to grapple with the conditions pointed out with energy and perseverance.

It is probably not known that there is a law in New Jersey that gives a mayor of a city power to appoint a shade-tree commission, to consist of three members. Plainfield, however, is a town that is blessed with lots of shade trees and is not in need of such a commission.

Jerry Simpson says we have reached a point in our downward career where it is hard work for a good man to get an office. This leads the Washington Post to say that "the gentleman who is to succeed Jerry in the House is thus given a fine opening for an argument."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

What has become of the sanctity that used to be attached to one's best clothes? They were folded away Monday morning and didn't appear for a whole week. The association with Sunday and sermons in time gave them a sort of sacred and religious air that is no longer associated with best clothes, since they are put on for every dinky little party during the week.—Atchison Globe.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

In one of the New York police courts the other day a prisoner who had been arrested for drunkenness, and who at the time of his hearing was still somewhat "under the influence," asked leave to make an explanation. The desired permission having been granted, he said with a lofty gesture: "I am neglected to insomnia. I am accrusted to the use of old ale to believe myself, and yesterday I happened to imbride too great quality of it. It affected my brain and I became intexicated."

Farmers in Oregon and Washington have reason to believe that the horseless age has been postponed. Buyers from Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Dakotas have been scouring those states for horses, and paying from $15 up for animals that two or three years ago were thought fit only for the abattoir. So great is the demand for heavy work-horses and animals suitable for the cavalry service and it is impossible to meet it with the class of animals required, and buyers are filling out orders in some cases with unbroken range horses, for which as high as $40 per head has been paid. Government buyers, who a few years ago were wont to cull very closely and reject everything that did not meet the exact requirements, have been compelled to waive some of the specifications, or else fail to secure the full quota of animals needed. The principal reason for the advance in prices is that many breeders abandoned the business when there was so little profit in it. The work-life of horses is short, and the demand has now overtaken the supply. A minor factor is the increased Government demand.

The enforcement of a rule at the North Avenue station has every appearance of being manifestly unfair. The rule is that hereafter all expressmen must keep away from the platform at the station and remain out on the street where they can take their chances as to getting business. By keeping the expressmen away from the station platform it affords patrons no end of trouble, for if a man is obliged to chase around for an expressman he is obliged oftentimes to lose much time. The expressmen so far as can be learned have never made any great bid for trade while standing on the platform, but they stand where their customers can see them handily. It is reported that since the enforcement of this rule an expressman, who usually gets a fair proportion of the business, received two or three orders during one day, while another had nearly thirty. It is said that the former has a large family to support, while the other has none. It seems as though proper ruling would be sufficient to manage the men without putting them and their customers to lots of trouble and inconvenience. It is not only the expressman that is kicking, but the patrons as well, and it is hoped that a change will soon be made.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

DAINTY LINGERIE.

We still have many of the sample garments left notwithstanding the enormous sale of them. This is a rare opportunity to get fine garments at exactly ⅓ value.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 15.—Mrs. James Dunham and daughters, Misses Ella and Lizzie Dunham, went to New York yesterday, where they attended the wedding of George Dunham's daughter, Miss Ella Dunham, which took place last evening. Mrs. Dunham and her daughters will remain in New York for a month.

The farmers in this section are complaining about the continued dry weather, and in many cases they have been obliged to turn their cattle into the meadow fields, and forego any idea of getting a good crop of hay. In other cases farmers have had to buy feed for their cows which looks as though the price of butter and milk will go up very soon unless there is relief. Corn, which the farmers say should be knee high by July 4th, is no where near that height. Altogether the outlook is very discouraging for the farmer.

William Cosgrove, of SanFrancisco, who was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, at Plainfield, yesterday morning from this place suffering from injuries received on the railroad here, was discovered about 6 o'clock in the morning by Sydney Craig, who found the man lying on the railroad bank nearly opposite his home. The man attracted Craig's attention by his cries, and it was Mr. Craig that secured the means whereby he was taken to Plainfield.

Mrs. O. A. Douglass, of this place, has gone to New York to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Chapter Order Eastern Star, of New York State, which is being held in Masonic Hall, New York.

Better progress is being made on the work of laying the water mains on Main street. The intense heat yesterday had its effect on some of the men, but not sufficiently to stop the work.

There will be bowling on the green at Mr. Schepflin's residence a week from Saturday by the members of the Middlesex Bowling Green Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holder, of Plainfield, have been visiting relatives in the borough and Bound Brook.

W. H. Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Hetfield spent last Sunday with relatives at Lansdown, this State.

The borough park is being improved greatly, which will be appreciated exceedingly by everyone.

Miss Mamie Clark, of New York, has been visiting friends in the borough.

Ex-Mayor Brakeley has been visiting relatives in Plainfield for a short time.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham is visiting relatives in Westfield for a short time.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, of Alfred, N. Y., was a visitor in town yesterday.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 15—The closing exercises of the public school were held last evening in the assembly room of the school building. The entertainment was to begin at 8 o'clock, but long before that hour people began arriving and by the time Prof. Morey announced the first number on the programme the room was uncomfortably crowded. The programme consisted of vocal and instramental music, drills by the primary scholars, closing with a short cantata entitled "The Festival." After this Dr. Westcott, president of the Board of Education, presented to the different classes their diplomas. After the presentation he made a short address complimenting the teachers upon the high standard to which they had helped to bring the school, and told of the regret of the Board in losing Miss Adams, a teacher who had been with the school for five years. In closing the entertainment Mr. Morey, on behalf of Miss Adams' class, presented a handsome bouquet-holder as a token from the class of the respect and love they have for her. The several classrooms were thrown open to the parents and friends, and an exhibition of the work being done in the school was shown.

Goodwill Lodge, K. of P., meet in their rooms this evening. Business of importance will come before the meeting and a large turnout is desired.

Making Paper Flowers.

How to Fashion CHRYSANTHEMUMS, POND LILIES, DAISIES

And Other Flowers of Wire, Wax and Tissue.

BY OLIVE HARPER.

There are cut petals for sale all ready for making paper flowers, and if the beginner in the art is at all timid it would be well to purchase a few of each sort desired and then copy them later.

Among the petals so prepared can be found roses, buds, pinks, double asters, daisies, snowballs, forgetmenots, pansies, violets, poppies, single and double; pond lilies and chrysanthemums; also one perfect flower of each sort can be obtained which serves as a perpetual model, though it is better to get a real flower of the sort and follow that.

It may be said here that during the past season artificial tissue paper roses and chrysanthemums and also carnations have been used extensively as decorations in houses at grand functions. The real flowers faded so soon that these have almost entirely replaced them amid the masses of foliage, and no one could tell the difference only that they look fresh all the evening. There is quite a commerce in them, and these three mentioned flowers have a marked value, selling singly from 10 to 15 cents.

Easter cards, mouchoir cases and picture frames are decorated with a pond lily, leaves and buds, or a spray of roses, or a lot of violets. One person sent another a bouquet of lovely carnations scented with oil of cloves, and it was over a day before they were suspected of being made of paper.

After the rose the pond lily is the most beautiful, but the chrysanthemum the easiest and most useful. It is better to buy the pond lily stamens, but if that is not possible take a flexible rubber stem and bend it over as is done for a rose. Fasten a wide, flat bunch of yellow wax to this, and on the upper side of this paste a lot of very finely cut and crumpled yellow paper.

Cut four sets of petals, No. 1, all of one size, five inches in diameter, of thick, white paper, or those for the middle can be made half an inch smaller than the others. No. 2 on the diagram shows the green plate for the outside. Only one of these is required, and it should be the thickest paper there is. The shade should be very dark green

FOR CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

No. 1. Half of plate for chrysanthemum petals. No. 2. Leaf of chrysanthemum. No. 3. Circle for bud and cup at stem.

for plates, the same for stems and lighter with yellowish shade for leaves. A study of a real leaf will show the artist exactly what is required.

When the petals are cut, press them over the stem to the stamen, as in making a rose, and press them down to the stamen by lapping them and holding them so until they are all on. The green outside may then be slid on and gummed fast and held in place by means of green wax.

Loosen the petals with the hatpin, curling them inward slightly and creasing them a trifle with the paper knife.

Until the artist is well advanced she would better wait awhile before making pond lily leaves. But the buds are made by fastening some cotton to a flexible stem, about as large as a walnut and much the same shape—Fig. 3 on diagram 1 shows the shape for the petals for the bud. Two are required of white and two of green.

The white is first molded to the cotton and pasted on. The green is pasted outside of this, but is left open a little way on each side to show the white. Several loops and long stems of the rubber give the appearance of a tangled growth of roots. These are lovely on lamp shades, mouchoir cases and to hang up against mirrors, and are often used as table decorations laid over and around a mirror.

A five inch petal gives a three inch finished flower. A very little experience teaches one the proportions. A leaf is made by carefully following nature in shape. Cut two thicknesses of paper for this, the upper darker and the under of lighter shade, with a yellowish shade, or a yellow paper between. Curl the edges over a very fine wire and paste. Crease the center. To the end of the crease fasten the flexible stem.

Daisies are very easy to make, and so are violets, as they are furnished all ready cut and pressed into shape—that is, the petals are. Daisy centers are sold three dozen for 10 cents, all mounted on wire. Violet pips are 10 cents per gross. So it is scarcely worth one's while to attempt to make them.

One plate or circle of paper is cut for a field daisy; but, as the petals are apt to tear off if too narrow, it is better to make two, one to put behind the other. Push them up to the stamen and squeeze them until they fit properly and then slip a little green disk up against that and gum it fast. The disk should be slashed all around. This is found in diagram 2, No. 1.

Violets, being cut into the proper shape by machinery and pressed into shape, and also graded in three sizes of petals to use in the double flowers, are all ready to slip on the wire with the little pip in the center. Any shade of violet may be produced, and from the single wildwood flower to the most double cultivated Parma variety. There are flexible muslin tubes for stems to slip on over the outside of the wire. A drop of mucilage holds them.

If the violets are for the decoration of small photographs, they are more graceful in flexible stems only. The little pip always has a short, fine wire. This can be passed through the end of the stem, and that holds it firmly.

To make buds or half opened violets take but two of the paper "plates," or petals, and squeeze them together closely around the pip and then slide up a small bit of green paper cut oblong.

Violet leaves can be purchased or made at home. Where the violets are simply for ornamenting frames, etc., they may be without foliage, the stems being green. But nature always provides green leaves as a background to enhance the beauty of the flower. On the diagram is the outline of a leaf taken from nature. The color is a rich dark green with a yellowish tinge.

Daisies, forgetmenots, buttercups, ragged sailors and violets are used so much in decorations of all kinds that even from a commercial point of view it is worth one's while to learn how to make them.

Sweet peas are also in good demand. They are made of fine petals, cut separate, creased and slightly curled and fastened to the stamen and held by a tiny cup made of green paper and mucilage. Nature alone can supply designs for these. But they can make a rainy day seem bright and fair.

The dark, single poppies are made by cutting a "plate," or petals, of six leaves and pulling this over the stem to which the poppy stamen is fixed. They are shaped like rose petals, but twice the size, and the edges are serrated unevenly. They are to be bent first inward by the round iron and then the edges curled slightly outward.

Buds are made of green paper heart shape, with two red, crushed petals inside. A few grasses or wheat make a pretty addition to a bunch of poppies.

NAGASAKI "COAL LADIES."

How the Japanese Women and Girls Fill the Ships' Bunkers.

Nearly all of the Pacific steamers bound for Hongkong and Manila stop at Nagasaki, Japan, for coal, and the passengers witness a quite unusual and interesting scene. The women and girls help the men and boys pass the coal from the lighter boats to the steamer's hold.

Here woman's equal right to labor is fully asserted, and her privilege of getting less pay than a man for the same work is also duly illustrated. The women are paid only two-thirds as much as the men.

These women and girls are facetiously called the "Nagasaki coal ladies," and they are sights to behold. They are blackened and coal begrimed from head to foot.

Many of these "coal ladies" are graceful little creatures, with slender bands and feet, and seemingly as out of place there as a canary would be trying to lift a crowbar. Yet they do an amazing amount of work, these little brown women and girls, bearing an equal share with the men and boys of the burden of coaling the ships.

Imagine 1,200 tons of coal being carried aboard a steamer in baskets holding ten pounds each and all done in less than eight hours! This is what these little Japs frequently do. One detachment loads the baskets, while the others form a line and pass them from hand to hand to the vessel's bunkers. Like ants building an ant hill, their power is in their numbers and their ceaseless application to the work in hand.

TWO GLARING EVILS.

TWINS ARE THIS PAIR, DRUNKENNESS AND PAUPERISM.

They Make the Home Wretched, the Children Ragged and Hungry, and Are Potent Factors In Breeding Crime and Degradation.

Twin evils of the day are drink and pauperism, and we note a query, Which is the root? It does not take a close observer to speedily arrive at an answer. Get rid of the drink evil, and squalid, unwholesome poverty will materially disappear. There can be no argument on this point among us. The pauperism that curses American life in the great cities is largely due to alcoholic drink.

Men who have made a study of the twin evils of alcoholism and pauperism are generally agreed that people free from the degrading habit of excessive indulgence in drink, although poor, are decent, self respecting and are not a burden upon the community. Crime does not flourish among the worthy poor; the children are looked after. When drink is resorted to, then arise these terrible evils that exist in a distressing degree among the poor and produce pauperism.

Wherever you find the slum dweller there you will find the demon of drunkenness. This is the evil that makes the wretched home, that sends the children to school in hunger and raggedness; still worse, that throws them upon the street to beg, pilfer, grow up into a manhood and womanhood that stains civilization with the worst of criminals. It is this curse that loses to the church so many of her children, who live and die Catholics in name only. When we see these helpless children, do we fully recognize that they when grown up will be the fathers and mothers of families, adding to a population already diseased in mind and body?

Let us not, ostrichlike, hide our heads and disguise the facts. True, very much is done to mitigate the evil, but more, vastly much more, could be done. How few there are who will come out and engage in effective work and help to stem the torrent of intemperance! What is so much wanted is a united effort, not the present disjointed action. It is in association, not in isolation, that this work must be done.

We are entering upon a new century, a century to be opened and consecrated by prayer, as our holy father Leo XIII asks of his children in the faith. How worthily that century could be inaugurated by the increase of temperance work all along the lines! Now we read in Belgium of whole parishes beginning this work, priests and people unitedly pledging themselves to the cause; Catholic societies and confraternities, workingmen's lodges, professional guilds, all coming forward and pledging themselves to abstain and combat the evil that they recognize works the greatest havoc. They want to enter the new century with as clean hands as may be, and they mean to do their best.

Here is an effective lesson, not so much by word of mouth as by example. Some there are who may call this a pious fanaticism, but if to lift up humanity, to ameliorate the sad conditions of a life that at its best is not all sunshine; if to stand by the worthy priest and be in constant touch with his endeavor to bring back the strayed and lost to the Redeemer's tender care is fanatical, let us rejoice in the name.

There are many who feel that they should do work for temperance, but they rather prefer to mourn and lament the evil; they see the world around them out of joint, but it is a cursed spite that they should have been born to set it right.—Pittsburg Catholic.

Earnest Students.

In the recent examination the students of the American college at Rome came out first in the list, even ahead of the students of the Bohemian college. This latter phrase means much, says the Rome correspondent of the Boston Pilot. The Bohemians have surpassed all the other students of Rome. They have had the lead for a long time. Now, however, they have had to follow in the wake of the Americans. It is impossible to describe in brief all that this success means and all the intense and devoted labor it implies. These students have worked with a devotion and an application simply marvelous.

Your Morning Prayers.

Commence your daily life with prayer. Earnest prayer will sanctify your daily actions—will give you strength to bear up with disappointments. The men, women and children who consecrate their day's action with prayer weave the blessed charm of God's grace around them, which gives strength against temptation. How many daily go forth in health from their homes never to return there in life! Prayer is a surety for those you love and leave behind that whatever may betide you yet all is well.

Meekness.

Meekness is a rarer virtue than charity. It is more excellent than this virtue, being the fullness of charity, which is in its perfection when it is meek and beneficent. Meekness is a virtue which supposes a noble soul. Those who possess it are superior to all one may say of them or do to them. Though they may receive indignities from others in word or action, they preserve their tranquillity and lose not their peace of soul. We must, then, have a great esteem for meekness and labor to acquire it.

Death.

Just and mighty Death! What none has dared thou hast done, and whom all the world have flattered thou alone hast cast out of the world and despised. Thou hast drawn together all the farfetched greatness, all the cruelty and ambition of man and covered it all over with these two narrow words, "Hic jacet."

GOODBY.

Blest be thy journey
Wheresoe'er thou go!
God guide thy footsteps
Over land and sea!
All the dim future
He alone can know.
Sweet Heart of Jesus,
Let us meet in thee.
There are no partings;
In thee all are one.
Forever and ever
Thy dear will be done.
Sweet Heart of Jesus;
Ah, Sacred Heart!
Friends may be sundered,
But souls cannot part.

—Susan L. Emery in Donahoe's Magazine.

PROFANITY.

Thou Shalt Not Take the Name of the Lord Thy God In Vain.

A repulsive feature of contemporary life is our reckless profanity. The vice is not confined to the "tough" element, but is indulged in by "respectable" people. The name of God is outraged by oaths and imprecations quite as a matter of course and without the excuse of anger or excitement. The sacred name of Jesus Christ is a byword, and the air is vocal with expletives which are not according to the second commandment.

Profanity is a sin and profanity is ungentlemanly. One can understand why boys, who imagine that it is manly, indulge in it. One can understand how a man under the influence of deep feeling, like Uncle Toby, for instance, might now and then find ordinary language inadequate to the situation—though this rather palliates than excuses—but that a man, in the regular intercourse of life, should season discourse with oaths and curses is a strange and foul thing.

The growth of Holy Name societies throughout the country is an encouraging sign. It is a matter which ought to appeal to every sincerely Catholic man, this crusade against blasphemy. "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain, for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that shall take the name of the Lord his God in vain."—Providence Visitor.

A Saint's Blessing.

I pray God to fill your years with his choicest blessings. Oh, how many blessings my soul wishes for you! Be you blessed in your heart—in your heart and in your body, in your person and in that of those who are dearest to you, in your trials and in your consolations, in all that you may do and in all that you may suffer for God. Adoring with all my heart this Divine Providence, I pray that it may shower upon you the fullness of its favors, so that you may merit in this world and in the next the benediction of heaven and earth and enjoy hereafter eternal glory. In the name of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen. —St. Francis de Sales.

Leo XIII and the Lateran Basilica.

His holiness has sent the sum of 80,000 francs to the chapter of the Lateran basilica for the completion and decoration of the sacristy. It will be remembered that almost the first act of his reign was to undertake to carry out the proposed restoration of the apse and the enlargment of the sanctuary. By his munificence, also, the transept was restored and beautified. It may be hoped that the work of the sacristy will not be the last to be undertaken by Leo XIII at the Lateran, and that he may yet be able to complete the restoration of the basilica by the redecoration of the ceiling of the nave.

A Martyr to Duty.

The late Bishop Watterson died actually a martyr to his zeal and sense of duty. He was urged on Sunday morning, the day before his death, to postpone a confirmation service which he was to give that day in one of the Columbus churches, in order to spare himself, for he was even then a very sick man. The good bishop would not listen to the advice, though. He said the children were all prepared and would be sadly disappointed if their confirmation was postponed. He went through the service, therefore, and in less than 24 hours he had passed to the other world.—St. Louis Republic.

The Rosary.

The rosary is the compendium of the Christian religion as well as the universal prayer book. It can be used by all and always. The highest intellect finds worthy exercise in its meditations, and the poorest and most uneducated comfort and peace in its spoken words. The young, who are unable to comprehend other prayers; the sick, in their long, dreary hours of pain; the old, whose poor eyes are dim to the printed page—all Christians, in a word, find in the rosary a help and a blessing, a strength and a means of grace, suited to all classes of society and to men of every grade.

Beautiful Windows.

The 16 new memorial windows in St. Francis de Sales church, Charlestown, Mass., were put in place recently. They were made in Munich at an estimated cost of $4,000, and the subjects on them closely follow out ideas suggested to the manufacturer by the Rev. James N. Supple, pastor of the parish. They begin next the altar on the epistle side and follow in chronological order the principal events connected with the earthly life of Jesus. The windows are beautiful, and the effect produced by them on the church is fine.

Look to Thyself.

Know that the man who of all others is most recommended to thy care is thyself, for it would profit thee but little though thou shouldst draw all the world out of the mud if the while thou thyself remainest therein.

The Effect of Sin.

As sins proceed they ever multiply, and, like figures in arithmetic, the last stands for more than all that went before it.

LONG DISTANCE TALKING.

The Latest Development of Telegraphy Sending Messages Through the Air.

WIRES NOT NECESSARY

M. Ducretet, the French Expert, Despatches and Receives Communications a Distance of 13 Miles.

Wireless Telegraphy Makes Enormous Strides in Europe—Professor Marconi the Most Successful of Many Experimenters, Only 25 Years Old—Began Work in Italy and Is Now Working.

M. Ducretet can now send wireless telegraph messages a distance of thirteen miles. He is the inventor whose researches in aerial telegraphy have received the encouragement of the French Government ever since the remarkable success of Marconi in England.

U. S. Consul General Gowdy had received instructions from Washington to keep the Government informed of French progress in this important branch of invention, and he applied to M. Ducretet for a summary of his discoveries. In reply, the electrician communicated the above fact, adding that his messages are dispatched and received at the summits of masts 99 feet high. He says that he has accomplished, in the face of great difficulties, the automatic registration of messengers.

Wireless telegraphy made enormous strides last year in Europe. Although it has been experimented with in this country with more or less success, it is doubtful if many Americans realize that a system covering a distance of twelve miles has been in practical operation off the English coast all Winter.

This is between the South Foreland lighthouse and the East Goodwin lightship. By the use of Marconi's system messages are flashed continually from ship to shore and vice versa without the aid of wire. In this way many lives and much valuable property have been saved, since it has been possible for the men tossed in the lightship to communicate to those on shore the plight of vessels that have ventured to close to that graveyard of good ships, the Goodwin Sands. This was notably the case several months ago when the large ship Elbe went aground.

Professor Marconi, the most sucessful of the many experimenters who have worked on this problem along identical principles, is only twenty-five years old, and his researches have already won him a fortune. He began the work in Italy, his native country, and the Italian Government hastened to pay him a handsome price for his invention for use on war ships. Then the young professor went to England, where he was received with open arms. The lighthouse lightship equipment is one of the results of his sojourn in England.

Confident that he could transmit messages a much greater distance than twelve miles, Marconi proposed to establish communication of this kind between the English and French coasts, but the French Government for a long time withheld its consent from any such enterprise. Viewing the progress of wireless telegraphy in England and Italy, however, and the fact that the German Emperor was dabbling in it for the benefit of his army and navy, the French Government at length withdrew its opposition to the trans-Channel system, which Marconi is now working at, and at the same time gave its assistance and support to a native inventor, M. Ducretet, who had been working along the same lines without much encouragement.

On top of the tall building in Paris where M. Ducretet had his laboratory is reared a mast, through the top of which passes a wire which is connected in the laboratory below with an electric conductor, a Ruhmkorff coil and an accumulating battery made after a special plan.

The greater the distance between stations the higher must the receiving and transmitting instruments be installed above the surface of the earth. That is because the earth's horizon must not intervene between them. Strangely enough, though, it has been found in short distance experiments that even stone walls do not interfere with the current of diminish the precision of messages.

Without entering into technicalities about a discovery which presents many points of mystery even to scientists, it may be explained for the benefit of laymen that the principle of wireless telegraphy is really the principle by which one tuning fork will give out a note in response to the vibrations produced by the striking of another tuning fork near by.

Gives No Flash.

It is reported that the new French rapid-fire gun invented by Col. Humbert gives no flash or sign of fire. If this be true the French have made an advance in artillery second only in importance to that which marked the introduction by them of smokeless powder, says the scientific American. In the operations around Santiago the only means by which our men could locate the position of the enemy was by the flash. If this should be removed the art of war, especially on land, will become more difficult than ever, for a masked battery of smokeless powder and flashless guns would be positively undiscoverable. The only description of the gun that has come to hand is rather obscure; but it would seem that an attempt is made to cool the larger portion of the gases below their flash point before they are allowed to reach the open air. The rate of fire has reached a maximum of twenty shots per minute. To accommodate the increased expenditure of ammunition it is proposed to reduce a single battery from four to five guns and increase the number of ammunition wagons.

TROUBLE OVER A CAT.

Prominent New York Lawyer Accused of Cruelty to Animals.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 15.—The death of a common black cat was the cause of a great deal of trouble in Westfield yesterday afternoon when W. G. Peckham, a prominent lawyer of New York, who resides in this place, was tried before Justice Collins on the charge of cruelty to animals. The complainant was G. White Smith, representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, at the instigation of Mrs. John H. Dorvall, wife of a drug merchant. Mrs. Dorvall alleged that her sensibilities were badly shocked by the cruelty of the lawyer and his son in disposing of the cat's life. She alleged that the cat was wrung around by the tail and otherwise maltreated while yet alive. A number of well-known society women were witnesses in the case for the defense. After a great deal of evidence had been received George Anderson took the stand and said that it was he, not the lawyer, that had killed the feline. The jury immediately brought in a verdict of no cause for action.

Steele was secretary. A committee on permanent organization, consisting of Senator Chas. A. Reed, Jas. L. Griggs and John F. Reger, was appointed.

The objects of the association are for promoting the due administration of justice, for encouraging social intercourse among its members, for elevating the ethics of the profession of the law and disciplining members of the bar for violations of law and legal ethics, and for raising the standard of examinations for admissions to the bar.

Alvah A. Clark, John D. Bartine, Charles A. Reed, Wm. V. Steele and Nelson Y. Dungan were appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the State Bar Association, to be held at Atlantic City Friday.

high Valley Railroad at South Plainfield.

As president of the Board of Trade I have received a letter from the general passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, in which that gentleman states that the company is desirous of opening a ticket office in Plainfield, and is ready to do so as soon as some reliable means of communication is assured. This means that our citizens can go to a local office and purchase tickets for any point on that line or its western connections, and take the trolley to the depot, just as many of them now take the local trolley to the North Avenue depot.

It also means the establishment of a regular express service between South Plainfield and this city, for transportation of baggage and freight. Local expressmen are ready to undertake the same, and say that if a reasonable amount of business can be secured they will do the work just as cheaply as from the freight depot at Richmond street.

We do not realize how close South Plainfield is to us. Let us expand and get the benefit of its trade and railroad facilities, and place ourselves in a position where we will not be entirely and absolutely dependent upon one railroad company for passenger and freight service.

Let every citizen do his share. Talk the matter up; agitate the subject; speak about it to your neighbor. Call upon your representative in the Common Council and urge him to do all he can to hasten matters. As soon as the Council is satisfied that there is a strong public sentiment back of them, they will be glad to push matters with the Plainfield Street Railway Company and compel them to keep their agreement and build the road, or step out of the way and permit another company to build it.

COCKFIGHTERS CALLED TO COURT.

Young Linden Sports Trying to Escape Acting as Witnesses.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 15—Marshal Christ, of Roselle, made a return Tuesday to Justice Collins, of this place, of the warrant and bond for the arrest of Vorice Spice, of Linden, charged with holding a cockfight at Linden February 18th. The case is set for trial next Monday at Westfield.

The service of the warrant created great consternation among the Linden sports, as many young men there have been subpœnaed as witnesses to appear at the trial. As it is alleged that several affairs of the kind have been held recently, and largely attended by many men who do not care to have it generally known that they attend affairs of the kind, there is a general scramble for cover to avoid subpœnaes, and considerable apprehension as to what will be brought out at the trial.

G. White Smith, of Westfield, member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, will assist in the prosecution.

SALUTES BETWEEN BOATS

Days When to Whistle Was Intended as an Insult.

In 1830 gongs for the engineroom were unknown, and in many of the boats, when the pilot was in his house (if there was one) or on deck over the engineroom, he would signal to the engineer by the strokes of a stick or cane upon the floor of the house or deck. All boats, of course, carried bells, and by them all notices of departure and of arriving were made known, and all salutes between boats were given by their bells. To blow steam, as is done now by a whistle, was intended to be a challenge or an insult.

In July, 1837, the first steam launch, the Sweetheart, 35 feet in length, 4 feet 3 inches of beam and 3 feet depth, engine 4x12 inches, wheels 3 feet 6 inches in diameter and boiler horizontal fire-tubular, designed and constructed at the United States Navy-yard, New York by the writer, then chief engineer of the navy, was completed, and on her trial and succeeding trips around the city of New York, was saluted with the bells of passing steamboats and cheered by people who rushed to the ends of the piers to witness the novel sight. She attained a speed of 8.5 miles per hour. The engine was subsequently transferred to the United States Naval School at Annapolis.

Fuel, up to the year 1836, was wholly pine wood, though up to that time some owners of steamboats commenced experimenting upon the practicability of using anthracite coal. A Steamboat on her route of six or more hours could not have the capacity in her fireroom to contain all the wood required, and was compelled to pile it upon her side houses, and such boats as were on a long route, as from New York to Providence, were compelled to invade their upper deck with wood, and upon leaving the city had somewhat the semblance of a floating woodyard.

In 1839 anthracite coal was introduced in the furnaces of the steamboat North America, plying on the Hudson River between New York and Albany, and, to aid its combustion when a high pressure of steam was required, a fan-blower, driven by a belt from the wheel shaft, was first resorted to, but soon afterward a small independent engine, was used, connected by a belt to the blower. Anthracite coal was soon afterward burned without auxiliary draught in the open furnace of a steam boiler.

Why Cats Hiss and Spit.

Why do otherwise well-bred cats hiss and spit when enraged? Dr. Louis Robinson says: "The hissing and spitting of young kittens, even before they see, was, in the first place, probably an attempt to intimidate enemies by making them think that the hole where the helpless wild kittens resided contained a venomous snake. It is a very curious and remarkable fact that many different kinds of creatures which have their homes in shallow holes have a similar habit of spitting when an enemy approaches. Furthermore, I think it probable that the expression of a cat at bay is part of the same instinctive stratagem. We know how general is the horror of the serpent tribe throughout all nature, and hence it seems likely that the serpent-like aspect of the head of an enraged cat, together with its threatening hiss, might disconcert an enemy sufficiently to give an advantage to the cat. Curiously enough, cats of all species have their tails marked transversely in a way which resembles the marking of serpents, and several naturalists have remarked how similar are the sinuous, waving movements of the tail of any angry cat to the movements of the tail of the snake in a state of excitement. The true tabby cat when it is curled up asleep has a curious resemblance to a coiled serpent, and the same is true of many wild cats of different varieties and coming from different parts of the world. If this really is an instance of protective mimicry, I think it is possible that the chief foe guarded against was the eagle. Eagles are very fond of cat's flesh, and it has been remarked by naturalists in various parts of the world that these formidable birds habitually make war upon the smaller feudoe."

Went Home Naked.

The Bookman has heard of a Scotch professor who had been advocating the advantages of athletic exercise. "The Roman youths," he cried, "used to swim three times across the Tiber before breakfast." The Scotch professor exclaimed, "Mr. McAllister, why do you smile? We shall be glad to share your amusement." The canny Scot replied, "I was just thinking, sir, that the Roman youths must have left their clothes on the wrong bank at the end of their swim."

Long Distance Identification.

An English defaulting bank manager, who had eluded the police for three years by staying in a sea-side village near Plymouth, was discovered by a strange accident. While strolling on the beach with a young woman watching the warships a sailor on board a cruiser, who happened to come from the town whence the defaulter had absconded, looked through a telescope, recognized him, and informed the police.

A LITTLE FELLOW'S DEATH.

Chauncey Field Runyon Unable to Survive Injuries Received in a Fall.

In the death of Chauncey Field Runyon, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Runyon, of Madison avenue, a bright little fellow has been taken away, and the bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community. The boy was a favorite in the household and with all who knew him.

Five years ago the little fellow underwent an operation which saved his life. It was performed by the late Dr. Chauncey Field, after whom the boy was named. He had practically recovered from that illness, but had always been physically weak. His last illness lasted eight days, and was the result of a fall which he received a week ago last Monday. He was playing with some boys at the home of Howard Runyon, Rahway road, and while playing he fell over a pile of stones, injuring his abdomen. He was properly treated, and it was believed that he was recovering from the trouble.

Yesterday there was a consultation of physicians from New York and this city, and it was decided that an operation would prove fatal, but there was still slight hopes that he might recover. A turn for the worse came last night and at 12:45 o'clock this morning the boy passed away. His parents and those closely related are heartbroken over the sudden affair. Announcement of the funeral services will be made later.

SMITH IS A MARK FOR HIGHWAYMEN.

New Market Man Held Up Twice Within a Month.

HAD A REVOLVER THIS TIME

DESPERADOES INTERCEPTED HIM AT THE EIGHT ROW.

The Robbers Were Masked and Were Evidently After the Watch That He Hid From Them Before When They Held Him Up—Threatened to Shoot and the Fellows Made Their Escape.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 16—An attempt at highway robbery was committed near this place yesterday morning about 3 o'clock when William Smith, a baker, residing at New Market, was attacked by two men who appeared to be masked. Mr. Smith is the same man that was held up at the same place a few weeks ago when $14 in money was stolen. His watch and other valuables he threw in his bread box at that time and thus prevented the thieves from taking them.

The attempt made yesterday morning was while Smith was on his way home from Plainfield where he gets his stock of baked stuff from George Voehl, of West Front street. It was very dark, and when Smith reached the eight row he was startled to see a man jump on the step of his wagon and inquire as to what time it was. Mr. Smith retained his presence of mind, and told the stranger that it was about time that he got off the wagon.

Just then another man made a grab for the horse. Smith drew his revolver, and told both men that if they did not escape he would blow their brains out. At first the men laughed at him. But on second consideration they decided to take his advice for they could plainly see in the dark that Mr. Smith had his revolver pointed at them. They then made themselves scarce and disappeared in the darkness.

Mr. Smith is inclined to believe that the two men that attacked him yesterday morning are the same two that stole his money a few weeks ago, and that they live in this vicinity. Judging by their actions he thinks that they are well acquainted with his movements and know when to look for him. He is now prepared to meet them and says that if they try their tricks on him again he will give them their money's worth.

BLAZE AT CHURCH DOOR.

LIGHTNING PAID A VISIT TO CRESCENT AVENUE EDIFICE.

Converter Burned Out and the Woodwork Caught Fire—Fire Department Called Out, but Was Not Needed.

The lightning paid a visit to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and made it necessary for the fire department to turn out. The damage was slight owing to the fact that the sexton happened to be near at hand and saw the blaze as soon as it started.

The lightning went into the church over the electric light wires and burned out the converter which is located over the Crescent avenue entrance to the chapel. The packing in the converter caught fire and the woodwork began to blaze. A great cloud of black smoke began to pour out of the entrance.

The sexton was at work on the lawn, using the garden hose. He immediately turned the stream on the scene of the fire while a still alarm was sent to fire headquartes by telephone. Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, Jr., and No. 2 hose wagon responded.

As soon as Chief Murray reached the place, he instructed Harry Bush to send in an alarm from box 25, corner of Watchung avenue and East Sixth street. The department responded in short order, all the call men turning out. The fire was practically out when the department arrived. The damage was slight.

SCHOOL BOYS DECLAIMED

CLOSING EXERCISES OF JUNIOR DEPARTMENT OF MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL.

Held This Morning and Were Well Attended by Families and Friends of the Pupil.—Here are the Winners

The closing exercises of the junior department of Mr. Leal's School were held this morning at the school building on West Front street. They were well attended. The exercises included a prize speaking contest and singing by the junior department and the school, under the direction of Charles L Lewis.

The declamation contest was particularly interesting, ten of the boys, from eight to twelve years of age, participating. They had been all carefully drilled by Prof. Edgar B. Smith, one of Mr. Leal's instructors, and the contest passed off without a break. The boys did unusually well and reflected much credit on their instructor.

The judges were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges and Harry Bushnell, of this city, and Edward H. Stedman, of New York city They awarded first prize to Percy Addison Chapman, whose selection was "Marmion and Douglass," by Scott. Second prize went to Frank Peterson Simons, who gave "Trick versus Trick," by Wood, as his declamation. Honorable mention was given to Effingham Amory Pinto. His declamation was "The Painter of Seville," by Wilson. The other speakers were Emery McKeen Miller, Gordon Wilson Abbott, Joseph Sherman, Robert Abbott, Walter Vaughn McGee, Samuel Wickham Corwin and Alfred S. T. Mason.

The closing exercise of the senior department will be held in the Casino Monday night.

FOWLER MAY GET A FINE CHAIRMANSHIP.

His Prospects on Banking and Currency Committee.

VERY IMPORTANT PLACE.

JERSEY CONGRESSMAN WELL VERSED IN FINANCE.

It is Believed That Fowler Has a Good Chance for the Selection at the Hand of the New Speaker—If He Gets it He Will Have to be Promoted Over Other Members of the Committee Who Aspire.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, June 16.—Among those who know his qualifications for the place, some interest is excited here by the talk of Representative Fowler's candidacy for the chairmanship of the Committee on Banking and Currency. Of three or four members of the old committee, who were notable for their activity and who were reelected to the LVIth Congress, Mr. Fowler is regarded as one of the best fitted for the place. He is considered an authority on finance, having devoted more attention to it than to all other subjects put together since he has been in Congress, and having come here with a reputation for ability and knowledge in that department. It is not clear who will be chosen by the Speaker for chairman.

Mr. Brosius, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. McCleary, of Minnesota, like Mr. Fowler, will probably seek the place, unless Mr. Brosius shall be content with the chairmanship of the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service. Mr. VanVoorhis, of Ohio, is another member whose position on the late committee outranked the New Jersey representative.

Whether Mr. Henderson will strictly observe precedence on committees or whether he will in the case of a committee like that on Banking and Currency depart from the principle to secure some one not committed to a particular plan or measure, remains to be seen. It was stated today by a Congressman who talked with him last week that he is disposed to reappoint the old chairmen, and possibly to promote in the regular line where there are vacancies to be filled on account of the non-election of the former chairman, but he did not enter fully into the subject.

It is believed that Mr. Fowler has a good chance if there is a slight departure from the line of precedence and Messrs. Brosius and VanVoorhis are not applicants for the chairmanship. It is recollected, however, that there was a quarrel in the committee, which was only saved from becoming a quarrel in the House by the forbearance of the New Jersey member between Messrs. McCleary and Fowler, growing out of some matters which occurred in the committee room. Mr. Fowler declined to reply to Mr. McCleary's speech in the House referring to the subject. Whether this controversy will cause both to be left out of consideration for the chairmanship is a question discussed, but about which nobody has a definite statement to make.

WORK ON KEAN'S ROAD.

Contractor Quien Expects to Start it This Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 16—Louis Quien, who has contracted to build Senator Kean's two trolley roads in this city, told a reporter this morning that a cargo of ties and rails for the roads would this week reach this city, via the Central Railroad from Steelton, Pa., and that as soon as these materials were placed on the ground, he would set a large force of men to work, tearing up the old road and pavement, and putting down the new ties and rails, and repaving the streets.

Mr. Quien says most of the steel rails are sixty feet in length, and very heavy. No time will be lost in completing the work, as he has agreed to have cars running on the Jersey street line by the first day of August.

Mr. Quien says he will be able to use the materials as fast as they arrive here. He has advised Senator Kean to pave between the tracks on Morris avenue, and three feet outside, with vitrified brick, and he thinks the Senator will adopt his suggestion, as that sort of roadway will be much prettier than if asphalt is put down between the tracks.

As soon as the work of relaying the tracks is commenced the old horse cars will be put out of service and no cars run until the handsome electric cars are placed in service.

—The Epworth League of the First Methodist church will hold a lawn sociable at 610 Central avenue this evening.

IT IS SLOW PROGRESS.

LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED FOR THE COUNTY BOULEVARD.

Commission to Assess Benefits and Damages Has Passed on a Comparatively Few Pieces of Involved Property.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 16.—The commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages to property owners on the north side of Westfield avenue in connection with the proposed county boulevard between Elizabeth and Plainfield, held another meeting here yesterday.

After being at work for some months the commission has so far only passed upon seventeen out of eighty five pieces of property in Union township alone. At this rate of progress, by the time the commission appraises all the land wanted in Union, Cranford, Westfield, Fanwood, it will be some years before the work is finished.

The commissioners receive $10 a day for their services.

PIPE FELL ON HIS ARM.

An Italian Foreman Hurt Working on Park Avenue Sewer Job.

James Memoranda, an Italian, aged 23 years, and living on Terrill road, was taken to the hospital this morning by Roundsman Fredrickson. The man is a foreman for Patsy Christmas and was working on the Park avenue storm sewer. He had been working about an hour when one of the large pipes fell on his arm and fractured a bone in the forearm. The injury while not a serious one was very painful and caused the man to scream with pain. A fellow-workman nearby was so frightened that he fainted in the trench. Memoranda will be detained at the hospital for a few days.

The boy was uninjured.

JUVENILE PUPILS DISPLAYED TALENT.

Closing Exercises of Miss Fawcett's Private School.

CLEVER DRAMATIC WORK.

"KEEPING HOUSE," A DIALOGUE, CLEVERLY PRESENTED.

Various Characters Assumed by Bright Little People Who Exhibited Much Smartness in the Exellent Manner in Which They Impersonated Their Parts—Complete Programme That was Given

The annual closing exercises of Miss Fawcett's private school and kindergarten at 29 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, were held at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the parlors of Miss Fawcett's residence. There was a very large attendance of the parents and friends of the pupils, and the exercises proved highly entertaining and were creditable to the painstaking efforts of Miss Fawcett, who has a most enviable reputation as an instructor of juveniles. The programme consisted of songs, recitations, dialogues, calisthenics and kindergarten games. The exhibition given by the little folks in their calisthenic exercise was clever and displayed the beneficial results of this class of teaching to excellent advantage. In the recitations and dialogues the children gave evidence of careful training in their elocutionary efforts to excel. A feature of the occasion, and one that was highly enjoyed by all, was the dialogue entitled 'Keeping House," which was exceptionably well rendered, the various characters being portrayed in a manner that would do credit to persons of more advanced years who essay to amateur roles. The scene was laid in "Aunt Polly's Parlor," and the various characters were represented by Masters Reginald Fawcett, Otis Wallace, Carl Nichols, Russell Lawrence, Norman Rhoades and Miss Evelyn Wells, who acted the character of "Aunt Polly" very cleverly. The play caused much merriment, and as it closed unstinted applause greeted the youthful actors.

The exercises were greatly augmented by piano accompaniment by Miss Lillian A. Force, who has devoted much time bringing the musical portion of the programme up to successful merit.

Before the audience left for their homes Miss Fawcett notified the parents and her pupils that the fall term of her school would begin September 18th. The success which has attended Miss Fawcett's efforts to bring her school up to the high standard it has attained is as gratifying to her patrons as it is to the lady herself.

"COUNT" STILL GUARDS.

TROLLEY PEOPLE NOW WORKING ON OTHER SIDE OF HIS LAND.

Officials Say That Something is Going to Happen Pretty Soon—Mortgages Against the "Count's" Property.

"Count" J. K. VanNess still guards his domicle against invasion by the trolley magnates. Wednesday the contractors completed the laying of the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railway as far as the "Count's" property. Yesterday they began east of it and a big gang of two hundred Italians are now busy on the line in the direction of Scotch Plains, leaving the "Count's" land a gap to be bridged over later.

The trolley company officials say that there is something going to happen shortly. The "Count" says let it happen. He still remains intrenched with his cannon aimed.

Lawyer George Ball, of Scotch Plains, who represents "Count" VanNess in his troubles with the trolley, was seen this morning by a Press representative, and informed that the trouble with the trolley company would be adjusted very soon, that the company is going to settle on Mr. VanNess' terms.

When asked as to whether Mr. VanNess owned the property in question, Mr. Ball replied that that made little difference. He admitted that there are a few small mortgages on the property, but held that Mr. VanNess still has control of the property.

FORESTERS FARE WELL.

HONORED THE FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF ORGANIZATION.

Held an Enjoyable Entertainment in Red Men's Hall Last Evening—The Programme Was an Excellent One.

Court Watchung of the Independent Order of Foresters has been in existence for nearly a year and is now a flourishing organization. Last night the members held their first annual entertainment in Red Men's Hall, which practically marked the completion of its first year.

A number of invitations were issued and the friends and families of the members turned out in good numbers to hear a programme well arranged and executed. Recording Secretary John M. Lewis acted as master of ceremenies and gave the introductory welcome in a few well chosen words.

The renderings of Willian Holmes, baritone soloist, and Clarence B. Mills, violinist, called forth repeated applause. Fred J. Pope favored the audience with a well rendered baritone solo. He was accompadied by Stewart Pope with a violin obligato by Mr. Mosher. Alexander Dick, of Court Childs, Elizabeth, gave a short address on "Forestry—What It Is and What It Does." Miss Dick, contralto soloist from Elizaboth, sang "Asleep in the Deep" and "My Susquehanna Sue" in very acceptable fashion. John Ferris, a humorist hailing from Elizabeth, gave his hearers much to laugh at and was well received.

John H. Dravis, of Elizabeth, had a selection on the dulcimer and a comic song as his part of the programme. The popular selections, rendered on the piano by Albert Mertens, of Elizabeth, found special favor with the audience.

After the entertainment there were refreshments to a cooling nature. Then everybody thanked the committee in charge, John M. Lewis, Robert M. Radford, Andrew M. Vanderbeek, R. I Howard and Thos. H. Stafford, and departed homeward.

FORMER FREEHOLDER MISSING FROM HOME

Mysterious Absence of George W. Bullman, of the Borough.

BEEN GONE THREE WEEKS.

RELATIVES UNABLE TO GET TRACE OF HIS WHEREABOUTS.

Went to New York Three Weeks Ago Ostensibly on Business and Has Not Been Seen Since—No Cause Given for His Disappearance — Once Prominent in Political Affairs of Somerset County.

Three weeks ago George W. Bullman, of Stone street, a former member of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, representing the borough of North Plainfield, went to New York ostensibly on business. He expected to return the same evening, but since that time none of his friends or relatives have seen him. After he had been gone from home for a day or two, and it was concluded that something was wrong, his relatives commenced a quiet but thorough search for him.

All the places where he would be liable to go were visited, but not a single trace of his whereabouts have been secured. What could have been the cause of the mysterious disappearance cannot be explained. Mr. Bullman was a contractor and was doing a fair business. He was surrounded by a family consisting of a wife and three children, and lived in a happy, comfortable way.

At one time Bullman was active and and prominent in Somerset county politics, but of late years he has not taken an active part in the Republican party of which he is a member. He is fifty years of age.

IN THE NAME OF HISTORY.

Revolutionary Memorial Society to Meet in the Old Wallace House.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 16.—The Revolutionary Memorial Society of New Jersey will hold its arriversay exercises and the annual meeting at its headquarters here next Saturday. The headquarters are in the old Wallace house, in which Washington made his headquarters in the winter of 1778-'79. The day has been selected because it is the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill and also the battle of Millstone, which was fought near Somerville.

The annual meeting, which will be presided over by Richard F. Stevens, will be held at 11 o'clock a. m. In the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, the anniversary exercises will be held. Governor Voorhees is to make an address.

Addresses will also be made by Mrs. Washington A. Roebling, of Trenton, one of the vice-presidents of the society, and Dr. Persifor Frazer, of Philadelphia, who acquired some celebrity as one of the handwriting experts in the Molineux case. Many notable people are expected to be present.

ADAM FRITZ TO THE RESCUE.

Caught a Frantic Horse That Had Collided With Chief Doane's Gig.

Chief T. O. Doane's gig, in which was seated the chief and his driver, James Bailey, and the plumbing rig of Mr. Leland, of Central avenue, collided this forenoon at the corner of Park avenue and Second street where the storm sewer is being located. It seems that Mr. Leland's horse had escaped from his son who was driving, and was running at a fairly good speed. The narrow passage at the corner made it impossible for the rig to get through without risking the chief's rig.

The two wagons came together with a crash, but fortunately little damage resulted. Mr. Leland's horse became frantic and tried to jump down the manhole at the corner, but Adam Fritz, who happened to be near, quickly caught the horse and prevented further damage. One result of the collision was a slight injury to Chief Doane's hand, but nothing serious.

SOLDIERS ARE ACCUSED.

Spaniards at Nueva Paz Are Said to Have Been Murdered and Robbed.

INVESTIGATION ORDERED

Twenty Soldiers Are Implicated in the Affair—The Crime is Not Due to Politics.

Annexation Talk at Santiago—Discussion Carried On By the Newspapers—Anonymous Circulars Announcing an Outbreak Against Americans to Take Place on June Twenty-Fourth.

Havana, June 16.—Acting Civil Governor Torriente has received a despatch from the Mayor of the town of Nueva Paz giving the details of the recent murders. The despatch states that the murders were committed at Los Musos estate, which is within the boundaries of Los Palos sugar plantation, within sight of the town. The murdered men were Manual Gutierrez his brother Jose and Manuel Fernandez, all Spaniards. They were killed with machetes and their heads were cut off.

The Mayor declares that the crime was not due to politics. The murderers sacked a store belonging to Manuel Gutierrez, securing $79.50 in gold and $50 in silver. According to information from other sources received by Gen. Brooke, the murders were committed by a band of twenty Cuban soldiers. Gen. Brooke is awaiting the result of the investigation he has ordered into the affair.

La Lucha editorially praises the American Government for the appointment of Gonzalo de Quesada as Cuban Commissioner at Washington. It energetically defends Quesada against the attacks made upon him by members of the late Cuban Assembly and their friends.

A meeting of representatives of the striking cabmen and of the cab owners was held at the office of Mayor Lacoste for the purpose of discussing means for ending the strike. After considerable discussion, Mayor Lacoste proposed that the cabmen pay the owner $3.20 per day for first-class and $2.80 for second-class carriages. This was agreed to and it is announced that the strike which has caused great discomfort will end soon.

Santiago de Cuba, June 16.—A violent discussion is being carried on by the press regarding annexation. The newspapers publish many letters for and against the proposition.

Further anonymous circulars have been issued announcing that there will be an outbreak here against the Americans on June 24. The circulars cause no alarm.

Lynched a Sick Negro.

New Orleans, June 16.—Edward Gray, a young negro, 23 years old, from New Orleans, was lynched at Reserve plantation, forty miles above the city. Gray for some time had been living in St. John parish. He was arrested there seven months ago, charged with robbery in the Lacassegu store and was confined in the parish jail. Charles Mocedele, who was arrested at the same time as Gray, was lynched by a mob, but as there was little evidence against Gray the mob allowed his case to go to trial. When the case came up the District Attorney, finding that there was no evidence against Gray, released him. He slept the first night out of prison for months on an open gallery at the Thibodaux plantation. Some men passing recognized him as the negro charged with attempted robbery, dragged him from the gallery, and, tying him to a pecan tree near by, shot him.

Flouring Mill Burned.

Cadillac, Mich., June 16.—The Corbin flouring mill, at Corbin, this county, owned by Arnett & Wilson, of Rowan County, Ky., was destroyed by fire. The mill had recently changed hands, and was undergoing repairs preparatory to resuming operations, and all insurance policies on it had been canceled. The loss is about $12,000.

Light and Traction Company Sold.

Dubuque, Io., June 16.—The Dubuque Light and Traction Company's property was sold by order of the Sheriff for $50,000. It was bid in by the General Electric Company, of Schenectady, N. Y. The price paid is a very low one. The sale has really no significance. It is simply the bondholders buying in the property, which is worth $500,000.

Special Contract Insurance Test.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16—Robert Lowry, a stockholder in the State Life Insurance Company, has brought suit against the company to test the legality of the "special contract" insurance policies issued by them Attorney General Taylor and State Auditor Hart have recently held "special contract" policies illegal.

State Bond Swindle Causes His Arrest.

Boston, Mass., June 16.—Richard W. Jacobs has been arrested here charged with being implicated in negotiating cancelled bonds of the State of Virginia to the face value of $50,000 through James F. Longstreet, a broker, who did not know they were canceled. Loans amounting to $17,000 were obtained on them.

Glorious Fourth at Havana.

Havana, June 16.—Preparations are in progress for a big Fourth of July celebration here.

TEXAS' WAR ON TRUSTS.

Corporations Chartered in New Jersey Not Allowed to Do Business Here.

Austin, Tex., June 16.—Attorney-General T. S. Smith has issued an order to Secretary of State Hardy that no company or corporation chartered under the law of New Jersey for the purpose of doing business in Texas shall receive a permit to transact business in this State. Mr. Smith says that such exclusion can be made on the broad principle that the granting of permits to the companies and corporations alluded to, is against public policy.

Secretary of State Hardy will obey the order. He rejected the application of one corporation that sought to establish a large cotton-seed oil mill at Sherman, Tex. It was incorporate under the laws of New Jersey and applied for a permit to do business in Texas.

One of the questions to be brought up during the anti-trust convention called by Gov. Sayers will be that of New Jersey charters. It will be proposed that an agreement be entered into between the States represented at the St. Louis convention to refuse admission to all corporations operating under articles of incorporation obtained in New Jersey or in any other States which like that State makes a practice of granting franchises to all sorts of associations without regard to their purposes or tendencies.

RICHARD P. BLAND DEAD

Long Conspicuous in Congress as Champion of Silver.

Lebanon, Mo., June 16.—Richard Park Bland, died Thursday morning, after a sleep of thirty-two hours.

Bland was born near Hartford, Ohio County, Ky., on Aug. 19, 1835. His parents died while he was yet a lad, and, being poor, he was thrown upon his own resources. He worked during the summer months to earn money with which to obtain an education, and at the age of eigheten he began to study law. He was admitted to the bar in Missouri. When twenty years old he went to California. Several years later he moved to the Territory of Utah, settling down at Virginia City, which is now included in Nevada. While living there he practiced law and interested himself in mining operations. He was elected county treasurer in 1860. In 1865 he returned to Missouri making his residence at Rolla. He has lived at Lebanon since 1869, where he practised law.

Three Colorado Banks Closed.

Denver, Col., June 16.—Three banks controlled by J. D. Maben, in Creede, Hooper and Monte Vista respectively, have closed their doors. Heavy losses stare the miners and farmers of the several regions in the face. The titles of the collapsed concerns were the Miners' Bank of Creede, D. H. Staley, cashier; the Farmers' Bank of Hooper, E. M. Perden, cashier; and the State Bank of Monte Vista, L. B. Farrar, cashier. There were $90,000 out in loans and discounts.

Wages Voluntarily Raised.

Anderson, Ind., June 16.—The Pennsylvania Glass Company, of Anderson, has given its employes in the quart shops an advance of 15 per cent. The Pennsylvania company operates two plants in Anderson, one in Ingalls and one in Frankton. The advance was voluntary on the part of the management, and joyfully received. The Indiana Glass Company, of Middletown, Ind., has locked out its employes and shut down the factory in Indiana.

When first seen by Engineer Notte he was sitting on the track, and just before the engine struck him he folded his arms and dropped his head on them. Eight cars pased over him, cutting off both arms and legs.

Ahom Won the Big Derby.

New York, June 17.—"Pittsburg Phil," the plunger, who is known in private life as Mr. George E. Smith, is still the Napoleon of the American turf. Yesterday he brought off one of his most particularly fortunate incidents, when his colt, Ahom, won the Brooklyn Derby, worth $8,000 to the winner, and landed for his owner the snug fortune of $50,000 in bets.

S. Barker, who succeeded Admiral Dewey in temporary command of the station. Captain Barker will return to the United States at once.

THE BIG STRIKE SPREADS

Thirty Thousand Men Likely to be Thrown Out of Employment Very Soon

MANY SMELTERS CLOSED

The Works at Some Places in Colorado Are Guarded But No Demonstrations Have Occurred.

Many Mines Shutting Down or Reducing Forces—Five Thousand Railroad Men May Be Involved if the Trouble Continues—Bituminous Coal Miners' Strike Looks Serious.

Denver, June 16.—Thirty thousand men in Colorado will be out of work within the next three days unless steps are taken to end the strike of the smelter employes. The Omaha and Grant and the Globe in Denver, the Bimetallic and the Arkansas Valley at Leadville, the Eiters and the Colorado smelters at Pueblo are closed. The Argo smelter in Denver has complied with the eight-hour law and is still running. The Guggenheim smelter at Pueblo also is running. The closed works are under guard, but the men made no demonstrations. At Central City the employes of the stamp mills have struck.

These mines have already closed: The Commodore, Amethyst, Bachelor, Bachelor No. 2 and Last Chance mines, in the Creede district; the Calliope and Hagerty, at Ouray; the Caribean and Montezuma, near Ophir; the Iron Mask and Black Iron, at Red Cliff; the Smuggler, at Aspen.

The Porter Fuel Company at Durango has closed, throwing 150 men out of work. From all parts of the State come reports that mines are reducing forces. At Leadville 900 men have been discharged. Should the mines close all over the State 5,000 railroad men will be thrown out of work.

Four mines of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, three near Canyon City and one in Pitkin County, have been shut down on account of wage differences.

More Rioting in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 16.—While the sixth day of the street railway men's strike started peaceably enough, there was serious rioting before night, and three non-union men were taken to hospitals in consequence. The trouble began near the Lake View car barns.

A crowd gathered and attacked a car on which several non-union men were riding without police protection. The conductor was hauled from the platform and stones and bricks were hurled at the car. The mob assaulted some of the other non-union men on the car, injuring them severely, but the rioters had disappeared when the police arrived.

Soon afterward another car was attacked in another street, apparently by the same mob. There were several women passengers in the car, but bricks and stones were hurled through the windows. The women screamed and made a rush for the doors, and all escaped injury. The conductor was knocked unconscious by a stone, and the motorman was so badly hurt by a shower of bric kand stone that he had to be sent with the conductor to a hospital. In this case, as in the other, the mob had dispersed when the police arrived.

A little later a third car was stopped by a crowd of men. The conductor and motorman were beaten with clubs and kicked brutally. One was so badly injured that it was necessary to send him to a hospital. This mob also disappeared before the police arrived.

Bituminous Coal Mine Strike

Altoona, Pa., June 16.—The strike of bituminous coal miners continues to spread. The whole Clearfield district is now idle, with the exception of a few small mines.

The strikers are orderly. In districts where they have not quit work in a body operations are practically at a standstill, the men sitting about on fences, smoking and discussing the strike. The sidings are full of empty cars. Two weeks ago the operators were keeping the wires hot with demands for cars, the market being very active.

It is generally conceded among local operators that an advance of from 10 to 15 cents per ton on the product will result from the action of the miners, as the operators, with few exceptions, prefer contraction of business to a complete shut-down.

This proposition is being discussed by the operators to-day. It may be the solution of the problem. The striking miners are now receiving the highest wages paid since the civil war.

The Situation at Buffalo.

Buffalo, June 16.—The situation on the docks is practically unchanged. President McMahon, of Local No. 109, International Longshoremen's Association, says the scoopers probably would not strike at present. President Keefe is expected here, and an effort will be made to settle the differences between the freight handlers and their employers.

He Used a Hat Pin.

Anderson, Ind., June 16.—Carrie Lautzey was peculiarly assaulted by Jas. Farren. She came into police headquarters with a hat pin sticking in her skull and had the police pull it out. She filed an affidavit against Farren charging him with sticking it there. By a miracle the pin did not hit a vital point.

One of Twelve Heirs to a Million.

Noblesville, Ind., June 16.—Mrs. Alfred Burroughs one of the twelve heirs to the million-dollar estate of Charles Phillis, has been located here after a search of many years. Phillis died in Madison County, Ohio, in 1891.

Doc Carver's Slayer on Trial.

Fort Worth, Tex., June 16.—Frank Fossett, who shot and killed Doc Carver May 29, is on trial for his life in the Seventeenth District Court. The state is attempting to make out a case of murder in the first degree.

A journeyman barber in Cincinnati, a specially intelligent man and a favorite with his patrons, says of

RIPANS Tabules

"I want to say that for eight months I have taken three a day, and have not been to see a doctor once since I commenced to take them. Before I would have to have a big tube put down my throat and have my stomach flushed (I believe that is what they call it) three times every week by a doctor that charged me 50 cents for every time. Of course, that gave me relief, but the trouble always came back again, and I can tell you it was no fun to be pumped out about every two days. The doctor said I had catarrh of the stomach. Whatever it was, it don't bother me now. For four years I was troubled, so that I used to lose about three days out of every month." When this barber observes that a customer has a feverish breath, he occasionally presents him with a Tabule, and if taken it removes the difficulty forthwith.

HE WELCOMES AMERICANS

The Mayor of Imus Tells Gen. Lawton He is Glad Our Soldiers Came

THE ROUT IS COMPLETE

Backbone of the Insurrection in the Province is Officially Said to Be Practically Broken.

The Natives Reduced to an Exceedingly Small Supply of Ammunition—Fourteen Spanish Prisoners Escape—Bacoor and Las Pinas Full of Men Who Are Again Working in the Fields.

Manila, June 16.—Evidences accumulate that the demoralization of the Filipinos since the defeat of the natives at Zapote is widespread. The Mayor of Imus, carrying a gold-headed cane and wearing his badge of authority, walked into Bacoor and formally surrendered his town. He was sent to Gen. Lawton at Las Pinas.

The Mayor told Gen. Lawton that the people of Imus were very glad that the Americans had come. He also told Gen. Lawton that the Filipinos passed through Imus in utter confusion, carrying with them 100 dead and 300 wounded. Thirteen of their dead were buried at Imus. The removal of the Filipino arsenal, cartridge factory and powder mill at Imus was begun, and was hardly completed when the enemy, 2,000 strong, retreated to Buenavista and Das Marinas. The natives were in such a hurry to get away from Imus that they were unable to keep watch over their Spanish prisoners, fourteen of whom made their escape. The Mayor added that the natives were reduced to the smallest supply of ammunition. This statement, however, is surprising.

Apparently the backbone of the insurrection in the Cavite province is broken, and the road is reported clear to Cavite. Inhabitants of Cavitievieljo walked to Bacoor to sell supplies. The brief campaign has been more effective than ever Gen. Lawton anticipated. A priest at Las Pinas told Gen. Lawton that 4,000 Filipinos were defending Zapote. Each man swore upon the crucifix that he would not leave the field alive. Gen. Lawton thinks that their defeat under such circumstances accounts for their demoralization.

A substantial bridge has been built at Paranaque, and preparations are being made to hold the towns. The people of the country covered by the Americans are swarming back to the towns. Paranaque had experienced the profits of American trade, in 1898 and is glad to renew it. Bacoor and Las Pinas are full of men working in the fields, repairing houses and apparently settling down to business after five months' pillage by the Filipinos.

Washington, June 16.—After a very careful consideration the President has decided to organize three volunteer regiments from among the State volunteers now in the Philippines and those men of the regular service in Gen. Otis's command who enlisted for the period of the Spanish-American war only and who are entitled to discharge. These volunteers will number about 4,000 men, to be charged against the 35,000 volunteers authorized by the last Congress.

Notice has been sent to Gen. Otis that the regiments are to be organized, and he has been directed to make selections of officers from among those whose services in the Philippines have been conspicuously gallant and meritorious. Through the mustering in of these new organizations the Philippines army will be increased to nearly 35,000 men, or 5,000 more than Gen. Otis asked for.

There has evidently been a change of mind on the part of the Administration within the past twenty-four hours in regard to the method of raising the additional troops. This has probably been due to opposition to the plan of reducing the artillery batteries and the cavalry troops in the United States to skeleton formation in order to provide for men for Gen. Otis's command. The original intention was not to organize any volunteers.

The idea of organizing volunteers was considered, however, and Gen. Otis was asked by telegraph if any of the State volunteers now serving in the Philippines would reenlist for two years or until the end of the insurrection.

He has answered that 2,500 of the volunteers are willing to reenlist, and that with these and regulars whose terms of service have expired and who would probably be willing to enter the volunteer organizations if bounty were given them he can get three full regiments. Special inducements will be offered to all men who reenlist. They will receive all final allowances, and in addition get travel pay from the Philippines to the places of enlistment in the United States, amounting in every case to more than $400.

The War Department is not satisfied that all the men for the new regiments can be secured in the Philippines and is considering the advisability of opening recruiting offices in the United States to secure the number that may be lacking. Nothing will be done in that particular, however, until Gen. Otis has wired the number of men he can secure in the Philippines.

Searching for Missing Woman.

Holliston, Mass., June 16.—Mrs. Walter R. Morse, wife of the station agent and postmaster at East Hampton, is missing and foul play is believed to be the cause. She visited her mother at Millis and started to return. En route lay through a lonely, desolate wood, near an abandoned cemetery at East Holliston. Later the carriage in which she rode was seen without her. A posse of fifteen men is searching the vicinity.

Ban on Electric Vehicles.

Chicago, June 16.—The South Park Board adopted a new rule forbidding the use of vehicles propelled by means of electricity in any of the driveways or boulevards controlled by the Board The reason given for the passage of the rule was that the vehicles are a menace to the safety of pedestrians, bicyclists or persons driving in the parks or boulevards.

REPORTERS THREATENED!

Whites and Howards Exercise Close Censorship Over News sent Out.

Lexington, Ky., June 16.—Returning soldiers have disclosed the fact that the Whites and Howards exercised a close censorship over the news sent out from Manchester during the stay of the troops there. They told correspondents that they would be killed if they sent out reports that the Bakers could not get a fair trial there. When "Tom" Baker was shot the correspondents were on their horses ready to leave. Believing the Whites would carry out their threats, they rode to London as fast as their horses could carry them and sent a courier back to Col. Williams for particulars. Having learned that several couriers had been searched on the road, the colonel hid the message in the clothing of the man and when several of White's followers stopped and searched him a few miles from town, they found nothing.

Feud Results in Anarchy.

London, Ky., June 16.—Judge H. C. Eversole arrived here and sent a messenger to Judge A King Cook, who was elected special Judge to act in the absence of Judge Eversole asking him to adjourn court. Judge Cook called the case of Frank Fisher, charged with killing Jim Philpot, and found that it was impossible to get the witnesses. Judge Eversole says he will not go to Manchester because he does not think it safe to do so. He says holding court there at this time is impossible and he does not propse to endanger his life and the lives of the witnesses and litigants and has adjourned court indefinitely.

Pennsylvania Bribery Case

Harrisburg, Pa., June 16.—The legislative bribery cases have been given to the Grand Jury and it is understood that the jury will be specially instructed by the Court. The prosecution is ready to go ahead, and District Attorney Miller says he will call the cases for trial this week if the usual criminal list is disposed of. Former Congressman Monroe H. Kulp, former Senator John J. Coyle, Representative Charles B. Spatz, former Representative Thomas Moyles, Robert Evans and other defendants are here with their counsel.

Minnesota Iron Output.

Chicago, June 16.—A. R. Flower, one of the directors of the Federal Steel Company, who, with a party of officers of the Minnesota Iron Company has completed the annual inspection of the Minnesota property of the Federal Company, left for New York. Before leaving Mr. Flower said: "The output of the Minnesota mines this year will be 3,000,000 tons. Iron and its porducts will be no dearer this year—higher prices will not be the result of the great output—if anything I should say prices will rule lower."

Protest Against Seed Distribution.

Cincinnati, O., June 16.—The American Association of Seedsmen at its convention here unanimously adopted a resolution protesting against the Government's present policy of free distribution of seeds. The Committee on Postal Matters was instructed by resolution to endeavor in every way to have the Goverument issue fractional currency. Two new members were received. Several papers were read on seed culture and traffic.

Railroad Wreck at Gosport, Ind.

Martinsville, Ind., June 16.—A head-on collision at Gosport, fourteen miles west, on the Indianapolis and Vincennes Railway, between a passenger and a freight, demolished both engines and several cars without loss of life, though many passengers were more or less bruised. Mail Clerk Frederick Dicutt, of Indianapolis, sustained a severe scalp wound and three broken ribs.

Young Woman Suicides.

Hamilton, Ohio, June 16.—Maria Cline, aged 33, suicided here by hanging herself in the cellar of her home on Vine street with a piece of clothesline. She fastened the rope to one of the joists, and, adjusting the noose about her neck while standing on a box, then kicked the box from under her and swung into eternity. Melancholia is attributed as the cause of her rash act.

Monday they will attend Ivy Day exercises at Smith College, and visit Mount Tom. Tuesday they will attend the commencement exercises at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, where their niece, Miss Grace McKinley, will graduate.

Niagara, a Steamer, Lost in a Storm on the Volga River in Russia.

Saratow, June 16.—One hundred and twenty persons, passengers and crew, have been lost by the sinking of the Niagara, an American-built steamer, in the Volga River. The Niagara foundered during a terrific storm.

She was a staunch vessel and it was thought that either the master lost his head or the steering or other machinery was broken, allowing the Niagara to drift upon some sunken obstruction and start her plates.

The disaster occurred as the steamer was proceeding on her way near Tschernijijar.

There are several American-built vessels named Niagara, but the only one of any size was the former Ward Liner Niagara, which plied between New York and Havana. She was sold at the outbreak of the war to the Government, and when hostilities had ceased was sold to some foreign shipping firm.

The Ward steamship people think that this vessel is the one that sunk in the Volga.

Democrats Break Deadlock.

Harrisburg, June 16.—The contest before the Democratic State Convention for Supreme Court Justice ended with the unanimous nomination of Judge S. L. Mestrezat of Fayette County on the twenty-eight ballot. Charles J. Reilly of Williamsport, permanent chairman of the convention, was nominated by acclamation for Justice of the Superior Court, and Representative William T. Creasy of Columbia was the unanimous choice for State Treasurer.

After making these nominations the convention adjourned. The convention was probably the most remarkable political gathering ever held in this State. Aside from the splendid personnel of the delegates and the good feeling that prevailed among the friends of the various candidates for Supreme Justice, it was remarkable for having continued through two days.

Wreckers Find Wealth.

Athens, June 16.—Greek divers who are working on the wreck of the Russian flagship which was sunk in Greek waters in 1770, say that the hull of the vessel is literally filled with gold and silver coins. The attention of the divers is directed only to the gold coins, of which 11,000 have already been recovered, and the sum is being largely added to every day. The divers say the bottom of the sea about the wreck is heaped with silver pieces of the size of a dollar, together with jewels, swords and other articles of value.

Monument Site Selected.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 16.—The distinguished parties from New York, who have been here to inspect the various monuments of that state on Chickamauga Park reservation, have left for Gettysburg, Pa. While here the Monument Association selected the site for the peace monument to be erected on the Point Park government reservation, the plans of which have already been made. The monument will be 100 feet high and will contain a roster of all the troops in that campaign about this city. The work will begin in thirty days.

Still Danger at Pana.

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—Captain Couch, of Peoria, who has been in command of the troops stationed at Pana for several months, and who was relieved there Monday by Maj. Cabanis, of Kinmundy, was in the city yesterday en route home. Captain Couch called at the Governor's office and made a report of the situation. He is of the opinion that it would be dangerous to take the troops away from Pana at this time, as the feeling is just as bad now as it has been at any time.

Cotton Fiber in the Bread

Poughkeepsie, June 16.—Two little children are dying in the town of Kinderhook, near here, and the legal authorities are debating the advisability of making an arrest. In order to find out who had been stealing portions of her children's lunch when they were in school, a Kinderhook woman gave them bread spread over with paris green. Later in the day the baskets were robbed, as usual, and two little colored children were found suffering from paris green poisoning

Bull Killed Them Both.

Lafayette, Ind., June 16.—George Laurie, a wealthy farmer of Huntington County, was trampled to death by a vicious bull which he was feeding. His wife, attracted by his screams, also was killed by the maddened animal. The bull had to be killed before relatives could remove the mangled bodies of the victims.

Poincare Forming a New Cabinet.

Paris, June 16.—M. Poincare has informed President Loubet that he will take the War portfolio, in addition to the presidency of the Council. M. Meline, in an interview with M. Poincare, strongly urged the latter to form a Cabinet whose main plank will be the settlement of the Dreyfus affair.

New York's Little Shops.

New York, with all its greatness, is in some respects the most condensed place on earth. Down in Mulberry street there is a shop just wide enough for a cobbler's bench and hardly long enough to permit three customers to stand in line. Here the industrious doctor of soles sits all day long and plies his trade, interrupted occasionally by a customer, who obscures his day light.

There are cigar stores so diminutive that a man can scarcely turn around in them. In Broadway, not far from Herald Square, is a place for the sale of the fragrant weed in which a customer can hardly lift his arm without knocking down a box of cigarettes or a pile of stogies. It's the proper thing for the purchaser to back out of the place after cautiously applying the match to his recently acquired cigar.

Smallest of all is a restaurant near the South ferry, where there are a shelf and three chairs, and the pies are placed on edge. On busy days those who desire the particular brand of crullers, stew and coffee offered there for sale are obliged to wait outside the door for a place at the shelf.

A Giant Moose Head.

The largest moose head on record is in the possession of Mr. W. F. Sheard of Tacoma, Wash. It is the head of an Alaskan moose and the antlers measure from tip to tip 6 feet 6 inches. The widest moose antlers in England were in the possession of his royal highness the duke of Edinburgh. They measured 59¼ inches across or ¾-inch under 5 feet. The Alaskan specimen, 6 inches higher than a 6-foot man, is also immensely wide and massive in the "palm" of the horns.

An Old House.

The oldest house in America is in St. Augustine, Fla. In 1564, is was built by the monks of the Order of St. Francis and the whole of the solid structure is composed of coquina, a combination of sea shells and mortar, which is almost indestructable. When Francis Drake sacked and burned the town this was the only house left in the trail of destruction. It has been purchased by the well known antiquarian, J. W. Henderson, who will make it his winter residence.

A Wonderful Carpet.

The Queen of England is possessed of one of the most remarkable articles ever made in prison. The superintendent of Agra jail two years ago received an order to weave a carpet of special design for her majesty. On it 28 of the deftest convicts of the establishment have been engaged. The carpet measures 77 feet by 40 feet, and is estimated to contain no fewer than 20,000,000 stitches.

A Black Record.

There is no part of the world which has such a black record for wrecks as the narrow Baltic sea. The number in some years has averaged more than one a day, the greatest number of wrecks recorded in one year being 154. About 50 per cent. of these vessels became total wrecks, all the crews being lost.

Matrimonial Lottery.

A matrimonial lottery takes place four times a year in Smolensk, Russia. A young maiden is raffled for, 5,000 tickets being issued at 1 rouble each. The money is given to the girl as her dowry, and the holder of the lucky ticket marries the girl.

Encouraging little rights is as helpful as criticising great wrongs.

The Governor's Duty.

Texas is to put the ban on New Jersey corporations organized under the tax laws of this State. The edict in that connection has already been sounded by no less a Texan personage than the Governor of the Lone Star State. His executive highness declares that companies who would do business in his commonwealth must not come there with a New Jersey charter. By implication he declares that there can be nothing worse for the welfare of the country than the trust-bred corporations of New Jersey.

Besides putting the stigma of official dissaproval upon such business concerns in his own State, the Texan Governor is getting up an anti-trust convention of State officials to be held in St. Louis. At this meeting it is the purpose of making the New Jersey trust laws a particular subject for discussion, with a view to taking concerted action to repeal the invasion of New Jersey corporations into neighboring commonwealths.

Such a movement as this against New Jersey should put our eminent State officials on the defensive. First and foremost in this line, of course, comes the Governor. The Governor has enunciated many honeyed words of approval for New Jersey's trust-breeding statutes. If the Governor is honest and sincere in his ideas it is his profound duty to attend this convention of anti-trust officials and convince them of the error of their way. Not only this—it is a duty he owes to the State. As its chief he cannot afford—if he is conscientious—to let other Governors combine together to wreak vengeance against the money-making laws of New Jersey.

In this connection the Newark Evening News makes this very pat suggestion:

"It is in a missionary spirit that the Governor and Attorney-General would attend the St. Louis conference. They would go filled with a spirit of pity for their mistaken brethren and a burning desire to persuade them of their error. If the Governor and Attorney-General have any doubts as to their own argumentative powers, there are plenty of corporation lawyers prepared to prime them with proofs that not only are trusts indispensable to modern industrial development, but that the liberal corporation laws of New Jersey by permitting the easy combination of capital for any and all purposes have conferred a blessing on humanity for which future generations will, for all time, hold them in grateful remembrance."

The business competition of these booming days has become so tremendous in power and scope that it requires the most aggressive tactics to enable the ambitious merchant to keep pace with his rivals, says the Philadelphia Record. He must not recede; he must not even stand still. "Let well enough alone" is not the proper motto for him. Energy, courage and perseverance in the management of his establishment, and especially in the matter of good newspaper advertising, are the qualities which enable him to reach and maintain a position in the forefront of the procession of successful men.

Mayor Jones, of Toledo, has given out a general letter to the public in which he states that he may or may not become an independent candidate for Governor of Ohio. He will become a candidate if he finds the reform movement sufficiently strong. He states that he is not working with either party and that if the sentiment found and created by the Columbus labor convention develops he will be in the field. Evidently Mayor Jones is not willing to be a public sacrifice to political principles without some chance of getting office.

Morris county, like Union, is considering the advisability of establishing and operating its own insane asylum for the care of patients who are now inmates of State institutions. It costs the county $25,000 a year to care for its insane under the present arrangement, but it is figured that if the county maintained its own asylum the expense would be reduced almost one-half. At least that has been the experience of every county that maintains an institution of this kind.

Plainfield's alert and efficient Tax Collector may have a rival in the Collector of Elsworth, Me., says the Newark News. A young man in that town allowed himself to be mesmerized by a traveling hypnotist and to lie in a store show-window for twenty-four hours—all for a fee of $10. While he slept the Tax Collector filed the necessary legal claim for the $10, and the sleeper awoke to find his poll tax for the past three years paid.

Now and then we hear something about the Union county boulevard, but it is never action that would seem to indicate that the project is nearing consummation. The idea was a colossal one, but like other great schemes it seems to be dwindling.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The proposed railway from Paterson to Morristown and from Whitehouse to Flemington will open up a large and inviting section of this part of New Jersey to attract thousands of population from other States. The region lying between Paterson and Morristown is charming in scenery and full of delightful locations for towns and hamlets. The Morris and Essex railroad, in its weak and inefficient way, did much to develop the Oranges, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Short Hills and Summit, and if it had pursued an enterprising and generous policy the benefits would have been vastly greater, both to the community and to the railroad company. The managers of the new railroad enterprise can study with profit the policy and results of the Morris and Essex railroad in Essex and Union counties.—Newark Advertiser.

ACETYLENE IN NAVAL WARFARE.

If experiments to be made by the navy department prove successful, acetylene gas will become a valuable assistance in sea fighting at night. Shells filled with calcium carbide may be discharged to a distance of two miles.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Plainfield is the only town in New Jersey that is lucky enough this year to be allowed an increase in letter carriers. Two of the carriers will be apportioned to Plainfield proper and one to North Plainfield. So far as known the Plainfield office is the only one in the country that serves communites in two different Congressional districts. The office is located in Congressman Fowler's district, but a large portion of its territory is in North Plainfield, Somerset county, which is in Congressman Howell's bailiwick. The latter has no voice, however, in the appointment of the postmaster. It is an unusual thing for a Congressman to represent a town of 5,000 people and yet not have a political perquisite in the appointment of a postmaster.

John Frech is about to abandon his stage route between Somerville and Raritan. For nearly twenty years John has been carrying people between these two places in all kinds of weather. He bought the route for $500 and had to borrow $100 of that to pay for it. He had only two horses to start with. By hard work and frugality John has become a well-to-do citizen of Raritan and the owner of considerable real estate besides having nine head of horses for his stages. The trolley has ruined John's business so far as the ordinary traffic is concerned and he is thinking of going to Morristown, where there seems to be a good opening for a stage route. The Raritan stage is such a familiar vehicle, and "John," as he is familiarly known, has been regarded as such an indispensable person, that their departure from Somerville and Raritan life will be an event to be regretted.

* * * * *

The large number of "commuters" seen about the railroad station from 7 to 8:30 o'clock each morning gives an air of bustle about the places that is truly interesting to the stranger unaccustomed to these sights. It is estimated that fully 1,800 men and women leave town daily for "the city," only to return again at night. To some extent Plainfield, like many another town or city within a radius of fifty miles of New York, is but a bed room for the large contingent that daily does business in the greatest city on the Western Hemisphere. This class of people—at least many of them—are among Plainfield's most wealthy and prominent men—prominent in New York as well as in this city where they keep their families and make their home. With the return of the 'commuter" early in the evening all is again life and bustle about the railroad station. Many of the private conveyances—some of them costly and nearly all stylish—are at hand to convey their owners to elegant homes, while the public cabman, whose name is legion, stands on North avenue and solicits his fare from in front of the station. Then off roll the equippages in all directions and for fully an hour the streets of the city are filled with vehicles of all sorts and kinds, from the stylish Victoria drawn by a pair of thoroughbred cobs, to the cab of the plebian, which is often fringed on either side by a score or more of bicycles. The scene is as animated as it is interesting and one of the sights peculiar to Plainfield as well as other suburbs of Gotham.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion effects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

DAINTY LINGERIE.

We still have many of the sample garments left notwithstanding the enormous sale of them. This is a rare opportunity to get fine garments at exactly ⅔ value.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Don't trust your shoeing to any one who is not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. Our reference is NOT to people who are out of the State, but to OUR CUSTOMERS, who can be found right here in the city and vicinity.

FIRST WOMAN GRADUATE

Miss C. E. Brewer, of Macon, Ga., Now Mrs. Benson, Enjoys That Distinction.

The first woman in this country to receive a college diploma was Miss C. E. Brewer, of Macon, Ga., now Mrs. Benson. The diploma was conferred by the Georgia Female College, the first female educational institution in the United States to glory in the name of college. It was chartered by the Georgia Legislature in 1836, and in 1844 changed its name to the Wesleyan Female College, under which title it has flourished ever since. Year after year it has sent out its Bachelors of Art, coming up to fifty-eight in one year, and with no break, even during the Civil War, while it has bestowed its advantages on hundreds of women who could not complete its full course. A perusal of its catalogue is a complete refutation of the bug-bear that college education prevents marriage, for it requires close scrutiny to find a name that has not been changed.

When the college opened six young women entered "half advanced" and completed their course, and were duly graduated July 16, 1840. The alphabetical list of the graduates began with Miss C. E. Brewer, and into her hand was put the first diploma for college work ever given to a woman in this or any other country. It stated that the recipient "had completed the regular courses of study of the college, embracing all the sciences usually taught in the colleges of the United States, with such as especially belong to female education in its most ample ranges." The studies of the Senior class were Latin, French or Greek, astronomy, physical geography, geology, physiology, mental philosophy, moral philosophy, analysis of English classics and composition and evidences of Christianity. Mrs. Benson is still living, and when the college celebrated its semi-centennial she gave her diploma back to her alma mater, and it now hangs framed on its walls. These facts are condensed from an article in "Harper's Bazaar."

School for Young Housekeepers.

There has just been opened at Worcester, Mass., a school of household economics and cooking, where women can learn practical housekeeping under competent teachers just as their children learn the three Rs in the public schools. There is a short course in marketing and lectures on the chemistry of food, history of foods, supplies and care of the same. Special classes at moderate prices are also held for clubs, teachers and housewives, twelve lectures once a week and also for housekeepers. The pupils are not only taught to cook on proper lines, but also to serve the viands so that they will please the eye as well as the palate.

At present fifty pupils can be accommodated as boarders within the walls, in addition to those living outside. Each has a room to herself, furnished neatly with a white enameled folding bed, the rest of the furniture being oak, very cozy and home like.

Any woman over 18 years of age with satisfactory references and in good health will be admitted to any of the special classes, but for regular course work there will also be required a diploma from high school, or an equally advantageous education to be determined by examination. A free scholarship for every State and Territory in the Union is offered, not by the school itself, but though the generosity of an unnamed patron of the institute, and many of them have already been filled.

The Heart of a Child.

Why was I given a child's wild heart?
I am tired of acting a woman's part—
And the world seems sordid and dull and coarse.
It was different in the days of play,
When the soul was brave and the heart was gay,
And one rode away to fairyland on a painted rocking horse.

My friend, you will never understand
How I dream of those rides to fairyland!
Of those long, sweet rides in the firelit room—
When one started off with a leap and bound
On one's steed so quaintly caparisoned,
To the silvery sound of little bells that twinkled in the gloom.

My friend, you are fair and strong and true,
With your sun-gold hair and your eyes so blue;
But why have you stolen my heart today?
For it is such a strange and wayward thing—
(And birds that are caged will not always sing).
And a child's heart, what should it know of love?—it only cares for play.

Latest Way to Support a Husband.

There is a remarkable application for a pension on record in the Pension Department at Washington, in which a widow gives a pathetic picture of her husband's sufferings, and adds, in a postscript: "When my husband came back from the war I supported him on my needle till he died."

A Mean Amusement.

"I love to make visits in the morning."

"Do you?"

"Yes; all the other women are busy cleaning house, and it is so funny to see them try to act glad to see me."—Detroit Free Press.

Hat Was All Right.

"This hat won't do."

"It is very becoming to you, madam."

"Yes, but it is too large."

"Too large? It fits you perfectly."

"The price is what is too large."—Chicago Record.

THE UNQUIET SEX.

Some Activities In Which the Woman of Today Is Engaged.

The new Chicago Women's Athletic club, about which much has been printed, has chosen Mrs. Paulina Henriette Lyon as its managing director. The magnificent clubhouse, unquestionably the finest and most complete of its kind in the world, has just been finished and its doors thrown open. The selection of Mrs. Lyon as manager is a fitting recognition of her services in making the much talked of club a reality.

Mrs. Lyon is a woman of recognized business ability and has the confidence and esteem of the membership, which embraces many of the most prominent women in Chicago's fashionable society, among them Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Philip D. Armour, the Leiters, the Fields, the Phelpses and others.

Mrs. Lyon is a native of New York state, though she has lived in Chicago for several years, where she is deservedly popular. She was educated at the Chicago university, being at the time of her student life there a member of the family of Dr. Burroughs, who was founder and president of the institution. This schooling was supplemented by special studies in New York and Boston.

MRS. PAULINA H. LYON.

She has especially devoted herself to the physical development of women, which particularly fits her to become the presiding genius of this new athletic retreat. Not only has Mrs. Lyon's work in the organization and equipment of the club won the substantial recognition of Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Armour and other members, but she has had flattering offers from all over the country to undertake similar enterprises for athletically inclined society women.

Among the young women who are attaining distinction as short story writers is Miss Alma Koblheim, a former Atlanta girl.

Miss Nina Picton, a talented young woman of Mobile, Ala., is winning laurels in Paris and London through the merits of her soprano voice.

Miss Leonora Jackson, an American girl and protegee of Mrs. George Vanderbilt, has had the rare honor of being complimented on her violin playing by King Oscar of Sweden, who heard her at a recital in Paris.

The new torpedo boat De Long, named after Lieutenant De Long, the arctic explorer, which is soon to be launched, will be christened by Mrs. Charles F. De Long, a relative of the hero, who resides at McKeesport, Pa.

A foreign author who is likely to have many readers in this country is Selma Lagerlof, a Swedish woman, whose romance, "The Story of Gosta Berling," was recently translated into English. It is a delightful story of Scandinavian life.

Miss Carol Aus, a Norwegian girl, is one of the most clever of the many young woman miniature painters, her work attracting especial attention at a recent art exhibition in Chicago.

In answer to requests from literary clubs Mrs. Isobel Strong, stepdaughter of Robert Louis Stevenson, is preparing an informal lecture on the home life of the novelist. In her home in New York Mrs. Strong has a large collection of curios gathered by Stevenson in Hawaii and Samoa.

Mrs. C. M. Howe, who was recently chosen president of the International Association of Young Women's Christian Associations, is the wife of a member of the Chicago board of trade and has long been identified with religious and philanthropic work.

Mrs. Virginia Reynolds and Miss Minerva J. Chapman, two of Chicago's leading artists, have had pictures accepted and hung at the Salon Champ de Mars in Paris.

Mrs. Hertha Ayrton, who shares with Marconi the honors of this season in English scientific circles, has made a brilliant mark in the field of electrical research. Her greatest achievements have been in the development of the electric arc.

A distinct advance in the movement for woman's rights in educational matters is noted in the appointment of Miss Elizabeth A. Allen as principal of the Model and Normal Training school at Hoboken, N. J.

St. Louis has three women lawyers who practice regularly in its courts and are quite successful. They are Mrs. Victoria Conkling Whitney, Miss Daisy D. Barbee and Miss Cora D. Milligan.

Among the Zulus in Africa the women do all the work and the men spend their time in idleness. Mrs. John L. Dube, a native of that country, who, with her husband, is being educated in the United States, will, upon returning to Africa, devote herself especially to the elevation of womanhood among the Zulus.

While General Harrison G. Otis, who is proprietor of the Los Angeles Times, is fighting in the Philippines, his wife, Mrs. Eliza A. Otis, successfully conducts the paper.

The Amanda Smith National Industrial Home For Colored Orphans, recently dedicated in Chicago, is the only institution of its kind established by colored people in this country.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 18. "Intemperate Pleasures." Text, II Tim. iii, 1-7.

"Lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof. From such turn away."

Every bodily sense is capable of giving pleasure and pain. Between silence and the thunder crash is a world of sound harmonious and discordant, pleasing or painful. As a rule that which gives ease and satisfaction is beneficial. The pain giving is harmful. In sight, smell, hearing, tasting and feeling this holds true. That which is good for food is usually good to the taste. The disagreeable is the dangerous. Vile smells and tastes are red flags of danger. Pain is the sentinel to guard the body from injury.

Pleasure is the signal of safety. We are hungry. That shows bodily needs which can be neglected only at the risk of life. We eat and feel satisfied. That shows the building processes of body are sustaining healthy action. Some kinds of food are very delicious. Without cravings of hunger for food there may be cravings of palate for the taste of good things. Here another danger rises. We may eat just to get the pleasure of tasting and with no regard to need of food. We make the palate master where the stomach should rule. Woe to him who does this! Whoever eats for the pleasure of eating will soon have no pleasure from eating. Good digestion waits on appetite and not on taste.

So is it in every realm of life. The good is the pleasurable, but woe unto him who seeks the pleasure giving for the sake of the feeling. He will ever miss the good and find that even the pleasant feeling has evaded him.

Paul gives in these seven verses a lurid picture of the character of these pleasure hunters. They have forms of religion. They are outwardly correct in ceremonies, but never realize any inner power of godliness in shaping the life.

How easy it is for one to get intoxicated with forms of religious ceremonies and beliefs and works! Some have been enthusiastic supporters of mission chapels in the slums, and have prayed and sung and exhorted the tramp and drunkard and thief, and have delighted in the taste of "slumming." It has with some become almost a passion, who, in business affairs have been capable of closest dealing and driving hardest bargains with debtors.

The worst intoxication is not from alcohol nor opium. The most seductive pleasure is not the dance and card table and the theater. A spurious piety, the playing at religion for the applause of men and the good feeling there is in it, is the most dangerous intoxication. Despisers of those that are good, the covetous, the proud, the boasters, the unthankful and unholy, may all have a form of religion and take pleasure in it. They may superintend a Sunday school, or act as president of an Epworth League or even as pastor of a church, and delight in the work without ever coming to the knowledge of the truth.

Serve God truly and because it is right and you shall find peace and pleasure. Act religiously, for the pleasure of it, and you shall find neither peace nor pleasure.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 18—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Intemperate pleasures.—II Tim. iii, 1-7. (A temperance meeting.)

Love of pleasure and excessive and intemperate indulgence in pleasure are among the greatest enemies of religion today. The age is demanding more and more amusement and entertainment, and surrender to this spirit of the age soon leads to dissipation, and dissipation soon deprives one of all interest in moral and spiritual improvement.

How far Christians can indulge in worldly pleasures is therefore a most vital question. The Scriptural creed is "use the world, but not abuse it." But another question arises, When does the use of the world become the abuse of it? Where can we lay down the line and say, "Thus far is use—beyond is abuse: thus far is temperance—beyond is intemperance?" This question must be answered by every individual for himself. What is temperance for one may be intemperance for another. What is legitimate for one may be abuse by another. No religious society, no church court, can decide this question. It can only be decided by the individual conscience, enlightened by the word of God, but no Christian can decide it without taking into consideration the effect of his decision upon others. Meat consecrated to idols may not harm us, but if meat maketh our brethren to offend we should eat no meat while the world standeth.

While it is true that each one must decide for himself as to how far he can indulge in pleasure, yet it is also true that certain general principles are found in God's word that apply to all Paul lays down, some of these, in writing to Timothy, suggesting under what circumstances pleasures are intemperate.

1. Pleasures are intemperate when they lead to actual transgression of the law of God. Love of pleasure may lead to the immoralities suggested by Paul—selfishness, covetousness, pride, blasphemy, disobedience to parents, unthankfulness, unholiness, etc. When love of pleasure leads to any of these things, directly forbidden by the moral law of God, then there can be no question but that we are abusing pleasure. Pleasure that leads to sin is intemperate pleasure.

2. Pleasures are intemperate when they usurp in the heart and life affections and duties of greater importance. When our love of pleasure is greater than our love of God, when indulgence in pleasure leads to neglect of religious and other duties of grave importance, then our pleasures are intemperate.

3. Pleasures are intemperate when they lead others to sin. They who to satiate their appetites for pleasure lead others, who are thoughtless, silly and easily led astray into sin, are most intemperately indulging in pleasures, are committing a crime for which God will bring them into an awful judgment. Let us strive to use pleasure, never to abuse it, and let us seek our highest joys and pleasures in our religion. "The pleasures of sense will surfeit and not satisfy, but the pleasures of religion will satisfy and not surfeit."

Bible Readings.—Ps. xvi, 8-11; Eccl. ii, 1-11; Isa. lviii, 13, 14; Rom. xiii, 12-14; I Cor. iii, 16, 17; Gal. v, 19-26; Eph. v, 15-21; I Tim. v, 6; Titus iii, 1-7; Heb. xi, 24-26; Jas. v, 1-7; I Pet. iv, 1-6; II Pet. ii, 9-14; I John ii, 15-17; v, 4, 5.

A Noble Character.

Have you ever seen the good in some one and his ability while he was still obscure and prophesied the high place he would take, and then, when this was realized, and he had risen above you in your own sphere, were you still able to praise him? This is a test of character, and here it was John proved his nobility of character. "Did I not tell you He was greater than I? And is He not great—greater than I thought?" He could wish for Him to increase and grow greater each day, and for himself to decrease. Temptations fall in vain on such noble natures.—Ian Maclaren in Recent Address to Yale Students.

Make Your Standard High.

Men cannot rise higher than their own standard. A dwarfed, shrunken, withered soul cannot imagine a heart that gladly spends and is spent for others. He can only see his own image. "It cannot be so, because if I had been in his place, I would not have put to hazard life, limb, gold. Therefore, he didn't." An opinion on noble conduct dropped into the ear automatically weighs "him."—Richmond Advocate (Methodist).

Contrast.

It is a great deal easier to be up to the occasion in some shining moment of a man's life, when he knows that a supreme hour has come, than it is to keep that high tone when plodding over all the dreary plateaus of uneventful, monotonous travel and dull duties. It is easier to run fast for a minute than to grind along the dusty road for a day. —Alexander Maclaren.

Imperialism and Justice.

Nobody seems to know what imperialism is, but everybody knows what justice is, and what fair play is—that is to say, everybody knows what these things are when people get near enough to one another and know each other well enough to put themselves each in the other's place.—Christian Register.

The Crime of Lynching.

Those who take the law in their own hands and lynch a criminal are guilty of double murder—they have killed both the criminal and the law. They cry out against the crime of another and then repeat it.—Lutheran.

The Greatest Thing.

Love is the greatest thing that God can give us, for Himself is love, and it is the greatest thing we can give to God, for it will give ourselves and carry with it all which is ours.—Jeremy Taylor.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Final arrangements have been made in the one-mile bicycle race between Arthur Chapin, of Scotch Plains, and William Mapes, of Fanwood, tomorrow afternoon over the Mountain avenue course. The start will be at Morel's corner, one-half mile out and return. Considerable interest is manifested and a large turnout will probably be in attendance. Chapin seems to be the favorite, but Mapes friends claim there is a surprise in store for his friends.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success.

"There is no man or woman in Plainfield," says J. Q. Miles, "that has suffered the tortures that I have for the last five years, all caused by corns and bunions; so-called cures, big shoes, doctoring and everything else gave no relief. I lost faith in ever getting cured but hearing such good reports about Mr. Brown, at 145 West Second street, where in former years he has permanently cured the feet of several of our well known citizens, and when they say that the corns or bunions have not came back, then I felt confidence in Specialist Brown. I went to his office lame and when I left I felt like a new man. Not a bit of pain or blood in the treatment." Mr. Miles is justice of the peace at 28 Somerset street.

—Attention is called to the advertisement of the Plainfield Real Estate Company in another column of this paper. This property is improving rapidly and increasing in value. They still offer at the old prices the few remaining lots on West Fourth and Fifth streets, and anyone wishing to invest would do well to look this property over and secure a bargain.

—An executor's sale of real estate will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the premises situated at 431 West Fourth street, consisting of a house and lot with barn thereon, will be sold by Wm. N. Pangborn, auctioneer, for L. M. Codington executor.

TITLED BRAZILIAN CUT A GREAT SWATH.

Bound Brookers Badly Taken in by the Gentleman.

LIVED IN HIGH STYLE.

THOUGHT TO BE RICH, BUT EJECTED FROM HOUSE HE RENTED.

The Marquis Said to be Related to Dom Pedro, the Deposed Emperor of Brazil—Visions of Gold Mines and Other Sources of Wealth Gave the Marquis High Standing Among the Townspeople.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 17.—Last spring the real estate agents of this place nearly had a fit in falling over each other to cater to the wants of a nobleman bearing the imperious title Domo Eugenie Fario Gonzales de Teixeira Marquis of Aguila Branca, who was alleged to have fabulous wealth in ready cash, gold mines and landed properties in Brazil. He had resided, it was said, on West End avenue, New York, for sometime previous to that, living in regal style and spending money in strict conformity to his high-sounding title.

Through some friends he met in business circles he was induced to come to Bound Brook and look around. After making the trip and seeing the beauties of the little borough on the Raritan canal he decided that it was just the place for him and his family, consisting of his mother, two children and himself. It soon became noised around the prosaic little town that a real Marquis was to appear upon the scene and take up his residence on the aristocratic hillside section of the town The towns folks were set ago by the prospect of such an acquisition to their citizens, and everyone started in to make life as happy as a seven days' lark for the noble Brazilian.

Among the leaders are the real estate agents. The Marquis had numerous houses offered for his use, but after much hesitation he decided to rent the Farlee house on Union avenue. In due time the Marquis and his family appeared and took up their residence in the Farlee house. The family lived high and ran big bills at the local grocery and meat shops.

It happened that about the first of each month the Marquis was detained on important business in New York and was unable to attend to the bills rendered him. Finally, after having run up bills amounting to several hundred dollars, the family of Marquis left for New York to ostensibly spend a few days. They had been gone but a short time when the news began to circulate that the Marquis' business ventures had been a failure and his wealth—gold mines and all—had been swept out of his grasp and he was impoverished.

This was the signal for the Dime Savings Bank, which owns the property rented by the Marquis, to immediately serve dispossess notices on those that remained of the noble household—the servants. They were soon hustled out of the house, and the household fixtures of the Marquis confiscated by the creditors.

Now all Bound Brook mourns its Marquis.

It is said that the mother of the Marquis was a first cousin of the deposed Don Pedro.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S POSTOFFICE.

Indications That Old Open House Site Will be Selected.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, June 17.—Fresh interest has been added to the contest for the site for the proposed new postoffice building by an inquiry from the Treasury Department, which seems to indicate that a bid made by the Howard Savings Institution, of Newark, the present owner of the site upon which the opera house formerly stood, has a strong chance of being accepted. There is a plot of ground adjoining this site about thirty feet square fronting on George street, which would be required to give the proper space needed around the building. This is owned by V. S. Voorhees, who has received a letter from the Treasury Department asking his price for the thirty feet required and also what the tenants would ask to surrender their leases. The figure named by Mr. Voorhees has not as yet been given out. The Howard Savings Institution has offered its site for $20 000.

The selection of this site would mean the removal of an eye sore which has long been considered a detriment to the city.

GATHERED ON THE LAWN

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIABLE AT THE METHODIST PARSONAGE.

Though the Air Was a Trifle Chilly the Ladies Carried Out Their Original With Success—Those Who Were in Charge.

The monthly entertainment, under the auspices of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, was held last evening by the social committee at the parsonage, 610 Central avenue. Although the evening was decidedly cool, the efforts of the ladies to carry out the original idea of having a lawn festival was not abandoned.

The handsome grounds at the residence of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, were very artistically decorated, Japanese lanterns being conspicuously displayed. Rev. and Mrs. Snodgrass assisted the young ladies in receiving. During the evening an impromtu musical and literary programme was rendered, which was enjoyed by all.

The Misses Etta Raybert and Lottie Messersmith sang a duet; Miss Mary Conroy and Miss Clara VanFleet gave piano solos, while Mrs. David Donavan read a few humorous selections. The affair proved as successful and pleasant as have been the others recently held by the Epworth League. Refreshments were served in the house after the entertainment.

GARDEN PARTY FOR TOTS

AN AFFAIR FOR CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH CRADLE ROLL.

Given at the Home of Rev. and Mrs. Goodrich—Guests Were All Under Six Years Old—Childish Amusements Had.

The annual garden party of the children of the Congregational Church Cradle Roll was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Lyman Goodrich, of West Seventh street. Hammocks and an old-fashioned swing were hung under the trees, and rugs chairs, lounges and cushions made the lawn look pleasant and homelike.

Here the children of the church who are six years old were received by the pastor and his wife, assisted by Miss Katharine Wolcott Dwight, superintendent of the Cradle Roll, and a committee of other young women, and spent the afternoon in playing, swinging and riding a big hobby horse. Many of the little folks in attendance were accompanied by their mothers or older sisters.

During the afternoon lullabies were sung by the Misses Emma and Agnes LaBoyteaux, accompanied on the autoharp by Miss M. G. Morse. Refreshments of milk and animal crackers, with lemonade for the older ones, were served. Mite boxes, containing an offering for missions, were brought in by the little members of Roll. Several children who had reached the age of six years received certificates of graduation.

HOME LIFE OF CHINESE WOMAN.

Interesting Missionary Address Given in Trinity Church.

"Home Life of a Chinese Woman," was the subject of a very interesting talk before the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church last evening, by Mrs. VanDyke, of New Brunswick, for several years a missionary at Amoy, China. Her talk was full of entertaining information regarding the Chinese women and children in their home life, and as Mrs. VanDyke was born and reared of missionary parents and speaks the language fluently her talk was all the more interesting. Her father, Rev. Leonard W. Kipp, has been in the missionary service of the Master for nearly forty years. Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, president of the band, lead the business meeting preceding Mrs. VanDyke's talk and the reports of the chairman of the various committees showed the band to be a very active auxiliary of the church. Mrs. W. Startup, the treasurer, read her report showing a balance of $27.22 on hand, and all bills paid. Light refreshments were served and all enjoyed a sociable time together, looking at the many articles brought from China by Mrs. VanDyke.

Suit for Wages.

William Laing is a farmer living near Union Village. He is also defendent in an action which has just been started in Justice Mattison's court. The suit is for $50 and is brought by Michael Beoreau for wages alleged to be due him by Laing. Reoteau helped Laing during the harvesting season last fall and claims that he did not get paid. Murphy and Blatz represent him in the case.

Macready Sykes a Speaker.

At the annual alumni dinner of Princeton University given Wednesday in University Hall, Princeton, Macready Sykes, of New York, formerly of Scotch Plains, was one of the speakers.

WERE GUESTS OF MR LEE

PLEASANT TIME FOR PLAINFIELDERS ON THE LEHIGH.

Enjoyed a Pleasurable Jaunt to Summit Hill, Pa., Were They Were Shown the Sights of a Rich Coal Producing Section.

The Lansford (Pa.) Record prints the following interesting item about a trip of a Plainfield party:

Two score of the best people of Plainfield, New Jersey, reached Summit Hill over the Switch Back Railroad in charge of the Messrs Blakslee, its new lessees, on Thursday and dined at the Eagle Hotel. They were the guests of Charles S. Lee, the up-to-date General Passenger Agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

After partaking of an elegant spread Mr. Lee's party was taken in charge by W. G. Whildin and provided with a special car for a trip to Tamaqua and return. The ride down the mountain and through the Panther Valley enabled the visitors to pass through the richest coal section in the world. The return trip was just as pleasant, as the trolley climbed the mountain with the ease and grace of a Black Diamond.

Between the ride up the Lehigh Valley, over the famous Switch Back, the dinner, and the trolley jaunt, the party was profuse in its thanks to Mr. Lee for the day's outing and voted him a jolly good fellow.

The jovial party was composed of Mrs. Lee, Mr. Herring, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. Slawson, Isaac Miller, Mrs. Josiah Brown, Mr. Andrews, Alonzo Blakslee, Mr. Atterbury, Mrs. Fleming, Mr. Appleton, Mrs. Monroe, Mr. West, Miss Lee, Miss Barlow, Mr. VanBuren, Miss Stewart, John Miller, Dean Rodman, Mrs. Hyatt, Asa Blakslee, Mr. and Mrs. W. GOODIES TO TICKLE PALATE.

Ice Cream and Cake Sale Given at Miss Luckey's Home.

An ice cream and cake sale was held last night from 7 until 10 o'clock, at the home of Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, of Lafayette place, by the members of Miss Luckey's class in the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school and a few of their friends. The house presented a very attractive appearance, the piazzas being hung with Japanese lanterns. Little tables were scattered about the drawing room, but the guests overflowed into the dining room also. Home made candy was on sale in the dining room, under the charge of Miss Violet Beerbower and Miss Mildred Ulrich. Ice cream and cake were served by Miss Beatrice Miner, assisted by Miss Ella Lounsbury, Miss Pauline Denton and Miss Helen Boice. The house was well filled all through the evening. Piano solos were played during the evening by Miss Violet Beerbower. The proceeds of the affair amounted to ten dollars.

HOW COSGROVE WAS HURT.

Was Walking Along Tracks to Catch a P. and R. Train.

William Cosgrove, who was found along the Central Railroad tracks Wednesday morning, is still alive. He talked last evening to the physician in charge at the hospital and explained more fully how he happened to receive his injuries. He got on a freight train late at night at Jersey City thinking that the train was going through to Philadelphia, and just before he reached Plainfield he discovered that the train was bound for Easton.

He jumped from the train in this city and decided to walk to Bound Brook, where he thought he could catch a train going over the Reading road. While walking the tracks he was struck by another freight train going west as previously stated. The hospital authorities have communicated with the young man's relatives in SanFrancisco, but as yet have heard nothing from them.

Interesting the Natives.

The Philippines are fast being Americanized, baseball having already been introduced there. This must be a great novelty to the natives, but any one who is looking for novelties galore, has but to drop in at Collier's and inspect the stock there; there's something there for everyone, and at prices that everyone can afford.

NO WORD FROM BULLMAN

HIS WIFE HAS NOT THE SLIGHTEST IDEA WHERE HE IS.

He Had Met With Financial Reverses and it is Possible That He Went to Recuperate Them—Highly Respected.

George W. Bullman, the ex-Freeholder, of Stone street, who went away from home four weeks ago, has not yet been heard from. He told his wife the day he left that he was going to look for work and would not return until he found it. Notwithstanding this, Mrs. Bullman had no idea that he would stay away a month without communicating with her.

It is true that Mr. Bullman has had financial reverses and it was necessary that some extra effort should be made to meet expenses. He is a man that has always been held in the highest respect. Mrs. Bullman is nearly heartbroken over her husband's disappearance. She has made every effort possible to locate him, but without success. He secured a small amount of money to go away with, but not enough to make it an object for anyone to waylay him for the purpose of robbing him.

Mrs. Bullman has three children, two of whom are boys. The boys are working for small compensation, and cannot well be expected to contribute largely towards the expenses of the home.

WILL RACE AWHEEL

A Hot Competition Planned Between Drake and Day.

There'll be a lively time on upper Park avenue next Friday afternoon if plans now being formed do not fall through. The fun will be over the proposed bicycle race between Harvey C. Drake and "Buck" Day, who are to make the run from this city to New Brunswick. The respective speed of the men has been in dispute for some time and they purpose demonstrating who is the better man by a race. They have put up $50 a side and the conditions of the race are that the man who first reaches the county seat of Middlesex shall take the money. The fact that both men are not physically as robust as the redoubtable Zimmerman, makes the affair the more interesting.

Funeral of William Harris.

The funeral of William Harris, a charter member of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red Men, No 193, was held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the residence of his son-in-law, William Klein, of East Second street. A representation from the council in charge of Sachem Nash, attended the funeral in full uniform. The pallbearers were selected from the Carpenters' Union and Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

WOULD BE A POLICEMAN

BUT IT WAS AS PRISONER HE WENT TO STATION HOUSE.

Patrick Dougherty, Five Weeks in This Country, Wanted an Opportunity on Police Force—Begging Was Found Better.

The old country did not offer a wide enough field for the abilities of Patrick Dougherty to expand in the proper line. So it was that six weeks ago he sailed for the United States to become a policeman until something of a more attractive nature turned up.

Dougherty first went to New York. Chief Devery did not need him at the time and he next tried Newark The police force of that city was not enlarging its numbers and he failed to get an appointment. Last Wednesday he started for Plainfield.

In this beautiful city he found a more congenial occupation than guardian of the peace. The people here were so kind to him, he said, that it wasn't necessary to join the police force. Then, too, he discovered that it was necessary to know something to even be a candidate for the Plainfield police department.

So, for the past few days, Dougherty has been living on the fat of the land. This morning at 8 o'clock, Roundsman Frederickson found him begging from house to house on East Seventh street. So the officer made the acquaintance of Mr. Dougherty and took him for a visit to the city jail.

The stranger was a little man with a brilliant complexion. He turned his trousers wrong side out to save the other side, he explained, for festal occasions. He begged City Judge Runyon to allow him to go and promised never to return. The Judge consented to that arrangement and Dougherty hustled out of view.

VANNESS AND THE TROLLEY.

His Counsel Tells On What Terms He Will Settle.

A few new things have developed in the "Count" VanNess episode. In an interview with Lawyer George Ball, counsel for the "Count," a Press reporter learned this morning that in 1895 a map of the VanNess property, now in question, was made, and in 1897, according to the map Mr. VanNess sold eleven lots in the strip. This map shows that 200 feet back from Front street there are several streets provided for.

Mr. VanNess, last week, offered the trolley company the right of way free of charge, over any of these streets as shown on the map. The survey of the company shows a course diagonally across the block, which VanNess claims will spoil his lots. Now Mr. VanNess wants $500 an acre for his property affected, or if the company wants all the property he will sell it to them at $2 per foot.

MARRIED AT HIGH NOON.

Miss Annie B. Stone Wedded to F. H. Robertson, of Newark.

At high noon Wednesday occurred the marriage of Miss Annie B. Stone, of Central avenue, and Frederic H. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Robertson, of Newark. Rev. Father Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's church, performed the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white silk en train and a tulle veil fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book, the gift of her eldest sister.

After the happy event Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and on their return they will join the groom's parents at Asbury Park until September, when they will go to Sparta, N. J., until November. After that they will be at home to their friends at 31 Chestnut street, Newark.

There are Others.

Mayor Rockfellow desires to say to the public that he hopes they will not forget to subscribe for the Fourth of July celebration. He does not want all the money left at his place, but there are other members of the committee who are authorized to receive subscriptions and he would be pleased if the people will remember them.

Only $4 00 Unpaid Personal Taxes.

There is about $4 remaining unpaid personal tax for 1898 on the books of Collector Geo. F. Brown, of the borough, and the collector hopes to receive the entire balance in a few days. He is also receiving payments on the Watchung avenue improvement which shows that those affected are willing to settle.

Struck by Trolley Car.

Last night at 12 o'clock Charles H. Naylor was driving on Somerset street near the bridge when a trolley car came along and struck the buggy, completely wrecking it. Mr. Naylor was given a severe shaking up and the harness was ruined. The company will repair the damage done.

RESERVES MAY COME.

THEY HAVE BEEN INVITED TO JOIN FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.

Dr. Simpson, Who Was Surgeon in the Battalion of the East, Has Extended the Invitation in Behalf of the Committee.

It has been the desire of many that the New Jersey Naval Reserve be invited to come to Plainfield on July 4th, and take part in the parade now being arranged. Acting on the authority of Chairman Ulrich, of the committee, Dr. Simpson, of this city, has invited the members of the Naval Reserve who participated in the Spanish-American war to come to this city and join in the parade.

The ship's company numbered 250 men and 22 officers, but a large number of these men are too far away to communicate with, some being in the Phillipines. It is expected that at least one hundred can be reached, and probably more.

If they come to Plainfield on July 4th, it will be at their own expense and it would be no more than right that the Plainfield people should help to entertain them and provide them proper care while here. The members will come from Elizabeth, Bayonne, Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, Orange, Montclair, Madison and other places.

SCHOOL TO CLOSE SOON.

COMMENCEMENT OF HIGH SCHOOL THURSDAY NIGHT.

Class of '99 Will Hold Class Day Exercises in Franklin School Tuesday Evening—Nineteen Pupils to Graduate.

Commencement time is at hand at the Plainfield High School. The work of the year is practically over. Only one more day of examinations remains, and then will come the closing of the school year and the various exercises that are the usual accompaniment of the time.

The past week has been a hard one for the pupils. The final and prize examinations have been held despite the hot weather of the first three days, and the young people have toiled away and endured the heat as best they could. Monday the last of the examinations will be held.

The graduating class, this year, will number nineteen. There was some doubt up to the last whether all would be able to graduate. The class has shown considerable enterprise during its career in the school, and is now preparing to hold unique class day exercises in the assembly hall of the Franklin building Tuesday evening. There will be the class prophecy, the class poem, the class song and a musical programme by the members of the class. Several hundred tickets have been issued and are now being given out among the friends of the members of the class.

Thursday evening comes the regular commencement exercises in Music Hall, with the address by Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall and the award of prizes. The alumni reception at the Casino will follow the exercises.

POLITICAL VICIORY FOR SENATOR REED.

George W. Cooper Appointed Postmaster at Somerville.

SENATOR'S COHORTS IN GLEE

THEY THINK THAT THOMPSON'S DOWNFALL IS CERTAIN.

Cooper is Reed's Right Hand Man in the County Seat—Reed Faction Certain That Thompson Will be Badly Defeated When County Convention is Held—How Deal was Made with Clark.

President McKinley's selection of George W. Cooper, yesterday, for appointment as postmaster at Somerville, after he had been recommended by Congressman Howell, of the Third district, is regarded as a great political victory for Senator Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, in his fight with Chancery Clerk Thompson for the control of the Republican organization in Somerset county.

The result, of course, is that Senator Reed's faction is in high glee. The Reedites now claim that the political downfall of Thompson is assured, for if he is unable to control or influence the appointment of a postmaster in his own town he will still less be able to avert a defeat for himself and cohorts in the county convention next fall.

Cooper has been the right hand man for Senator Reed in the county seat of Somerset for the past two years, and now that he has been able to capture the most important federal office in the county—North Plainfield, the largest town, being deprived of a postmastership on account of being served from the Plainfield office—it is calculated that Senator Reed will be able to wield more influence than ever in Thompson's home community.

Senator Reed has been confident all along that he would be able to land Cooper as postmaster to succeed former Congressman Alvah Clark, who is Reed's father-in-law, and through whom the Senator was able to get the quiet tip as to what time was most opportune for the springing of the candidacy of Cooper upon Congressman Howell.

As a matter of fact, it is asserted that Mr. Clark put his resignation in the hands of his son-in-law, though they differ in politics, so that the resignation and the application of Cooper could be filed at the same time without the knowledge of the Thompson faction of the Republican party.

Senator Reed is at Belmar today and therefore could not be seen by a Press reporter to get his views concerning the appointment of Cooper.

CANDLE AND OAKUM.

They Formed a Combination to Call Out the Fire Department.

A candle and a bale of oakum became acquainted in A. M. Griffin's hardware store, East Front street, this morning at 7:15 o'clock. The bale of oakum was resting in the back of the store and the candle was in the hands of a young man named Duffy. Their acquaintance ripened with much rapidity. Duffy told the neighborhood.

Collector James Martin was passing and sent in an alarm from Box 12. The fire department turned out without loss of time. Meanwhile the bale of oakum had been carried outdoors and a pail of water had quenched the flames. The damage done was only to the bale.

AGUINALDO WAS REPULSED

Filipinos Routed by MacArthur's Troops in Country Near San Fernando.

ENEMY LEFT FIFTY DEAD

Official Report of Casualties to The American Troops is Fourteen Slightly Wounded.

Enemy's Preparation For the Attack Extended Over Several Days—Fleeing Natives Leave Dead and Wounded on the Field—The Government Rushing Troops To General Otis.

Manila, June 17.—After cutting the railroad and telegraph at Apalit, seven miles south, for the purpose of severing connection, the natives attacked General MacArthur's lines at San Fernando. They met with an unexpectedly warm reception, and were repulsed with a loss of 75 killed, 30 prisoners and many wounded.

The Filipino force, estimated to have numbered 5,000 men, advanced stealthily from the jungle north of the city and then divided with the evident purpose of surrounding the Americans.

The outposts of the Iowa regiment discovered the enemy and retired to their lines, where the entire division awaited in intrenched position. The Iowa regiment and the Kansas regiment received the first shock of the attack. Reserving their fire until the enemy was within 600 yeards, the first volley of the Americans hit the natives, who returned the fire wildly, the rest of their line failing to advance. They stood firm for only a few minutes when they made a wild rush for the jungle and were soon out of sight.

Washington, June 17.—The War Department has made public the following despatch, which was received here from Gen. Otis and read at the Cabinet meeting:

"Manila June 16.

"Adjutant-General, Washington:

"Northern insurgents concentrated large force near San Fernando and attacked MacArthur's troops. Enemy quickly repulsed and driven off, leaving over fifty dead on field and large number wounded. Enemy in retreat. Our casualties, fourteen wounded, are mostly very slight. Preparations for this attack in progress for several days. Believed to be under personal direction of Aguinaldo. OTIS."

Washington, June 17.—That Gen. Otis may be able to renew as soon as posible active operations against the Filipinos, the War Department has issued special orders directing the immediate preparation of transports to carry to the Philippines nearly 4,500 more troops.

The War Department has announced that the Zealandia would sail from San Francisco June 22 for Manila with headquarters and four companies of the 24th or 25th infantry and 100 recruits. The Pennsylvania will sail on June 24 with headquarters and eight companies of the 24th or 25th Regiment and seventy-five recruits. The Sheridan will sail on the same day with two troops of the 4th Cavalry, two companies of the 14th Infantry, signal detachment and 1,275 recruits. The Valencia will sail on June 25 with four companies of the 24th or 25th Infantry and 100 recruits. This order is subject to the arrival of the troops in San Francisco on schedule time.

It is apparent from Gen. Otis's reports that the Filipinos have not yet recovered from their defeat at Las Pinas. They not only suffered severe loss through killed and wounded, but in their retreat were compelled to abandon considerable ammunition and several cannon. Just where they will make their next stand is uncertain. They have already retreated a considerable distance from Manila, and officers of the War Department believe that they will not again organize for an attack on the city.

There is some anxiety to know just where Aguinaldo has reestablished his headquarters. Just before the return of Gen. Lawton's forces from the campaign north of San Isidro, Aguinaldo was reported to be at Tarlac. The renewal of attacks upon the American forces in the vicinity of Calumpit and San Fernando does not alarm the Department, however, as Gen. MacArthur is in that part of the country with nearly a complete division, comprising nearly 7,000 troops. If the enemy have been able to perfect an organization in the Calumpit country it is more than probable that Gen. MacArthur will advance upon them, and that the next battle to be fought will be in that vicinity.

The War Department is without official information regarding the reported assassination of Aguinaldo. The report is not believed to be true.

Colorado's Paris Exhibit.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 17.—Commissioner C. W. Sanborn, of Boulder; M. J. Raney, of Leadville, and C. L. Sufficient high-grade ore from the principal camps has already been contributed.

STORM AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

Distructive Gale Along the St. Louis Air Line in Indiana.

Louisville, Ky., June 17.—Another violent wind and rain storm has swept over this part of Kentucky and Southern Indiana and did a considerable amount of damage. In Louisville the people were terribly frightened, as the clouds which preceded the tempest resembled those which hung over this city just before the disastrous tornado, which caused such loss of life and property here several years ago. A furious gale raged for a short while, uprooting trees and blowing signs over the streets, but doing no [illegible] damage than this. From what has been learned the greatest amount of destruction was done along the line of the St. Louis Air line, in Southern Indiana, where many small houses were destroyed and some stock was killed. No persons were injured, according to reports so far received.

Reciprocity With Barbadoes.

Washington, June 17.—A new treaty between the United States and Great Britain, covering reciprocity with the British West Indian colony of the Barbadoes, has been signed at the state department. This is the first reciprocity treaty under the reciprocity clause of the Dingley tariff law, as the previous agreements have been under a section allowing "reciprocity arrangements," by proclamation, and without the formality of a treaty. It is the first of the series of treaties which the British West Indian colonies—Jamaica, Guiana and Bermuda—are seeking.

The Pennsylvania Scandals.

Harrisburg, June 17.—The Grand Jury of Dauphin County has ignored the charges against ex-Senator John J. Coyle and Michael J. Costello, of Philadelphia, of corruptly soliciting Representative John Engler, of Lycoming County, to vote to reconsider the McCarrell jury bill in the House of Representatives last February. The jury returned a "no true bill" in the case against Frank S. Jones, of Philadelphia, who was alleged to have offered Representative Palmer Laubach, of Philadelphia, a five years' position in the Philadelphia Mint or Customhouse to vote for ex-Senator Quay.

Gas Stove Makers to Unite.

Cleveland, June 17.—The stove manufacturers of Cleveland, who control about 80 per cent. of all the gas, coal-oil and gasoline stoves manufactured in the United States, have practically completed plans for the combination of their interests. The new company is to be known as the Standard Gas Stove and Manufacturing Company, and is to be capitalized at $5,500,000, which sum is to include $2,500,000 preferred stock and $3,000,000 common stock.

Another Victim of the Feud.

London, Ky., June 17.—News has reached here from Manchester, Ky., of another tragedy in the Baker-Howard feud. The new victim is said to be James Howard. The story is that as he was standing in front of the Court House, near the spot where Tom Baker was shot last week, when a shot was fired from a nearby window and he fell. The assassin escaped. Howard was accused of having killed George Baker, the County Attorney, in April, 1898.

Chased by a Five Foot Snake.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 17.—A New York tourist named Howard Storms, stopping at Mongaup, saw a blacksnake dozing on a rock, and, thinking to frighten it, yelled and struck the rock with a stone. The snake chased Storms a quarter of a mile to his boarding house, where the young man's cries brought out his brother John, who killed the reptile with a club. It measured five feet.

Heavy Rain in Texas.

Austin, Tex., June 17.—The semi-arid section of Texas, southwest of here, was visited by several cloudbursts and a terrific rain of several hours' duration. The dry beds of the rivers and creeks were filled to overflowing and three bridges on the Southern Pacific Railway west of Uvalde were washed away. Several miles of that road are under water.

MATTERS DISPOSED OF.

The President Thinks Well of The Achievements of Our Troops in Philippine Islands.

The Treasury Said to Be Gaining in Gold To the Extent of Nearly a Million Dollars a Day—Admiral Schley Receives an Ovation at Navy and War Departments—Other Washington News.

Washington, June 17.—There have been several matters of national interest discussed here during the past week, but the matter that has, of course, been considered of greatest importance by the American people in general, is the decision reached by President McKinley and the War Department in the raising of a largeer army for General Otis in the Philippines. This matter has been finally disposed of and the work of enlisting the new regiments, in the manner recommended is now going on. The administration is pleased to think this matter has been finally settled, and is also satisfied with the work that has been done by the American troops in the way of putting an end to the insurrection created by Aguinaldo in the Philippine Islands.

Admiral Schley was at the War and Navy departments a couple of hours for the first time since his return from the West, and he received a great ovation. When he made his appearance in the corridors, he was stopped by officials and made to tell all about his recent trip, and as he stood talking, quite a crowd gathered around him, all anxious to shake hands with him. Admiral Schley, although he has lived in Washington ever since the war, always attracts attention wherever he goes. He is enthusiastic about his trip West, and says that he discovered that there was the same kind of people in that part of the country as in the East. "There is no difficulty in understanding them," said he, "for they all speak the same language and are all moved by the same great love of their country." The Admiral said that he was very much pleased with the invitation he had received from "his boys" on the cruiser Brooklyn to attend their picnic on the 3d of July, and added that if he possibly could, he was going to attend. "I have an engagement for that day," said the Admiral, "but I will break it because I want to be at the picnic with my boys, for I remember our picnic of last July 3, and I would rather be with them again this year than anywhere else."

Dr. Frederick C. Kenyon, the young scientist, who was arrested for disorderly conduct at the Department of Agriculture, to which he had been attached, has been committed to jail by Judge Kimball, who ordered that the mental condition of Kenyon be judicially investigated. Kenyon's conduct in the department for the past year has attracted a great deal of attention. The examination was confined almost entirely to investigation of the prisoner's sanity, and the charge of disorderly conduct upon which he had been arrested was practically ignored. The officials of the department spoke with apparent great sorrow of the affliction they believe has descended upon their late comrade, but all who were examined testified that Kenyon's conduct has left them in little doubt that his mind is more or less unbalanced.

It is stated by treasury officials that the Treasury is gaining gold at the rate of almost a million a day. Within the last week the gold in the Treasury has increased over $4,000,000, despite the fact that more than that amount has been shipped abroad. Treasury officials say that the cause of these shipments is that Europe has had to pay the gold to Spain for the Philippine indemnity, which was sent from here in exchange, and that she is simply replenishing her loss. London is short of gold, and finds it cheaper to export it from this country than to get it elsewhere.

The output of gold from the Transvaal during last March, the date of the latest official report, was far in excess of any previous month, the figures being 464,036 ounces, valued at $8,584,666, and no less than $2,092,595 of gold are being shipped each week from South Africa. The March output was double the figures of two years ago, and the increase still goes on. These facts are contained in a report to the State Department from United States Consul Macum, at Pretoria, transmitting reports from the Chamber of Mines.

One of the reasons why the War Department has decided to send negro soldiers to the Philippines is that the reports from Manila say that the insurgents become terrified when the colored American troops attack them and they all seem to have an especial terror of the colored soldiers and will not make a stand against them if there is any way for them to escape.

VETERANS RE NOT PAID

Many Not on the Cuban Army Lists Are In Want.

Havana, June 17.—One hundred and fifty Cuban soldiers presented themselves at he Salon Trocha and told Gen. Brooke that they had come to reselves at the Salon Trocha and told paymaster at La Punta, the place appointed for paying the Cubans, and had come to Gen. Brooke for information regarding their pay They said it was a great sacrifice for them to come to Havana from the country, and that they had endured many hardships.

Gen. Brooke commissioned Major Kennon to talk with Second Lieuts. Juan Dulon and Leopoldo Garcia, who led the Cubans. Major Kennon told them that it was impossible to pay the men at the Salon Trocha, as there are no lists there, and that they would have to wait until June 24, when payment would be resumed at La Punta Gen. Brooke gave the Cubans an order on the Chief Quartermaster's Department for rations for ten days, and also gave Lieut. Garcia a letter of recommendation to Mr. Rathbone, requesting the latter to give Garcia a position in the Post Office.

The soldiers were satisfied with Gen. Brooke's disposition of their case, but said that Gen. Gomez was responsible for all their trouble. Subsequently they went to the Quinta de los Molinos to see Gen. Gomez, but were informed that he could do nothing for them.

Some 800 Cuban soldiers are in Havana, willing to surrender their arms and receive payment, but they are not included in the lists, despite the fact that they are veterans. They say that many men are on the lists who joined the army after the peace protocol was signed.

There was a row at Guanajay because 500 soldiers who were on the lists were not paid because they did not surrender their arms. They protested energetically, and threatened to make trouble. Col. Bisbee has been ordered by Gen. Brooke to pay these men. Col. Bisbee will also begin payments at Pinar del Rio, Consolacion del Sur, Palacia, San Cristobal and Artemisa.

He was a candidate for director of the census.

Klondike Carrie Fails.

San Francisco, June 17.—John A. McGee has filed a petition in insolvency in the United States District Court. His failure is ascribed to the ill-advised investments in the Klondike freighting business and the loss of the steamship Humboldt last year. His losses are estimated at $122,500, of which $64,500 is owing to Baron Von Schroeder. The assets are estimated at $3,000.

Advancing Prices in Pig Iron.

Chicago, June 17.—"Iron and Steel" says: "Pig iron is about a dollar higher than a week ago. The twenty-dollar mark has been reached. VIOLENT RIOT IN CLEVELAND

The Strike of Street Car Employes Marked With Many Acts Of Disorder.

THREE BAD OUTBREAKS.

Cars Are Showered With Eggs, Clubs and Bricks, by an Infuriated Crowd in the Street.

Dirt and Eggs Rubbed in the Faces of Non-Unionists and Policemen—Euclid Avenue Cars Stopped in Downtown Districts—Police Succeed in Arresting Several of the Rioters.

Cleveland, June 17.—The strike of the street car employes was marked by further violence, when three distinct outbreaks occurred in different parts of town. The company attempted to operate its South side line by sending a car from Lakeview to the South side. When it reached Clark avenue a crowd of 2,000 persons was waiting. The switch was torn up from Clark avenue to Pearl street. When the car appeared it was greeted by a shower of eggs, clubs and bricks. The policemen seemed to be as badly frightened as the non-union men and remained on the car.

Finally the crowd swarmed on the car. Men rubbed dirt and eggs in the faces of the non-unionists as well as the policemen. Finally the machinery was reversed, and the car made for town as fast as it could go. Both the motorman and conductor were badly hurt and were taken to the hospital. Mobs stopped Euclid avenue cars in the downtown district, hurling missiles and eggs, and again at Perkins avenue and the C. & P. track. Half a dozen arrests were made.

Cars are running on five lines of the Big Consolidated.

Obstructions were placed on the tracks of nearly all the lines which are involved in the strike, and it took an hour to remove them before the cars could be started. On Orange street a crowd of women surrounded a car, but the motorman made away at full speed, the women shrieking defiance at the car. This was the first Broadway car to be run, and it had a dangerous district to run through. More trouble is reported at Collamer, where a car was stopped by a mob in that neighborhood.

All the trackmen of the Akron, Bedford & Cleveland Railway Company, about fifty in number have been laid off for an indefinite period. The company's reason is that the road is not doing enough business, on account of the strike in Cleveland.

After a number of conferences between members of the State Board of Arbitration and representatives of the Street Railway Union and the Big Consolidated Company, it seemed possible that before many days elapsed a settlement of the strike would be reached.

According to all the indications, the question narrowed down to the disposal of the non-union men employed by the company. The company says that it is bound by contract to retain these men in service. The union, it is said, has so modified its demand for recognition as to allow of its fulfilment without the sacrifices of any rights of the company.

A Wilson avenue cross-town car struck and exploded a torpedo which had been laid on the rail near Wilson and Sixth avenues. The car was nearly blown from the track. Flames burst through the floor of the car, but were soon extinguished. There were no passengers on board. On the track the police found the remains of the torpedo, consisting of two pieces of tin with a wad of paper wedged between them.

The Big Consolidated Company has offered a reward for the apprehension of the men who have injured its employes.

Big Strike Growing.

Denver, June 17.—J. B. Grant, Chairman of the Operating Committee of the American Smelting and Refining Company, has refused a request of the Executive Board of the State Federation of Labor for a conference with a view to ending the strike at the trust's smelters, which affects 50,000 miners. Over six hundred miners employed at the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company's coal mines in the Trinidad district have struck for ten hours' pay for eight hours' work. The railroads have been laying off crews on account of the falling off in ore shipments.

The Prison Paper to Enlarge.

Sing Sing, June 17.—"The Star of Hope," the new eight-page paper printed and written by the convicts in the prison here, has proved so popular that it has been decided by Superintendent of Prisons Collins to enlarge it and extend its circulation. The Sing Sing Prison will furnish and print the usual amount of matter, Auburn Prison will furnish four pages and Clinton Prison four pages. Four thousand copies will be printed twice a month for distribution among the inmates of all the penal institutions in the State.

His Jaws Are Firmly Locked.

Bay Shore, L. I., June 17.—Walter L. Dunham recently injured his thumb, smashing and loosening the nail. It gave him no particular trouble until Wednesday morning, when he had difficulty in opening his mouth. By night the jaws were fully locked, and it is thought he will not recover. He has suffered great agony and has to be fed by artificial means.

Lynchers Frightened Off.

Mobile, Ala., June 17.—A mob numbering about 250 persons composed of whites and negroes, about evenly divided, attacked the jail, bent on lynching Henry Gardiner, a negro. A guard of police with rifles made a show of resistance and the mob dispersed.

Showcases Are Up Dearer.

Chicago, June 17.—Manufacturers of showcases have agreed to advance prices 15 percent. The National Association of Wood Pump Manufacturers are holding a meeting at the Auditorium Hotel.

BARROW GETS LONG TERM

Kidnaper of Marion Clark Goes to Sing Sing For 14 Years and 10 Months.

New York, June 17.—George Beauregard Barrow, was found guilty of having kidnaped Marion Clarke. The jury was out only half an hour. Five minutes after the verdict was rendered Justice Fursman sentenced him to imprisonment in the state prison at Sing Sing for the term of fourteen years and ten months. Immediately after Barrow had been led out of the court room Justice Fursman sent for Bella Anderson. He sentenced her to imprisonment in the state prison at Auburn for four years.

Barrow Arrives at Sing Sing.

Sing Sing, N. Y., June 17.—George Beauregard Barrow, convicted in New York of kidnapping Marion Clark, was brought to the prison here late yesterday afternoon to begin serving out his sentence of fourteen years and ten months assessed against him by Judge Fursman. Barrow was very downhearted and would have little or nothing to say to anyone, and he wept like a child when the big iron gate closed behind him.

150 Miners Are Lost.

Sydney, Cape Breton Island, June 17.—A terrible explosion took place in the Caledonia mine at Glass Bay. At the time of the explosion there were 160 miners in the pit, and it is feared that all of these men perished.

Twenty bodies have been recovered There were any number of volunteers to aid in the work of rescue, but the gas fumes which filled the workings prevented much progress. The wives, mothers and children of the imprisoned men are crowded about the mouth of the pit, and the greatest excitement prevails throughout the town.

The names of those whose dead bodies have been recovered are as follows:

Thomas Johnson, underground manager of the mine; ——Simson, John Doyle, Neil McDonald of Pictou, N. S., Martin Doyle of Pictou, N. S., Alex. McDonald, D. Gillis.

Kansas Mine Troubles.

Fort Scott, Kan., June 17.—Deputy United States Marshals Mooney of this city and Triggs of Wichita, with a number of assistants, left here in a special train for Yale and Fleming, Kan., to serve injunctions on the union miners at those towns. The injunctions were issued from the Federal Court here on orders from Judge Hook who heard the application in chambers at Leavenworth. It is evident that the company expects to operate its plant in spite of union miners, by importing negro miners from the south.

Second Receiver's Sale.

Anderson, Ind., June 17.—The Union Steel plants have again been sold at receiver's sale to Thomas Wright, of St. Louis, for $503,120. He represented Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati creditors. The plants were sold at receiver's sale a month ago, and Wright bought them in for $495,000. Unsecured creditors protested against the sale being ratified on the grounds that the indebtedness was $800,000, and unsecured creditors would not realize a cent.

Rome City Tabernacle to Be Rebuilt.

Wabash, Ind., June 17.—Before the timbers of the destroyed tabernacle at Rome City are cooled the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad management is preparing to rebuild the immense structure on a more extensive scale. General Manager Huhgart, Supt. Hunter and Engineer Barnes, went to the assembly grounds of the old building, and Mr. Barnes is now preparing plans for the new one.

Shot Three Times at His Mother.

Logansport, Ind., June 17.—James Nichols, a sixteen-year-old boy, of Norway, White County, Indiana, became under the influence of beer, and, getting possession of a revolver, fired three shots at his mother, all of which, luckily, went wild. Shortly afterward he attempted to stab his father with a knife, but was seized and overpowered.

Convict Sued for $50,000

San Antonio, Tex., June 17.—The Wells Fargo Express Company has filed suit against Charles A. Beeler, who was convicted a short time ago for the embezzlement of $50,000. The company represents that Beeler while in its employ converted to his own use $50,000 intrusted to his care for delivery. The suit is for a debt in that sum.

Horseman Fatally Hurt.

Napolean, Ohio, June 17.—James Cornell, a veteran horseman, was fatally injured here while attempting to break a colt. Cornell's nose was severed from his face, his skull fractured and he received internal injuries by being thrown against the street curb. He has been training and breaking horses for thirty-five years. This was his first mishap.

Indiana Church Burned.

Bloomington, Ind., June 17.—The Walnut Street Presbyterian Church and a business block adjoining, on the east side of the public square, were destroyed by fire, with a total loss of about $10,000. The church was insured for $5,000. Fire was caused by a stove in a meat market in the building adjoining the church.

The Smelter's Strike.

Laughing at Runyon.

Combined ignorance and presumption made a sorry spectacle of Editor Runyon in the News' editorial columns yesterday. Last Saturday The Tribune, Plainfield's new weekly paper, published a communication from F. C. Lounsbury, president of the Board of Trade, anent the need of lower railroad fares in this city. The first that the up-to-date editor knew of the important communication was when he read it in The Daily Press. Without exhibiting the careful knowledge of local affairs that he would have people believe he possesses in journalistic work, he jumped at the conclusion that because we credited the article to the Saturday Tribune it must have been the New York paper of that title that printed it. This resulted in a scathing criticism of Mr. Lounsbury in the News yesterday on the ground of allowing the communication to be published in a New York paper, thus exposing the disadvantages of Plainfield to an outside world who could do nothing to remedy it. Of course, the News editor shot forty miles or more wide of his mark, and made himself the laughing stock of everybody in town.

According to the views of a Trenton correspondent it is well understood that the big leaders of the Republican party must first be consulted before any movement can be made looking to the nomination of any man in particular. Gen. Sewell, Senator Kean, Franklin Murphy and other influential leaders will have nearly all to say as to a candidate when the time arrives for positive action. It is rather premature to speculate now as to what these State leaders may do in the matter, as the time for holding the State convention is so far off, and new men and new conditions may arise in the interval.

In the annual adjustment of presidential postmasters' salaries the Plainfield office remains in the second class while the offices at Orange, New Brunswick and East Orange are advanced to the first-class. Plainfield might just as well be in the first-class division, too, if the residents of this city would buy more of their stamps at the local office instead of at the New York post-office.

An effort to elevate the ethics of any profession is always a commendable one, and in taking steps to form a Somerset County Bar Association the legal fraternity of that county has acted in the right spirit. Somerset county possesses some brilliant legal lights and an organization composed of them ought to have a healthy influence on law affairs of the bailiwick.

Females will be obliged to confess during the taking of the coming 12th census. The new law says that the women who refuse to tell their age or indulge in any inaccurate statements thereof, shall, on conviction, be fined $100, as shall all other persons refusing to apply to questions or making false statements.

According to bulletin No. 95, issued by the Department of Agriculture, New Jersey is building more roads and better roads for the money than any other State in the Union. The roads being built in this State will last and can be kept up to a high standard at a minimum expense.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

In the election of Mayor N. B. Smalley as President of the Plainfield Advancement Society, leading as he will for the making of the Greater Plainfield, good results will follow his work and direction. Plainfield has many hustling men to aid her upbuilding, but no one is more fitted for this position than Mayor Smalley, and working in harmony with Mayor George W. Rockfellow it makes a team that no town can beat.—Real Estate News.

* * * * *

Men who have a quiet game of "draw" go out of Middlesex into Union and play long and devotedly on clear Sundays just outside of Plainfield, in the verdant woodland by the babbling Green brook. This has caused undue reflection upon the morals of Plainfield, while Middlesex has escaped both in the punishment for the poker players and in the criticism which belongs to the card cranks. Plainfielders go to church on Sunday, and can't tell a "straight" from a "full hand."—New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

During the past few days Collector Geo. F. Brown, of the borough, has been receiving any number of letters from collectors all over the country asking for information as to how Mr. Brown collects taxes, and how he meets with such success. As many of the inquirers do not enclose a stamp, Mr. Brown does not feel inclined to respond. He has replied, however, in one or two instances.

* * * * *

A dress reform movement to promote comfort and check mere display at religious services is spreading through the churches of Hudson City. The movement proposes the removal of hats and bonnets by the women and substitute outing shirts for warm clothes. Ministers started the movement. The original reformer was Rev. T. G. Mayham, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, on Tonnele avenue, Jersey City. Bearing in mind the clauses of the Discipline of the church relating to personal adornment, he addressed his congregation at length on the subject urging the women to remove their hats so that the preacher could be seen and the services rendered more enjoyable. He said also that the removal of hats in church would also be beneficial, as it would prevent the women from becoming envious of one another. Since Mr. Mayham announced his views on the question of hats and bonnets, other ministers have taken up the subject and added new fringes to their own.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is health ul, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

NAVAL RESERVES TO PROTEST.

To Ask Governor to Countermand Order Consolidate Divisions.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Hoboken, June 17—The action of the commission appointed by Governor Voorhees to reorganize the National Guard in recommending that the Naval Reserve be also reorganized is an interesting topic of talk with the Jack Tars.

The main trouble, it is argued, lies in the fact that the men who composed the commission were all military men, and knew nothing of the needs or requirements of a naval organization. In addition to that, the officers of the Reserves had not been called upon to present their views on the subject, or consulted in any way. The Newark division, it is understood, is to be left as it is, under the reorganization plan, while the Jersey City and Hoboken divisions are to be consolidated.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy McAdoo and numerous others, including the officers of the Reserve, will go before the Governor and try to prove to him that the consolidation of the two divisions would be a mistake.

A circular letter is also to be prepared and sent to prominent men throughout the State, requesting that they use their influence on behalf of the Battalion of the East. The Boards of Alderman of Newark, Hoboken and Jersey City will be asked to pass resolutions petitioning the Governor to allow the battalion to remain as it is and it is hoped in this way to achieve the desired end.

BUSHY-TAILED AMIMALS

Manner in Which They Make Use of Their Tails When Asleep.

"Some of our wild animals," said a naturalist, "carry about with them all summer that which nature has evidently intended as a substitute for their winter flannels. I mean their tails of course. So far as I have been able to judge the bushy-tailed animals know no other use for their tails than as protection against the cold. Did you ever see a fox sleeping? That is one sight of which the most patient student of wild life cannot always boast, because a fox is always wide awake and has a general antipathy to being looked at. My own observations with sleeping ones have been confined to two that I raised from pups. When it was cold they would shrink up and seem fairly to wrap their tails about them. When the air grew warmer they would uncoil a little and sometimes discard the tail entirely, just about as impatiently as a sleeping child will kick off the covers when he gets too warm in the night. I do not think that this attitude is habitual with sleeping foxes. When the weather was warm they did not curl up at all, but lay sprawling with their tails on the ground behind them.

"The raccoon makes the same use of his tail. Did you ever see one preparing for a nap? Like the fox, he goes to sleep on his side, but he makes more fuss about it than a lazy lad getting up in the morning. First he hitches up his shoulders and arches his back, and in the cavity thus formed he carefully tucks away his knees and elbows and head. Then he brings his tail up close, the end of it curving over his head. He unwinds himself half a dozen times before he gets curled up to his satisfaction, and when finally arranged he resembles nothing quite so much as a muff without the customary openings. The squirrel also covers himself with his tail, sleeping upright and propped against something.

"In fact," concluded the naturalist, "this is true of every bushy-tailed animal I have been on terms of sufficient intimacy to see asleep. It is a very kindly arrangement nature has made for their comfort, and they do not seem to mind very much carrying around their winter flannels in the summer. If they did not carry them with them wherever they went they would probably lose them, as the red man proves in his tale of the bear and the rabbit."

Public Eating Houses.

Public eating houses are established in a number of German cities to provide meals for workingmen at cheap prices so as to do away with the evil effects of the dinner pail. Those in Chemnitz during 1893 sold 435,000 dinners; receipts were $17,500, and expenditures, $15,500. The City of Grenoble, France, also maintains a municipal restaurant at which about 1,200 meals a day are served. At the outset the enterprise needed municipal aid, but it is now self-supporting. The municipality owns a property used, for which it receives a nominal rent, and the accounts are reported in the books of the municipality. Any surplus is deposited in the city treasury, as a reserve to draw from when prices of provisions are high. There are also other instances throughout France of similar institutions without municipal aid, several establishments being in operation at Paris, Lyons, and Bordeaux.

Somewhat akin to such institutions are municipal bakeries, which are to be found at Rome and at Kovno, in Russia. Stockholm owns municipal liquor stores for the working classes, who cannot obtain drink without ordering food.

Bringing the Time of Day.

In Ulster, Eng., you can find the "bull" flourishing; here is a pretty example of the acted "bull." A certain squire had just set up with great pains and elaborate mathematical calculations, a sun-dial in his garden, and was naturally a little proud of it. One day, as it so happened, being close to the garden, he was in doubt as to the right time, and told a boy who was with him to run down and get him the time from the dial. After a few minutes the boy appeared dragging with him something heavy. "Here she is, yer Honor, an' hard set Ah was to get her up." He had torn up the dial from its setting and dragged it up the hill.

Arab music has been described as the singing of a prima donna who has ruptured her voice in trying to sing a duet with herself. Each note starts from somewhere between a sharp and a flat, but does not stop even there, and splits up into four or more portions, of which no person can be expected to catch more than one at a time.

The drink bill of Great Britain just published shows that the Englishman drinks 2.41 gallons of alcohol a year. Next to him comes the Scotchman, with an appetite slaked with 1.66 gallons. The Irishman contents himself with 1.54 gallons. The first spends $20.50 a year for his drinks, the second $15.25 and the third $13.25.

NEW YORK WOMEN.

THEY SCORN THE "BOB-UP-SERENLY" WALK OF PHILADELPHIANS.

Twenty-third Street the Place to See the Style of Walking by Women—Self-Possession Seeming Quite Natural the Chief New York Characteristic.

New York women walk better than they did five years ago. It a man happens to have any antiquated opinions on this subject it is time for him to change them. The tired feeling which pertaineth unto hot weather will make it hard for him to stand at the entrance of some Twenty-third street shop for half an hour and watch the women passing, but if he persists he will get a composite mental photograph of their gait which ought to be trustworthy.

First, though, he will find out what it is to be dizzy. He will feel as if he were at the centre of a great human pinwheel or standing still among innumerable dancers, all doing ladies' chains and "a a main" lefts and "chassezs" as if their lives depended on it. A few men are mixed up in the ladies' chains, and if the man looking on could take time to observe them and their ways he would find them interesting—as interesting as the women who are in, but not of, the lower Broadway tide. But the chances are that he won't take that time. Certainly not if he once begins taking snap observations of the way the women walk.

"Ways" would be a better word to use in this case. A Philadelphia man recently took an afternoon's rest from the mad rush of Quaker City existence and counted up the distinct varieties of the feminine gait as it may be seen on Chestnut street. He noted "the swing, the swagger, the side-step, the lope, the spring, the wriggle" and others. "But," he said in triumph, the walk of the walks nowadays is the 'bob-up-serenely.' Up and down, up and down like a jumping jack, goes the maid, her foot but touching the ground when straightway it spurns it, and she rises in the air as if all the exhilaration that is abroad in the land was pent at the sole of her boot and pushed her upward."

Allowing something for the exuberance of the Philadelphian emancipated from toil, there is here a plain indication that the prevailing Chestnut street gait resembles that of the little lambs which skip so gayly. This sort of thing may go in Philadelphia, but it is a pleasure to be able to say that New York women are not hopping airily along the corridors of time. Maybe the "eel skirt" has not yet reached Philadelphia. Maybe, at least, there are only a few advance issues of that funny feminine fashion, and the women wearing them are the ones who proceed in a wriggle, as noted by the man with the afternoon off. This seems plausible.

But the sheath skirt is universally worn by New York women with any pretensions to swellness, and it would be a pathetic thing to behold if a brigade of eel-skirted women should attempt to emulate the bob-up-serenely walk of the Quaker City dames.

Twenty-third street can show just as many different kinds of a walk as Chestnut street can. There is no denying the fact that some New York women lope and some wriggle. In fact, there is every variety of locomotion represented, even to the stout old ladies, who lumber along, so like the automobiles that it is always a surprise to find that they can go forward without first backing. But in spite of the endless variety of gaits, there is really one which is characteristic of the great majority of the women who make up the procession.

That is what may be vaguely termed the self-possessed walk. It appears in various forms. The reporter observed at least half a dozen variations of the one type the other day. There was a 16-year-old girl who looked as if she might be a cash girl out on an errand. Her natty hat was tipped over her nose, her hair was frowzy and her clothes were hopeless. She was hollow-chested and round shouldered, and of that type of countenance known as pie-faced. But she had all her self-satisfaction with her, and her walk showed it.

There were other 16-year-old girls, in better clothes and literally in better form, but their self-possession was almost as aggressive as the cash girl's. There were the portly dames whose figures, alas! had not been trained up in the way they should go. It is not necessary to state that their walk carried a certain assurance with it. It isn't easy for a portly dowager to appear retiring. She has herself to contend with. Then there were the assertive-looking women, who, perhaps after all, were only in a hurry. And there were many, many other types, all apparently quite at ease and sure of themselves.

But the walk which struck the reporter as the one most characteristic of the crowd was not assertive or aggressive. It was simply expressive of a certain aplomb. It was the proof of the very highest form of self-possession—the point where self-possession has become so habitual as to result in absolute lack of self-consciousness. Not all the women had this perfect aplomb by any means; but almost all of them had some of it.—New York Sun.

With and Without the Well.

A Hartford lawyer tells of a client in one of the adjoining towns who had a farm to sell. He had recently sunk a well on it, and the job cost quite a sum. Consequently, when he talked of disposing of his property, the well caused him considerable anxiety. "How much do you ask for the farm?" the lawyer asked.

"Wal, I'll tell yer," drawled the farmer. "I'll sell the dern place for $700 with the well, and I'll let it go for $600 without the well."—Argonaut.

"How am I to eat this meat," asked the guest at the rural hotel, "in the absence of eating utensils?"

"With your fingers, stranger," replied the landlord. "The knives has all gone to a hog-killin' an' they ain't a fork in the road from here to Atlanty!"

First Man (to man who has just bumped against him in the street)—Blittering idiot!

Second Man—That's your name, is it? My name is Dobbs.

"Do you believe in the value of fresh air?"

"I do, indeed. I spent a week in the mountains, and it cost me $200."

NUNS WHO MANAGE A SMITHY.

BY ELIZABETH LYON.

In one of the quiet and secuded valleys of Cape Colony, not far from King William's Town, there is a community of Dominican nuns who have demonstrated the fertility of woman's resources and genius. Blacksmithing is not ordinarily regarded as an occupation to which women would take kindly, but these Sisters of St. Dominic successfully conduct a blacksmith shop, some of the nuns acquiring a proficiency in metal working that would have delighted the heart of old Vulcan himself.

Some years ago a company of devout Dominican nuns, eager to sow the seeds of religion in South Africa, left the time honored convents in Europe and established a settlement in the British colony of the Cape of Good Hope, where a considerable tract of fertile land was secured. Here they built a chapel and convent, and, in connection with their ministrations of religion and mercy, they till the soil, producing abundant crops, which are sold to the miners and diamond seekers of the neighboring country. Finding farm laborers scarce in this land, where most of the digging is for gold and diamonds, the nuns quietly put their hands to the plow, and thus their community thrived.

Finally a plowshare was broken, and there was no blacksmith shop in the neighborhood where it could be mended. This, however, did not disconcert the self reliant and energetic sisters. They at once sent to Cape Town for the materials and tools and established a smithy of their own.

A blacksmith was at first employed as tutor, but soon the nuns acquired a knowledge of the craft, and they now not only do the smith work required on their extensive farm, but have a large patronage from their neighbors. They shoe horses and oxen, repair farm machinery and transform rod and bar iron into all sorts of useful appliances—hooks, hinges, staples and ringbolts.

These feminine blacksmiths of the Dominican convent are experts and do their work as well and as quickly as men. The precision of the hammer swinging nun seems to exercise a sort of fascination over the others of the sisterhood, and she is greatly admired by them. The Boer neighbors regard the nuns at work over the anvil and at the forge with something of suspicion and resentment, the English stand and wonder and the natives look on with awe and reverence.

The smithy, which stands a short distance from the convent, is a long, narrow building, supplied with a well built brick forge, strong ox hide bellows and heavy anvils and hammers. In the center of the shop can frequently be seen, tethered to a strong oaken rack, a big draft horse, and the patient nun fits the redhot shoe to the scorching hoof, nailing it deftly and securely, carefully rasping down the rough places and then patting the animal gently as her task is concluded. The horse is shod as neatly as a man would have done it.

As one approaches the convent of these Sisters of St. Dominic the brown clad nuns are seen busily at work in the fields hoeing, pruning, following the plow drawn by strong limbed oxen or tending the herds in the pastures. They are never idle, and they seem to be happy and contented in their life of labor and devotion.

At close range the most striking effect in the appearance of a Sister of St. Dominic as seen in Cape Colony is her rosy, bronzed face, so different from the pale and almost colorless complexions of the nuns under ordinary conditions. COMMUNICATIONS ETC.

From State Charities Aid Association as follows:

May 3, 1899.

To the Director and members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen:—I am directed by the Board of Managers of the S. C. A. A., to convey to you their appreciations of the excellent manner in which the jail in your county is kept. The warden and matron deserve special mention for their faithful work. The system which governs the jail is second to none in the State.

Very respectfully,
Emily E. Williamson,
Secretary.

On motion of Freeholder Tier, received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Farrell:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, do hereby extend to Mr. E. M. Wood our most hearty thanks for the neatly bound copy of the laws of 1899 this day presented by him to each of us."

The resolution on motion of Freeholder Swain was adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Adams:

"Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inspect the iron bridge and foundations over the Rahway River on North Avenue, Cranford, N. J., and report at the next regular meeting of this Board as to the condition of same."

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was unanimously adopted

The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Adams, King, Tier, Higgins, Brucklacher.

By Freeholder Robison:

"Resolved, That whereas on August 14, 1891, George E Lyon and Charlotte O. Lyon gave bond to this Board conditioned for the payment of expenses of the care and maintenance of one Adeline R. Lyon with the understanding that each of said bounden parties should pay one-half of the expense thereof, and the said Charlotte O. Lyon having paid her portion of the amount paid by the county, it is the sense of this Board that the County Collector be directed and requested to refrain from attempting any further collections on said bond as against the said Charlotte O. Lyon."

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder Robison explained that Adeline R. Lyon was the mother of the said George E. and Charlotte O. Lyon. Mrs. Lyon was placed in the asylum at the expense of the county, where she had died after a little over a year. The bond given by the said George E. and Charlotte O. Lyon has been given to indemnify the county for the expense of Mrs. Lyon while at the asylum. The said George E. Lyon has never paid anything although fully able so to do at the time; the said Charlotte O. Lyon had paid her full share (except one or two dollars which he, Mr. Robison, would guarantee), and it was only fair that she should be relieved from further liability on said bond.

The resolution was then on roll-call unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Farrell:

"Resolved, That all committees appointed last year having unfinished business at the expiration of the fiscal year, be, and they are hereby continued."

On motion of Freeholder Roll, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Brucklacher:

"Resolved, That the Director and County Collector be, and they are hereby authorized to borrow in anticipation of taxes of 1899, such an amount as in their judgment is necessary, not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars."

Freeholder Robison moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it received sixteen affirmative votes, the Director not voting and Freeholder King absent.

By Freeholder Wahl:

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be authorized to notify the State Road Commissioner of the action of this Board regarding the road from New Providence to Townley's bridge, and that said clerk be authorized to request said commissioner for the customary and legal appropriations in said matters.

Freeholder Miller moved that the resolution be laid over for the consideration of the committee of the whole, which was so ordered.

The director announced that the committee of the whole would meet Thursday, June 8, 1899, at 2 p. m., to consider the resolution presented by Freeholder Wahl, and also the application of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company the clerk to notify members of said meeting.

Although the game was not exactly on the same lines as those of the National League, the annual baseball game between the Law Students and the Drug Clerks, played on the Washington avenue grounds Thursday afternoon was a thrilling one. The embryo lawyers came out victorious to the score of 40 to 18 after wading through seven innings.

The most widely spread points between which a telegram can be sent are British Columbia and New Zealand. The telegram would cross North America, Newfoundland, the Atlantic, Britian, Germany, Russia (European and Asiatic), China, Japan, Java and Australia. It would make nearly a circuit of the globe, and would traverse over 20,000 miles in doing so.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

ALL WENT WELL AT THE FRUHLINGFEST.

Large Attendance Marked the Successful Affair.

FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

HELD AT PARISH HOUSE OF CHURCH OF HEAVENLY REST.

Bright Decorations on the Lawn—Handsome Booths Arranged in Parish House—Affair Was for the Benefit and Under the Auspices of the Parish Industrial School—The Assistants in Various Departments.

"Wasn't it great?" said the patrons of the Fruhlingfest as they bid adieu to the waving lanterns and flutterings flags and the gay scene within the parish house.

"Wasn't it," came the reply. And such was the unanimous opinion of the folk, old and young, who thronged to the parish house and lawn of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Clinton avenue, Saturday afternoon and evening. The Fruhlingfest, or Spring festival as every German student will translate it, was given for the benefit and under the auspices of the Industrial school of the parish. While held in the parish house, it has been a nonsectarian institution and has been supported and conducted by the workers in that and other churches.

While it was rather chilly for an ideal lawn festival the visitors thronged there all the afternoon and evening. Over a hundred Japanese lanterns were distributed over the lawn, giving color to the scene in the daytime and a mild illumination at night. Flags of all nations waved on every side.

The tables for the serving of ice cream were placed on the lawn, while a tent served as headquarters for that department. Here Mrs. Alice S. Brown, superintendent of the school, reigned as chairman, with Mrs. J. O. Stevens and Miss Bulkley as her able assistants. The waitresses were the Misses Irene Kitchen, Lena Arnold, Florence Phillips, Louise Eisemann, Elizabeth Becker, Sadie Hand, Minnie Gunzelman, Lillian Duckworth, Edith Huson, Viola Stutz and Emma Scribner.

The other booths were in the parish house which was gay indeed with bright decorations. One end of the main room was partially partitioned off with a screen of ferns and flowers. There an orchestra of four pieces spent the afternoon and evening rendering popular and classical selections.

On the right of the entrance was the cake booth, a charming combination of pink and white where was displayed an attractive assortment of cakes of all sizes and varieties. Mrs. W. E. Albertson was in charge, assisted by Miss Florence Williams and Miss Grace Brown.

The fancy work booth, a creation in green, showed the work of some of the pupils of the school. There were a great variety of fancy articles, all the handiwork of the children. Miss Alice Gilbert was in charge with the Misses Sadies Kriney, Sara Montgomery, Nettie Thompson, Stella Anderson and Lena Crane as her assistants.

A corner was devoted to the candy booth while lavender and white prevailed in the tasteful decoration. Most of the toothsome daiaties were of handmade manufacture. Miss Mary E. Wilson was chairman, with the Misses Alice Barlow, Frances Phillips and Helen Phillips as the other members of the committee, and the Misses Mabel Hand, Nellie Dow, Florence Morrison, Alice Lude, M. Burt, Helen Fulton, S. Saums, I. Tallamy and Etta Randolph.

A lemonade well, surrounded by flowers and ferns, was well patronized. Mrs. VanAlstyne, Miss Hattie Currie and Miss Viola Leivers were in charge, assisted by the Misses Irene Bell, Clara Scribner, Nellie Hanahan, Lois Hanson and Katie Overland.

There was a grocery department where Uneeda biscuit and other objects of interest to the housekeeper were sold. Miss Martin was in charge, assisted by the Misses Helen and Nellie Thompson. The decorations there were orange and white.

Miss Nellie Arthur was in charge of the drug department, a small booth of orange.

A delegation in the costumes of the Japanese land cared for the Japanese booth, a real eastern arrangement in which crimson was the prevailing color. Mrs. Francis G. Moore was in charge with Mrs W. T. Pelletier, and the Misses Maria B. Morgan, Nina Morgan, Wenona Dodds and Alice Ashworth as her assistants.

One of the attractions out on the lawn was the so-called "shooting gal-

POLICE WILL LAUGH NOW

OFFENDING WHEELMEN MUST GIVE SECURITY HEREAFTER.

So Many Have Failed to Appear When Ordered That Chief Grant Will Try More Effective Measures Hereafter.

"He who laughs last, laughs best." So quoted Chief Grant this morning. The Chief says that the wheelmen have been laughing at the police. Now he says the police are going to laugh at the bicyclists. The cause of all this laughing is the frequent violation of the bicycle ordinance. The offenders are arrested and ordered to appear before the City Judge. This they very frequently forget to do.

Saturday night, there were six arrests made for violation of the bicycle ordinance. All the offenders were ordered to appear before the City Judge this morning. Only two showed up. It is a common practice and Chief Grant was thus led to make the remark already mentioned. Now the Chief has given instructions to all the officers to compel the wheelmen to leave their bicycles or other good security to insure their appearance when ordered. If they will not do that, then the orders are to lock up the offending wheelmen.

A lad named Kendall Collins appeared this morning. He was up for riding on the sidewalk on Putnam avenue. Patrolman McCarty made the arrest. The Judge suspended sentenced with a warning. A. C. Shannon had been out riding and his gas lamp exploded. He came home without a light and was stopped by Patrolman Lunger. Sentence was suspended.

Robert Yetman, Thomas Washington, Miss Bertha Manning and William Fosbury were the absentees. They were all arrested by Patrolman Watson.

DISTURBING CHURCH WORSHIP.

Children Play Romping Games in Front of the Trinity Edifice.

Children living in the vicinity of Trinity Reformed church are becoming quite a disturbing element to the worshippers of that society. Parents seem to forget the fact that several hundred people are sitting in the church listening to Pastor Scheck, and allow their children to go out of doors and romp and play all kinds of boisterous games during the hours of service, especially at the evening hour.

Last evening the children were particularly annoying to preacher and congregation, so much so that two men were compelled to remain outside during the service to keep them quiet. The officers of the church are seriously considering the necessity of appealing to the police department for an officer to be stationed in the vicinity of the church to obviate the nuisance, should it continue as it was last evening.

FROM DEFENDANT TO PLAINTIFF.

August Trust Now Sues A. Lincoln Clark for $173.50.

Some three months ago A. Lincoln Clark, of New York, brought an action against August O. Trust, of North Carolina, to recover the amount of $900 alleged to be due on a note held by Mrs. John M. Schorb, who had assigned it to Clark. Wm. G. DeMeza, of this city, as attorney for Trust, succeeded in having the writ of attachment set aside. The defendants in the action now bring suit to recover $173 50, an amount of expense alleged to have been incurred in traveling expenses, etc.

One of the Happiest Men in Town

W. W. Warnock, baker, 138 North avenue, informs us that for years his bunions and corns kept him in misery. Nothing or nobody could do any good. He was advised by cured friends to consult Mr. Brown, 145 West Second street. Mr. Warnock says he went to the specialist's office limping and when he left he felt like dancing with joy, and what is marvellous the treatment is painless and bloodless, not a bit of pain after. Owing to home office engagements Mr. Brown's Plainfield visit soon closes.

GREAT DAY FOR GOLF AT HILLSIDE LINKS.

Biggest Attendance in History of the Club.

FIRST GAME OF THE TEAM.

THEY SUCCEEDED IN BEATING THE HARBOR HILL AGGREGATION.

Large Number of Contestants for Reinhart Cup and Some Good Scores Were Made by the Players—Visiting Team Outclassed by the Hillside Players—The Scores Given Below in Detail.

Saturday was the biggest day in golf on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds that has yet been recorded. The weather was all to be desired and it brought out the devotees of the game in large numbers. The course was crowded throughout the afternoon, and in addition to the two events scheduled there were many that played on the course simply for their own pleasure. The social features in the clubhouse were greatly enjoyed by all present, and Steward Ivamy was kept busy serving patrons with refreshments.

The greens were in fairly good condition although they are suffering from the want of rain. However, there was little complaint in that direction and good scores were the rule. Especially in the contest for the Reinhart cup were close scores made, and it was particularly noticeable that there were many tie scores, and it was not until the last of the players recorded their scores that the winner of the cup was known. H. V. Ryder was the successful one with a net score of 82. Mr. Ryder had a handicap of 13 which is considered a good one when the ability of the player is compared. Frank Reinhart made the best score, 85, from scratch. However, there were a number of good scores as the following table will show. This cup has been won once by H. V. Ryder, Frederck Walz, F. C. Ard, Olaf Sangstaud, while J. H. P. Wharton, Jr., has won it twice The person winning it three time becomes the permanent owner. The cup will be contested for again next September. The scores of Saturday are as follows:

The next big event was the match play between the Hillside team and a team from Harbor Hill Golf Club. The home team played in fine form, while the visitors were unable to maintain their reputation and win out. The visiting team was composed of some of the best players from their club, while the remainder of the team was at home contesting in another match. Owing to the fact that they were one man short a nine-man team played. Captain Sangstaud seemed be out of form and was one of two members of his team to be defeated. This was the first game for the new team and they acquited themselves with credit. A return game will be played at some date in the near fu- The score of Saturday's match is as follows:

Quakers Getting Up-to-Date.

That this is an age of improvement is evidenced by the fact that a handsome signboard has been placed on the front of the Orthodox Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue, opposite North avenue, telling passersby of the name of that house of religious worship, in gilt letters.

To Talk of Temperance.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell will make an address on "Temperance and Goodfellowship," at the meeting of the Endeavor Society in Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock, and Miss Charlotte Messersmith will sing. Endeavorers and others are invited to attend.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS HONORED THEIR DEAD.

Held Services in all the Local Cemeteries.

PYTHIAN DECORATION DAY.

RATHBONE COMPANY, OF BROOKLYN, ASSISTED IN CERMONIES.

Uniformed Knights Marched Into Cemeteries With Reversed Arms and Lowered Colors to the Dead March Played With Muffled Drums—Impressive Services—Graves Decorated in Morning.

The graves of the Pythian Knights in the local cemeteries were decorated and appropriate services held over them by their living brother Knights yesterday, the time set for the Pythian Decoration Day. The services of the day were under the charge of Crescent Compay, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias. It was the first time since the day was first observed in this city six years ago that there has not been an interruption of the services by rain.

In the morning, details of two Knights from Crescent Company visited the North Plainfield, Greenwood, Hillside and the Scotch Plains cemeteries and decorated the graves of the Knights there. There were nineteen graves in all. The decorations consisted of flowers, the United States flags and the Pythian emblem.

In the afternoon the members of Crescent Company, to the number of twenty-six, commanded by Captain J. E. Flannery, assembled in the rooms of Perseverance Lodge. Accompanied by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and fifteen uniformed Knights, they marched to the North Avenue station to meet the 2:07 train from New York. On it were twenty-one members of the Justiss H. Rathbone Company, of Brooklyn, commanded by Captain Hale.

The procession then moved to the North Plainfield cemetery, where the services were conducted by Crescent Company, David Bowen acting as chaplain. On entering the cemeteries, the Knights reversed their swords, the colors were lowered while the drum corps played the dead march with muffled drums.

The companies next marched to the Evergreen and Methodist cemeteries on Plainfield avenue where the impressive Pythian service was conducted by the visiting company. Stages then bore the Knights to Hillside and then to Scotch Plains, the Crescent Company conducting the services. At Hillside a photograph was taken.

A collation was served at Hand's Hotel, Scotch Plains, and then the Knights returned in time to allow the Brooklyn Knights to catch the 8:13 train for New York.

BICYCLE THIEF AROUND.

A New Wheel Stolen From a Piaza of a Hillside Avenue Residence.

A thief helped himself to a new Cleveland wheel belonging to Goodwin Beard Saturday night about 10 o'clock. The wheel had been left with another older one on the veranda of Mr. Beard's house, at 329 Hillside avenue, while its owner was inside playing a game of whist with a friend. The thief selected the best one of the wheels and made off with it. Mr. Beard offers a reward for the return of the wheel and no questions will be asked.

QUIET HOME WEDDING.

Mrs Pauline Woodward Married to Humphrey A. Bodine.

There was a quiet but pretty home wedding celebrated Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pauline Woodward, 1004 Putnam avenue, when that lady became the bride of Humphrey A. Bodine of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Stephen P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church at Netherwood, at 3:30 o'clock, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was given away by her son, Horace Arthur Woodward. There were no bridesmaids. The bride is the widow of E. H. Woodward and is a lady highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Bodine left Saturday evening on a short wedding tour to visit friends in a distant city. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

Hank Cuff Didn't Show Up.

Hank Cuff, colored, was arrested by Patrolman Watson Saturday evening for being drunk and disorderly. He was released yesterday morning by Mayor Rockfellow on promising to appear for trial this morning. He failed to show up and the officers were instructed to arrest him on sight.

COMPARING MORALS IN SCOTCH PLAINS.

Pastor Shott Does Not Mince His Words in the Pulpit.

SERMON MADE A SENSATION.

HE BELIEVES MAN IS MORE TO BLAME THAN WOMAN.

Declares That If God Should Seperate the Clean and the Unclean There Would be Many Divided Households in Scotch Plains—Does Not Believe in Many of the Church Entertainments Held.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 19.—In connection with his crusade for a higher plane of morals in Scotch Plains, Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the Baptist church, last night preached a sermon that created a sensation greater than any previous pulpit effort along the same line. Rev. Mr. Shett's remarks last night were inspired by the following anonymous communication which he received a few days ago:

"Why does the world patronage a man in business and lionize him in society for destroying the virtue of a poor victim of a woman who, on the other hand, would be turned out into the world, ostracised by society and shunned by all good people."

The receipt of this epistle suggested to Rev. Mr. Shott the aptness of a sermon on "Comparative Morals."

"I believe," said the minister, "that the world may patronize and lionize the destroyer of morals, but that in God's sight the sin of the man was the greater and man should be held doubly blamable for wronging a helpless victim. I deplore that the world makes such a distinction, but God makes none. I know of a western town that receives a certain young man into its best society, who has entree to the best homes in the town, who has a record of thirty betrayed victims. Yet these very so-called good people lionize him in the face of the well-known fact. It would be useless for one of his poor victims to even ask society for a crust of bread. They would be refused and shunned. The world gives woman no chance to repent of her sins; the man's sin's are overlooked."

"I an satisfied," declared the minister, "that if the Lord should separate the clean from the unclean in our fair and beautiful village we should find homes divided. Where are the boys of the future to come from if the boys of the present are to be nestled in sin? Then away with your gambling, beer gardens and other methods of the devil which are in existence in this little town."

"I have become disgusted with churches that are always holding entertainments, festivals, etc., for pleasure. When this is done the church places itself in the social life of the town. Let everyone who is a christian go out tomorrow and sing "I am the Child of the King," and then we will have a revival. But if we sing in a meeting "Only a Step to Jesus," the vilest sinner can join in with us, and they say 'I will take the step when I get ready.' Let our morality be such that sin cannot live in our fair village."

INTERESTS MERCHANTS.

PLAINFIELD ADVANCEMENT SOCIETY FULL OF VIM.

President Smalley Urges all Progressive Citizens to Attend the Meeting to be Held Tomorrow Evening.

Plainfielders should be progressive. Every resident should take a keen personal interest in public movements that make for the industrial welfare of the city. The Plainfield Improvement Association stands for commercial advancement in the breadest and best sense. Its plans and purposes are of direct interest to every citizen. Although the organization is still in its infancy, the various projects it has advanced and is advancing for furthering the city's welfare are matters of general comment throughout the community. Are you a member of the "Improvement Association?" is a frequent question among business men; in short, public interest is increasing in the new organization, and in the efforts of its members to bring about greater industrial activity in all branches of business throughout the city.

While it is probable that a large majority of our citizens are familiar with the general purposes of the new association, a much smaller number are in touch with the varied details of the work which is about to be undertaken. For the purpose of giving everyone an opportunity to acquaint himself fully with this work of progressive development, the association will hold a meeting in the Republican Headquarters, Front street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Every citizens is most cordially invited to be present, and all will be asked to join in discussing the best and most feasible methods for advancing the business welfare of Plainfield. Practical suggestions on any subject touching industial growth will be gladly received.

General discussion will follow. A large number of business men have promised to be present, and the meeting is an assured success. Short, pithy, pointed speeches will be made by leading citizens. There is absolutely nothing about this movement of political nature. It is purely commercial and as such invites the hearty support of every public spirited citizen. Don't fail to attend the meeting tomorrow night. N. B. Smalley, President, The Plainfield Improvement Association.

A. G. A. R SERVICE.

Address to the Veterans by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon at the W. C. T. U. rooms an interesting service was held for the members of the G. A. R. The superintendent of the soldiers' and sailors' work, Mrs. M. C Dobbins, arranged the service and presided. After the reading of the Scripture lesson a vocal solo was given by Clifford Braider, accompanied by Mrs. E. E. Anthony. This was followed with an address by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of Monroe Avenue church. He recited many incidents in connection with the Civil War and showed that many of the prominent leaders were of the Grand Army of the Redeemed. He then urged all to join this army and work for the Lord.

After the above remarks a beautiful duet entitled "God is Love," was sung by Mrs. Honeyman and Miss Jomini, and at the close of the service Mrs. Honeyman sang an effective solo, after which the benediction was pronounced by Pastor O'Donnell.

MARRIED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Vail Celebrated the Event in a Pleasant Way.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Vail, of 604 Washington street, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage in a pleasant way surrounded by about seventy-five of the relatives and friends.

The house was appropriately decorated through the use of flowers of all kinds. In the parlor the decorations were especially attractive and it was here that the bride and groom received their friends who showered congratulations on them. The bride was gowned in the dress in which she was married twenty-five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Vail were the recipients of many costly and useful presents, all of which will be reminders of the pleasant event. During the evening a repast was served.

Presented the Diplomas.

The commencement exercises of the Long Branch Public High School were held last Friday evening in St. Luke's M. E church of that place, and a feature of the event was the presentation of the diplomas to the graduates by S. St. John McCutchen, president of the Borough Board of Education. Mr. McCutchen made a few remarks in his usual happy and appropriate manner.

Children's Day Exercises at Trinity Reformed Church.

RECITATIONS AND SINGING.

LITTLE CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS PAY HOMAGE TO THE DIETY.

Beautiful Church Decorations, Choice Music and Clever Children Form an Interesting Scene Sunday Morning—Mrs. Tier's Efforts in Training the Little Folks Crowned With Success.

The catchy, inspiring music, the clever recitations and the entire absence of tiresome features, combined to make the Children's Day exercises at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning, the most interesting, perhaps, of any held by this denomination.

The attendance was large and taxed in a measure the seating capacity of the church. The sacred edifice had been beautifully and almost profusely decorated for the occasion. At the front of the platform was erected a good sized arch with gateway extensions on either side. The arch displayed a green background, which was studded with imitations of red roses, while surmounting its apex, with outstretched wings, posed a white dove, the emblem of peace and purity. Above the circle of the arch, in large gilt letters, were the words, "Our Little Ones."

To the right and left of the arch were large palms and about the platform was a profusion of fragrant flowers and potted plants, giving a most picturesque and charming effect that was much admired. Besides the arch, the body of the church was also handsomely decorated, numerous flags and the national colors being used with excellent taste, while conspicuous above all was a festoon of red, white and blue, suspended over the centre of the auditorium, and joined by miniature flags. The entire decorations produced a good effect and are a credit to the artistic skill and taste of the designer, William Olmsted, who had entire charge of the decorations, but who was ably assisted by Miss Grace Smith.

It was fully 10:45 o'clock when the primary department of the school, headed by Mrs. J. M. Tier, the energetic superintendent, was ready to enter the church, where seats had been reserved for them in the centre at the front. Mrs. Tier formed her little Christian soldiers into line in the Sunday-school room. Before doing so, however, the roll was called and it was found that there were present 326 scholars and teachers. Then to the rendering of a voluntary by Organist A. L. Titsworth the children filed in and took seats. At the head of the column, borne by a bright little chap, was carried a handsome silk banner, on one side of which was the inscription: "A Little Child Shall Lead Them," and on the reverse side simply the word—"Love."

Seated upon the platform on either side of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Schenck, was E. E. Anthony, superintendent of the school, and H. J. Martin, the musical precentor.

To Mrs. Tier should be given the the credit for the success of the affair. She has been indefatigable in her efforts and it is mainly owing to her zeal and energy that the little folks were brought to the degree of efficiency that marked their success and which was as surprising to the parents and friends of the pupils as it must have been gratifying to their instructress.

During the exercises an interesting feature was introduced, and one which will not soon be forgotten by the children of the Sunday-school and those who had the pleasure of witnessing it. It was the administering by Dr. Schenck of the holy rites of baptism to a class of thirteen infants, representing eight families who were brought to the baptismal font by their parents.

The programme given below was a most interesting one, and the children acquitted themselves in a manner highly complimentary to those who aided in bringing them to the success that they attained.

Space, however, is not available to admit of personal mention of all who participated in the interesting exercises. It may not be out of place, though, to speak of the vocal efforts of Master Elmer Bohan who rendered in fine voice "A Little Sunbeam," while Bessie Randall, who recited "His Mother's Songs," and little Miss Elsie Tier in "The King's Jewels," and Miss Helen Woolley in her character sketch (with an armful of dolls) entitled "My Chil-

ATTACKED STANDARD OIL

L. M. Lockwood Testifies Before the Industrial Commission in Washington

HIS CRITICISM IS SEVERE

Independent Refineries, He Declares, Have Been Driven Into Bankruptcy and Servitude.

Railroads Held Particularly Responsible For the Present Condition of Affairs—A Claim That the Pennsylvania Trunk Lines Have Paid $11,000,000 in Rebates.

Washington, June 19.—The Industrial Commission heard a statement from L. M. Lockwood, an oil producer of Zelienople, Penn., in opposition to the Standard Oil Trust. Mr. Lockwood declared that the trust had driven the independent refineries into bankruptcy and servitude and he denounced the course pursued by it in severe terms. He held the railroads especially responsible for this condition of affairs. Going back to 1872, he referred at length to a contract made by the trunk lines of Pennsylvania with the South Improvement Company. Under this contract, he said, the freight rates on oil were doubled, and one-half the amount collected was paid back as a rebate—not only this, but the contract company received a like rebate on the shipments of all other companies. This contract, he declared, had been secretly continued by the railroads with the Standard Oil Company. He quoted A. J. Cassatt, the new President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, as testifying before the Inter-State Commerce Commission to the effect that while the open rate to the public was $1.90 a barrel, the rate to the Standard Oil Company was 80 cents. Further investigation, said Mr. Lockwood, had developed the fact that the railroad companies actually received only 35 cents. This condition of affairs had resulted for a time, according to the witness, in giving the Standard Oil Company a profit of 400 per cent., while the independent refineries were being rapidly driven into bankruptcy.

Mr. Lockwood was free in his use of epithets, characterizing both the oil company and the railroad officials as highwaymen and brigands.

"If you have got to be robbed," he exclaimed, "it does not matter much whether you are held up by Dick Turpin with a pistol or John Rockefeller with a railroad; it is robbery all the same."

He said that men who had carefully analyzed the testimony given before the Hepburn Committee estimated that in sixteen months the five trunk lines of Pennsylvania had paid the Standard Oil Company $11,000,000 in rebates. The railroad companies had, he said, completely ignored the orders of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to cease their discrimination in favor of the Standard Oil Company, simply resorting to the system of false billing.

Speaking of the remedy for the evil, Mr. Lockwood said it was in public ownership of the railroads, and it was not to be found in the courts—they were too slow and expensive. "The railroads and the oil company can razoo a man up and down in the courts for ten years," he said, "until he is ruined financially, and then go on with their work, leaving their victim stranded. As a reward the combines elevate their instruments to higher places politically. Thus it is that the thought of the common people is gradually becoming fixed to the opinion that the great railway combines are gradually packing the Supreme Courts with men in sympathy with their monopolistic tendencies and who will do their bidding. Thus the Inter-State commerce law is rendered ineffective."

The only safe plan, said Mr. Lockwood, was to take the railroads out of the hands of the direct control of the Government, so that one man could go to market as cheaply as every other man. He considered all the railroads of the country as practically one gigantic trust.

Mr. Lockwood advocated the taking of the roads under the right of eminent domain, paying to the owners the actual value of their property.

Rockefeller Buys Mountains.

Malone, N. Y., June 19.—John P. Kellas, of this city, has bought for William Rockefeller, of New York, the Debar Mountain Tract in the town of Duane, formerly owned by the Kinsley Lumber Company, comprising 12,000 acres. Part of it covers the territory between East Sable and Debar Mountain, and the purchase takes in all of Debar and East Mountain. They are among the handsomest mountain tracts in the country and heavily wooded.

Negro at Bay in a Swamp.

New Orleans, La., June 19.—Louis Guidry, a negro desperado, who has killed two constables within the past week, is surrounded by a large posse in the swamp back of the Calumet plantation, St. Mary, and will probably be killed. Guidry has long been a terror to the community. An attempt was made to arrest him last week by Constable Henry Croch, of Berwick, but Guidry escaped after killing the constable.

To be Examined as to His Sanity.

Newburg, N. Y., June 19.—Robert B. McElrath, late a member of Company I, First New York Volunteers, recently home from Honolulu, has been taken in charge and will be examined as to his sanity. He has been acting queer since he came home from Honolulu, and has threatened his mother with violence.

Earthquake at Iloilo.

Manila, June 19.—An earthquake shock was felt at Iloilo. The inhabitants say it was the severest ever known. It is supposed that the shock was caused by the volcano Conloan in Negros in eruption. An explosion was heard apparently under Iloilo, followed thirty seconds later by the shaking of the earth.

SUED FOR FIVE CENTS

Chicago Elevated Road Must Provide Passengers With Seats.

Chicago, June 19.—A. C. Collins has won his suit against the Lake Street "L" for breach of contract in not providing him with a seat after he had paid his fare to Austin. At Hamlin avenue a car was detached, and with other passengers he was ordered to go to a forward car. Some refused unless they were assured seats. The superintendent says he could not procure seats, but unless they went forward the car they were in would be sidetracked and carried back. The passengers were carried back to a switch and compelled to pay another fare or walk to their destinations.

Justice La Mena in his decision said: "Corporations have no right to make unreasonable rules. Common carriers like the Lake Street "L" are bound to provide accommodations for the comfort of their patrons. When past events showed it was impossible to comfortably carry passengers after detaching a car at Hamlin avenue, it was the duty of the company to abolish that rule." This was a test case, and many other suits are expected to follow it. The amount involved is 5 cents principal, but the costs are immense.

Imp Wins Suburban Handicap.

New York, June 19.—By winning the Suburban Handicap at the racing park of the Coney Island Jockey Club, Imp disposed of one of the most cherished of the traditions of the race course—that which has averred that no mare could win one of he great spring handicaps. She not only won it, but won in the best time ever made for the race, 2:05 4-5, though the record for the distance at the track is 2:05, made by Salvator nine years ago in a race against Tenny. Bannockburn was a good second, Warrenton a fair third, and Banaster, winner of the Brooklyn Handicap and the favorite for the race, a bad last, he having been practically left at the post. The stake was worth $7,000 to the winner, $2,000 to the second horse, and $1,000 to the third. There were upward of 30,000 people present.

Slot Machine a Gambling Device.

Albany, June 19.—The State Commissioner of Excise has received notice that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the Fourth Department has handed down a decision denying defendant's motion for a new trial and directing the entry of judgment for the plaintiff in the bond penalty action of Lyman, as Commissioner of Excise, against one Brucker and the Rochester Title and Guarantee Company. The action was tried in Rochester in February last, and Justice Davy directed a verdict of $1,000 and costs. The defendants appealed. The court held as a matter of law that a slot machine was a gambling device, and its operation was a violation of the bond, which entitled the State Commissioner to recover the full penalty.

Powder Works Blown Up.

San Francisco, June 19.—The United States Smokeless Powder Works in Marin County blew up, killing Joseph Seccombe, his son, Ed Seccombe, Edward Morrissey and F. Hollenbeck, foreman. Engineer Joseph Farrell and Charles Webster were seriously injured. The first explosion was in the grinding mill. It was followed by explosions in the mixing and incorporating houses. About five tons of the powder exploded. Two bodies have not been found.

Killed While Crawling Under a Train

Fort Plain, N. Y., June 19.—At St. Johnsville, six miles west of this village, Mrs. John R. Fake was killed while crossing the Central Hudson tracks. She was on her way to the passenger station, and on arriving at the tracks found a freight train between her and the one she contemplted taking. She risked crawling under the freight, and had just gotten beneath a car when the train moved, the wheels passing over her, severing both legs and badly crushing her body.

Willie Tascott's Father Dead.

Chicago, June 19.—James B. Tascott, for fifty years a paint manufacturer and known all over the country in that line of trade, died at the home of his sister in Evanston. He was the father of Willie Tascott, for whom $50,000 reward was offered after Millionaire A. J. Snell was found murdered in his mansion here ten years ago. Tools said to have been those of young Tascott were found in the house. Detectives scoured the earth for Willie, but failed to locate him.

Farmers to Form a Trust.

Laporte, Ind., June 19.—Hon. Aaron Jones, of St. Joseph County, Master of the National Grange, says in an interview that the propsed trust of the farmers of the United States will be carried out, and that it will make itself felt in due time, and such trusts as are against public interests will hear from it. Mr. Jones says 1,000,000 organized farmers can make it exceedingly uncomfortable for trusts formed to practice extortion.

Sampson to Finish His Programme.

Washington, June 19.—The Navy Department has no intention of relieving Admiral Sampson of the command of the North Atlantic Station until he has completed the usual tour of service. The Admiral has planned an important set of manoeuvres and course of instruction for the North Atlantic fleet, part of it in conjunction with the Naval War College at Newport.

A Big Lighting Combine.

Albany, N. Y., June 19.—A certificate of merger of the New York and Queens Light and Power Company, the Flushing Gas and Electric Light Comapny, and the Newtown Light and Power Company, with the New York and Queens Gas and Electric Company, has been filed with the Secretary of State. The latter company was incorporated recently, with $1,000,000 capital.

To Build a Large Cotton Mill.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 19.—A cotton mill and bleachery, to cost $1,500,000, will be built in Chattanooga by Eastern men. S. Coolidge and S. M. Bourne, officers and stockholders in the Stark cotton mills of Manchester, N. H., are here to purchase a site for the plant. HARD BLOW TO NATIVES.

General Luna's Death Said To Greatly Lessen the Hopes of Filipino Army.

A LOSS OF 25 PER CENT.

Former Aid on Aguinaldo's Staff Says the End of the Rebellion in the North is Near at Hand.

Fierce Outbursts of Temper Caused Luna to be Disliked—Many Hungry Natives Are Fed by the American Troops—General Otis Looks For More Hard Fighting.

Manila, June 19.—General Areveloe, a former aid on Aguinaldo's staff, in an interview, says that the death of Luna amounts to a loss of twenty-five per cent. of the Filipino army. He was the only general in the North, and his death, in General Areveloe's opinion, means the speedy extinction of the rebellion in that quarter.

A leading Filipino merchant says Gen. Luna was disliked by the army South for his fierce outbursts of temper and also as an avowed enemy of Aguinaldo and other Filipino generals. His death would make the unity of the Filipino army possible.

Many hungry Filipinos were fed at Paranaque and Las Pinas. The first issue of rations consisted of rice and canned roast beef. Some of the beef issued is said to have been in bad condition.

Otis Expects More Fighting:

Washington, June 19.—Reports received at the War Department from Gen. Otis indicate that considerable more fighting is to be expected in the Philippines before the natives will accept American terms of peace. Aguinaldo is ruling his followers with an iron hand. The enemy have shown a tenacity of purpose that has been surprising and they have persisted in fighting notwithstanding severe losses and disastrous repulses.

It is believed by War Department officers that the natives had mapped out a complete plan for a simultaneous attack on Manila and on the forces under Gen. McArthur near San Fernando.

The advance of Gen. Lawton's forces upon them south of Manila was evidently unexpected and he not only defeated the insurgents with great loss but broke up their projected attack. The fight reported at San Fernando is believed to have been a part of this plan of Aguinaldo's to break through the American lines between San Fernando and Calumpit and advance upon Manila to aid in the attack on the city, which had been prearranged.

Now that the insurgents have been defeated at both ends of the line it is very probable that Aguinaldo will again withdraw toward Tarlac and there arrange some other movement. Meanwhile the American forces under Lawton and MacArthur are not expected to remain idle. It is thought by officers of the army that Gen. Otis will continue to advance on the enemy and not allow them to recover fully from their defeats of the last few days.

There is no fear that Gen. MacArthur will not be fully able to defend his position against the insurgents as he has a whole division under his command and will not only be able to repulse any attacks but will probably send a brigade of troops to pursue the Filipinos as far northward as possible.

It Was Known in Washington.

Washington, June 19.—The fact that looting has been going on in the Philippines has been known at the War Department for some time.

Several officers were court-martialed for the looting at Iloilo, but all were acquitted by the courts.

A prominent naval officer writes home that the sailors and soldiers who captured Iloilo not only looted jewelry and other stores, but went into private houses and carried off pianos and organs.

"Every regiment now has a piano or organ," he says, "and the sailors were equally fortunate in their quest."

Gen. Otis has issued stringent orders against looting, but they are not respected. An officer of the regular service who permits his men to loot is immediately court-martialed, and if found guilty is liable to dismissal. The volunteer organizations take what they desire and nothing is said.

Sampson-Schley Again.

Washington, June 19.—Secretary Long says that Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson's statement regarding the alleged conversation between Rear-Admiral Schley and himself at the time of the cruiser Brooklyn's loop would be investigated by the War Department. Officials believe that the whole Sampson-Schley controversy will be reopened.

What Spain Paid For Rebellions.

Madrid, June 19.—The budget submitted to the Cortes shows that the expenditures for the colonies from the beginning of the insurrection in Cuba to the end of March, 1899, amounted to $393,871,000, of which $359,253,800 was for Cuba, $1,419,400 for Porto Rico, and $33,197,800 for the Philippines.

$50,000 Fire in Virginia.

Parsons, W. Va., June 19.—The large plant of the McClure Lumber Company at Maybe, Randolph County, was totally destroyed by fire, with a lot of lumber. The loss amounts to about $50,000.

An Ex-Convict Killed.

Dayton, Ohio, June 19.—The remains of the man killed by a train at a street crossing has been identified as those of Ollie Walker, a mulatto and an ex-convict. He was released from prison May 25.

Mr. Charles Austin Bates, the famous advertising writer, makes a specialty of medical advertisements. He has studied medicine and has a habit of analyzing the ingredients of every medicine about which he is asked to write, refusing to write advertisements for medicines which he can not indorse. He says of

Ripans Tabules:

"I had the formula and went through it from the ground up. I found that every one of the ingredients was put in for some special purpose, and was good for the purpose intended. I have as much confidence in Ripans Tabules as I have in anything I ever wrote about. I take them myself when I have eaten a little too much or feel nausea or symptoms of headache coming on, and I find them quicker to act than any medicine I ever took. You can feel their action in the stomach almost immediately; a very pleasant sensation. I know some people who think they can't possibly get along without them. My wife went to call one day on some friends she had known always. She found they swore by Ripans Tabules. They did not know that she knew anything about them or that I had written anything for them."

BULLETS WARN STRIKERS.

Sentries at Cleveland Notify Crowds of the Approach of Street Cars.

A FIERCE RIOT ENSUES.

The Police Use Their Clubs With Telling Effect Upon Men, Women and Children.

Switches and Turntables Torn Up and Carried to the Dump—A Number of Persons Badly Injured—Police and Non-Union Men Again Pelted With Eggs and Stones.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 19.—The south side, in the vicinity of Clark avenue and Pearl street, has been the scene of another bloody riot in the street car strike. Many foreigners reside in this section, and the feeling of lawlessness is more rampant than in other localities. About one hundred men gathered, armed with crowbars and immediately began tearing up the car switches.

From there the crowd went to Jennings and Holmden avenues, where they tore up the turntable, which weighed fully a ton, and carried it to the dump at the foot of Jennings avenue. A bugler was placed at the Central Market, to blow when he saw the south side car move up Ontario street. A second bugler was within hearing distance to take up the note. Other buglers were strung along the Central Viaduct and Jennings avenue to Clark avenue and to Pearl street.

At this point two cars came along, and in the first car were Capt. Hutchinson, Lieutenants Felhaber and Varner and fourteen policemen. In the second car were about thirty imported men and deputy sheriffs. When the cars reached the corner of Clark avenue and Pearl street they were unable to proceed further. Several missiles were thrown, and the police began to use their clubs. The aggression of the police angered the people, and a shower of stones, eggs, etc., was aimed at cars and officers. The police then charged the crowd with their clubs, knocking men, women and children right and left. Dr. O. E. George, who has an office in the vicinity, was struck, but not badly injured. Lena Greggs, eight years old, was hit by a policeman's club, as was the nine-year-old son of Councilman McIntyre.

Several members of the crowd displayed revolvers, and the outlook was very threatening for a time. When the police started after the retreating cars Edward Miller was found on the ground bathed in blood and unconscious from a clubbing. In all, forty or fifty persons were clubbed by the police.

Cleveland, June 19.—The striking street car employes are preparing for a big demonstration this evening. It is expected that between 10,000 and 20,000 union workmen will be in line. The object of the demonstration is to influence the City Council, and 100 representatives of organized labor will be selected to attend the meeting of that body to request the passage of an ordinance introduced a week ago, which requires that all motormen shall have at least twenty days' experience in running cars in Cleveland before they can be employed there.

The represetatives of labor also will ask the Council to request Mayor Farley to withdraw police protection from the company, and demand that if the company does not operate its cars in compliance with the terms of its charter the franchise be forfeited.

Denver, June 19.—Gov. Thomas and Mayor Johnson have named a committee of business men who will meet with the Operating Committee of the American Smelting and refining Company, to endeavor to settle the strike. The committee consists of ex-Gov. Alva Adams, President E. T. Jeffrey of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad; J. K. Mullen, proprietor of the Hungarian Mills; William Church, proprietor of the Pressed Brick Company, and Rev. Barton O. Aylesworth, president of the State Agricultural College.

Pueblo, Col., June 19.—Final adjustment of wages at the Philadelphia smelter, the Guggenheim anti-trust plant, has been effected, the men accepting the scale of the company with the exception that the lower class of labor will be paid $1.40 per day instead of $1.32, as offered by the company. The company expects to be in full operation in all departments with 1,200 men by June 20.

May Stop Western Rate Cutting.

Philadelphia, June 19.—General Passenger Agent Lomax of the Union Pacific Railway Company, has announced that his road has decided to become a member of the Western Passenger Association. This road has been out of the association for several years, and all efforts to induce it to come in have failed. It is thought that the action of the directors in deciding to enter the association will result in stopping rate cutting in the West.

Another Victim of Kentucky Feud.

Cincinnati, June 19.—A London (Ky.) special to the Times-Star says: "At Begtown, Clay County, about seven miles from here, Chris. Jackson, Tom Baker's brother-in-law, was shot from ambush and wounded. He came here and had his wound dressed. His assailants escaped.

Albany Club's Safe Robbed.

Albany, June 19.—The safe of the Albany Club, on State street, was broken open and $88 in cash taken. Detectives have been placed at work, but not the slightest clue to the daring cracksmen has been found.

NEGRO EXILE SCARED AWAY

Bryant Went Back to Wilmington, N. C., and Had to Flee Again.

Wilmington, N. C., June 19.—A company of more than a hundred citizens many substantial business men among the number, gathered in Brooklyn, a suburb of this city, for the purpose of "scaring" Arie Bryant out of the city.

Bryant is one of the negroes who was exiled during the race conflict here last November. He came back here three days ago, and it was believed he came to see if the citizens would interfere with him. If they did not, other of the number who were driven away would come back.

It was this view of the matter which caused the demonstration, and it is expected that Bryant is so thoroughly frightened that he will not revisit Wilmington, and will advise all his fellow exiles to keep clear of this city. The men were armed heavily with rifles and revolvers.

Friends of Bryant forwarned him of the movement, and he was not to be found when his premises were searched. It is announced that he has fled and left word that he will certainly never come back.

Caught on Railway Trestle.

Cincinnati, June 19.—Engineer Tom Evans has had an exciting experience which he will not soon forget. He was in the cab of Train No. 4 of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern, running on a long trestle near Dillsborough, Ind. Evans looked out of the cab window and was horrified to see, not many yards ahead of him, a man and a boy. It was too late to reverse his engine. He put on the brakes, however, and succeeded in stopping directly over the two, and backed off. To his surprise, neither was injured, but they had a close call. The boy had laid down between the rail and the outer edge, while the man had hung from the trestle, and was all but exhausted when rescued.

Boys Start a Locomotive.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 19.—Two mischievous boys entered the cab of yard engine 1178, left standing about 300 feet from the main entrance of the Erie car shops in this village, and opened the steam valves of the locomotive. The engine started forward and smashed in the doors of the structure, wrecked two coupled cars therein undergoing repairs, and then made kindling wood of the doors at the other end of the building, derailed other cars standing on a switch outside of the western end of the building, and then it stopped of its own accord. When the engine started the boys jumped and ran away.

Shot His Bride and Suicided.

New Orleans, La., June 19.—William A. Fischer, a builder and contractor, shot his young wife and then killed himself with the same pistol. The wife will recover. Fischer had been married only seven weeks. His first wife secured a divorce several months ago, and then Fischer married Miss Barbara Scherer. Within two weeks she left him because of ill treatment and returned to her mother's house. Fischer followed her, knocked her down and shot her through the mouth and arm.

Ironworkers' Pay Raised.

Pittsburg, June 19.—As a result of the four days' conference between the representatives of the manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the wages of 25,000 iron and steel sheet workers throughout the country will be advanced after July 1 for one year. The advance to rollers will be 11 per cent., to shearsmen about 11 per cent., and to day hands 15 per cent.

Drowned in Croker's Pond.

White Plains, N. Y., June 19.—Peter and John McGinty, 8 and 10 years old respectively, sons of Peter McGinty, were drowned while bathing with several companions in Croker's Pond, which is about eight miles east of this place. It is a deep sheet of water on the farm formerly owned by Richard Croker. The McGinty boys were playing on a raft and fell off.

$20,000 for McCoy and Fitz.

Chicago, June 19.—The Colorado Athletic Association has offered a $20,000 purse for a twenty-five-round contest between Bob Fitzsimmons and "Kid" McCoy. The proposed fight is to be for the middleweight championship of the world. McCoy has wired his acceptance, saying that he would fight at 158 pounds or at catch weights on any fair terms.

Union Student Drowned.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 19.—Harold Skidmore, nineteen years old, of Southold, Long Island, a member of the class of '92, Union College, was drowned in the Mohawk River. He went in bathing, but could not swim. He went beyond his depth, and despite the strenuous efforts of his companion was drowned in six feet of water.

On June 8 he contracted cold, which has developed into a mild but annoying affection of the lungs. His condition is not regarded as serious.

Reciprocity With Bermuda.

Washington, June 19.—Despatches received by the British Embassy say that a reciprocity commission has sailed from Bermuda and will arrive here about the first of next week.

Some persons say they are never influenced by an advertisement.

It is not expected that any one will buy Ivory Soap solely because it is suggested by an advertisement, but if you have never used Ivory Soap, you may be induced to ask some friend about it; should you find—as you probably will—that she is enthusiastic in its praise, then you may try it.

Millions of people use Ivory Soap; they use it because they like it. You too will like it. There is a difference in soaps.

ANOTHER FURIOUS STORM.

Winona Minn., County Again Swept By a Destructive Cyclone.

Winona, Minn., June 19.—For the third time during the present month a disastrious tornado has passed through different sections of Winona County, and as a result nearly a million dollars worth of damage has been done by the three storms. The last one visited the western portion of the county last night, and nothing but a path of devastation and ruin marks its course. Houses, barns and fences were carried away, trees were uprooted, and for a distance extending nearly half way across the county the devastation is almost complete.

A total of twenty-six people were more or less injured, but none of them fatally. At Fountain City several head of horses and twenty head of cattle were killed. The wind was accompanied by an immense downpour of rain, and for about fifteen minutes hail fell in such quantities as to completely cover the ground. Crops in the path of the cyclone and hail storm will be almost a total loss.

McKinley at Holyoke.

Holyoke, Mass., June 19.—Sunday for President McKinley was anything but a day of rest. With the contiuous crowding of the curious citizens, the immense jam at the church in the morning and later in he day an expected and totally unprepared for reception in connection with the baccalaureate exercises at Mount Holyoke College, made it seem rather a long, tiresome day for all. The President was not content with going once to church; he went twice, leaving Mrs. McKinley in the hands of her friends on each occasion.

Big Barge For Lake Service.

Chicago, June 19.—The largest vessel ever built in the South Chicago shipyards has been launched at the slip of the Chicago Ship Building Company. It is said that the vessel is the largest afloat on the lakes. It is a steel tow barge. The barge was named the Manila. It is schooner rigged and is 450 feet over all. The gross tonnage is 5,039, while the net tonnage is 4,667.

Six Strawberries Filled a Quart Box

Washington, June 19.—The largest strawberries on record at the Department of Agriculture have been received by Secretary Wilson. There were six of the berries and they filled a quart box. The largest berry weighed four ounces and was 10½ inches in circumference. The total weight of the six was 18 2-5 ounces, an average of over 3 ounces each.

Lehigh Valley Train Wrecked.

Weedsport, N. Y., June 19.—The southbound Lehigh pasenger train, while running at full speed, jumped the track a little south of Murphy's Crossing, five coaches turning completely over. The engine and a milk car remained on the rails. All the passengers escaped injury other than a severe shaking up. The accident was caused by the rails spreading.

An Increase for Miners.

Lewistown, Pa., June 19.—An advance of 15 per cent. for common labor and a second increase of 10 per cent. for the roll train hands have been made by the Logan Iron and Steel Company at Burnham, near here. The company is now paying $3.50 per ton for puddling, and $1.90 for busheling scrap iron.

Fighting in the Balkans.

Belgrave, June 19.—Serious conflicts are reported to have occurred on the Turkish frontier. According to advices received, the Servian post at Propachtitda has been plundered and burned, and several strategic positions are occupied by the Turkish troops and Albanians. Great excitement prevails here.

Killed by a Live Wire.

Hartford, Conn., June 19.—Patrick Mahoney, of Philadelphia, 38 years old, a lineman employed by the Hartford Electric Light Company, was killed by coming in contact with a live wire while at work on a pole on Gouvernor street. He received the full current of 2,200 volts through his hands.

A Silence That Pays.

"I made $2,000 once," said the man in the mackintosh, "by merely keeping my mouth shut."

"Was it an auction?" asked the man in the slouch hat.

"No."

"High-priced doctor asked you to show him your tongue and you didn't do it?" ventured the man who had his feet on the table.

"No. It was"——

"Found it in the street and didn't say a word about it to anybody?" suggested the man behind the blue glasses.

"Do it on a bet?" inquired the man in the ulster.

"Burglar asked you where your money was hid, and you were struck speechless and couldn't tell him?" hazarded the man with the gray mustache.

"You think you're pretty smart," said the man in the mackintosh, speaking to the crowd generally, "but you're not. None of you would ever guess it. I made the $2,000 in the simpliest way in the world. A rich old uncle who was visiting us told a story we'd heard him tell a hundred times before. I was the only one in the family who didn't yawn, and he remembered me in his will."

The Stationery Fiend.

"Can you oblige me with a sheet of paper?"

"Yes."

"And an envelope?"

"Yes."

"And a postage stamp?"

"No, but here's 2 cents."

"Thank you, that will do just as well."

"Don't you want me to bring you a letter box?"

"I'm afraid it will be too much trouble."

"Not at all. If you'll wait around here half a minute I'll call up the postal department at Washington."

"May I ask what for?"

"I'm going to request them to put the postoffice on wheels and have it follow you around."

"How kind. I'm afraid this package is a little heavy for one stamp. Haven't you 2 cents more?"

Training for the Event.

"Why, professor, I wasn't aware that you went in for athletics to this extent."

"I don't ordinarily, but (biff) I've got to (bing) discharge our cook next week (bang)."

It is quite a joke on the new State Bar Association that it should have attempted to organize under a law that has been repealed because of its unconstitutionality, says the Newark News. Nor is the joke lessened by the fact the certificate of incorporation was drawn by an ex-Judge and that the Attorney-General of the State moved its adoption. If Senator Reed, of Somerset, had not been present to call the attention of these eminent lawyers to their error concerning the statutes of their own State the new legal craft would have been started on its voyage with a false chart and the compass all out of gear, and there is no telling on what rocky coast it would have landed.

Every business man in Plainfield ought to make it his especial business to attend the meeting of the Plainfield Advancement Society tomorrow evening. The success of this society means dollars and cents to everyone of them, and because it is a public organization is no reason why it should not receive the careful consideration that any other business proposition would merit.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Baxter has sent back the figures furnished by the New Brunswick Board of Education of the school census for that city, because of an apparent discrepancy in the figures for the Sixth ward. It is claimed that either there is a discrepancy in the returns for the Sixth ward or the lists have been padded.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

"Why cannot New Brunswick have a country club?" asks the New Brunswick Times. You can, esteemed contemporary. Just go up to Plainfield and buy the one there. It's for sale at a bargain.—Elizabeth Journal.

J. K. VanNess, of Plainfield, is determined, or pretends to be determined, to repel the trolley invasion. He has built a house directly on the route proposed for the road, and is occupying it. Saturday he mounted a cannon, with which he says he intends to repel the invaders, and while firing it to get the range, was arrested for violating a city ordinance. VanNess has been a lawyer once, and now he seems to want to make trouble and to get his name in the papers.—Westfield Republican.

W. W. Moore exercised general supervision over the whole affair and lent his aid and assistance where it was most needed. William Ashworth was also a very valuable man and assisted in the general charge of the grounds.

The patrons were many and they came with well filled pockets. As a result, the treasury of the Industrial School was increased by a goodly sum, the exact amont of which has not yet been announced.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on L. W. Randolph, Druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c. and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

—There will be a meeting of the Borough Board of Education this evening to complete arrangements for the commencement exercises.

—This afternoon there will be a meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders to decide about erecting a new bridge at Giraud avenue.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains. A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O I did not like it but after using it for one week nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains. Get a package today from your grocer, follow the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15 and 25c.

PERHAPS YOU'RE A MATTOID

Probability That You Are One and Don't Know It.

Perhaps you don't know what a "mattoid" is. Shortly, he is a sane man with claims to genius, but possessed of some marked peculiarity that inclines one to doubt of his complete sanity.

There have been sane men of genius and mad men of genius—the latter preponderate—but a mattoid forms a link between the two.

According to Lombrosso, the great criminologist, mattoids are more frequent among men than women, and the classes where they most abound are the literary, artistic and religious.

Preference for colored inks, just as also a fondness for special words or phrases, marks a man as a mattoid. If such a sign is true it is perhaps a little flattering to one's vanity to think that such an eccentricity may be proof of latent genius hitherto unsuspected.

The commonest variety of mattoid is the "graphomaniac," otherwise the confirmed scribbler. The man who spoils ream after ream of paper in writing of nothing in particular, who writes in a feeble, formless style and showers marks of exclamation as from a pepper-box—such is a mattoid. Many women writers and minor poets come under this head.

It is reassuring to know that the "graphomaniac," however abnormal his literary productions, is found to have a normal cranium and physiognomy.

Personal preoccupation and aggressive egotism are bad signs. But because Whitman, Rosseau, Musset and DeQuincey wrote much of themselves, and did not always veil their various personalities under the editorial "we," it seems a little rude, not to say harsh, to call them mattoids. Wagner, under the influence of a peculiar mood, affirmed that he could not work if he did not have in his room a red flamingo mat. Could he have realized (without intention of punning) that such a trait was mattoidal?

Peter the Great, when he was in England, often sat up till 2 in the morning with Lord Caermarthen, drinking brandy, and pepper! Nevertheless, he invariably rose at 4.

The fact that Napoleon could not pass through a street without counting all the windows would certainly earn for him the esteem of most eccentrics.

But it is not necessary to go on enumerating historical instances of eccentricity. Let the reader look around among his or her circle of friends and show an exaggerated fondness for detail, a passion for animals or an irrepressible fancy for punning. All these are in danger of developing into mattoids.

Collectors of stamps or old shoes, inventors of weird drinks—such as gorgonzola and bay rum—and especially inveterate "scorchers," all are morbid subjects.

The man who went mad in his efforts to walk on the ceiling like a fly was a mattoid of the very deepest dye.

In fact, any degree of excessive originality is a dangerous thing in a country where the eyes of the law look with suspicion upon all who are not quite ordinary, though in these days of self-advertisement it is hard to find people who are "ordinary"—everybody is so clever.

"As Clean as a Whistle."

The origin of saying "as clean as a whistle" is ascribed to the "whistle tankard" of olden times, in which the whistle came into play when the tankard was emptied or "cleared out" to announce to the waiter that more liquor was required.

There are 672 known volcanoes in the world, of which 270 are active; 80 in America, 24 in Asia, 20 in Africa. Java has 109, of which 28 are active. In New Zealand, within an area of 127 miles, there are 63, ranging from 196 feet to 900 feet in height.

An Inherited Secret.

In Nagasaki, Japan, there is a fireworks maker who manufactures pyrotechnic birds of great size that, when exploded, sail in a lifelike manner through the air, and perform many movements exactly like those of living birds. The secret of making these wonderful things has been in the possession of the eldest child of the family of each generation for more than four hundred years.

The reason a blow on the ear may do irreparable injury is that the air, being driven suddenly and violently against the drum of the ear, might rupture the membrane and cause incurable deafness. The ears should never be pulled nor meddled with in any way except to wash them in the gentlest manner, the orifice being cleansed with a fold of the washcloth rolled into a little cone.

The original thirteen states contained 325,785 square miles, or 208,502,400 acres. In 1898 the United States contained 2,720,160 square miles, or 1,688,373,360 acres, in organized states. It also contained 886,270 square miles, or 567,212,800 acres, of territory not organized as states.

The German emperor, when receiving foreign representatives or military attaches of foreign powers, always wears the uniform of the army of the country the visitor represents, and sometimes during a levee he will change his uniform five or six times.

AN ENGLISH BANK

A Bright American Woman Interviews One of the Officials.

The subject of respectability brings to mind the experience of an American woman in London, who found that the bank with which she had been dealing was inconveniently far away, and concluded to transfer her account to another one, which was, by the way a branch of the first bank. So, not being versed in the ways of banks in general, and English banks in particular—very particular, one might say—she went to the branch bank, said she wished to open an account, and handed over a largish draft by way of beginning. The bank gentleman had her indorse it, put it carefully away and then said:

"Now, I'll kindly trouble you for references."

"References? I did not come here for a place as a cook."

"Ah, quite so, quite so. But, ah, you understand we shall be obliged to have some references."

"Well, there's your own bank, the main one. I've been having an account there for a year or two; you might ask them about me."

"Ah, quite so; but we would prefer a personal reference."

"I don't understand."

"No; but it is customary when a new customer comes to the bank——"

"But I'm not a new customer."

"Comes to the bank, that there should be some—er—guarantee offered."

"You have guarantee enough I think. You have an indorsed check for all the money I have in London."

"Ah, yes, quite so; but aside from that what is wanted is a personal guarantee from some one we know, as to the respectability of a new client."

"The—what?"

"The—ah—respectability."

"You want a guarantee of my respectability, is that it?"

"Quite right."

A painful pause ensued, broken by the American woman asking with dangerous sweetness. "Is this the —— Bank?"

"Yes, the —— street branch of the—— Bank."

"I begin to understand; it is the bank that let itself be robbed of Mrs. Langtry's jewels, about three years ago."

"Er—ah—well, yes it is."

"So, then Mrs. Langtry is a customer of this bank."

"Yes, quite right."

"Well, I don't wonder now at your bank asking for outside guarantees of respectability; it evidently doesn't know it when it sees it."

"Ah, madam, come; that remark is a bit of a nasty one."

"I intended it to be. Under the circumstances, I would much rather have my respectability vouched for, and by really competent judges. You will be good enough to inquire of ——" and here the American rattled off a goodly string of high and mighty names, which the bank gentleman assured her more than satisfied him; he would open her account at once.

"No, I believe not. It would have been all right if you had made your inquiries first, before you took my check and had me indorse it, and put it away safe and sound. But you secured the check first and then began your catechism, and I think I'll just trouble you to let me have the draft back again."

"But, madam, this is most unusual."

"I hope it is; at any rate it is most disagreeable. You don't know that I told the truth about knowing those people whom I just mentioned as my references. I may be a perfectly disreputable impostor, and I think you would feel safer if you just returned me the check."

So she tucked it in her glove and sailed out, feeling pleased, but not as much so as when an hour later a message came saying that the manager of the bank presented his compliments, and could she make it convenient to see him. Of course it turned out that it was the assistant manager who had been so elementary in his way of receiving the American woman and the deposit. It always is one's assistant something, or the deputy somebody that makes those mistakes.

Pretty Hands.

Girls and women in general do not understand the graceful manipulation of the hand. They are apt to use their hands more awkwardly than any other part of the body. This is because it is apt to receive small attention, and it suffers from neglect. To limber the fingers and give elasticity to the muscles one should practice regularly a course of hand gymnastics. Especially if one has much writing to do will the hands appear stiff and awkward unless well cared for. Thin hands can be made plump by rubbing them with a good tissue builder. A homely hand, one that cannot be made pretty by any contrivance, may be made half-way presentable by sleeves which droop conveniently over it. To keep the hands smooth use a few drops of this lotion after washing: Four ounces of orange flower water, one ounce of glycerine, ten drops carbolic acid, twenty grains borax.

The Empress and Her Stable.

The Empress of Germany takes a keen interest in her private stables and in the riding lessons of her sons. Her Majesty makes a point of having a daily ride, and when the weather is unfavorable she takes it in the riding school. The Empress always likes to be there when her younger sons are having their riding lesson, and often she will herself show them how to do what is being taught them. At reviews the Empress rides a very tall horse; on ordinary occasions her mount is a black horse, and for hunting she prefers a handsome chestnut, which is very quiet and a good jumper. Generally she is accompanied in her drives by the Emperor, for she rarely drives out alone. Her especial carriage is painted blue and black, but all the others belonging to the court are red and black.

Make Your Own Violet Perfume.

You can easily make a delicious violet perfume for yourself by putting half an ounce of orris root, broken into small pieces, in a bottle with two ounces of alcohol. Add to this a bunch of newly picked violets, cork the bottle tightly and shake well. After it has been standing for four or five days a few drops on the handkerchief will leave the scent of fresh violets.

WOMEN'S REALM

WHITE TRIMMINGS.

Hats This Season Are Usually Relieved by Only a Dash of Some Color.

One sees an all pink or an all blue hat oftener than an example completely of white. This is contrary to established custom. The white head covering without a touch of gayety is in America ideal feminine warm weather wear for Sunday best. We have allowed Paris so to influence our headgear that, with the Parisian, our bonnets, the purest of them, must be dashed, at least with color. For piquancy the French woman sometimes gowns herself in unrelieved white. And it is not difficult to find hats done entirely from white, but they are rarely put forward without inquiry. Of-tenest, you come upon a chapeau of white straw or maline, decorated with some soft white stuff, and it would seem as if the intention to make it entire white had been excellent. At the last moment a paradise plume of yellow, a cluster of green leaves, a handful of flowers, is tucked on somewhere, and the whiteness ceases to be total. White as a trimming for foundations of any color is in high vogue. And this whether the hat be for dress or common wear. One of the most original methods of using white is in great maline rosettes, the only trimming of a black maline Spanish turban. White behind crape and white chiffon are twisted on outing hats. This probably is the outcome of the wearing of two veils, one for ornament, on straw sailors.

An Elegant Toilette.

Toilette of cream white crepe de chine, combined with peau de soie. The toilette is made in princess style, the crepe being shirred to the bodice at the waist, and the skirt trimmed with white and gold galoon at the hem, and at either side of the narrow front gore. Corsage of peau de soie has vest of braided bands of crepe, trimmed at each side with bands of galoon. Elbow sleeves trimmed with lace. Fitted collarette of peau de soie has scalloped edge, and is embroidered with small sprays of forget-me-nots. Stock collar of peau de soie trimmed with chiffon ruching. Material required, peau de soie, 20 inches wide, 12 yards; crepe, 27 inches wide, 7 yards.

The Dear Girls.

A lover doesn't get half so scared that a girl won't marry him as that she will marry somebody else.—Berlin (Md.) Herald.

Whenever a girl giggles at every fool remark a young man makes she is willing to be more than a sister to him.—Bloomington Pantagraph.

"George, you'll have to try and catch a cold." "Why, my love?" "Because I am just dying for some raw onions."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Be mine," pleaded the poetic lover, "and your path in life will be strewn with roses." "Humph, and have me getting a puncture on the thorns. Not much!" retorted Miss Sprocket, who was no novice in the pursuit of cycling.—Philadelphia Record.

Reason for Doubt.

"Did you sever your connection with the firm or were you discharged?" asked the friend.

The man out of a job gave a few minutes to thought before answering.

"I'm a little uncertain about that," he said at last.

"Uncertain?"

"Yes. Of course, I know that office boys are discharged and general managers sever their connections, but I can't be sure that I was high enough up to sever my connection, and I don't like to think I was low enough down to be discharged. Perhaps you'd better make it that the firm and I disagreed."

WRAPS FOR SUMMER.

What to Wear on the Shoulders When the Evening Dews Fall.

There is always a time when a woman finds her wardrobe incomplete without some sort of a cape. A jacket is not just suitable for the occasion, a long or heavy cloak would be a burden, and yet something is required in the way of a wrap. There are some really elegant garments of the very kind needed now on exhibition. These do not take in the golf capes, nor yet those intended for traveling.

But I will mention a novel traveling cape which was made for a bride who is to take an ocean voyage. She expects to wear it the first day she gets on deck after her seasickness. This is, of course, rough camel's hair plaid in a very large design of brown, drab, black and white. The cape fits the shoulders and has a high, flaring collar. The collar has a bias piece of drab cloth stitched around several times, and there are two flat pieces stitched to the cape all around just above the sprung self ruffle. The cape is cut on the straight, the ruffle bias. It is pointed quite sharply in the back and front and lined throughout with brown taffeta. A plaited ruffle one inch wide made of the brown silk extends below the edge. The cape reaches almost to the knees.

For warm days there are some beautiful capes made of net, and they are wrought in elegant designs by spangles, silk embroidery and also fine jet embroidery.

Another striking idea is to have a net cape made double to give it firmness. There is then a vermicelli pattern wrought all over the suface of narrow black velvet ribbon, gathered in the center and sewed down with fine jet beads. Around the bottom is a ruffle of black chiffon, headed by a shirred line of velvet ribbon.

Velvet ribbon seems to be very popular as a trimming. There are several ways in which it is applied. One is in what is called shell work. The ribbon is gathered in a peculiar way, and when the thread is pulled it draws it into a succession of gathers like cockleshells.

I cannot tell all the fancies of these new trimmings, as no one could understand them if I did, but puffed gathered ribbon is very pretty and showy. In this both edges are gathered and the center is thereby raised. Other designs are laid on flat and others gathered or finely quilted in the middle. One other way produces little beadlike puffs. The trimming is very effective however it is done.

These capes were exceedingly beautiful and elegant. They were lined with light, but crisp taffeta. Another was made of black net, reaching only to the elbows. It was much wider than the others, and around the bottom were four inch wide ruffles of black crepe lisse. The rest was covered with a scroll design in very narrow black lustring ribbon, with an occasional bead and line of six to ten black spangles.

The collar was very high, but made entirely of shirred and ruffled black lisse. These were revers in front completely covered with shirrings and ruffles of black lisse.

Narrow ruffles and shirrings of chiffon, lisse, liberty and silk mull are very fashionable and take the place of so much lace, though lace was never more popular than it is now. The heavier kinds are laid flat and the lighter ones gathered and plaited to a degree.

Yet, as many garments as are trimmed with a fluff of lace, there are still some others where a thread of lace would not be allowed. One of them is the horsy looking little red vest. These red cloth vests were hardly shown before they became a rage, though they were really put forth timidly for golfing. Now half the girls unbutton their jackets to show the red vest beneath; but, understand, it does not do away with the shirt waist a single bit.

It is said by those professing to know that we may look for directoire styles in the fall, as far as the shape of skirts, mantles and bonnets go. The signs do point that way when one reflects a little. Still, I have lived long enough to know that it is the unexpected that always happens.

The tight skirts, wide revers and mantelets, as well as the funny little short jackets, may evolve the full directoire. Some may adopt it, but others won't, so there must be a sort of compromise.

Black and white, gray and white and blue and white striped silks, wools and cottons are very popular designs. Where a loose bodice is made the stripes go around or at least diagonally, and those in the sleeves run straight.

The pique suits are in good demand just now, and many of them are elaborately braided in narrow soutache. Some have tunics, others have them simulated. Some are trimmed with flat black or white lace insertions, and others have no end of ruffles, etc., of Hamburg embroidery, white or done in red or blue. Almost all pique suits have Eton jackets. HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Chemnitz. Das hiesige Landgericht verurtheilte den ehemaligen Direktor der Eppendorfer Industrie-Gesellschaft, König, wegen Betrugs und Urkundenfälschung zu vier Jahren drei Monaten Gefängniß, 1000 Mark Geldstrafe eventuell noch drei Monate Gefängniß und fünf Jahre Ehrverlust. Kurz vor dem bekanntlich durch Ueberschuldung und schwindelhaftes Geschäftsgebahren herbeigeführten Zusammenbruch der Gesellschaft vor etwa zehn Jahren, flüchteten die beiden Direktoren König und Rebentisch über Bordeaux nach Buenos-Ayres, wo Rebentisch starb, während sich König schließlich, von Heimweh nach seiner Familie ergriffen, im September 1897 dem deutschen Konsul stellte. Die Liquidation der Eppendorfer Industrie-Gesellschaft ist noch heute nicht beendet. Wie vor Gericht erörtert wurde, wird der Verlust der Gläubiger etwa 1,000,000 Mark betragen.

Leipzig. Im Dorfe Wahren brannte die Musikinstrumentenfabrik „Polyphon" theilweise nieder.

Hamburg. Die polizeiliche Genehmigung des Bauplanes zum neuen deutschen Schauspielhause ist ertheilt worden. Der Bau beginnt im laufenden Sommer; das Theater soll im September 1900 eröffnet werden.—Hier ist der Komponist Louis Boedecker gestorben. Boedecker war 1845 in Hamburg geboren, Schüler von Marxsen, und wirkte hier als Musiklehrer und Musikreferent.—Das Hamburger Segelschiff „Heinrich" ist bei Alsen Nachts gestrandet. Das Schiff wurde leck. Der Kapitän versuchte zwar, das Fahrzeug auf den Strand zu setzen, jedoch versank es bald in den Wellen. Die Besatzung entkam in einem Boot.

Bremen. Der Senat der freien Stadt Bremen hat trotz aller freundschaftlichen Vorstellungen der russischen Regierung sich geweigert, Beamte, welche den russischen Popen Elias Sotikow und Frau aus New York wegen angeblichen Diebstahls eines Postbeutels unschuldig verhaftet hatten, zu bestrafen. Nach Ansicht des bremischen Senats rechtfertigten die Verdachtsgründe, wenn sie sich auch nicht beweisen ließen, die Verhaftung, die nicht über Gebühr ausgedehnt war. Rußland hat das übel genommen und seinen für Hamburg und Bremen zugleich ernannten Minister-Residenten v. Westmann, welcher seinen Wohnsitz in Hamburg hat, für Bremen abberufen.—Der Chefredakteur der „Bremer Nachrichten," Justus Finger, ist im Alter von 56 Jahren gestorben.

Lübeck. Die geplante Verlegung des Bahnhofs nach den Rethteich-Wiesen ist an dem Widerspruch des Reichs-Eisenbahnamts gescheitert, und zwar hauptsächlich aus dem Grunde, weil die bestehende, strategisch wichtige direkte Geleis-Verbindung zwischen der Hamburger und der Mecklenburger Bahn beim Rethteich-Bahnhof fortfallen würde.

Don't trust your shoeing to any one who as not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. We are having great success in leveling and balancing horses that have been ungaited by being shod by inexperienced men and boys. Our reference is NOT to people who are out of the State, but to OUR CUSTOMERS, who can be found right here in the city and vicinity. Horses called for and delivered.

LOST ILLUSIONS.

I used to think that marionettes
Were people live and true;
That Judy and Punch and the baby dear
Were living people, too.
And now I know that they're only dolls
Which do what they're made to do.
But, oh, dear, nothing is half the fun
That it was before I knew!

THE MOUND BUILDERS.

The Very Peculiar Manner in Which They Buried Their Dead.

Several centuries ago the great plains along the rivers in the southern and central part of the United States were occupied by bands of people called now the Mound Builders. Their chief occupation was hunting and fishing, but what I wish to speak about is the way in which they buried their dead. They buried them with all their weapons, for they thought that when they got to the Happy Hunting Grounds they would want them. They did not bury their dead the way we do. But would sit them all up on the ground with all their possessions and cover them up with earth, and when more would die they would put them right on top of the others and cover them up with dirt, so in the course of years these mounds would grow until some of them would get to be more than a hundred feet high. Think of all the work it took to build these mounds, for all the dirt had to be brought in little baskets by the women and children. Don't you think that this was a curious way to bury their dead? About two miles from where we used to live there are two of these big mounds right on the banks of the river. We used to dig in them for arrow heads and pottery. In one of these mounds we found part of a tunnel, but this great race of people has passed away, leaving nothing but these huge mounds for us to remember them by. So our race will pass away, leaving nothing but the ruins of our vast buildings to mark where we have worked, lived and died.

Men and Women With Horns.

Villereuve, a French authority, has been at some pains to collect many instances of men and women who have had horns.

In the British Museum is the largest specimen of a human horn. It is eight inches in length and ornamented the head of a noble Englishman. In the seventeenth century a Mrs. Allen, of Leicestershire, England, had a pair of horns. Another Englishwoman of the same town, known as the beautiful Mary Davis, had a pair of horns, which were regarded as an addition to her charms. She had them cut off four times, but they grew again. One growth was presented to King Henry IV., of France.

In 1887 M. Lamprey relates he found in the African territory of Ganim several imposing types of horned men and women. One of these was a majestic-looking negro with two horns, which in his case sprang one from each side of the nose. A Mexican named Rodrigues is described as having a horn on the side of his head about seven inches long, with three branches.

There are cases of similar horns being found on dogs, horses and hares.

Malpigh calls such excrescences "a nervous prolongation of the skin." Bieschi calls them the result of a morbid secretion. They are in substance analogous to the horny growth of the human finger nails and the claws of beasts.

The Magical Knot.

A very amusing trick, consisting in simply tying one knot with two ends of a handkerchief, and, by apparently pulling the ends, untying them again.

Take two ends of the handkerchief, one in each hand, the ends dropping from the inside of your hands. You simply tie a single knot, when your hands and your handkerchief will be in the position shown in the cut. Instead of pulling the ends C and D, grasp that part marked B with your thumb and forefinger, dropping the end D, and pulling upon the end C and the bend B, when, instead of really tying, you unloosen the knot.

All this should be done as quickly as possible, to prevent detection. Examine the engraving closely, and you will more readily understand the explanation.

Speed of the House Fly.

When a common house fly is alarmed its rate of speed in flight amounts to over one hundred and fifty feet a second. In normal flight its wings make 800 beats a second, sending it through the air twenty-five feet in that space of time.

Pure Air.

Some scientists assert that the purest air in cities is found about twenty-five feet above the street surface.

THE FIRE BALLOON.

Can Be Easily Made With Tissue Paper and a Little Wire.

This balloon is very interesting, especially to boys who have been learning at school anything about air and balloons, for it is very like the first balloon made, more than 100 years ago, by two Frenchmen who lived near Lyons. Their baloon seemed a very astonishing thing, for it rose to a height of 5000 feet, stopped in the air for 10 minutes, and came down a mile and a half away. Everybody wondered and everybody talked about this strange thing. I wonder what they would say to the balloons of to-day, could they see them?

Look at Fig 1. It is made of two sheets of tissue paper pasted together tern drawn on it and cut out.

Twelve of these patterns go to make the balloon, and they must be pasted together to make the shape of Fig. 2. There is an opening at the top, which must be covered by a circle of tissue paper. For the bottom, get some wire and twist it into a ring, and then turn the edges of the paper round it. In this way you have a round opening that will not lose its shape. Fasten a cross wire, to which you have fastened a bit of sponge or cotton wool, across this opening, and your balloon is quite ready for flight. How is it to be sent up? Here the aid of father must be called in, although I expect that the boy who can make the balloon properly will be able to do the rest safely. First light a long scroll of brown paper, and hold the opening over it; then, when the balloon is a little inflated—blown out—with the warm air, pour spirits of wine on the sponge and put a match to it. Up, up! will go that balloon, till it is perhaps out of sight, and, if there is a breeze, it will float for a mile or two.

A New Game.

Two fans, one for yourself and one for the person whom you are going to play with, and a small sponge, are all you need for this game. Toss the sponge in the air, and hit it with your fan to your comrade and he will hit it back to you. At the beginning of the game each person has fifty points, and whoever lets the sponge drop on the floor loses one point. The game is kept up until one of the two has no points. He is the loser and the other is the winner.

Transparency of the Sea.

Near the Bermudas the sea is extremely transparent, so that the fishermen can readily see the horns of the lobsters protruding from their hiding places in the rocks at a considerable depth. To entice the crustaceans from their crannies they tie a lot of snails in a ball and dangle them in front of the cautious lobster.

The Floating Needle.

Take a tumbler or goblet and fill it to the brim with water. Moisten and heat a needle by holding it in your hand, then very carefully place it on the water, and you will see it float. Try it and you will see how easily it can be done.

Not Consoling.

Tommy (who has been indulging in unripe fruit, clandestinely acquired). "Mother, if a boy steals green apples, will he go to the bad place?"

Mother—"Yes, Tommy; but before that he will have the stomachache."

Depth of Oceans.

The Pacific Ocean covers 78,000,000 square miles, the Atlantic 25,000,000, the Mediterranean 1,000,000.

Unbreakable mirrors are now made by putting a coating of quicksilver on the back of a thin plate of celluloid.

Spring Papering

Is now in order. Perhaps it worries you to know just what wall paper to put on. We have the largest stock to select from and decorators that have had years of experience who are at your service. Let us figure with you.

Squier's curves scorched over the plate Saturday afternoon and the batters of the Carteret Field Club waited and watched for them in vain. As a result the Pond baseball team defeated their visitors from Carteret by a score of 17 to 10. The game was played on the Pond's diamond.

The Carteretites came with huge ideas of what they were going to do. When there was four fat zeros chalked up against them they began to discover that something was the trouble. Meanwhile Stevens and the other Pondites had chased each other around the bases some eight times.

In the fifth inning the visitors discovered that the ball was there after all and heaped up five runs before the home team could head them off. Then Squier settled down to business and the visitors saw little of the ball. Errors contributed five more runs to the Carteret collection during the last four innings, but Squier still remained a mystery. The Pond boys had lots of fun, however, and did some more chasing, this time adding nine to their little group.

The score by innings was as follows:

Pond's	3	4	0	1	0	0	7	1	0	..17
Carteret	0	0	0	0	5	1	2	2	0	..10

The Foldiwockers, whose captain is the redoubtable Lindemark, defeated a picked nine Saturday afternoon by a score of 31 to 18. The base running of "Little Willie," the 250-pound third baseman of the Foldiwockers, and the double play by Possons and Carson, were features of the game. The catcher of the Foldiwockers was compelled to retire early in the game, owing to being hit in the eye by a pitched ball.

There was a lively game of ball at Bound Brook Saturday afternoon between the home team and the Flemington boys. A big crowd was on hand to see the Bound Brook boys completely whitewash the visitors by a score of 11 to 0. A return game will be played on the afternoon of July 4th. The Bound Brook boys feel highly elated over their victory.

GOLF.

There was a good crowd of golfers on the Park Golf Club links Saturday afternoon and play for the Mrs. C. W. McCutchen cup was continued. In all thirteen scores were recorded, H. D. Hibbard being low man with a net score of 92 The scores are as follows:

	Gross	Handicap	Net
H D. Hibbard	114	22	92
M. Dryden	123	28	95
C. S. Boome	106	10	96

G. T. Rogers	136	21	115
Chas. McCutchen	137	30	117
G. W. Cooley	135	14	121

One score was recorded for the junior scratch tournament, that of M. T. Townsend, who made the eighteen holes from scratch in 115 strokes. The usual social features were enjoyed at the clubhouse, and Mrs. George T. Rogers presided, assisted by Mrs J. H. Howell and Mrs. E. T. Douglass.

There are a number of novices at golf who are taking lessons from the expert at the Hillside course, and they are making excellent progress. Amorg the number are several women.

Mayor Smalley, of the borough, is the latest golf player on the local links. Last Saturday he visited the Park Golf Club and tried his hand for the first. His score is said to have been an excellent one.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The bicycle race Saturday afternoon over the Mountain avenue course between Arthur Chapin and William Mapes, drew quite a large crowd. Nearly everyone expected Chapin to win. But it was hardly thought that he would have such a walkover as he did. The distance laid out was about 1½ miles. When Chapin crossed the tape Mapes was far in the rear. Mapes, in making the turn for the home stretch, was thrown from his wheel, but quickly recovered and finished the distance.

VISITED AT THE 'PLAINS.

MARTIN COFFEY CAME BACK FROM THERE INTOXICATED.

He is Said to Have Talked Back to a Policeman—Went to Jail and was Fined This Morning in City Court.

Martin Coffey went to Scotch Plains yesterday. As a direct result, Martin Coffey spent the night in the city jail and was fined by City Judge Runyon this morning. Somewhere on the statute books of this State there is a law saying that liquor shall not be sold Sunday. Coffey's testimony is to the effect that such law was openly violated Sunday in Scotch Plains.

It wasn't the selling of the liquor that involved Coffey in trouble. It was the liquor itself. Once inside of that individual it caused him to perform all sorts of stunts. Patrolman Jerry Cash saw him on South avenue as he was returning. At 9:30 o'clock Patrolman Saffron tried to start him homeward from in front of the Crescent flats on Watchung avenue.

Coffey says that he just came out for a glass of soda water and a cigar, and that he thought Saffron was just joking. The officer says Coffey became abusive in his language and so was locked up. Judge Runyon fined him $3.

THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA.

Benefits to Commerce Which Will Follow the Opening of the Canal.

WILL OPEN NEW FIELDS.

Only Forty Miles Divide the Two Great Highways of Commerce.

Reasons Given for the Construction of This Great Junction of the Seas—Reports of Mortality on Isthmus Greatly Exaggerated—Colored Laborers Can Work the Year Round Without Danger.

The case for the severance of the isthmus which unites the northern and southern American continents, and thus divides the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans, is presented by a glance at the map of the Western Hemisphere, and, to the mind of one capable of discerning the trend of events in the days in which we live, is established by a study of the same map.

The Atlantic and Pacific form the two great highways of the planet. To them all others are subsidiary—adjuncts, or in the relationship of attenuated extensions—whatever their character, their dimensions or their positions. At the Central American isthmus these two great through routes, upon which the commerce of the world and the progress of the nations depend, are divided by a neck of land, which, at any rate on one of the proposed lines of severance, is but forty miles in width—but five miles longer than the channel excavated by local enterprise for the Manchester ship canal.

If it were necessary to emphasize by any particular claim of special advantage, the general benefit to commerce which would most certainly follow the opening of the inter-oceanic canal, we would base that particular claim, not upon the shortening of the distance between the eastern and western seaboards of the United States, or upon the political gain to accrue from the reduction of distance between the naval outfitting ports on the northern Atlantic and the Philippine islands—though these results would be important—but on the effect which would be produced upon the tropical districts of the west by the construction and working of the canal.

There are other reasons for the construction of this great junction of the seas—reasons so many and so weighty that they have impressed men of perspicacity and enterprise for generations past, from Hernando Cortes to Ferdinand de Lesseps; men who were in advance of their time, men who saw clearly when other men were blind, men who agreed as to the necessity for the junction, but who differed as to the manner in which it should be effected.

Out of their differences rose the different schemes propounded from time to time; for a canal on the Darien line; for a canal on the Panama line; for a waterway (formed of junction canals at either extremity and of an existing inland sea) on the Nicaragua line; for a ship railway on the Tehuantepec line, which was the project of the late Captain Eads; and others of lesser importance.

Of these schemes but two survive—the Panama canal and the Nicaragua waterway—and their respective promoters and supporters struggle for the mastery.

The termini of the canals are Colon on the Atlantic coast and Panama on the Pacific. A line joining these two points would run approximately northwest and southeast The distance between them is 42 miles, measured as the crows fly, and 46½ miles, measured on the line of the canal.

It is commonly reported that, in the course of the construction of the Panama railroad, which was carried out by an American company, and of which the route is nearly identical with that of the proposed canal, the laying of a sleeper or tie and the burying of a Chinaman were operations which were conducted concurrently by the constructing company. There is much of picturesque exaggeration about the statement, but undoubtedly the mortality was very heavy in those days, as it was also in the days of the old canal company.

It has been proved by trial that colored laborers can work all the year around in the isthmus; that, of the number employed, at least 97 per cent may be expected to be at work in perfect health at one time; that yellow fever and the other dread ailments of tropical swamps are not indigenous to Panama; and that, with ordinary care Europeans may live there for years together without experiencing, by the fact of such residence, any serious increase of the peril of death in which all men always stand.—The Engineering Magazine.

A LONG WAY AROUND.

A Cable Message Over Five Lands to a Man Across the Street.

The telegraph offices of the London-Brussels and London-Paris cable companies are directly opposite to each other in one of those narrow streets of London where one hardly has room enough to change his mind.

The operators are good friends, and often when work is slow cross to each other to have a friendly chat.

It happened during the English Soudan war that the operators were kept constantly at their instruments, not having time for calls. The operator of the Paris cable discovered that he had left his pipe on the table of his colleague across the way the night previous.

To go over for it was an impossibility. The clicking of the instrument would not permit even rising from his ages, through which persons were led chair. He could not catch the eye of his friend to communicate to him by signs.

He called the Dover office to connect him with Calais, across the Channel; then the operator there put him on with Paris, thence with Chalon, Coblentz, Brussels, Ostend, and back to England with his comrade across the way.

Then he sent the following message: "If it is possible for you to return my pipe without it being compelled to follow the route of my despatch, please do so immediately." His friend happened to have an assistant, who took the pipe over at once.

This message traveled through England, France, Germany, Belgium and England.

This Frog a Weather Prophet.

Here is a frog which is said to foretell changes in the weather more accurately than the Weather Bureau.

The little reptile is kept in a high jar filled with water and a ladder.

This wise little animal is a native of Germany.

THE BAROMETRIC FROG.

The barometer frog is able to prophesy because he is sensitive to barometric pressure. When the atmosphere is clear he climbs up above the water and suns himself on the topmost round of the ladder. He quickly notices any changes, and when the barometer changes slips back again to the lower rounds of the ladder.

A Great Waste.

A lecturer on the wastefulness of American housekeepers estimates that 100,000 families could be fed with the food daily thrown away by hotels, restaurants and large private establishments in New York alone. The cause is said to be the abundance of food and the bad cookery in America. If the figures be correct, New York is a big field for domestic science missionaries.

BOARD OF TRADE TALKS TROLLEY.

Question of Transfers to Dunellen Looked Into.

LOCAL COMPANY TO BLAME.

BRUNSWICK TRACTION COMPANY WILLING TO BE FAIR.

C. W. Runyon Investigated the Subject and Found That the Plainfield Street Railway Company Did Not Seem Anxious to Serve the Public—Riker Never Answered Any Letters.

There was a quorum at the meeting of the Board of Trade last evening and some business of importance was considered. The by-laws were so amended that in the future seven persons shall constitute a quorum instead of eleven, as heretofore. A committee, consisting of Harry C. Runyon, L. J. Spicer and Wm. A. Woodruff, was appointed to confer with the Fourth of July committee to arrange for special railroad rates between Elizabeth and Somerville and this city for July 4th.

A communication was received from Perrin, Freres & Co., glove manufacturers, of New York, asking the Board to do something toward having the trolley entended to Washingtonville, where their factory is located. In this connection it was stated that the trolley company objected to the extension somewhat on account of the frequent blasting in the Valley. The matter was referred to the special trolley committee. Chas W. Runyon reported that he had interviewed Mr. Radel, of the Brunswick Traction Company, regarding that company coming to Plainfield, as well as about the transfer system at Dunellen. He learned that the company would like to get into this city, if the Board could help them to do so, but they did not want to do anything to cause feeling with the Plainfield company. Mr. Runyon then told at some length about the agreement between the two companies about the transfer system, and in his opinion the Plainfield company had failed to keep their agreement. He said that Mr. Radel informed him that he wanted to run his road for the benefit of the public and was willing to agree to any thing reasonable. He said that the Plainfield company charged his company $5 to allow one of his cars to come to this city and go out, a pretty good price when it is considered the Plainfield company pays $2 a day for a car, and they require forty minutes to come in and go out. Mr. Radel said that he was willing to meet Mr. Riker at the Board meeting anytime agreeable and fix matters satisfactorily.

In connection with this Secretary Runyon stated that he had written twice to Mr. Riker about the matter, and that person had not even replied to the letters.

Another matter, introduced by C. W. Runyon, will be investigated by the special committee, and that is regarding the use of side-rails on the Plainfield trolley cars. It was reported to be a nuisance, especially where there is a single track, and it was a source of inconvenience to all.

The Board decided to drop the following persons from the roll for non-payment of dues: W. A. Clum, C. W. Lines, Bard Cycle Company, J. F. McIntyre, J. M. Hetfield, Nelson Giles, Frank Hand, Henry Jessup, J. M. Schorb, Jr., C. D. French and Putnam & DeGraw. There are twenty-six names on the roll which will be dropped at the next meeting if they do not settle in the meantime. They will be notified of this action and given an opportunity to pay up.

A Musical Treat.

A musical treat is in store for Plainfielders next week Tuesday evening, when the choir of the First Baptist church will present Rossinni's "Stabat Matar," and selections from the "Redemption," by Gounod, under the direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, musical director for the choir. The solo parts will be taken by Miss Harris, Mrs. Ward, Wm. Holmes, G. W. Smith and G. L. Moore. The choir has been rehearsing the works for sometime and a finished performance is guaranteed. The entire proceeds of the concert will be given to the Muhlenberg Hospital for the building fund, and liberal patronage should be accorded.

Dr. Rodman to Lecture.

Next Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of Grace P. E. church, will give reminiscences of his trip to Egypt and Palestine. This lecture will be free and a cordial invitation is extended to all persons interested. Dr. Rodman is an entertaining talker, and there should be a large attendance of Plainfielders.

FELL FROM CHERRY TREE

SERIOUS ACCIDENT THAT BEFELL A DUNELLEN MAN.

John W. Case Missed His Footing and Fell Twenty-five Feet—His Injuries May Cost Him His Life Also.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 20.—John W. Case, aged fifty years, residing near the borough, met with an accident yesterday which may cost him his life. He was picking cherries in a large tree and was about twenty-five feet from the ground. In changing his position he missed his footing and fell headfirst the entire distance to the ground. The tree stands not far from the house and members of the family were greatly startled by hearing a strange noise. They rushed from the house and saw Mr. Case lying in a helpless condition. He was unable to move himself and he could only talk faintly.

Just as quickly as possible he was taken to the house and the best of home remedies were applied. Mr. Case complained greatly of sharp shooting pains in his hips and shoulders, and it is feared that he has sustained serious injuries inwardly. He is still unable to move about and he has to be helped to everything.

One very serious feature of his condition is the fact that he is so cold, and the application of all sorts of remedies fail to bring the desired warmth to his body. Several times Mr. Case has fainted away, but would come to in a few minutes. He seems to retain his mind and knows everything that is going on or said to him.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Case is rather infirm his injuries are all the more serious, and the extent of them have not as yet been ascertained. A physician was called and everything possible is being done to relieve the sufferer from pain and to assist in his complete recovery.

FELL UNDER MOVING CAR

THRILLING EXPERIENCE OF WOMAN WITH BABE IN ARMS.

Attempted to Get Off the Train While it was in Motion—Rescued Just in Time by Baggagemaster Henry Hanson.

Mrs. Peter Jonas, of 442 West Fourth street, had the thrilling experience Sunday evening of falling under the wheels of a moving train at the North Avenue station. Luckily, she was dragged from her perilous position by Night Baggagemaster Henry Hanson before the wheels struck her.

Mrs. Jones attempted to leave the 8:23 eastbound train on its arrival here Sunday evening. Owing to the crowd to get aboard she was pushed back and did not get a chance to descend until just as the train started. She tried to step off backward with her five year-old son in her arms. She slipped and fell right under the car. A cry of horror went up from the crowd, but Hanson and another man rescued her in just in time.

Dr. J. T. Fritts was summoned and found that she was badly bruised by the fall and suffering from the nervous shock of the accident. She was taken home. The boy was not injured.

REPAIRS TO A SCHOOL.

Board of Education Receives Estimates of Cost for Work on Whittier Building.

There was a brief session of the Board of Education last night. The meeting was called for the purpose of opening bids for repairs and alterations to be made to the Whittier School building. All members of the Board were present except Mr. Abbott.

Bids were received from the following: John Abbott, $1,593; H. E. Gayle, $1,300; Mundy Bros., $1,400; Carney Bros., $280; A. M. Griffen, $486; Wm. M. Pangborn, $397. The first three bids offered to do all the work save the galvanized iron work. The other bids were for the iron and galvanized work. The work is to be done according to plans furnished by C. Powell Karr. Upon motion of Mr. Probasco, the matter was referred to the building committee with power.

The matter of repairing the old Babcock boiler at the Franklin School and supplying a new grate was referred to the building committee with power. The Board then adjourned.

Celebration Committee to Meet.

The general committee to arrange for Fourth of July celebration will meet again this evening in Red Men's Hall. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock sharp. Representatives from the various organizations intending to participate are requested to be on hand early. Reports will be received from the various committees and preparations made to push the details to successful termination and ensure a big time on the Nation's birthday.

GREAT COMBINATION OF TROLVEY ROADS.

Kean and Riker Companies About to Pool Interests.

END OF THE BOULEVARD.

TWO LINES TO TAP EACH OTHER AT ROSELLE.

It Will Mean the End of a Bitter Fight Between Big Capitalists—Riker Combine Control Right of Way Between Cranford and Plainfield and Kean Has the Right of Way in Other Direction.

After having fought each other for the past few years, it is now understood that the electric street railway interests represented by Senator John Kean, of Elizabeth, and Chandler W. Riker, of Newark, respectively, are about to pool their interests in Union county. This means the death of the much-talked of $250,000 county boulevard between Plainfield and Eliabeth, over which Senator Kean had planned to construct his cross-county trolley road. The Riker syndicate has already absorbed nearly all the important lines in northern New Jersey, and if Senator Kean's trolley interests join in the combination it will make one of the most formidable street railway syndicates in existence.

For two years these two gigantic combinations of capital have been fighting for franchise rights in Union county, and a move on the part of one was always followed by a counter move on the part of the other. The Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company in conjunction with the Plainfield Street Railway Company, controlled by the Rikers, has been able to secure almost exclusive rights in the western section of the county from Cranford to Plainfield. On the other hand Senator Kean has obtained valuable concessions in the other direction towards Elizabeth. Roselle seems to have been the pivotal point in the trolley plans, and the efforts to get a franchise in that place has been seasawing back and forth for weeks without result.

Now it is said that the Kean and Riker companies have agreed to combine their interests and form a junction of lines at Roselle, thus completing the through line between Plainfield and Elizabeth. It is planned to have the two lines tap each other at some point where they connect with a tunnel under the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

BY RAIL TO CHIMNEY ROCK

CENTRAL MAY BUILD A BRANCH FROM BOUND BROOK.

The Right of Way is Now Assured on Account of the Purchase of the Taylor Farm by William Haelig

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 20.—For several years the Central Railroad of New Jersey has been contemplating the building of a branch on their line from Bound Brook to Chimney Rock, but the failure to get the right of way has been an obstacle in the way of the project that has prevented its consummation.

It is understood, however, that the right of way is now secured for the most important part of the road, owing to the purchase of the Taylor farm from the Brunswick Traction Company by William Haelig.

The property was bought by the traction company to secure the right of way for an important part of their line from Bound Brook to Somerville, but was recently sold to Haelig. The latter also owns other property along the contemplated Central branch, and is largely interested in Chimney Rock property. He will offer the right of way to the Central for the building of the branch, and it is thought likely that the company will undertake the project.

In the White Mountains.

The Mail and Express of Saturday gives the following report of some Plainfielders at Jefferson, in the White Mountains: "The first large party arrived Tuesday and included Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Miss Louise Fisk, Harvey Fisk, Annie Fisk, Miss Coe and Dr. Benj. Hedges, of Plainfield, N. J.; Miss Florence S. Suydam, of Brooklyn, Miss Reynolds, of New York, and John T. Sanderson, of Philadelphia. The party with their servants are established at Mr. Fisk's cottage, Onaway, near the Waumbek."

Disputed With Sergeant.

Wm. Trust wanted to have Sergeant Kiely arrest a certain individual last evening, but refused to disclose the latter's name. He and the Sergeant had a dispute and the Sergeant finally felt constrained to arrest Trust. This morning City Judge Runyon fined him $3.

CONSTABLE ROUTED WITH PITCHFORKS.

Thrilling Experience of Bob Mattox and His Deputies.

WENT AFTER HERD OF COWS

EXECUTION AGAINST THEM TO SATISFY A JUDGMENT.

Ernest Tietz, a Farmer at Dog Corners, Very Successfully Repelled the Constabulary Forces, and Now Brings Suit for $300 Damages—Charge of Assault Against Constable.

Another exciting chapter has been added to the famous attachment case at Dog Corners. It appears that Ernest C. Kieb, of Fanwood, sued Ernest Tietz, of Dog Corners, for a debt. Kieb secured judgment and Constable W. R. Mattox, of this city, was authorized to go to Dog Corners and make a levy on seven cows, which the owner valued at $280. These cows were sold to E. C. Kieb for $6 to satisfy the judgment. This sale was held June 7th.

Constable Mattox claims that he was set upon by Tietz and his wife who assaulted him. Saturday last he went to the home of Mr. Tietz for the purpose of taking the cows. Remembering his previous experience he went prepared to meet his adversaries. In addition to carrying a revolver, he was accompanied by his son, Patrolman Mattox, Ernest Kieb, Mr. Kieb's son, and John Donnell, of Fanwood.

The constable and his deputies arrived in good shape and immediately made known their mission. As the cows were in a large field surrounded by a fence, they thought the best way would be to tear down the fence and chase the cows out. In this effort they were rebuffed and a fight soon followed, in which Mr. Tietz and wife battled with the constable and his deputies.

It is said that Mrs. Tietz suffered greatly from loss of dress and also received a number of bruises. It is also stated that the constable drew a revolver from his pocket and threatened to shoot if harmony and quiet were not restored.

By this time things were becoming rather warm and Tietz and his wife were doing well in defending their rights. They realized that they would be beaten in the fight unless they had help, so they began to scream. This attracted the attention of neighbors who hastily appeared with pitchforks and shovels and joined the man and his wife in the battle. In a short time the enemy was chased away. In the clouds of dust the coat tails of the flying army could be seen occasionally.

Mr. Tietz came to Plainfield yesterday and consulted Lawyer McClure who has brought suit against Mr. Kieb for $300 and the goods will be replevined. The suit has been brought in the Elizabeth District Court.

Justice Jones, of Fanwood, before whom the first case was tried, has gone to New York, and papers in the case are not accessible. For this reason the details in that cannot be ascertained. It is understood that a suit will be brought against Constable Mattox for assault on Mrs. Tietz, who received severe injuries in Saturday's fight.

A Morning Runaway.

The horse attached to the business wagon of Marsh, Ayres & Co., ran away this morning on East Second street. While his driver had removed the bridle to adjust it the horse departed suddenly. After shivering a hitching post with the wagon the horse left its charge behind and chased several pedestrians off the sidewalk. Matthew Coon captured the animal before any more damage was done. Harness and wagon suffered severely.

Ice House on Fire Again.

A still alarm of fire called the department to Brady Bros.' ice house shortly after 12 o'clock this afternoon. This it the fourth time the department has been summoned to the ice house ruins. Chief Doane was driven to the fire and made a thorough inspection of the ruins, which were thoroughly overhauled.

Death of P. E. Rudell.

The death of Peter Edward Rudell, aged 45 years, occurred at his home, Netherwood, this morning after a long illness. The funeral services will be held at the residence of Chas. L. Lewis, 620 Belvidere avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The fire alarm whistle did all sorts of stunts this morning and led a crowd of small boys a wild chase in their efforts to find the fire. A new valve has been put in the whistle and the sundry blows of the whistle were the result.

ESTRANGED COUPLE TOGETHER IN COURT.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave Reconciled to Each Other.

SUIT WAS AGAINST BROKAW.

LATTER'S COUNSEL REFUSED TO GO ON WITH CASE.

Did Not Think He Was Getting a Fair Show Before Justice Mosher—Hargrave Was Suing Brokaw for $200 Damages—Justice Gave Judgment for Hargrave for Full Amount.

The action brought by Fred Hargrave, who is in the sash and blind business at Westfield, against Wesley R. Brokaw, the well-known piano dealer of this city, was tried before Justice Mosher yesterday afternoon. Wm. G. DeMeza represented the plaintiff and Irving L. Brady the defendant. Among the spectators was Mrs. Hargrave, a handsome young woman, who came in with her husband and occupied a seat beside him. To all appearances the couple seemed to be on the best of terms, notwithstanding Mrs. Hargrave is about to bring an action against him for divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty. From the testimony of Mr. Hargrave, the first witness called, it was shown that the goods in question had been taken from the plaintiff's house and at first stored in the barn of the defendant, who then lived near the plaintiff. They were afterwards taken to the store of Mr. Brokaw. When Hargrave attempted to replevin his goods Brokaw had ignored the writ, and the property, consisting of a sewing machine and household goods, was not secured. The goods were taken from the house on or about the 29th of April. During the trial of the case the counsel indulged in much discussion and many personalities. Counselor Brady repeatedly objected to questions he considered incompetent, and was as often overruled by the court. He finally became piqued at the decisions of the court and said he should not put in any testimony. Counselor DeMeza thereupon asked for a judgment in favor of his client on the ground that he had clearly established the fact that the plaintiff had sustained damages to the amount set forth in his complaint, $200. Counselor Brady immediately gave notice that he would appeal the case. Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave left the courtroom together.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave Makeup.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave have interceded and the unhappy couple are said to have patched up their differences and will again live together. Mrs. Hargrave has decided to drop the divorce proceedings against her husband. It is also reported that Hargrave is to bring an action against Brokaw for alienating the affections of his wife, claiming damages to the tune of $10,000.

OIL STOVE BLAZED UP.

A LIVELY FIRE CAUSED IN A BOROUGH HOUSE.

Hose Attached to a Garden Faucet and the Water Turned on—Fire Department Handicapped in Its Work.

About 10 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was sent in from Box No. 132, corner of Manning and Westervelt avenues, the fire being in the rear of the house on Manning avenue occupied by John Snyder. The family was at home and was using an oil stove to prepare dinner. This stove was in a small shed just off the kitchen. The one in charge of it left the stove for a few minutes. In the meantime the stove began to flare up and the blace set fire to the woodwork.

The fire was discovered soon after it started and the alarm was sent in. The department was a little slow in reaching the scene of the fire, and a long hose was attached to a faucet in the cellar of Dr. Cooley's home. Quick application of water saved the house from a great amount of damage. The oil stove was thrown from the house by Marshal Campbell and Will VanWinkle, while David Bodine performed efficient work on the roof of the shed. The total damage was slight and is covered by insurance.

The reason that the department was slower than usual was the absence of the horses, and the firemen were obliged to wait until a team came along. It happened that one of the teams of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company was on its way toward the mountains and they were pressed into service.

TYPEWRITER RECOVERED

LAWYER BRADY'S MACHINE STOLEN IN SEPTEMBER, 1897.

Held in a Jersey City Pawnship for Fifteen Months and Then Sold to New York Firm—Cash Settlement Made for It.

A most unusual recovery of stolen property has just occurred in this city. In September of 1897, a new Underwood typewriter purchased only a short time previous was stolen from the law offices of Irving L. Brady, on East Front street, entrance being gained during the noon hour by smashing in the large plate glass in one of the office doors. Although the fact of the loss was immediately reported to the police and every step taken to secure the machine and capture the thief, not the slightest trace of either could be discovered.

The owner of the machine, however, determined that he would eventually recover it and caused watch to be kept at such places as it might be expected to turn up. A few weeks ago he received word from New York that his machine had been located. Mr. Brady immediately went to New York and found that after being pawned in Jersey City and kept there for nearly fifteen months the typewriter had been sold to New York parties. To these parties he presented his proofs of ownership and loss and they were compelled to surrender the machine. Not caring for two machines, Mr. Brady accepted a substantial cash settlement in lieu of his property. He has ascertained that the thief received only $12 or $15 on the machine which costs over $100. The typewriter was found in the office of L. Feruski & Co, 70 Bowery, they having innocently received it from the pawnbrokers.

A DECLAMATION CONTEST

LEAL'S SENIORS HELD THEIR CLOSING EXERCISES LAST NIGHT.

First Prize Awarded to George H. Richards and Second Prize to Thomas L. Thomas—Honorable Mention for Masy.

Society lent its most flattering approval and turned out in force for the closing exercises of John Leal's School, held in the Casino last evening. A class of eleven young men was graduated and all will enter college in the fall. The senior declamation contest, which formed a principal part of the programme of the evening, proved to be very interesting and reflected much credit on those who had instructed the young men in oratory.

The speakers and their subjects were as follows: Howard Emory Bushnell, "Culture in Emergencies;" Aubrey Congdon Crowe, "The Man for the Crisis;" Howard LaChevalier Roome, "The Victor of Marengo;" George Stuart Simons, Jr., "Jenks' Infernal Machine;" Owen Howard Fleming, "Poetry the Language of Symbolism;" William Austin Townsend, "A Plea for Enthusiasm;" George Huntington Richards, "Puritanism;" Thomas Lewis Thomas, "The Traditions of Massachusetts." First prize in the contest was given to George H. Richards and second to Thomas L. Thomas.

At the close of the exercises, Mr. Leal spoke a few words to the graduates and then announced the honorable mentions as follows: Algebra, Fred L. Brown, David C. Griggs, A. M. Terribery; geometry, A. M. Terriberry; French, Hugh G. VanderVeer; German, Aubrey C. Hull; Latin, Frank Simons, George H. Richards, John Hall; physics, Hugh G. VanderVeer; English composition, John Hall; Greek, Aubrey C. Hull; Junior department, Henry Babcock.

An orchestra rendered several selections during the evening. The ushers were A. C. Hull, C. S. Roome, W. J. Roome, Jr., and George Dupee.

A reception and dance followed the exercises and was largely attended by the younger set of Plainfield society.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR DID THE HONORS.

Brooklyn Sir Knights the Guests of Trinity Commandery.

DINED AT THE HUNTERSTON.

A SPLENDID BANQUET WAS TENDERED THEM.

Mirth and Music Echoed Round the Festive Board, While Jolly Good Fellowship Prevailed—Plainfield Sir Knights to be Given an Excursion up the Sound as Guests of Clinton Commandery.

The warm friendship which has existed so long between Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, of this city, and Clinton Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, of Brooklyn, was the more firmly cemented last night by the hospitality extended the visiting Sir Knights by Trinity Commandery, on the occasion of the visit of the Brooklyn Sir Knights, Clinton Commandery, about fifty strong, in fatigue uniform, arrived in the evening. They were accompanied by George Nicholson, Grand Commander, of the State of New York.

The Sir Knights gathered about 9:15 o'clock at the asylum on West Front street, where after cordial greetings had been extended to the visitors by the Plainfield Sir Knights, trolley cars were taken to Netherwood, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared at the Hotel Hunterston by Major Coleman. Covers had been laid for 100 and fully that number of Sir Knights were seated around the banquet board, which had been arranged in the form of a Roman cross. The tables presented a handsome appearance being artistically decorated with choice flowers. Eminent Commander Sir Knight Nelson Y. Dungan presided and acted as toast master.

The menu, while not on an elaborate scale, was gotten up in excellent taste and was highly enjoyed by the Sir Knights.

Impromptu speeches were made during the enjoyment of the banquet by Sir Knights Geo. Nicholson, Grand Commander of the State of New York; Eminent Sir Knight Louden, Past Eminent Sir Knight Hubbell, Grand Commander McGill and Dr. Maddock, Grand Prelate of Clinton Commandery. During the progress of the banquet the fact was brought out that the real object of the visitation of Clinton Commandery to the Plainfield Sir Knights was to extend an invitation to Trinity Commandery, to be the guest of Clinton Commandery, of Brooklyn, next Saturday, when the Sir Knights from this city will be given an excursion up Long Island Sound to Gregory Point, where a clambake will be given the members of Trinity Commandery. It is safe to say that the invitation was cordially accepted.

The officers of Trinity Commandery who were present last night at the banquet are: Grand Commander, Peter McGill; Grand Captain General, Daniel Demorest; Grand Senior Warden, Dr. Adams; Grand Chaplin, Dr. Maddock; Grand Standard Bearer, Jacob Kirkner; Grand Warder, Wm. Carman; Past Grand Commander, W. H. Sebring.

"COUNT" TO WIN.

Trolley Company Said to Have Accepted His Offer.

The Daily Press was informed today that the trouble existing between "Count" VanNess and the Plainfield Street Railway Company is about settled and that tomorow morning employes will begin work on the property owned by the "Count." It is said that the ties and rails will be distributed along the line on the VanNess property today. It is understood that Mr. VanNess asked about $1,500 from the trolley company, and that they will not settle on that price, but something very near it.

Visited by His Cousin.

Miss Walsh, of Brooklyn, a cousin of William Cosgrove, of San Francisco, who is now detained at the hospital, came to Plainfield Saturday and saw her relative for the first time in her life. Word was sent to her by Cosgrove's mother who asked her to go and see her son, as she lived so much nearer. Cosgrove seems to be better today, and his temperature is better. He is still paralized, and it seems an impossibility for him to recover. He is perfectly rational and is doing remarkably well.

Closing Musicale.

The closing musicale given by the pupils of Miss Carrie C. Dewey, was held at the residence of Mrs. I. Howard Lapsley, 816 Crescent avenue, Saturday afternoon last. The pupils were assisted by William Howell Edwards, baritone, from Brooklyn.

THEY ATE A COMPANION.

Two Prospectors Loaded With Gold Are Forced to Resort to Cannibalism.

DIDN'T SAVE THEIR LIVES

Ediar and Provost Are Found Dead Only Five Miles From Scene of Their Awful Repast.

Daly's Partially Devoured Body is Found on a Stove in the Tent on the Yukon Trail—All Parties in the Sad Tragedy Are From the New England States.

San Francisco, June 20.—Another sad story of cannibalism and death on the Yukon trail has just reached here. Three men who left Dahl River on December 5 for Jimtown, were not heard of again and they were supposed to have been lost. Nothing was heard of them here till the steamer Rideout, which has just arrived, brought a terrible tale of suffering and horror.

The men were Michael Daly, Victor Edlar and M. Provost. They were from Providence, R. I., Woonsocket, R. I., and Brockton, Mass., respectively.

Their bodies were discovered seventeen miles from the mouth of Old Man's Creek, they having lost the trail and become bewildered. Having left Dahl River with only three week's food, but which was amply sufficient for the 150 miles to Jimtown, they were soon reduced to starvation.

Daly's body was found partly eaten, on the stove in the tent just as it was left when death overtook the others. Some scraps of moose hide and moccasin were found, of which they were endeavoring to make a stew. Daly's body was identified by the clothes.

The other two men were found dead five miles away from the tent.

The fact of the tent flaps being shut down when found would seem to preclude the possibility of Daly's body having been eaten by animals. The other men doubtless were driven by hunger to the awful extremity of cannibalism. Four hundred dollars were found on their bodies.

The seven boats which wintered at Dahl River are all safe. They are the St. Michael, Reindeer, Monarch, Mary Graff, Evans, Luem and Rideout.

Half Burned Body Found.

Boston, June 20.—The half burned body of a murdered woman was removed from the woods of Sterling, and the police of that town and Lancaster are scouring the countryside for anything that will throw light upon the mystery. It is believed that the body had lain for months in the swamp where it was found. Comparison of a lock of hair known to have been taken from the head of Elizabeth Shedden, who disappeared a year ago, with hair found near the skeleton, shows them to be alike.

The Dewey Committee.

New York, June 20.—Men from every walk of life in Greater New York have been selected by Mayor Van Wyck to formally receive Admiral Dewey on his return to an admiring nation. The Municipal Reception Committee consists of 1,100 persons, representing society, the church, politics, finance, commerce, the professions, the army and navy, labor, clubs and the big organizations. The Mayor has called a meeting of the committee for Wednesday.

Anti-Trust Conference.

Austin, Tex., June 20.—The prospects are bright for a large attendance of governors and attorneys general at the anti-trust conference to be held in St. Louis, Sept. 20. Up to this time seventeen governors have accepted the invitation of Governor Sayers of this state. Of that number thirteen are outspoken in favor of the anti-trust measure, three are non-committal and one is opposed to anti-trust legislation.

Jealous Woman Killed a Rival.

Havana, June 20.—It is now believed that a woman murdered Minnie Ross, the pretty American girl found dead in her home in Aminas street, and that jealousy prompted the crime. Frederick Kreuze, who had been a lieutenant of Florida volunteers, was arrested on suspicion, but it is now certain that he had nothing to do with the murder.

Russia's Huge Order.

Washington, June 20.—Russia is negotiating with big firms in this country for $6,000,000 worth of field guns, caissons and limbers. One hundred batteries are ordered on a six-gun basis, making a total of 600 guns and limbers. Dissatisfaction with French contracts is given as the cause for coming here.

Fell 100 Feet to His Death.

Galena, Kan., June 20.—The hoisterman at the Oronoga mine at this place, Claud Harvey, was instantly killed. He was pulling up a tub of dirt weighing 300 or 400 pounds. The pulley wheel came loose and the dropping of the tub of dirt jerked him into the shaft 100 feet deep.

Bondsmen Hunting Him.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 20.—E. W. Mull, of Dayton, Ohio, indicted recently for giving liquor to Stella Bushong, a young girl, who assisted about his office, has disappeared from the city and his bondsmen are searching for him. Many creditors are left behind.

RAN TO HIS DYING BABE

Minister's Child Dies in His Arms at Bridgeton, N. J.

Bridgeton, N. J., June 20.—While the Rev. George J. Meredith, pastor of the Newport church, was preaching an eloquent sermon, it was noticed by his congregation that he seemed disquieted at the screams of a child that came from the parsonage adjoining the church. Finally he was unable to continue his discourse and hastily left the pulpit and ran into the parsonage, just in time to have his youngest child die in his arms.

In the absence of the father, and the family the baby somewhere had found a package of arsenic, and had taken sufficient to kill him in a short while.

Still Fighting for Clifford.

Trenton, N. J., June 20.—Former Attorney General Stockton applied to Judge Gray of the United States Circuit Court, for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Edward Clifford, the murderer who is in the Hudson County Penitentiary under sentence to be hanged on June 27. The writ is asked on the ground that the jury convicting the prisoner was "struck," and therefore unconstitutional. The court reserved its decision. The move is made simply to gain another stay of execution.

Wrong Man Killed.

Bramwell, W. Va., June 20.—A quarrel arose on the street here among a number of colored men. Willard Cox attempted to take a revolver away from Howard Tate to shoot William Birchfield, when the weapon was discharged, the ball taking effect on Frank Smith, a section foreman on the N. and W., who had walked up during the scuffle. Smith lived only two hours after being shot. Cox and Tate are both in jail.

Rioters Held for Murder.

Buffalo, June 20.—The Grand Jury held "Buck" Skinner, George Skinner, George Frye and John O'Brien for court on a charge of murder, it being alleged that they were responsible for the death of William H. Kennedy, boss scooper, resulting from a quarrel on the docks on May 2. "Buck" Skinner was indited for murder in the first degree, and the other men on a charge of riot. They all pleaded not guilty, and were remanded for trial.

To Take Place of Strikers.

Webb City, Mo., June 20.—One hundred and fifty miners have left here, via the Missouri Pacific, in charge of Fremont S. Howe of this city, late lieutenant of Company G, Fifth Missouri Volunteers, for Wallace, Idaho, to fill the place of strikers. He is the only agent in Jasper County for the Standard mining Co. of Wallace, whose men are on a strike.

Riots in the Leeward Islands.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 20.—Advices received here from Antigua, British West Indies, say there has been a recurrence at Montserrat, Leeward Islands, of serious riots in the northern district, extending to the capital, Plymouth, over the old excise duty collections trouble, which occasioned the riots of last year.

Littlefield Succeeds Dingley.

Rockland, Me., June 20.—Charles E. Littlefield, Republican, of this city, has been elected to Congress to succeed the late Nelson Dingley, Jr., defeating John Scott of Bath by an overwhelming majority. Scott polled a smaller vote than when he stood againsa Mr. Dingley in the 1898 elections.

A Society Belle's Suit.

Evansville, Ind., June 20.—Miss Catherine Graham, a society belle of this city has been given a judgement in the Superior Court here against David Gilbert, a merchant, for $5,000. She sued for $25,000, alleging betrayal and breach of promise.

An ostrich cannot kick backward. When the time has come for the bird to be despoiled of its feathers, its head is inserted in a bag and the plucker stands behind his victim. A blow from its foot has vigor enough to kill a man.

The Siamese have so strong a superstition against even numbers that they will have none of them. The number of the rooms in a house, of windows or doors in a room, even of rungs on a ladder, must always be odd.

In Sydney, New South Wales, the street car lines are owned by the municipality and no fares are charged. Homeless folk, it is said, use them at night instead of going to cheap lodging houses.

CARS MOVE AT CLEVELAND

Police Aid the Big Consolidated in Operating Several of Its Lines.

NEGOTIATING FOR PEACE

Company Still Stoutly Refuses to Yield in Any Respect to Demands of the Union.

Nothing Definite in the Matter Accomplished by Meeting of State Board of Arbitration—The Strikers Anxious For Conference With Company's Representatives.

Cleveland, June 20.—Cars are running on the Euclid, Cedar, Central, Wade Park, Scovil and Wilson lines of the Big Consolidated road. The Scovil and Central lines are in operation for the first time since the beginning of the strike. The cars are running under police protection. Interest now centres in the negotiatings for peace. The company reiterates its willingness to meet a committee of the men, but will not meet a committee of the union. The strikers want a conference but are unwilling to take the initiative because of the refusal of the company to receive their committee last Saturday.

Business Agent Pratt of the strikers' union, Resin Orr of Detroit, the International Secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, and Joseph Bishop of the State Board of Arbitration have had a conference. The strikers called upon Mr. Bishop and were closeted with him for several hours. Mr. Orr discussed with him the methods of settlement employed in other strikes, and an effort was made to hit upon some common ground upon which a meeting between the strikers and street railway officers could be arranged. Nothing definite was accomplished, however.

The Strikers Are Quiet.

Rochester, June 20.—The strike of men employed on street improvement contracts have led to no disorder, marching or other demonstrations not being indulged in. If a considerable number of the men reject the offer of 17½ cents an hour for eight hours, or $1.40 a day, the contractors will call for police protection for the men who are willing to work and go ahead, in which event serious trouble may be looked for. The strikers are unorganized, have no funds, and act wholly upon impulse under the guidance of self-appointed leaders. This makes the danger of lawlessness vastly greater. The cry of the strikers is "$1.50 a day for eight hours' work," and for the past three days they have been endeavoring to induce all classes of laborers to join them, making the strike general.

At a meeting of the contractors it was agreed to pay $1.40 a day, which is 15 cents more than the strikers received formerly.

2,500 Builders Strike.

Scranton, Pa., June 20.—The trouble between the 600 carpenters and the master builders culminated in a tie-up of all building operations. The carpenters demanded the eight-hour work day and thirty cents an hour. The master builders refused to grant the demands.

The following trades, affiliated with steamfitters, masons, stonecutters, tin-the building trades' council went out on strike: Carpenters, bricklayers, lathers, painters, plasterers, plumbers, smiths, woodworkers and house electricians.

The United Brotherhood of Carpentres and Joiners of America have thrown themselves into the fight, and are backing the carpneters financially. Altogeher about 2,500 men are on strike.

Old Grudge's Result.

Lexington, Ky., June 20.—Charles Gilbert, of this city, engineer on a Lexington and Eastern work train, was shot in the breast with a double-barreled shotgun by Thomas Raines, a fireman on Dolan Bros. steam shovel, at St. Helen's Station. It was the result of an old grudge.

Tramps in Annual Meeting.

Gambler's Gold Found.

Chicago, June 20.—In remodeling an old building that was formerly "The Store," a famous gambling house, Geo. Bunell, the new owner, found $200 in gold, a lot of ancient jewelry and many secret closets.

Shoots Himself on Steamer.

Fall River, Mass., June 20.—John F. Daley, a New York liquor dealer, said to be in business on West Sixty-fourth street, shot himself in the head while a passenger on the steamer Priscilla. He was aken to a hospital in Newport.

AT THE BOLTON DRUG COMPANY, OF BROOKLYN, N. Y.

The Bolton Drug Co., of Brooklyn, is the largest dealer in proprietary medicines in a city having a million inhabitants. In answer to an inquiry concerning the sale of RIPANS TABULES, the buyer for this company recently said: "We sell lots of them, and the demand is steady and increasing all the time. When we first began to have calls we bought of a New York jobber, a quarter gross at a time; now we buy in five-gross lots direct from the manufacturers." When asked whether the Tabules were sold more to women than to men, he said: "The buyers were about equally divided, but the same people buy them over and over again. When they once begin they always come back for more. We will have a customer in here one day to buy a five-cent carton; a few days later he'll come in and get a fifty-cent box and after that may be a dollar bottle—physician's size. We sell a good many dollar bottles." When asked his opinion of the Tabules as a druggist, knowing what they are composed of, viz., rhubarb, ipecac, peppermint, aloes, nux vomica, and soda, he said: "The formula is all right," and when asked to suggest a change that would be an improvement, he said: "It's all right just as it is."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (12 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

PATRICK WAS LYNCHED

Body of the Alleged Murderer Found Riddled With Bullets.

Beaufort, N. C., June 20.—The body of the alleged negro murderer Lewis Patrick, who was taken from jail here by a mob, has been found. The mob kept the negro concealed in a swamp, thereby eluding the Sheriff's posse which went in hot pursuit.

Then, it is said, the lynchers tied the negro to a tree and shot him to death. The body was found along the main road near the store of the negro's victim, E. B. Weeks, at Bogue, N. C., and was badly mutilated, containing at least fifty bullets. It is reported that before death Patrick confessed and implicated two other negroes in the crime.

To Girdle the World.

Ottawa, Ont., June 20.—Sir William C. Van Horne's retirement from the presidency of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or, to put it more correctly, from the active presidency, and his appointment as chairman of the Board, is being generally discussed. It is well understood that Sir William simply exchanges a wide field of activity for a wider one.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is viewed after all as but a link in the world-girdling chain of railway and steamship transportation and cable system. Across the Atlantic from Great Britain to Canada by fast liners ahead of anything afloat, in one day less time than the run can be made at present; across the American continent through Canada by the Canadian Pacific Railway; over the Pacific to China and Japan, from Vancouver to Port Arthur and Vladivostock, to connect with the trans-Siberian line, are four enterprises two of which, the fast Atlantic line and the Vladivistock line, have yet to be accomplished, as well as the construction of the Pacific cable, which needs a master hand to put it through.

Hold-Up in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 20.—A gang of masked robbers, probably ten in number, raided the receiving office of the Fairmount Park Transportation Company, at Belmont, in Fairmount Park, and after holding up the receiver and five other employes of the railway, blew open the safe, obtained $4,000, the company's receipts for two days. Frank Leven, receiver; Frank Watson and Henry B. Whitehous, conductors; James Cavanaugh, fireman of the power house; Philip Eaves, electrician, and William Cadmus, laborer, were bound hand and foot with wire. Accomplices of the robbers destroyed the telegraph and telephone wires connecting with the trolley company's main office.

Rome, June 20.—The pope, at the consistory, created eleven cardinals and a number of bishops. The cardinals created are: Mgr. Joseph Francica-Nava di Bontife, papal nuncio at Madrid; the archbishop of Goeritz, Austria-Hungary; the archbishop of Toulouse, France; the Latin patriarch of Constantinople, the Latin patriarch of Antioch, the archbishop of Turin, the archbishop of Ferrara, the archbishop of Reggio, Mgr. Ciasca, secretary of the propaganda; Mgr. Trombetta, secretary of the congregation (bishops and friars); Mgr. Llenaveras.

The bishops preconized included Mgr. Blenk of Porto Rico and Mgr. Barnaba Aguilar of Santiago de Cuba.

Fought a Duel With Picks.

Hartshorne, I. T., June 20.—Len Lane and Joseph Morrow, miners, employed at Haleyville, a small mining settlement, about two miles from Hartshorne, fought with mining picks while at work in the pit. A dispute relative to the proper distribution of cars arose. Lane is lying unconscious, suffering from concussion of the brain. His head is a mass of cuts and bruises. Morrow, who escaped comparatively uninjured, was arrested and taken to jail to await the result of Lane's injuries. He claims he acted in self-defense, as Lane attacked him.

Husband and Wife Instantly Killed.

Winchester, Ky., June 20.—S. Rupard and wife, living eight miles east of here, started to town to meet the remains of their nephew, H. P. Rogers, who was killed by a railroad accident near Ronceverte, W. Va. They were in a buggy, and at a crossing near Hedges were struck and instantly killed by a Chesapeake and Ohio westbound train, bearing the remains of their relative. The mangled bodies were picked up, and the train arrived here with three corpses instead of one on board.

Philadelphia, June 20.—It has been officially announced that the options held by Drexel, Morgan, & Co. of 75,000 shares of Lehigh Valley Railroad stock has been exercised. The price paid was $25 per share for 37,300 shares and $27.50 for the remainder.

FIVE AMERICANS KILLED.

General Wheaton's Force Has a Long and Hard Battle With the Natives.

FILIPINO LOSSES HEAVY.

Engagement Began When Supposed Friendies Open a Vigorous Fire On the American Troops.

General Wheaton is Fired on in the Road and Has a Narrow Escape—Besides The Five Killed, Twenty-Five of the Americans Are Wounded by the Enemy.

Manila, June 20.—A battalion of the Fourth Infantry, which left Imus, where Gen. Wheaton is in command, to reconnoitre towards Peres las Marinas, where it was believed most of the natives who escaped from Paranaque and Bacoor had fled, was attacked by apparently friendly natives in the rear.

A sharp engagement resulted, lasting several hours.

It resulted in five Americans being killed and about twenty-five being wounded.

The loss of the Filipinos was very heavy.

The battalion soon exhausted its ammunition, and Gen. Wheaton and his staff, with the Second Battalion, moved up to its assistance.

GENERAL WHEATON.

Gen. Wheaten was fired on in a road and had a narrow escape.

Later, the Third Battalion was ordered to the front and formed on the Las Marinas road. Heavy firing on both sides followed, the artillery being freely used.

The enemy was located in the woods but were forced to retire as they were being pressed very hard. One gun of the Sixth Artillery in an advantageous position did great execution.

The fighting was fast and furious and the Americans secured a large quantity of Filipino arms which had been abandoned in the woods.

The scene of the fight is over twenty miles from Manila.

Manila, June 20.—The United States transport Sherman, which sailed from San Francisco May 24, with 1,800 men and 75 officers, under command of Brig.-Gen. Frederick D. Grant, has arrived here after a smooth voyage. One private died after the transport's arrival.

The troops brought by the Sherman will go to the Island of Negros to relieve the California volunteers. Gen. Bates, who arrived on the transport, and Gen. Grant will probably be assigned to the commands of the volunteer generals, some of whom will leave for home soon.

Gens. Hale and Funston desire to accompany their regiments home. The Utah artillery, it is announced, will accompany the Nebraskan troops on board the transport Hancock, leaving their guns here. The Pennsylvanians will start for home on the transport Senator this week.

The Indiana sailed to-day with 500 discharged soldiers. She will go into dock for a few days at Nagasaki, Japan.

Military operations against the insurgents in the south have apparently been planned. Gen. Wheaton, at Imus, is sending reconnoitring parties to locate the enemy, and other reconnaissances are being made from Cavite.

Washington, June 20.—Gen. Otis has cabled the war department as follows: "Adjutant General, Washington:

"Sherman arrived; casualty, Edwin L. Gavett, I, sixty infantry; Col. Kellog, twelve men, left Honolulu sick; seventeen cases typhoid fever en route. Sixth infantry leaves for Iloilo to relieve Californians Negros. Transport India, 134 officers and soldiers, left for San Francisco via Nagasaki yesterday. Hancock and Sherman, with Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah, leave for United States as soon as collected. Colorado to follow on first available transport. OTIS."

Washington, June 20.—The following cablegram has been received from Gen. Otis:

"Manila, June 18.

"Adjutant General, Washington:

"All volunteer organizations here desire muster out San Francisco. OTIS."

Missionaries Not Killed.

Hong Kong, June 20.—The report that Rev. H. S. Phillips, Mrs. Philips and Miss Sears, missionaries of the Church Missionary Society, with three native converts, were recently killed by rioters in the Province of Ngan-Hwei, is contradicted, and it is now announced that all are safe.

Weasels Do a Lot of Damage.

Winfield Jct., N. Y., June 20.—Many complaints are heard in this vicinity of the depredations of weasels upon the young chickens. The animals have made a clean sweep of the henery of John Edwards, a veteran of the Civil War, whose flock of blooded Wyandottes were exterminated.

URGED TO TRUST US.

Former President Cisneros Talks to Cubans on the Situation.

Havana, June 20.—Gen. Jesus Rabi, commander of the Cuban forces in the province of Santiago de Cuba, has telegraphed to Gen. Gomez from Bayamo saying: "After reading your last proclamation, convinced by your patriotic and inspired words, I instructed all the commanders of my brigade to order the soldiers to surrender their arms to the American Commissioners and to receive payment of $75 each from them."

This despatch caused much rejoicing at Gen. Gomez's headquarters, where it was recognized as ending all danger of trouble with the Cuban forces in the east.

An important meeting was held at Regia, a town across the bay from Havana, at which Salvador Cisneros, ex-President of the Cuban republic, spoke, advising the Cubans to have confidence in the United States. He said:

"I believe the American people are acting in good faith in spite of the unnecessary prolongation of their military occupation when the country is at peace. But they will keep their word. They cannot commit the greatest treachery in history. Meanwhile let us unite and demand our independence."

The meeting was made the occasion of a great demonstration in honor of Senor Cisneros.

Gen. Lee telegraphs to Governor-General Brooke from Pinar del Rio that the entire province is quiet. There has been no further trouble at Guanajay, and there are now only twenty American soldiers at Guines, the remainder having been withdrawn, as there was no call for their services.

Investigation into the murder of Minnie Ross, who was killed in a house on Animas street, shows that Frederick W. Kreuse, the American who was arrested on suspicion of having committed the crime, is not guilty. It is now believed that the murderers were a Spanish porter and an American waiter who were employed in the house. The murderers stole some rings, belonging to the woman, but left a sum of money and a number of valuables that were in the room. The murdered woman was a Canadian, not an American, as was at first reported.

Deaths of Soldiers.

Washington, June 20.—The following weekly report of the deaths from disease among the troops in the Philippines was received from Gen. Otis.

Chicken Fights a Child.

Richmond, Ky., June 20.—Garnett Witt, the 19-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Witt of this city, while playing in the back yard, was attacked by a large game rooster, which knocked the little fellow down and was spurring him viciously when Mr. Witt heard the boy's screams and came to the rescue. The child's face was considerably disfigured, several pieces of flesh being torn from the face by the fowl's sharp talons. The same rooster attacked Mrs. Witt several days ago, and had to be beaten off.

All Due to a Calf.

Hartshorne, I. T., June 20.—A desperate battle with knives was fought near this place between Van Cope and a man named Eisenblower. The dispute arose about a yearling calf that was in the possession of Eisenblower. Cope received a number of severe gashes, but left his opponent for dead after a fierce half hour struggle. Eisenbower will die. Cope, aided by his wife and friends, escaped to the mountains.

Attempted to Poison Them.

Findlay, June 20.—An attempt was made to poison Mrs. John Smith, two children and a boarder named Sutton by putting "rough on rats" in the coffee. All those who drank the coffee were made sick, but they will recover. John Smith, the husband, has left the city.

Improved Roads.

There are 20,000 miles of roads of all kinds in New Jersey, stone, clay, gravel and mud. Of this amount, 1,000 miles have been improved, not all by State aid. If the State of New Jersey stopped accepting specifications for road building under State aid now, it would take two years to complete what is now on file. There are petitions pending at the present time for 300 miles of new roads.

There is now being spent $500,000 a year. The counties pay about 57 per cent. of the cost, the property owners 10 per cent. and the State the balance. While road building is cheaper now than five years ago, because of better understanding of the needs for roads on a different adjustment of materials, still there is now an increase because of the great amount of road building that is going on in the country, which has made material scarce and higher.

The $150,000 appropriated by the State is increased by the two-thirds of the county and the property owners. About $50,000 is spent each year throughout the State for bridges and the approaches to bridges.

Since the close of the fiscal year, when State Road Commissioner Budd made his report, there had been a rush of counties which desire State aid.

Burlington county leads all the counties, having on file at the present time the applications for twenty-six miles of roads, which will cost $450,000. The farmers of Burlington believe firmly in stone roads as a means of making farms pay by getting the products of the farms quickly to the market and for enhancing the value of the farms.

NEW SUSPENSION BRIDGE AT NIAGARA.

The new suspension bridge at Niagara occupies the site upon which stood the bridge built in 1850-51. In the construction of the new bridge parts of the old bridge that stood far up the stream, close to the American fall, were used. These two facts add to the interest that attaches to any bridge across Niagara.

The New York Herald is the authority for a political rumor that "a Democratic Freeholder from Plainfield is making a bid for the nomination of Sheriff in Union county this fall." A Democratic officeholder of any sort, big or little, is not to be found in Plainfield, so we will have to dispose of the Herald's gossip without wondering who this man may be.

There is said to be a large waiting list of candidates for the Republican nomination of Vice-President if Mr. Hobart concludes not to be a candidate. But from present prospects Mr. Hobart will be in the fight. Senators Hanna, Platt and Quay are all for the Jerseymen, and when you have got them you have got about the biggest part of the G. O. P.

No matter how little a merchant may feel he can do personally for the Plainfield Advancement Society, it will not do him any harm to attend the public meeting of the society this evening. The act of personal attendance upon meetings of this character is a great invigorative to those who are willing to go ahead with the hard work part of the movement.

Governor Voorhees and all the rest of the State officials may say pleasant and soothing things about the business of making trusts in New Jersey, in the endeavor to placate the public mind, but it is a fact that the New Jersey's way of treating with the big industrial combines is a disgrace to the commonwealth.

Geographical considerations form a most important part in the political canvass in Union county this year.

The season of the "sweet girl graduate" is upon us in all its glory.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Mrs. Martha Jones, of West Sixth street, well-known as "Aunt Martha," is detained at her home suffering with a fractured leg. The accident occurred sometime ago, but the many friends of this well-known person will be sorry to learn of her misfortune. "Aunt Martha" is a native of the Southland, and her memory goes back to the early days of slavery, and many times she entertains those younger in years with interesting stories of her early life.

* * * * *

Weather Prophet Naegle is a very useful man to Plainfield. By his ability to do "most anything" he has helped many a one out of difficulties seemingly alarming. His latest brotherly act was assisting Organist A. L. Titsworth to ascertain what was the trouble with the pipe organ in Trinity Reformed church, which suddenly gave out Sunday evening during the offertory. Mr. Neagle soon discovered the trouble and remedied it free of expense to the church.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

A great variety of meterials carefully selected and carefully kept, make it one of the most attractive spots in our immense establishment. We have recently consummated a very large purchase direct from the mill whereby we secure the end of the season's production at less than half regular price. Instead of spending thousands of dollars every year elsewhere for your Dry Goods and needs of the home, spend it here in Plainfield. Empty stores would soon have tenants—the vacant houses, too—The streets would have that lively business air that denotes prosperity, that would impress the visitor, as favorably as anything else. You are proud to say you live in such a city—Others would be, too. If the stores here had more of your patronage they'd have ample stocks and liberal variety. You would save money on all your purchases—WE know that merchandise can be sold cheaper here than in New York.

Exposure of the Liars.

The exposure of the two liars, which was to have taken place Thursday night at the Salvation Army barracks, has been postponed until Friday night. That there is some worry on the part of some in connection with this announcement, there is no doubt. Already the captain has heard that he is to be done up after the meeting because some expect that the exposure affects them. Nevertheless he is prepared to present strong proof as to the truth of the lies that were told.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

FOOT OUT OF FAVOR.

THE TIME WAS WHEN THEY WERE ALWAYS THOUGHT OF.

No Herald, No Friend Approached Without a Welcome for His Feet—No Modern Man or Woman Can Boast of Happy Feet.

The time was when no good news made a journey and no friend came near, but a welcome was uttered, or at least thought, for the traveling feet of the wayfarer or the herald, but the foot is so out of favor now that one may doubt whether even love (except in the case of her who lies with two feet, newly born, within the palm of one hand) pauses often upon the dearest feet, or is much aware of them. It must be chiefly the fault of the boot; for the boot has no character, language or nature in it, nor any pathos until it is very old and out of the question.

The feet, the feet were beautiful on the mountain; their toil was the price of all communication, and their reward the first service and refreshment. They adored poetry with the primitive word, and the civilization that was single, simple and humane sang them. They were blessed and bathed; they suffered, but they were friends with the earth; dews in grass at morning, shallow rivers at noon, gave them coolness. They must have grown hard upon their mountain paths, but never so hard but they needed and had the first pity and the readiest succor. It was never easy for the feet of man to travel this earth, shod or unshod, and his feet are delicate like his color.

If they suffered hardship once, they suffer privation now. No modern man or woman can boast of having really happy feet. And yet the feet should have more of the acquaintance of earth and know more of flowers, freshness, cool brooks, wild thyme and salt sand than does anything else about us. It is their calling; and the hands might be glad to be stroked for a day by grass and struck by buttercups, as the feet are of those who go barefoot; and the nostrils might be flattered to be, like them, so long near moss. The face has only now and then, for a resting while, their privilege.

If our feet are now so severed from the natural ground they have inevitably lost life and strength by the separation. It is only the entirely unshod that have lively feet. Watch a peasant who never wears shoes, except for a few unkind hours once a week, and you may see the play of his talk in his mobile feet; they become as dramatic as his hands. Fresh as the air, brown with the light, and healthy from the field, not used to darkness, not grown in prison, the foot of the contadino does not keep the undignified and ashamed stillness of the foot of high life. That foot is prim, and never lifts a heel against its dull conditions, for it has forgotten liberty. It is more active now than it lately was—certainly the foot of a woman is more active; but whether on the pedal or in the stirrup, or clad for a walk, or armed for a game, or decked for the waltz, it is in bonds. It is, at any rate, inarticulate. —Collier's Weekly.

The Curse of Ugliness.

You hear a great deal more about the fatal curse of beauty than you do about the fatal curse of ugliness, but, for all that, the latter privilege has its drawbacks. It is an inestimable boon—that of being homely and unattractive, but there is a price to pay, as there is with most boons. The penalty in this case is not lessened because it is a negative one. Not what a homely woman may do, but what she may not do, is the greatets drawback to her condition. No ugly woman may ever murder, steal, or, indeed, commit any crime worthy of being calendered in yellow print. It isn't that she is absolved from it; she is simply incapable of doing it; her unattractiveness disqualifies her for crime, and never, never, no matter how wicked her impulses and strong her incentives may be, can she hope to rival her good-looking sister. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Whoever heard of an ugly murderess, or an unattractive forgeress or a shoplifter that was not fair to look upon? They are all and each, according to yellow print, of such wondrous beauty and rare intelligence that the strange thing is that there are any other beautiful women left in the world. One would think that the criminal class must have monopolized them all. But that doesn't lessen the obligation thrust upon the homely woman. Like the Peri at the gates of Paradise she is forever outside the pale of criminality. Her fatal curse of ugliness debars her from ever, even in the smallest degree, identifying herself with wickedness. It may be argued that much is thus spared her, but at the same time it is hard to be shut out from anything merely on account of one's looks. If yellow standards and statistics are to be credited, woman is not a free immoral agent.—New York Sun.

One Instance.

The bearded man who was asked to speak at the Women Reformers' convention on the subject of "Corsets—Their Injurious Effect Upon the Human Frame," had spoken at considerable length, and closed by saying: "In short, the corset is the abomination of abominations. It serves no good purpose whatever."

He sat down amid loud applause, and the professor, who happened to be present, was called upon for a few remarks. He said:

"My friend who has just preceded me has said the corset serves no good purpose. In the course of a life, now well past the middle age, I have known just one exception, which, indeed, may be considered as proving the rule. A California cow had become so emaciated that when she ate grass it dropped out through the spaces between her ribs before it could be acted upon by the stomach and assimilated into her corporate system In this emergency and as a last resort, a large corset was strapped around the cow. This kept the grass in and thus the cow's life was saved. Still, she was not a valuable cow, and I should not mention her case here were it not that in the pursuit of science we must be rigidly exact. I thank you, ladies, for your attention."—Chicago Tribune.

Household Talks

FINE TABLE LINEN.

Men as Fond of Its Attractive Appearance as Women.

Man likes daintiness about his dining table as well as his wife and the other women of his household do. Fine and spotless linen and thin, unchipped china appeal to him even more perhaps than delicious viands. This being so, he cannot blame woman for her enthusiasm over the many bargains now to be had in table linen. The late sales of tablecloths, napkins, tea cloths, tray covers and the like are more tempting this year than ever before, and that is saying a great deal. The best is absolutely the cheapest in table linen and no thrifty housewife should allow herself to be beguiled into buying linen of inferior quality because of its beautiful design.

Fashion changes in table linen as in everthing else, but only the immensely rich can afford to keep up with every little change. If the quality of one's linen is good and it is always well laundered, it matters little whether the design be small or large. As a rule it is foolish to buy anything not immediately needed, simply because it is cheap, but in this respect table linen is an exception. One cannot have too many tablecloths and doilies, and when one or the other begins to show signs of wear it is well to be able to replace it at once. In this way the stock in the linen closet never gets so low that madam will awake some fine day when company is coming to find that she hasn't a decent tablecloth or a whole set of napkins to her name, as she usually puts it. Just now it is possible to get the full value of all money expended in linen goods.

Speaking of furnishings for the dining table brings to mind the fact that most housekeepers have trouble in removing the stains left on polished tables by hot dishes. No matter how thick a canton flannel cover is used next to the table, stains will sometimes appear. A little very fine ashes applied to each spot with sweet oil and a good deal of elbow grease will remove them, and leave the table looking like new. Wood ashes are considered the best for this purpose, so those who know say, but coal ashes do the work also.

How to Tie a Bow.

Everyone, doubtless, can tie a bow knot, but there is a little trick about making the bows and ends lie horizontally and have the overknot of the finished bow flat and smooth. The accompanying pictures will show you how it is done.

TYING A BOW.

Country House Decoration.

A good and at the same time inexpensive mode of treating woodwork in a country house is in transparent wood stains, which can be had in any color. These stains of pink or green allow the grain of the wood to show, and are less expensive than paint, since one coat of stain with a finish of varnish is all that is needed, while of paint four coats are required. If later a change is desired, it is an easy matter to paint over the stain. Pine wood or oak so treated gives an effect of lightness and luxury that is very attractive, according to the Art Interchange. In one country house the walls of the rooms were hung with cheesecloth in different shades of pink and yellow to match the stained woodwork. The curtains were of the same material, tied back with ribbons, and produced a simple effect that was greatly liked. For hangings, however, or for upholstery there is nothing more serviceable than denim. The divans and pillows should be embroidered with white to lighten the effect.

Chopped Meat Preservative.

If chopped meat be left to itself or awhile, it will turn dark and grey, losing its freshness. The change is due to the action of bacteria, which find their way into the meat from the air in the process of chopping. The depreciation of chopped meat is a source of considerable annoyance and loss to butchers, to whom it is important that the meat exhibited on their counters should look fresh and inviting. A powder now on the market is said to keep it just as if it were frozen. After the meat is dusted over with the powder it retains its appetizing appearance and flavor from one to two weeks if necessary, without the use of ice or cold storage. The actual temperature of the meat is not lowered, but the troublesome bacteria are rendered harmless. It is said that the powder is as safe to use as common salt. It is a single chemical product, and does not contain any borax, boracic acid, saltpeter, salt, salicylic acid, salicylate of soda or benboate of soda.—Los Angeles "Sunday Times."

OUTING COSTUMES.

Suits For Wheeling Wear, For Town and Country.

Bicycle riding having now become almost as common a habit as walking, the bicycle costume is an interesting subject to most women, although it is no longer the burning topic that it was at first, when it served as a bone of contention for extremists both pro and con. All women do not wear the same kind of bicycle suit, not simply because there is diversity in taste, but because there are individual points to be considered, such as age, weight and the sort of riding to be done A woman who bowls along a few miles upon an asphalted pavement in the level streets of a city can clothe herself much more daintily than one who takes long trips over rough country roads, where mud, water and dust are abundant, tumbles a thing to be anticipated and a drenching shower not an impossibility, to say nothing of a great deal of exertion and consequent warmth, prone to wilt frills and furbelows. Frills and furbelows are never, indeed, appropriate to bicycle clothing, which should be always of the tailor made order, trim, close and free from floating ends and fluttering accessories, but white, mastic and pale gray gowns, patent leather shoes and similar attire may be worn by the easy rider, who is contented with a spin around the square, whereas the country excursionist must get herself up in a far more substantial fashion.

The cut shows a bicycle costume of gray cloth, stitched ornamentally with black. The skirt is short, and there is a bolero with two steel buttons, having stitched revers and a crenelated collar. The pocket flap, sleeves and cuffs are also stitched. The skirt waist is of black and white check, the belt of tan leather with a steel buckle. The gray straw hat is trimmed with black. MILLINERY NOTES.

Hats and Bonnets of the Prevailing Fashion.

Hats and bonnets are of the airiest texture, gauze, mousseline de soie and tulle being immensely employed for them. One of the most novel and delicate millinery trimmings consists of large balls of tulle on a tall wire stem. The balls are made of ruffles of tulle gathered together at the center on the same principle that is exemplified in ball penwipers. Large flowers—often really colossal roses, bluets, etc.—are favorites, and there are toques all of flowers, as well as hats having either the brim or the crown of flowers, while the rest is of something else. Open straw and straw finely embroidered are also much worn and are very light. The old fashion of foliage covered with a white bloom is revived, and great bunches of such whitened leaves are seen on many hats and bonnets alone or combined with flowers.

Bluets are probably more worn than any other flower. Then come violets and afterward a crowd of flowers held in about the same esteem, one as another. Roses and cowslips of all colors and hyacinths have a prominent place. Less frequently seen, but exceedingly attractive, are clusters of hydrangea in the delicate natural shades of blue, pink, green and lavender combined with white. These are a charming decoration for a white or pale gray hat, and some exquisite models are exhibited.

The picture shows a toque of draped straw of a cherry red, which forms a large knot in front, pierced by a long, curling feather, which turns to the right. At the left side is a large bunch of lilies of the valley. The same idea may be carried out in dark blue straw, with a black or brown feather and bluets. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

Entire Group Unquestionably Result of Volcanic Upheaval From Ocean's Bed

ARE DEVOID OF MINERALS

Notable Facts About Some of the Mountains Which Tower Thousands of Feet.

The Beautiful City of Honolulu—The Avenue of Royal Palms—Ancient and Modern Residences—No Fires Needed for Warmth and Comfort—The Cultivation of Sugar and Rice.

The recent acquisition of the Hawaiian group of islands and their incorporation as an integral part of the territory of the United States invest them with a peculiar interest. No doubt before long the American people generally will become as familiar with all the facts of Hawaiian life and history as with any portion of our country. Although these islands are believed to have been inhabited for more than a hundred years the turning point in their history was their discovery by the white man more than 120 years ago. The future of these islands will obviously be of American make. But there is very much that is unusually interesting in the origin, the soil, the climate, and the natural products of these islands as well as in the occupations and habits of the native islanders. The entire group is unquestionably the result of a volcanic upheaval from the ocean bed, and the only original soil of Hawaii was pure lava. This volcanic product, thrown up by what was undoubtedly a series of successions of sub-oceanic convulsions, took the form at first of vast, rugged mountain ranges, which still remain in most impressive form in several of the islands. These masses of lava cooled and became a sort of rock which, singularly enough, has nowhere in it any trace of mineral matter. With the single exception of sulphur, no mineral substance has been found on Hawaiian soil. These lava mountain ranges are rough, broken and precipitous, and in many places impassible. In some instances they rise to mountain peaks of great height, the highest, Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea, in Hawaii, rising about 13,000 feet: Haleakala's summit, in Maui, is 10,000 feet above sea level. The peaks of the Pali and Tantalus, in Oahu, are nearly 4,000 feet in height.

A notable fact about some of these Hawaiian mountains is that they continue with the same abruptness to a great distance below the ocean's surface. Soundings taken have proved that the Mauna Loa really extends downward at least three miles below the sea at a distance only three and a half miles from the shore, giving the entire mountain, from base to crest, an altitude of almost six miles. Immense coral reefs girt the islands in many places, rising sometimes eighty feet above sea level.

Along the seashore the combination of lava soil and marine deposit has made a soil which is phenomenally productive in sugar cane, rice, the native taro root, bananas and cocoanuts. The city of Honolulu is almost literally a city in a garden. It is so embowered in the richness of its foliage of palms, cocoanut trees, umbrella, "monkey pod," fig and algeroba, and other trees of tropic and semi-tropic growth that from the Pali summit, or the "Punchbowl," the buildings and streets are scarcely visible for the palm trees that flourish there; the most beautiful and imposing of them is the "Royal Palm." One of the finest of Honolulu's streets is the Avenue of Royal Palms.

Honolulu has very many spacious and handsome residences of modern construction. The dwellings of the natives, however, known as "grass houses," were built of bamboo frame work, the sides inclosed and the roof thatched entirely with the grasses which are found in great abundance in the islands. These houses had usually no windows, and only one wide doorway. As no fires are ever needed for warmth and comfort, they were of course, without chimneys. The only furniture, or fittings, required were the heaps of grass-woven mats which made the beds. The native Hawaiians had no use for chairs or tables

The cultivation of sugar and rice has been remarkably profitable on the low lands along the seacoast in many parts of the islands, and sugar plantations in southern Hawaii are found at a considerable elevation above the sea. The fertility of the Hawaiian soil is shown by the fact that its sugar cane product is more than double per acre that of Louisana or Cuba.

The Hawaiian Islands, if all the arable lands are placed under cultivation, are capable of sustaining a population of at least a million, probably more. Now that they have become an integral part of the United States, it is almost certain that in the near future there will be a rapid and very profitable utilization of these hitherto unused lands, which will result in a vast increase of the population of Hawaii and in enhancing her commercial importance.

PRECIOUS TALISMANS

Royal Personages Who Possess Jewels to Which are Attributed Magical Power.

Royal personages are not exempt from belief in talismans, and at this day there is doubtless not a crowned head in Europe who does not possess a jeweled ornament of some sort to which is attributed magical power.

Nicholas I was the possessor of a ring having talismanic powers. It was given to him by Princess Charlotte of Prussia, daughter of Frederick William III.

The princess obtained it from the Swiss governess, Mme. Wildermuth. One day while looking through the latter's collection they came upon a curious little ring made in Gothic fashion.

"This must be a very antique piece," remarked the princess—and still admiring it she drew it upon her finger. "It has such a peculiar shape that it reminds one of some ancient talisman." When she wished to return it the ring could not be drawn off, whereupon the governess offered it to her as a keepsake.

The princess accepted it. Later she did succeed in taking off the ring, and on examining it more closely found a few words engraved within it, which, though very much worn, when carefully deciphered, read—"Russia's Czarina." They laughed and joked about this a great deal, attributing, in jocular mood, future significance to the words.

Years passed. A marriage was to be arranged between Princess Charlotte and Prince Nicholas, who at that time had no pretensions to the throne, since his brother, Alexander the First, the reigning czar, had another successor, Prince Constantine, second son of the royal house.

Nicholas came to Berlin in order to meet his prospective bride, and hardly did his eyes gaze upon her fairy form before he fell desperately in love with her. Nor did he hesitate to give voice to his feelings, and at a court dinner told her of his love, and begged her to give him some little remembrance as a sign that his love was returned.

"Pray give me that tiny ring," he whispered to the princess, as he pointed to the above mentioned jewel.

"But not here, before all the guests?" asked she.

"No one will notice it; bury it into a piece of bread, drop the latter on the table and I will undertake to reach unnoticed, for the talisman."

The prince received the ring—the same one Charlotte had received from Mme. Wildermuth years ago.

Most all know of the happy wedded life these two led, also that eight years later the prophetic words engraved within the ring came true. Nicholas became Czar of Russia and Charlotte its czarina.

It is said Nicholas never took the little ring from his finger, and when in later years it became far too small for him he had it attached to a gold chain and wore it continually around his neck.

Empress Eugenie had a talisman, a breastpin, shaped like a clover leaf, made of closely set diamonds and smaragds. The empress had won this at a raffle arranged by Napoleon. This breastpin, which she held as the guarding spirit of her happiness, Eugenie wore continually. When her husband died the pin was put away and never worn during the mourning years. When her son, the Prince Napoleon, went to take part in the Zulu war she again pinned it on herself, and took it off once more when her son was killed. Some years later she gave it to the Princess Mondy, daughter of Murat.

"This clover leaf I have long considered a talisman," she said. "It was my most precious possession, and I would not like it lost. Wear it, then, my dear, as a friendship bond between us, and may it ever prove the talisman of thy uninterrupted happiness."

No Danger of Pneumonia.

The insect effects its breathing, not as men and animals do, by the lungs, but through openings in all sides of the body. It has an intricate system of tubes running through all parts of its person, through which the air is brought in contact with the legs, wings, and so on. These tubes are each protected by delicate membranes. In the fly there exist certain air pouches, in addition to the tubes, which serve as reservoirs of air.

"He That Giveth to the Poor."

At a Young Men's Christian association dinner in New York last week one of the speakers, a lawyer, told of a client who every time he wrote to him inclosed a tract, and said that the last letter, recently received, instructed him to collect the money due on a mortgage, and if it wasn't paid in thirty days to foreclose. The tract accompanying that letter was headed: "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

In France, when a convict is sentenced to death by the guillotine the day of his execution is not named in his presence, and he knows not when he is to be led forth until within fifteen minutes of the fatal moment.

In Mississippi a family of six persons was carried bodily 600 yards by a tornado. The story about the setting hen deposited gently in the nest on the apex of a peaked roof without breaking an egg is about due.

Rarely indeed is a wealthy Turk seen at his wife's dinner table. He usually dines in a part of the house remote from that occupied by his connubial partner or partners.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

There Is Much Excitement in Editorial Life in the West.

Tuesday afternoon last, as we were busy at our editorial table, a stranger entered and began firing at us with two guns. We were too surprised to do any dodging, and our nearest pistol was ten feet away. It was all over in fifteen seconds, however, and the shooter had fired twelve bullets without even grazing our hide. There were two holes in the back of our chair, three through the stovepipe behind us, and a wall received the other bullets. We rose up after awhile and took the man by the neck and slammed him around until he begged for mercy. He gave his name as Elkins, and said he was on his way from Salt Lake to Prescott. When he arrived here it struck him to try an experiment. He had a curiosity to know whether an editor would fight, and what an editor would say in his dying moments. As a matter of fact, he had nothing against us, and when the affair was over he subscribed for "The Kicker" and paid two years in advance. That was the first time we had sat down without a gun within reach for five years, and nobody need plan on the idea that we will do it again. Had we been "heeled" Mr. Elkins would now be sleeping with his forefathers. Nevertheless, he got enough at our hands to satisfy him that the editorial fraternity of Arizona is not to be walked on, and that any experiments with the craft may result in springing the bear-trap.

Too Much Exertion.

Every Other Thursday.

After the new servant had been installed in the home of a New Jersey housewife the day finally came when the privilege of "going out" had to be decided on. This fell on a Thursday, to which the mistress assented.

"You may go to-day, Bridget," she said, "and every other Thursday."

"All right, ma'am," replied Bridget.

The next week on Thursday surprise was great at Bridget's coming from her room all togged out for another afternoon out. The mistress rebelled and asked her if she remembered that she was to go out only every other Thursday.

"Certainly I do, ma'am, certainly! Didn't you say I could go out that Thursday and 'every other Thursday'—That Thursday and every Thursday afterward?"

"No! No!" replied the mistress, "that Thursday and every second Thursday thereafter."

"Sure you didn't say so. You positively told me that Thursday and every other Thursday. Of course that means every Thursday."

Bridget won.

At the Telephone.

"Hello! Give me one thousand and sixty-six."

"What."

"Ten hundred and sixty-six."

"I can't understand you.

"One naught, six, six."

"I don't get it. Try again."

"One. Got that?"

"Yes."

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, naught. Naught—naught! Got the naught?"

"Yes."

"One, two, three, four, five, six. Got the six?"

"Yes."

"One, two, three, four, five, six, again. Got the six again?"

"Yes."

"Well that's what I want."

"Oh, you want one, owe, double six. Why didn't you say so?"

A Miracle in Either Case.

As Pat came to the door of his employer's library the latter was in the act of putting a bottle of liquor in the closet. Closing and locking the door of the repository, he turned to Pat and said:

"If I should go away and leave that tempting beverage within your reach, it would be a miracle if you didn't drink it all."

"Beggin' yer pardon, sor," answered Pat, "but it'd be more of a mericle ef ye'd be givin' me the chance."

Advice.

Old Doctor—"Now, my boy, let me give you a word of advice before you cut loose and hang out your shingle."

Young Doctor—"I shall be glad to receive it, I assure you."

WAR BALLOON AT SANTIAGO

A Thrilling Incident of the Last Ascension Told by a Participant.

MARK FOR THE ENEMY.

Fifteen Hundred Feet Above the Ground and the Mauser Bullets Thicker Than Hail.

An Experience That the Three Navigators Will Never Forget—It Required Nerve to Undertake the Job—Sending Dispatches and Dodging Missiles—The Basket Riddled and All the Occupants Wounded.

I am the only telegraph operator who went up in the war balloon at El Caney and Santiago, and this is the story of the ascension. The balloon was shot full of holes so that it looked like a sieve when it dropped. I received a glancing shot over the eye, leaving a scar that I will carry for life.

The balloon was one of four, and was the only one used. It was under charge of the Signal Corps. I made four ascensions. Lieut. McNorn was in command. "Bud" McKalb was the aeronaut and I was the telegrapher.

The first trip was really without exciting incidents. A few pickets fired at the balloon, but did no damage to speak of.

All the messages were sent in cipher. We sent the location of the enemies lines as we could see them, but had no trouble. The second trip on July 1 was quite like the first. We heard a few scattered shots, took similar observations, and put in about two and a half hours on the work.

The third and last trip was at Santiago on the morning of the 3d of July, and I am telling you it was a trip to make a man's hair turn white. The fighting lines had been getting closer for three days, and I knew that we were in for a hot time. The lieutenant knew it, too, and I remarked to "Bud," that it would be a lucky morning for us if we all got back alive.

The balloon rose about as fast as a cable car runs, and for the first twenty or thirty feet in the run we did not hear a shot. The bag was drifting well over the water when we heard the first "Ping, ping!" of the Mauser bullets across the side of the basket and against the bag. When these bullets came singly it sounded like they were striking against a stone wall.

Well, the balloon was probably to its full height—1,500 feet—and I was pushing away on the ticker when the trouble began. It seemed as if the Spaniards had turned all their guns upon us. The noise of those Mausers against the bag was like forty hod-carriers falling down ladders with their hods.

The rain of bullets never let up for a second. "Bud" had just asked me if I wasn't getting a little nervous when he yelled, "My God, they've got me!" He dropped over to the bottom of the basket with two wounds, one in his left groin and the other in his left foot. I noticed two holes in the basket as he dropped the lever. I had just wondered who the first man would be.

SIGNAL CORPS IN WAR BALLOON.

Lieut. McNorn was as cool as ice. He had just written a dispatch and handed it to me when he was hit. He was standing close to the edge of the basket. The basket had taken a sudden turn when he fell with his head across the edge of the basket and a bullet in his right side.

Then followed the hottest ten minutes of my life. I caught the lieutenant with one arm and drew him back into the basket, which was swinging so that it was a guess whether we wouldn't all be spilled out at the next turn.

With the other hand I telegraphed to my friend Considine at the other end:

"The lieutenant is hit. I am holding him up with one hand and wiring with the other.

Considine wired back:

"Keep your nerve. The balloon is coming down easy, and we will stand by if it touches land."

I was told afterwards that it was twelve minutes by the watch between the first message from the balloon and the landing. It seemed like twelve years. I stuck my head over the edge of the basket to see how the balloon was drifting, and I thought that there was a chance when I saw it turning to the land. For perhaps two minutes before the landing the shower of bullets let up.

Finally the basket grazed the beach and I climbed out. My feet were fairly on the ground when a sharpshooter's bullet struck my face under the left eye and covered my head with blood It was a lucky shot and pained me, but I knew that it was not serious.

The boys ran up and carried the lieutenant and aeronaut from the basket and I turned around in time to see the big balloon collapse slowly to the ground.

The Same Old Story.

Told On The Streets of Plainfield as Well as Elsewhere.

Something you cannot tell too often.
Repetition gives it added strength.
The same old story is pleasant to hear.
When it brings happiness to home.
Brings joy to the afflicted.
Tells how burdens can be raised.
How the back can be relieved.
All the pains and aches removed.
Proves how easily it is done.
Plainfield people tell this story.
Friends and neighbors talk of it.
They tell about their kidney ills.
How they suffered, how the cures came.
What they think of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is what a citizen says:

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once, following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble. I have recommended them to a number of my friends and will continue to do so."

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The Empire City Trotting Club have issued a souvenir entry book containing the list of nominations in the events which closed on April 3. The list aggregates 216 entries to eight purses which will be contested on the magnificent course of the club at the inaugural meeting in September. The souvenir is a very handsome booklet and the famous horses enumerated give a foretaste of the sport sure to be vouch-safed.

Plainfield will witness some interesting contests on the track of the Driving Park Association again this season. The association gained an enviable reputation among the clubs of the State last season. There were races every Saturday and the contests were strictly according to rule, the participants being required to live up to certain wholesome regulations. This is as it should be. There is no reason why these matinee meetings should not be run with the same regard to law and order as regularly scheduled races governed by and within the jurisdiction of the National Trotting Association. There was fine racing at the Plainfield matinee a week ago. Entries were made by David Smalley, John Osborne and Thomas Brantingham. The first heat was won by Brantingham in 2:35. The second heat was dead between Osborne and Smalley in 2.27. Smalley won the third heat in 2 52¼. The track was very fast and the horses in the best of shape. The matinees will be held regularly every Saturday.—Newark Call.

PROBLEM OF PROGRESS.

PRESIDENT OF BOARD OF TRADE TELLS HIS EXPERIENCES.

Says That Any Organization Trying to Advance the Interests of This City Will Encounter Many Difficulties.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

Your editorial comments on my letter regarding railroad facilities, published in your paper of 15th, constrain me to make a few remarks concerning the Board of Trade and its relation to Plainfield.

There seems to be a wide diversity of opinion as to what should constitute the work of the Board notwithstand- the fact that it is clearly set down in its constitution; some have an idea that it should resolve itself into a huge real estate exchange to collect funds and expend them in advertising real estate interests, others insist that it should bring new manufacturing interests to town without further delay —still others hear the talk about lower railroad fares and forthwith exclaim, "Why don't the Board of Trade get us lower fares?" Then because all these and many other matters are not attended to at once, all with one accord proceed to criticise the Board without limit; How material? How reasonable? Let us consider the matter in a logical manner.

The Board is not in existence to further any one's especial scheme; if, however, in the exercise of its regular and legitimate work it should influence any real estate improvement so much the better for all, but this must only come as the secondary result or affect of its action; not as the primary act or cause.

Regarding new manufacturing interests, the Board through its committee has certainly made many efforts to locate desirable factories here, but without marked success, and for reasons wholly beyond its control. Primarily because other cities are offering inducements which are away ahead of anything Plainfield, in the present condition of public sentiment, can possibly meet. Then again the transportation facilities and charges are such as to repel most manufacturing interests handling quantities of miscellaneous freight, and in addition to all this we admit that there is a strong sentiment among influential citizens against any increase in our manufacturing industries.

As to cheap railroad fares, it would be well to bear in mind that the Board of Trade does not control the Central Railroad of New Jersey—"you may lead a horse to the water but you can't compel him to drink." The transportation committee of the Board has been most energetic and has laid the case ably before the railroad officials but these gentlemen will be very slow to reduce rates and will probably only do so when compelled by trolley competition to take action in order to save themselves. Lower freight rates were repeatedly denied our merchants until several years ago they combined to have their freight come over the Lehigh Valley to South Plainfield, when tha Central Railroad quickly and quietly "came down" from their "exorbitant" to their present "high" schedule.

Now Mr. Editor, the meaning of all this is that the Board of Trade cannot accomplish all things that may be desirable, especially in the face of a latent public sentiment! What it can do and what it aims to do, is to create a public feeling in favor of public improvements and advancement of the general good, and when the business men are interested in a demand for these things then much can be accomplished. The men connected with the Board are business men having their own affairs to attend to and cannot devote but a portion of their time to its work, hence the necessity of a little help from all.

When the Board was organized there were 100 men who put their names down as members; many of these have never attended a single meeting, many others attended only occasionally, while fully one-third failed to pay their dues, and yet these very men, some of whom accepted appointments on committees, and never did any work, are spending more time than they ever spent in the Board room, in telling others that the Board is no good and misrepresenting facts concerning their work.

These are plain statements but they are facts, and there are times when the unvarnished truth is a most wholesome medicine. What is wanted more than anything else among our business men is "unity of purpose and action" and a more thorough "getting together," irrespective of politics or religion, and until this can be accomplished the Board of Trade, the Advancement Association, or any similar organization, will have the greatest obstacle to their progress right at their very doors. Fred C. Lounsbury.

FINAL BLOW AT RACING.

JERSEY'S HIGHEST COURT UPHOLDS CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

End of a Long Contest—Pushed Through All the State Courts and Appealed on Technical Grounds—Stands as Adopted

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 20—The Anti-Gambling amendment to the Constitution, adopted in 1897, has now run the gauntlet of all the courts of the State, and has in every instance been declared legally adopted. The final decision was rendered yesterday by the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The opinion was handed down by Judge Dixon, and it sustains the decision of the Supreme Court, excepting in the instance where it declared that the Supreme Court, at the instance of a citizen of the State, has not the power to review by the certiorari the determination of the State Board of Canvassers, notwithstanding the proclamation of the Governor. Judge Dixon holds that the Supreme Court has that power.

RECORDS OF CRIME.

THE DIFFERENT KINDS THAT FLOURISH IN SEVERAL STATES.

The Average of Some Sections Lowered by the Influx of Foreigners—According to the Records, Ohio Seems to be the Best, Michigan and Florida the Worst.

Nine out of every ten men if asked in which part of the country was the most wickedness would answer the Atlantic seaboard. Their assumption would be based on the fact that the large cities and particularly New York are situated there and almost everybody thinks New York city is the wickedest place in the United States.

The records of crime do not bear out this assumption and a comparison of the police records of Eastern and Western cities is quite favorable to New York, Philadelphia, Boston or any of the Eastern cities.

The population must, of course, be taken into consideration when a comparison of States is made, just as it is when their relative illiteracy is made the subject of statisticians' reports. Thus considered, the Empire State compares most favorably with any other State in the Union. And thus judged, also, the two worst States are Michigan and Florida. Michigan's crime list is swelled, it is said, by the influx of lumbermen to the upper half of the State, while certain parts of Florida being almost in their primitive state may account for its condition.

The average of certain manufacturing States is lowered by the influx there of foreign workmen who bring their crimes with them. Massachusetts and Connecticut would have the reputation of having the best people in the country were it not for the Portuguese and other foreign laborers attracted to Fall River and similar places where there are big mills or manufactories of various kinds. Some of the most dreadful crimes in the annals of the law have been perpetrated in those extremely law abiding States. That is why they do not rank very high among the virtuous.

The same is true of New York city or rather of New York State, because of the city. Its "crime" record is prodigiously swelled by the rapid knife of the Italian, and the imported citizens of other nationalities.

The records show that the very best people in the United States are the men and women of Ohio. Out of every hundred thousand inhabitants of Ohio, only 54 commit serious crimes during a year. And when the police report "best" they practically mean most honest. If you take any hundred crimes committed in this vast country, you will find that 90 of them are thefts, burglaries or robberies.

The second, third, fourth and fifth best States, that is, most honest, States, are those lying adjacent to Ohio, like Indiana, Pennsylvania, Missouri and Kentucky. Those conspicuous in the other direction are some of the Western States, particularly California, and some of the Southern States, including two of the Gulf States.

Some people will tell you that drunkenness is the cause of all other crime. But the criminal annals show that there is no truth in this statement. In the Eastern States twice as many indictable serious offenses are committed as in the Western States. But the Western man becomes intoxicated three times to the Eastern man once.

Assaults and other crimes of violence also seem to have small relation to dishonesty and very little connection with drink. The most violent of all are the people of Tennessee, but in point of honesty they are third best; and with regard to drink they occupy sixth place among the States.

It is safe to say that almost every one has somehow formed the impression that the inhabitants of North Carolina are a shiftless as well as a wicked set of people. This, however, is one of those "general impressions" which will not stand investigation; it is a slur on the State which has furnished excellent citizens and supplies magnificent scenery. As a matter of stern fact North Carolina ranks better than fourth in the pyramid of virtue formed by the various States, and the cause of its crimes, illiteracy, keeps them down to a somewhat innocuous or petty grade.

Two Feet of Pain.

Pain is not usually measured by the foot, yet it is a fact that the unfortunates who suffer the miseries of aching feet endure an inch of torture to every square inch of foot they own.

Pain of any kind causes a strain upon the nervous system, and if prolonged and unchecked will create depression of spirits and despondency.

Aching feet are vexatious, aggravating and irritating, and nothing is more annoying than feet deformed and distorted from corns and bunions. Mr. Brown's painless method for the treatment and cure of corns, bunions, ingrowing and club toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty, chafed and burning feet, is endorsed by all eminent physicians. He has made diseases of the feet a life study. Corns, bunions and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago in Plainfield have not come back and the feet today are sound and well. Read the proof:

D. S. Scheuer, grocer, Front St; H. A. Weber, grocer, Liberty and Second streets; S. Sharkey, grocer, Third and Richmond streets; G. Voehl, bakery, 127 Front street; F. R. Vanderhoof, at F. "Count" John K. VanNess, of East Front street, who has been holding up the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company for the past two weeks by building a shanty on their route on his property, and planting a cannon in front of it with which to repel an invasion of trolley workmen, evacuated his position last night, having come to an agreement with the railway company. It is understood the company paid the "Count" about $1,500 for the right of way over his property.

This morning H. C. VanEmburgh, civil engineer for the railway company, put a gang of men to work staking out the route and this afternoon a large gang of workmen will start the work of grading the roadbed and laying the tracks. The gap left in the road by the defiant attitude of VanNess will be rapidly closed up and the partially completed tracks on either side tapped.

Next Saturday afternoon VanNess will be tried in city court for shooting firearms within the city limits, the offense being committed while he was getting the range of the spot where he expected that railway employes would invade his property in opposition to his commands.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the first car to be run over the Scotch Plains extension of the street railway left the North Avenue station in charge of Superintendent John Adelman and a number of other railway officials and prominent citizens invited to make the trip. The car was run almost to spot where VanNess had compelled the workmen to stop laying rails.

Civil Engineer VanEmburgh stated this morning that the rails would be laid all the way to Scotch Plains by the middle of next month and the cars running regularly.

Riker Wont Talk.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 21.—Colonel Hine and Chandler W. Riker, of this city, yesterday refused to discuss the report that the Elizabeth and Westfield company had effected a compromise with the Kean interests. Colonel Hine petioned the Springfield Township Committee, at a special meeting Monday night, for a franchise through the village from the Borough of Mountainside to the Milburn Township line. The application was filed and the Committee decided to hold a public meeting July 6th, in the Town Hall, when the conditions of the grant will be considered. Two routes are mapped out, one almost entirely through private property, and the other through the streets.

Both Mr. Tolles and Mr. VanHerwerden were unable to be present at the meeting last night, Mr. Barrows being the only member present. L. W. Serrell, Jr., and Superintendent John Adelman were present from the company.

Business Men Now in Shape For Some Effective Work.

CONSTITUTION IS ADOPTED.

MEMBERSHIP FEE IS $1 AND ANNUAL DUES $3.

Former Judge W. A. Codington Chosen Second Vice-President—Board of Directors to be Chosen in a Careful Manner—Mayor Smalley Willing to Start an Advertising Fund With Subscription of $50.

An important meeting of the Plainfield Advancement Association was held last night in Coward's Hall and the constitutional machinery accepted and set in motion. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Smalley as president of the Association. It was attended better than the previous meetings, but not near as well as it would have been if the heavy shower had not prevailed just before the time for the gathering. However, the attendance was representative and plenty of enthusiasm was evidenced over the work in hand.

The first business brought up was the report on the constitution and bylaws, which was made by Judge Runyon as chairman of the special committee appointed to formulate them. The constitution was prepared in a concise and satisfactory form after a similar document of the Elizabeth Board of Trade. It provides for a president, two vice-presidents, a secretary, a treasurer and six directors—one from each of the four wards in the city and one from each of the two election districts in the borough. The officers are to serve ex-officio on the board of directors. A number of committees of a permanent character to cover manufactories and industries, advertising, discussion, etc, were also established. These committees are to be appointed by the president, by and with the consent of the board of directors.

The question of membership fee and dues was left blank by the special committee, and at the meeting last night this matter was brought up for discussion. It was recognized by all that the lowest sum that could be named for membership fee and dues would be advisable in order to get a large membership. It was finally decided to make the membership fee $1 and the dues $3 per year, to be paid in three installments on May 1st, September 1st and January 1st.

A report from the advertising committee appointed at the last meeting was made by W. W. St. John, chairman of that committee. He stated that the committee had met and discussed informally advertising plans. But the subject involved so many ideas and such important plans for raising money to carry them out that nothing definite was done, and until something that the committee was assured of being successful and satisfactory plan had been devised it was suffice to report that progress had been made.

At this point the matter of electing the additional officers required by the constitution was brought up. Former Judge W. A. Coddington was chosen second vice-president. As the board of directors is a most important part of the constitutional machinery of the association, it was decided to appoint a special committee to select available and practical members for this board, and to report at the next meeting. City Judge Runyon, Assessor Elsten M. French and Assessor Charles H. Hand were appointed to constitute this committee.

A letter was read from Silas Dewey Drake in which he stated that he would be glad to aid the association in any way possible by his advice. He referred especially to the fact that he would be able to locate some high class factories here as soon as the land for free sites could be procured.

At this point considerable informal discussion took place. Mayor Smalley made a few remarks urging everyone to take a willing hand in the work before them—the advancement of Plainfield interests in every manner possible. He said that he had assumed the office of president reluctantly, but he was willing to assume responsibilities and that he should do everything possible to progress the work undertaken.

Speaking of the proposed fund for advertising purposes, Mr. Smalley said that he was was willing to start the subscriptions with $50 and he had no doubt but that every business man in the city would be willing to contribute $5 and upwards for such a purpose.

James E. Martine spoke on the question of lower railroad fares, and related an episode that he experienced

REFRESHING DOWNPOUR

HEAVY SHOWER WAS MOST WELCOME LAST EVENING.

Accompanied by Much Wind, Lighting and Thunder—Rain Did an Immense Amount of Good to Everything.

The steady down pour of rain last evening was most welcome. Many residents of Plainfield and vicinity felt so delighted that some were even possessed of a desire to stand out in the refreshing shower. The storm was preceded by a heavy wind, which blew fitful gusts of hot air and dust into the eyes and everywhere. Following the wind came several sharp flashes of lightning, accompanied by low rumbling peals of thunder. Then came the rain. At first with a heavy sprinkle and finally with a swish and a dash that was truly inviting after the hot sultry day. All nature seemed to smile at the drenching it was receiving and even vegetation raised its head heavenward as if in mute benediction at the baptism. As the rain increased so did the furry of the storm.

Terrific flashes of lightning, magnificent in their awful aspect, followed in close succession, while the loud thunder, as it crashed after each flash, depicted Heaven's artillery and caused a shudder to creep down the spines of nervous people. During the prevalence of the storm and as it passed to the south the sun sank in the horrison, its setting rays throwing a red glare against the firmanent making a most beautiful picture, greatly admired by all who noticed it. The shower was the heaviest experienced this season. It was highly beneficial and most welcome.

FIELD OF RYE ON FIRE.

SWATH 400 YARDS WIDE CUT TO STOP THE FLAMES.

Fire Started by a Spark From a Locomotive—Neighbors Turned Out to Prevent Blaze From Going Farther.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 21.—James P. Malloy, a young man who has been successful as a milkman and farmer at Galtville, near this place, suffered heavy losses yesterday afternoon and evening. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon sparks from a locomotive on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, which runs close to his farm, set fire to his large field of rye, and to save most of it it was necessary to cut a swath 400 yards wide across the field. By doing this the largest part of the field was saved. Malloy had the assistance of the neighbors, and all hands had to work hard for several hours.

Last evening about 11 o'clock five of Mr. Malloy's valuable cows wandered from the field and trespassed on the railroad tracks. The result was that four of them were instantly killed by a fast freight, and the fifth one was injured so badly that it had to be killed. This is a severe loss to Mr. Malloy and it will cripple him greatly in his business.

TO ATTEND A DEDICATION.

Trinity Commandery to Participate in Ceremonies at New Brunswick.

Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, has accepted an invitation to be present at the dedication of the new temple of Temple Commandery, of New Brunswick, which takes place Wednesday, June 28th.

The field day to be held at Asbury Park, August 24th, is expected to be a grand affair. There will be eighteen commanderies in line with bands. On that day Trinity Commandery will give an excursion to that city, and it it is expected that the Plainfield Sir Knights will have at least seventy swords in line. The local Sir Knights will be accompanied by the Queen City Band.

The last conclave of the season was held at the asylum Monday evening. No further conclaves will be held until the first Monday evening in September.

Deacon Conway Preached.

Rev. Scott Wallace and Deacon Spencer Conway, of this city, have returned from Providence, R. I., as delegates to the New England State Convention. While at Providence Spencer Conway preached a sermon in the Decket church. It made such an impression that he was urged to remain a week longer, but was compelled to return home.

School Teachers Worried
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, June 21.—It is understood that the local Board of Education has decided that it is time to introduce younger blood to the corps of teachers. Some of the older teachers are greatly exercised over the matter and have set about making a lively fight to be retained.

BIG CELEBRATION QUITE PROBABLE.

Plainfield Will Witness an Old-Fashioned Fourth.

NAVAL RESERVES EXPECTED

DISPLAY OF FIRE WORKS TO BE MADE ON GIRAUD AVENUE.

What the Various Committees Had to Report at Last Evening's Meeting—More Than Thirty Business Firms Have Asked for Places in the Line of Parade—Many Floats are Promised.

Reports received from some of the committees at last evening's meeting of the general committee of the Fourth of July celebration gave evidence that the success of the affair is assured.

Already thirty two business firms have asked for places in the line of parade. This number is outside of the lodges and organizations. Many of these firms will have floats.

Chairman Ulrich, of the executive committee, reported that partial arrangements had been made for the fireworks display. The site selected was on Giraud avenue, just across the brook, where there was a large lot suitable for the display, and as it was quite centrally located the committee believed it would be satisfactory to the public.

The Park Club, he said, had decided not to have an exhibition of fireworks as had been anticipated, but would lend its aid towards the success of the proposed celebration.

As to the visit of the Naval Reserves Mr. Ulrich said that the Governor had granted permission for the Reserves to visit Plainfield on July 4th providing that transportation was furnished from Hoboken and return and entertainment provided for the men while here. Dr. Simpson, he said had informed him that as Commander Irving and some of the officers of the Reserves had many friends among the citizens of Plainfield he believed that that fact had much to do with the possibility of the Reserves being guests of the city on that day of the celebration. Mr. Ulrich said he had been given to understand that if the Naval Reserves come they will be entertained by the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R.

Efforts had been made to secure Gov. Voorhees' presence in Plainfield on the Fourth, but they had failed. The committee had then sought to enlist the kind offices of Congressman Fowler but that gentleman declined owing to a previous engagement. There was however, fair prospects of securing Col. Chas. N Fuller, of Jersey City, as orator of the day, but no definite arragements had as yet been perfected.

The chairman of the executive committee reported that the Queen City Band of 23 pieces had been engaged for the afternoon and evening at a cost of $145, which was a figure comparatively less than was paid four years ago.

Several bids have been received for the fireworks but as yet no award had been made for this display.

The Knights of Pythias reported that they had engaged the Crescent Rink in which to entertain their guests from out of town. In the event of stormy weather, however, the Knights would be pleased to place it at the disposal of the executive committee to use as they deem proper.

Chairman Newcorn said that Mayor Smalley had acted upon the suggestion that the Park club unite in one general celebration as regards the fireworks, but whether the club would decide to donate the amount of money it annually expends in its pyrotechnic display he was not proposed to state. The question is to be submitted to the board of governors.

In regard to the floats the chairman wished to have the Press call the attention of those who are to make a display in this direction to be careful in the construction of the floats that they be not too high so as to retard the progress of the parade by coming in contact with the railroad viaducts, telegraph or electric light wires, etc.

The printing committee reported that the large colored posters printed by The Press had been received and that they would be posted today along the line of the railroad and in the adjacent villages and cities.

The parade committee has not yet designated the line of march, but they would do so in a few days.

Chairman Ulrich called attention to the fact that the Fourth of July is but two weeks off and it was highly important that every member of each committee should use his utmost endeavors to carry into effect the work

ONCE WEALTHY MAN NOW A CITY PAUPER.

Sad Fate in Life That Has Come to Isaac Bird.

HAS NO FRIENDS OR MONEY.

HAS BEEN COMMITTED TO THE CITY INDUSTRIAL HOME,

The Old Man is Utterly Friendless and Helpless and Was Living in Squalor and Filth Until Health Inspector Addis Called the Attention of Mayor Rockfellow to His Case.

In a squalid place that probably has no equal in this city, Isaac Bird, once wealthy and a man of influence, has been living for the past three months. The place is near the raceway back of French's mill. When a Press representative visited the place yesterday he found things in the worst possible condition. Two small rooms, with not one convenience to make life worth living, this aged man has occupied for sometime. For a time a divorced woman shared the misery of the hovel, but five weeks ago her somewhat dull sense of cleanliness was aroused and she departed for another place.

Mr. Bird is a veteran of the Civil War and since he left his native home near Mt Bethel he has been on the road to decline. He possesses a few things which were placed in his two rooms, and here he tried to eke out an existence the best he could. Occasionally someone would steal into his rooms and if they saw anything worth having they would walk away with it. This sort of thing has been going for sometime, until one day the attention of Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, agent for the Charity Organized Aid Association, was called to the matter. She learned he had been a soldier in the Civil War and thought possibly it was a case for the local G. A. R. The case was brought to their attention, but it was out of their jurisdiction. Overseer of the Poor Hansen was then spoken to, and after he investigated it thought that it was out of his realm, as he had heard that the man belonged to North Plainfield. Thus the case was allowed to drag along as best it could.

Finally, someone spoke to Health Inspector Addis, whose duties are to see that perfect sanitation is maintained. He visited Mr. Bird, and at once learned that he was in this city and should be cared for by Plainfield. He asked Mayor Rockfellow to accompany him to Bird's home, His Honor was surprised beyond measure at what he saw. He at once summoned Overseer Hansen to his office and gave him instructions as to what to do. He told him to take the man from that place, remove him to the industrial home, buy him a suit of clothes, and see that he had a good bath.

The man was taken to the Home yesterday, but in a little while he got away and was found on Greenbrook road. He objected to going back, saying that he could not pay rent for both places. Mr. Bird's mind is somewhat upset at times. He now has a good home and he will be taken care of.

Valuable papers belonging to him have been found, and a gold watch, which was stolen, has been recovered. It is understood he has daughters living in the west who are wealthy, but they never communicate with their father.

It has been learned that Mr. Bird is drawing a pension of $12 per month, and this money will be used to keep him comfortable and he will not now be in want.

SERVED IN WRONG COUNTY.

Summons Issued in a Contract Case Was Defective.

Non-suit was granted the defendant yesterday by Justice Schlick, of Scotch Plains, in the action brought by John C. Gerndandt, of Cranford, against George Conover, of North Plainfield, on a contract. The non-suit was granted on the ground that the proceedings were illegal and that the summons was issued in Somerset county instead of Union county. Wm. G. DeMeza appeared for the defendant.

Granddaughter of Old Resident Married.

The older town residents will be interested in the announcement of the marriage Saturday, June 17th, at 1405 Pacific street, Brooklyn, by Rev. William B. Cary, uncle of the bride, Katharyn Frederika VanVleck to Alfred D'Arcy McClellan Pearce. The bride is a granddaughter of Judge Cary who, many years ago, was the owner and occupant of the place now known as "Tunlaw," the home of former Mayor John F. Wilson.

'TWAS NINETY-NINE'S TURN LAST NIGHT.

Class Day Exercises Held in Both High Schools.

INTERESTING PROGRAMMES

PLAINFIELD CELEBRATED THE OCCASION WITH POETRY AND SONG.

The Borough Graduates Gave Tableaux and a Burlesque and Were Very Successful—Many Attended Both Class Day Exercises and Were Well Pleased With Them—Plainfield's Exercises Delayed.

The Class of '99 of the Plainfield High School had a thunder storm to contend with last evening, and it wasn't until nearly 9 o'clock that they managed to rally their forces sufficiently to begin the Class Day exercises. Class Day was observed in the Franklin building. An audience of nearly 200 people waited patiently and then found much to gratify them in the programme.

The hall was bright with the class colors, red and white, and a huge class banner. The young women of the class were all gowned in white trimmed with red.

The programme opened with a vocal solo by Miss Mary Collier. Then came a very remarkable history of the class by Miss Jessie Pruden. After a recitation by Miss Euphemia Demarest, the class sang "The Model Class," composed for the occasion.

A reading by Miss Bessie Fitz Randolph was followed by "Our Class Alphabet," written and read by William Morgan. It was full of hits on both teachers and pupils and was received with loud applause. Then came a vocal duet by Miss Angie Kuhl and Miss Mary Collier.

Miss Helen Lovell related all the wonderful stunts that the various members of the class were going to perform in the future, having had a glimpse into that State, thanks to the High School ghost.

A number of apt quotations for the various teachers, pupils and classes of the High School, were read by Miss Bertha Jenkins. Nobody was spared. The exercises closed with a class medley, arranged by Miss Angie Kuhl and sung by the class.

IN THE BOROUGH.

Class Day Exercises of the Graduates Across the Brook.

The Borough Public High School was well filled last evening with an appreciative audience that thoroughly enjoyed the annual class day exercises given under the direction of Superintendent Wightman and the Misses Crowther and Petrie, who arranged it. The platform was tastefully decorated with greens, flowers, while the graduating class color, purple and white were used with pleasing effect.

After an opening selection by Andrew G. Carpenter's orchestra, the class history was read by Miss Rita Pond, who is the valedictorian of her class. It proved to be a highly interesting paper.

Following this Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women," was given in a finished manner. Miss Rita Pond was the reader, and those who took the various parts are as follows: "Helen of Troy," Isabel Milne; "Iphegenia," Mary Hoagland; "Cleopatra," Grace Emmons; "Jephtha's Daughter," Emma Line; "Rosamond," Katherine Dwight; "Eleanor," Amiee Emmons; "Antigone," Bessie Martin; "Joan of Arc," Evelyn Simonson; "Eleanor, wife of Edward I," Edna Bowers.

Other selections were given by the orchestra and interspersed by "The Class Prophecy" by Douglass Drake, which was very amusing, and "The Class Will," by Miss Emma Line, which was a feature of the event. After another selection by the orchestra, "Lochinvar," (burlesque), was given by the scholars. Miss Emma Line was the reader and Miss Nellie Valiant presided at the piano. Those who took the various parts are as follows: "Lochinvar," Arthur Smith; "Bride," Grace Emmons; "Groom," Douglass Drake; "Mother," Winifred Carroll; "Father," Fred Overton; "Minister," Chas. Bryan; bridemaids, Elizabeth Curtis, Dora Waring, Grace Osgood, Marie Honeycutt, Aimee Emmons, Isabel Milne; groomsmen, Morgan Townsend, Kerre Knox, Fred Emmel, Donald McGee and Roland Horne. All those taking part were were costumed and the audience showed its appreciation of the presentation. The final number was the "Charge of the Rough Riders," by a number of the scholars.

THE OLD WAY.

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion By Dieting a Dangerous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really, it is a very common one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quanity usually taken, in other words the starvation plan is supposed by many to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure has been proven time and time again, but still the moment dyspepsia make its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ, every nerve and every fibre in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome well cooked food, and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50 cents for full sized package at all drug stores.

YELLOW FEVER IN MEXICO

Disease Spreading Among the Villages on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

MANY DEATHS REPORTED

The Deadly Disease Again Makes Its Appearance Among American Coffee Growers.

Strict Quarantine Regulations Are Speedily Established—Many Persons Exposed to the Disease Are Said to Have Escaped to This Side of the Border.

Austin, Tex., June 21.—The State Health Department has received information that yellow fever has made its appearance on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, Mex. There have been a number of deaths from the disease in the City of Tehuantepec, and the epidemic is rapidly spreading to all of the towns and villages in that section. There are several large American colonies of coffee growers located on the isthmus, and it is reported that the disease has already made its appearance among them. The majority of these colonists are from Ohio, Indiana and other central states.

It is reported that many persons exposed to the disease escaped to the United States before quarantine regulations could be established and much excitement prevails along the border for those who have had experience in past years know how rapidly yellow fever spreads and how fatal the results of its ravages are when it once gets started. Several refugees from the stricken districts in Mexico arrived in this city, but were taken in hand by officers and sent back to their homes under guard. Six other refugees made a pretense of going to Galatin to visit relatives, but on their arrival they found that the board of health had been informed of their coming and they were promptly hustled off to the pest house where they will be kept until the proper length of time has elapsed for yellow fever to develop.

Every town along the Mexican border is being carefully guarded to prevent the possible spread of the disease, but in spite of this fact the State Board of Health expresses grave fears that it will break out on this side, as it is practically impossible to keep all of the refugees out.

Congressman Hull's Opinion.

Vancouver, B. C., June 21.—Congressman Sereno E. Payne, member of the joint high commission, and chairman of the ways and means committee; Congressman Hull, chairman of the military committee, and Congressman Steele, of Indiana, and Heatwole, of Minnesota, left here for Seattle. They will sail by the steamer Queen from Seattle, joining Senator Fairbanks in Alaska. Congressman Hull, when approached for an interview, said but a few words, in effect that it was his opinion 100,000 soldiers should be sent to the Philippines to wind up matters, as there was danger in the prolongation of hostilities.

Two Men Hurled to Death.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 21.—Two men were killed at Schalk's Station by an eastbound Pennsylvania express. The men were Walter Day, an employe of the road, and a fellow workman, whose name is not given. They stepped from one track to avoid a freight and were struck by the express. One was hurled to the right, the other to the left. Both were killed instantly. Day's father was killed at the same station a few years ago.

Mob Broke Up Meeting.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 21.—The police authorities have received a telephone message from Jacob Taylor, of New Carlisle, saying that a mob had attacked the Holiness Christian Association, which was holding a camp meeting at Laporte, conducted by the Rev. J. T. Miller, of Indianapolis, and had dispersed the congregation by tearing down the tent, the shooting of revolvers and assaults upon the leaders.

The Turk Failed.

Omaha, Neb., June 21.—At Boyd's Opera House Hall Adali, the Turk, failed to take two falls each out of Farmer Burns, Bert Scheller and Dave Baldwin, the latter a local athlete in 90 minutes. Baldwin lasted 2½ and 14 minutes respectively; Schiller 4½ and 6, Burns occupied the Turk's attention 15 minutes in the first bout and 45 seconds in the second, the time expiring before the farmer was disposed of.

Ohio Town Badly Flooded.

Mansfield, O., June 21.—A remarkable electric storm swept Mansfield and did great damage. It was impossible to reach the railroad depots even with horses. A number of small dwellings were washed from their foundations. Every factory in the city except one is flooded. The street car power house has been drowned out and the cars stopped.

Vote on Federation.

Sydney, N. S. W., June 21.—The Australian colonies are voting on the federation question. The struggle is most acute in New South Wales. Incomplete returns in this colony up to the present show 100,034 votes in favor of federation and 78,239 against it.

RUSSIAN TO SUE MEXICO

Baron de Loudon Wants $100,000 Damages for Imprisonment.

Tampico, Mexico, June 21.—Baron de Loudon, of Rusia, has left here for the City of Mexico, where he goes on the advice of the Russian Minister to bring suit against the Mexican Government for $100,000 damages for imprisonment in the Port of Tuzpam without grounds. It appears that the baron, through ignorance of the laws or the customs of the port, sailed into and out of the harbor of Tuzpam in his private yacht for the purpose of getting food for one of the quarantined vessels of the National line of steamers without having authority or papers to cover his actions. For this reason he was arrested, placed in jail and fined $500. He immediately wired the Russian Minister at Mexico, who advised that the baron had better come to Mexico at once and institute proceedings against the government to recover damages.

Americans Lost in Australia.

Vancouver, B. C., June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Byers, said to be American tourists, left Melbourne, Australia, on an oppossum hunt, and, a blinding snow storm coming on, became lost. Mr. Byers left his wife in a sheltered spot to get help. Not returning, Mrs. Byers started to look for him. She wandered about in a wild country eight days, having nothing to eat but fern roots and nettles and one dead opossum. She was attacked by wild dogs, and climbed a tree to escape them. When the dogs ran after some wallabies she commenced her weary tramp again. Reaching the river, she spied a boat drawn up on the bank, and laid down by its side to wait for the owner, who came almost too late. Her husband perished in the snow.

Cayenne Pepper in Eyes.

Danbury, Conn., June 21.—The police of this city are looking for a tall man dressed in black who attempted to destroy the sight of a young woman last night by throwing into her face a handful of cayenne pepper, with which he had mixed many of the sharp steel points of needles.

The young woman was Miss Ollie Richmond, who lives with her brother-in-law, William Slade, at 373 Main street. She was about to enter her home when the man seized her from behind, and, drawing her head back upon his shoulder, threw the pepper into her upturned face.

Alabaman Killed by a Train.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., June 21.—As W. E. Lingood, night clerk at the Quinn Hotel, and J. B. Ellis, of Bailey Springs, Ala., were walking down the switch yards, they were passed by a switch train. While this train was passing another train was backing up from the rear, which they could not hear. Both men were hit by it. Lingood was knocked between the tracks and escaped with only a few bruises, but Ellis had both legs badly crushed, and died in two hours.

Wild Storm in New York.

Middletown, N. Y., June 21.—There was a terrible wind and rain storm throughout this section of the State late yesterday afternoon. There was thunder, lightning and hail to complete the effect. The rain fell in torrents and caused serious floods. Telegraph and telephone poles were blown down, trees uprooted and houses injured. Lightning also is reported to have struck several houses.

Capt. Dreyfus's Return.

Paris, June 21.—The family of Capt. Dreyfus has been informed that he will land in France some time in the course of the night of June 24 or early on June 25. Upon debarking Dreyfus will go direct to Rennes. None of the family will be present when he lands. It is announced that the court-martial of Dreyfus at Rennes will be public.

Mexican Mine Disaster.

Chihuahua, Mex., June 21.—Santo Domingo mine caved in, burying twenty-six miners, none of whom have been rescued. Another cave-in occurred, which, it is believed, will make relief impossible. The disaster was caused by stopping too far in advance of the timbering. This mine belongs to the Chihuahua Mining Company, of New York.

No Call for Volunteers.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—It is announced by a high official of the administration that there will be no call for volunteers to serve in the Philippines. All the men needed will be enlisted in the regular army, and will be drilled for this work.

The Chesapeake Launched.

Bath, Me., June 21.—The United States practice vessel Chesapeake was launched from the Bath Iron Works Yard. She was christened with American champagne by Miss Elise Bradford daughter of Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment at Washington.

Little Girl Attacked.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 21.—A negro criminally assaulted a twelve-year-old daughter of Andrew Bell, a farmer residing near Soddy, this county. The girl was struck on the head by the brute and knocked senseless. If the fellow is caught there is sure to be a lynching.

Three Bathers Drowned.

Galveston, Texas, June 21.—While a party of 13 young folks were in bathing at the foot of Broadway the undercurrent swept them out into deep water. All were rescued but Etta Thorn, aged 14; Marian Howard, 18, and Irene Lauderdale, 16.

Fought a Duel Naked.

Pulaski, Va., June 21.—At Wygals John Raines and Madison Pratt, aged nineteen, quarreled while swimming. Both left the water, ran to their clothing, secured revolvers and began firing. Pratt was killed by the second shot. Raines also died of his injuries.

Jockey Reiff Wins a Race.

London, June 21.—At the first day of the Gatwick summer meeting Mr. A. Bailey's 2-year-old chestnut colt North Crawley, ridden by L. Reiff, the American jockey, won the Crow Plate.

WILL BE HARD TO REACH.

The Filipino Army Thought to Have Retreated to Buena Vista.

RETREAT IS WESTWARD.

A Recent Disastrous and Fatal Mistake of the Enemy Not Very Likely to be Repeated.

Buena Vista Only to be Reached by Traveling Mere Bridal Paths—General Wheaton Occupies Desmarinas After Slight Resistance on the Part of the Filipinos.

Manila, P. I., June 21.—General Wheaton reports that he occupied Perez Dasmarinas after slight opposition on the part of the enemy. The town was found to be deserted. It is a miserable, worthless village, surrounded by swamps and altogether so valueless a place that it is not deemed advisable to hold it.

Gen. Wheaton goes to Buena Vista where it is reported that the natives have reestablished the arsenal and powder mill which they removed from Imus. A reconnoisance will be necessary to develop the position of the enemy. The reconcentration of the insurgents and their apparent willingness to attack Imus furnish another illustration of the remarkable recuperative powers which the Filipinos have shown upon several occasions. The demoralization of the enemy after their defeat at Zapote bridge seemed complete, but they have already recovered and the force opposing Gen. Wheaton comprises practically the entire insurgent army in the Cavite province.

The country south of Imus is composed of rice fields, sloughs and bamboo swamps, making it very difficult for the Americans to cover, though comparatively easy for the Filipinos.

Washington, June 21.—A study of the situation near Perez Dasmarinas has convinced army officers at the War Department that the Filipinos will not repeat their error of retreating along a main highway, as they did from Imus several days ago. There are several important towns south of Imus to which the enemy could flee, but they are nearly all reached by wagon roads and the American forces can approach with artillery. It is considered more probable that when the Americans entered Perez Dasmarinas the enemy retreated westward, the next town being Buena Vista, which, like Dasmarinas, has a barrocks of masonry. Buena Vista is a difficult place to reach. From Dasmarinas it is necessary to ford three rivers and travel over mere bridle-paths to reach the town.

Watson Hoists His Flag.

Manila, June 21.—Rear Admiral John C. Watson arrived here on board the United States transport Zafiro from

REAR ADMIRAL WATSON.

Hong Kong, and raised his flag on the United States cruiser Baltimore. The commanders of all the warships called upon the Admiral during the course of the day.

Got Tired of Living.

Vicksburg, Miss., June 21.—Bernard Kilgaraff, a native of Ireland, a resident of this city for the past fourteen years, aged about 57 years, was found in his room with his throat cut from ear to ear. A razor was in his hand. It is thought that he had been dead two or three hours. Years ago he lost both feet in a railroad accident and walked on his stub legs. He has been in bad health for some time. He leaves a sister and brother at some place in Iowa. His estate is thought to be worth about $10,000.

Smallpox Scare Abating.

Farmington, Mo., June 21.—The smallpox panic, which has been on here for several days, is abating. The county court and the city quarantine has been removed. No one from the lead district is allowed to enter the county except after complying with the state law. The report that there is smallpox in Farmington proves to be untrue, the disease being confined to the Flat River district and Elvino.

Sued Teacher for Whipping Boy.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—Justice Garretson is hearing a trial in the Supreme Court of a suit brought by Samuel H. Weeks, as guardian, in behalf of his son, George E. Weeks, a fourteen-year-old schoolboy, against Prof. Guerdon R. Miller, principal of the Matteawan school, in which $1,000 damages is claimed for a whipping administered to the boy.

No Hope of Saving Paris.

Falmouth, England, June 21.—A heavy southerly gale which has prevailed here for twenty-four hours has compelled the salvers to desert the American Line steamship Paris, now aground on the Manacle rocks. It is likely that the vessel will be forced further ashore and broken in two.

Is Young, But a Big Boy.

Gallipolis, Ohio, June 21.—Charles Wiseman, of this county, is 15 years of age, is six feet tall and weighs 250 pounds. Notwithstanding his gigantic stature he is as agile and active as a boy of ordinary physique.

A New York literary man relates that he recently had occasion to consult a well-known physician for a stomach trouble which was pronounced a type of dyspepsia. "After consultation," he writes, "the Doctor gave me a prescription, and I was somewhat surprised to note that the formula was nearly identical with that of

for which I had, on more than one occasion, prepared advertising matter. I had the prescription filled, and it proved satisfactory, giving quick relief. A week later, when I had taken all the medicine, I again called on the Doctor and mentioned the similarity of his prescription and the proprietary remedy spoken of, showing him both the remedy itself and the formula. The Doctor was at first somewhat inclined to criticise what he called patent medicines, but appeared to be surprised when he noted to what extent his own prescription conformed to the formula I showed him. It was practically the same. After a short time devoted to noting the careful manner in which the proprietary medicine was prepared, he wound up by prescribing it for my case. Of course I had to pay him for telling me to do this, but it was worth the cost to have such high professional assurance that the advertised article was, in fact, the scientific formula that it purported to be. I might have taken the proprietary medicine in the beginning and saved the Doctor's fee, but I think the confidence I have acquired in the efficacy of the remedy, through the Doctor's indorsement of it, is well worth the fee."

To the Sick.

Indisputable Facts.

Disease, fermentation and decay are caused by microbes and germ life; when these organic pests are destroyed there can be no sickness.

Antiseptics are so called because they destroy microbes; surgeons always use antiseptics in performing dangerous operations.

Carbolic acid is a common antiseptic, but is poisonous if taken into the system strong enough to destroy the germs of disease.

Radam's Microbe Killer, composed of GASES, is an antiseptic, perfectly harmless to the human body, but doubly powerful in destroying disease if faithfully applied. Physicians frequently use Microbe Killer in treating Cancers, and recommend it for Catarrh, Tuberculosis, etc.; others know it to be invaluable in Bright's Disease and Bladder Troubles.

Fermentation of food in the stomach causes Dyspepsia, Sourness, etc.; Radam's Microbe Killer destroys the CAUSE and sweetens the stomach.

Impoverished blood is the home of germ life; when pure it is the fountain of life, the source of all health and vigor.

Radam's Microbe Killer is the only rational remedy for all diseases; its antiseptic power eradicates every disease from the human body.

These facts are incontrovertible, and we invite the fullest investigation by all interested people, professional or otherwise.

We would like to mail you, absolutely free, a book containing testimonials and advice.

Two Feet of Pain.

Pain is not usually measured by the foot, yet it is a fact that the unfortunates who suffer the miseries of aching feet endure an inch of torture to every square inch of foot they own.

Pain of any kind causes a strain up on the nervous system, and if prolonged and unchecked will create depression of spirits and despondency.

Aching feet are vexatious, aggravating and irritating, and nothing is more annoying than feet deformed and distorted from corns and bunions. Mr. Brown's painless method for the treatment and cure of corns, bunions, ingrowing and club toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty, chafed and burning feet, is endorsed by all eminent physicians He has made diseases of the feet a life study. Corns, bunions and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago in Plainfield have not come back and the feet today are sound and well Read the proof:

D. S. Scheuer, grocer, Front St; H. A. Weber, grocer, Liberty and Second streets; S. Sharkey, grocer, Third and Richmond streets; G. Voehl, bakery, 147 Front street; F. R. Vanderhoof, at F. Endress' meat market, Front street, and many others had corns, bunions, and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago; no trouble since. Albert Runyon, 41 Mountain avenue; J. Q. Miles, J. P., 28 Somerset street; F. Cullen, and Mrs. Cullen, 1001 Second street; Mrs. M. C. Terry, 331 East Third street; J. D. Smalley, meat market, 153 Front street; H. L. Overbaugh, 118 Elmwood place; W. W. Warnock, bakery, 138 North avenue; J. J. Stites, blacksmith, Dunellen; and hundreds of others say that Mr. Brown completely cured their bunions, ingrowing toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty and tender feet, etc. They all say the treatment was painless; no soreness after.

HE FIRED INTO THE CROWD

Non-Union Motorman Seeks Satisfaction With a Gun at Cleveland.

MORE SERIOUS RIOTING.

Policemen Appear on the Scene of Hostilities After the Serious Trouble Has Subsided.

Conductor and Motorman Desert a Car That is Attacked by Strikers—Frightened Passengers Flee For Safety—City Council Trying to Settle the Strike.

Cleveland, O., June 21.—A Wilson avenue car was attacked by 100 strikers, and before the trouble was ended a considerable amount of damage was done. The air was full of bricks and stones, and all the windows in the car were smashed. The five passengers aboard scampered out in a badly frightened condition. The conductor, a non-union man, was struck several times. A brick hit the motorman, who pulled out a revolver and shot three times into the crowd. Then he put on the power and was soon out of reach of the crowd with his car.

Policemen at the Kennard street barn of the Central line heard the shooting, but when they arrived at Wilson avenue the trouble was over. George Burg, who lives at Central and Greenwood avenues, was struck in the leg by one of the motorman's bullets. He was taken home in a buggy.

Charles Webster, the motorman who fired into the crowd, was arrested a half-hour afterward, charged with shooting with intent to wound.

There were numerous other assaults and some of them were of a very serious nature. A letter carrier riding on a Euclid avenue car was struck with a brick and his face badly cut. A motorman on a Scovil car was assaulted by three passengers, who escaped before they could be arrested. A mob of 1,000 persons gathered in Perkins avenue and threatened violence to non-union motormen and conductors.

A car on Central avenue was stoned and the motorman and conductor deserted it.

There have been two conferences in progress looking toward a settlement of the street railway strike. One was a meeting of a special City Council committee, held in the City Hall, and the other a conference of business men, at the Chamber of Commerce. Both committees are merely advisory, and each will send delegations to the Big Consolidated urging a conference between the company and the strikers. Five lines of the company are running without interruption, and an effort will be made to operate the South side lines.

It is on the South side that all the serious rioting has taken place, and it is here that further trouble is expected. There are 100 policemen on guard at Clark avenue and Pearl street, waiting for trouble.

The first two cars started passed Clark avenue and Pearl street in safety and others followed. The strong police guard prevented rioting.

The Council committee has determined to ask the strikers to present their grievance in writing to the committee at a special meeting.

Employes of the Akron & Cuyahoga Falls Rapid Transit Company have also declared a strike. The strike affects about seventy-five men, including motormen, conductors, trackmen, linemen, engineers and firemen. The issue is one of wages.

Fort Pickens Afire.

Washington, June 21.—Secretary Long has received a despatch from Capt. Reisinger, commandant of the Pensacola (Fla.) Navy Yard, which says:

"Fire and heavy explosion at Port Pickens. Have sent fire apparatus and working force to assist."

Fort Pickens is one of the defenses in Pensacola Harbor. Fort Baronicas and Warrington being the others. Batteries H and L First Artillery, are stationed at Baronicas and Pickens.

Cashier Hough Surrenders.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 21.—Harry Hough, the cashier of the Cocheco National Bank of Dover, who, it is alleged walked off on June 3 with more than $10,000 in securities belonging to the bank, and left behind evidences that nearly $65,000 more was missing, was arrested in Boston and brought to this city. The arrest was pre-arranged. Hough was held on the specific charge of grand larceny in taking $10,000 on June 3 and appropriating the sum to his own use.

Big Rise in the Mississippi.

Dubuque, Ia., June 21.—There is an extraordinary rise in the Mississippi River, and the water is within a foot of the danger line. Lowlands are submerged and tributary streams are overflowing their banks. Back water from the river has caused much damage. The high water is encroaching on factories on the river front. The Grant River has overflowed its banks, ruining crops and driving lowland dwellers out of their homes.

Woman Shot May Die.

Salem, N. J., June 21.—Thomas Connally is in jail at this place and may have to answer to a charge of murder for shooting Mrs. Sadie Heins of Bridgeton, because she refused his offer of marriage. Connally was arrested and lodged in the county jail. Mrs. Heins made an ante-mortem statement charging Connally with deliberately shooting her because she refused to marry him.

Federal Ink Company.

Trenton, N. J., June 21.—The Federal Printing Ink Company, with a capitalization of $20,000,000, has been incorporated in the office of the Secretary of State. The capital is divided into 200,000 shares of a par value of $100 each, 40,000 shares to be preferred bearing interest an annual cumulative interest of 7 per cent.

SCHLEY-HODGSON.

Rear Admiral Schley Says It Is an Oft Repeated Calumny.

Washington, June 21.—Rear Admiral Schley characterized as an "oft-repeated calumny" the alleged colloquy between himself and Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson, of the Brooklyn, on board that vessel in the fight with Cervera's squadron.

This statement of the Rear Admiral appears in a statement sent to the Navy Department by Captain F. E. Chadwick, of the New York, who had been asked by Secretary Long to ascertain the facts. The record is signed by Captain Chadwick and Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson. In his report the Lieutenant-Commander says that he "wrote a denial of the colloquy, certainly not intending to say that no such colloquy occurred, but that it did not occur as printed." He says that his object was "to refute the fact of any controversy existing at a critical stage of the battle."

In a Deplorable Condition.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—J. Poke Brown, President of the State Agricultural Society of Georgia, was a witness before the Industrial Commission. Mr. Brown thought the condition of the Southern farmer was deplorable. He thought this was due to the national banking system. In order to put in their crops after the civil war the Southern farmers were unable to borrow money on their land and they were compelled to give liens on their cotton crops, this being the only collateral they had. In consequence they fell into the habit of raising cotton, and although the cotton has decreased in value, steadily, it is the only crop they raise.

The presence of the negro, he thought, was the great drawback to agriculture in the South, as the negroes would not accustom themselves to the use of modern agricultural implements and methods. He thought Congress ought to appropriate $300,000,000 for the purpose of colonizing the negres in some other country, and spoke of the success of the Fitzgerald colony in Georgia.

Captain Coghlan to Stay.

Washington, June 21.—The orders assigning Capt. Joseph B. Coghlan to the command of the Puget Sound Naval station will not be carried into effect, and Capt. Coghlan will continue to perform the duty of inspecting torpedoes boats, to which he was assigned temporarily to fill in the time until he was to assume his duties at the naval station. This change is due to the decision of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy which will prevent the voluntary retirement this year of Capt. James E. Green, the present commandant at Puget Sound. Capt. Green applied for retirement and it was expected that he would be placed on the inactive list on July 1. The Judge Advocate General has decided, however, that owing to vacancies in the line caused by retirements and deaths no Captains can be retired this year. The order detaching Capt. Green from the command of the station has accordingly been revoked.

Train Robbers in Custody.

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 21.—Three men answering the description of the Curry gang, who dynamited and robbed the Union Pacific mail train on June 2, were arrested at Riverside Yellowstone National Park, by Deputy Morrison and a posse. The men are now being taken to Fort Yellowstone for examination.

Should the men captured by Deputy Morrison prove not to be the robbers, the chase will be pushed with increased vigor. The Union Pacific Railway Company has decided to spend $100,000 in running down the bandits.

Ohio Sues an Oil Company.

Columbus, June 21.—Attorney General Monnett, for the state, filed suit in the Common Pleas Court yesterday against the Manhattan Oil Company of Lima for $100,000 damages for alleged trespassing on state lands. The petition alleges that the state owns 360 acres of valuable oil lands in Mercer County and that in 1894 the defendant company entered upon the land without authority and drilled a number of wells. The state asserts that the defendants have taken crude petroleum worth at least $100,000.

O. G. Athey Seriously Injured.

Quincy, Ill., June 21.—O. G. Athey, of Vinita, I. T., arrived here with a car load of horses. While passing along the track with a bucket of water, he was struck and run over by a switch engine. He was taken to the Blessling Hospital for treatment, and it was found necessary to amputate both of his legs. He is in a very low condition, and the chances of his recovery are doubtful.

Boy Drowned in the River.

New York, June 21.—Bella Anderson, the nurse girl, who assisted in the kidnapping of Marion Clark has been taken to Auburn prison to serve four years for her part in the crime.

Maybe the grocer is "just out of Ivory Soap but has another, he thinks, is just as good." No other soap is just as good. Insist that he get Ivory Soap for you.

A WORD OF WARNING.—There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

GEN. WOOD IN NEW YORK

The Military Governor of Santiago Has a Word to Say.

New York, June 21.—Brig.-General Leonard Wood, Military Governor of the province of Santiago has arrived here. Mrs. Wood and two children are with him.

Gen. Wood returned to the United States under an order from the Secretary of War, which directed him to report in person to the Secretary not later than June 23. It was suggested to the General that his recall might have been ordered so that the Governor-Generalship of Cuba might be offered to him, and his attention was called to a report recently published that Gen. Brooke, being anxious to be relieved, was to be succeeded by Gen. Wood.

"I'm sure I know nothing about any such rumor," said the General. "I heard some such report a long time ago, but that's old now. The Secretary knows what he wants me for, I don't."

"How about yellow fever and other contagious diseases in Santiago?" the reporter asked.

"There is no yellow fever in the province and no other contagious disease," was the answer. "Santiago is all right. All we want is a chance to earn an honest living down there and an opportunity to go to school and we'll get along all right."

It is said that Brig-General Wood has been offered the presidency of the Washington Traction and Electric Company of Washington, D. C., and that he may accept. Should he accept, he will receive $30,000 a year salary.

Democratic Campaign Fund.

Omaha, Neb., June 21.—In a call for a national campaign fund for 1900 the World-Herald says: "To-morrow the World-Herald will start a fund for the use of the Democratic national campaign committee. This fund is needed by the committee in the educational work of preparing for the great presidential campaign of 1900.

"The national committee went through the campaign of 1896 almost without money. It will have little or no money in 1900 unless systematic work is carried on to raise it in small subscriptions all over the country.

"The corporate wealth of the country was in 1896, and will be in 1900, arrayed upon the Republican side. Indeed, the phenomenal growth of great trusts during the last two years insures to the Republicans a large campaign fund than ever. This fund can be silently and suddenly raised."

Payne to Remain Chairman.

Chicago, June 21.—While Congressman D. B. Henderson of Iowa, candidate for speaker of the house of representatives; Congresman Joseph W. Babcock of Wisconsin, chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, and Congressman James A. Tawney of Minnesota; member of the house committee on ways and means of the fifty-sixth congress, were in the city they talked over in an informal way the makeup of committees of the house for the next congress.

It is understood that, aside from the chairmanship of the committee on ways and means, Col. Henderson did not commit himself, but on that one matter he did say that Congressman Sereno E. Payne of New York, who was a candidate for the speakership, will remain at the head of the committee."

$16,666 for His Child's Leg.

New York, June 21.—One of the biggest verdicts that have been awarded in a trolley accident in Brooklyn was returned in the County Court in an action against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The sum of $16,666 was awarded to the father of Emma Hicks of No. 198 Hamburg avenue for the loss of a leg. She is ten years old, and attended a public school near her home. On June 14, 1898, when school was dismissed she ran out of the building with several other children and attempted to cross the street. The trolley car ran her down and her leg had to be amputated. Her father John H. Hicks, sued the company for $50,000.

Bank President a Suicide.

Burr Oak, Mich., June 21.—John T. Holmes, President of the State Bank and one of the wealthiest men in the county, made an unsuccessful attempt to kill his wife. Mrs. Holmes was shortly cruised where he jabbed the point of the revolver against her face.

Holmes later went into his bank and was noticed to be acting strangely. He soon had convulsions and died in a short time.

John W. Gates for Senator.

Chicago, June 21.—John W. Gates, president of the American Steel and Wire Company, is announced by political friends as a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Shelby M. Cullom. In making the announcement informally, it was said many people in Illinois felt that the state would be better served with a manufacturer in the upper house of congress.

Morrissey Quit in First Round.

New York, June 21.—Mike Morrissy made a sorry showing in front of Peter Maher, at the Lenox Athletic Club. The "Irish Champion" went down from a grazing blow on the jaw in the first round and quit. He was not knocked out. Over 4,000 people witnessed the affair.

The Siamang.

The gentle siamang is a gibbon and no monkey. In assemblages on the treetops live the siamang, whooping through the octaves, calling to their friends from miles away, and swooping off to meet them, racing steeplechases with the winds. I have seen, and hope to live to see again, says a writer in Blackwoods Magazine, a pack of the siamang going through the jungle—a long black arm and a small crumpled body swinging wildly from it like a pendulum run mad, then a suicidal fling, a crash in the covering green, and so they are gone.

Tame they are the gentlest creatures. The Malays catch the young ones and bring them to our doors, knowing that buy we must. It is not among the possibilities for a Mem to resist the forlorn small speechless thing, when it winds its long arms and fingers around her neck, and hides its black wrinkled face of an old woman, with round unhappy eyes, in the softness of her morning gown. Or it lurches across the veranda on a pair of very bandy little legs, ballancing itself with outstretched arms. But they always die. They who have weathered torrential rains under the open heaven die in captivity of consumption, and cough out their ill-comprehended souls like Christians, buddled in a blanket.

Trees and Thunderstorms.

It is useful to know what kind of trees are most likely to be struck by lightning, because trees afford shelter in thunderstorms, though a dangerous refuge, and they often grow near buildings. According to Mr. Alexander McAdie, the eminent meteorologist, the order of liability to be struck is represented by the following figures: Oak, 54; trees collectively—that is, in a clump, 40; tall pine trees, 15, and beech, 1. The oak is therefore the worst and the beech the best shelter. After rain trees are not so apt to split with the stroke as before it.

The origin of the modern circus dates back to about 1770, when Philip Astley, a discharged soldier, gave exhibitions of horsemanship in an improvised ring at Lambeth.

Fumigation of fruit trees infested with the San Jose scale by the use of the gas of prussic acid is a remedy which is now said to be certainly effective.

Pekin is a city of dust, like most Chinese towns. Nevertheless, the only stores that have glass windows are those of the watchmakers.

If all the railway tunnels of the world were placed end to end they would reach a distance of 514 miles. They number about 1142.

The largest telescope in existence does not make the planet Mars appear any bigger than the moon does through an opera glass.

The guinea pig grows more quickly than any other quadruped. It is fully grown when six weeks old.

The heart beats ten strokes a minute less when one is lying down than when in an upright posture.

Provided with constitutional machinery and a competent set of officers the Plainfield Advancement Association is now in a position to do aggressive and effective work for the best interests of the community. However, results cannot be accomplished alone by the comparatively small coterie tnat has undertaken the leadership; good work depends upon every citizen interesting himself, or herself, (for the women are indispensible in the progress of a city) in the efforts to improve present conditions whenever it is possible.

Governor Sayers, of Texas, is much encouraged with the prospects of a large attendance of Governors and Attorney's General at the anti-trust conference in St. Louis on September 20th. Up to this time seventeen Governors have responded to his invitation to attend the proposed conference. Of that number thirteen are outspoken in favor of the anti-trust measure, three are non-committal and one is opposed to anti-trust legislation.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Senator Reed, of Somerset county, wears another plume in his liberty cap. He has secured the appointment of George W. Cooper as postmaster of Somerville, notwithstanding the opposition of former Senator Thompson. The latter has long been the Republican leader in Somerset county, but it now looks as if he would be constrained to yield to the superior forces and generalship of the younger man.—Elizabeth Journal.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

William D. Williams, of Duer street, a member of the Society of Friends, writes to The Daily Press to say that they are known technically as the Society of Liberal Friends rather than as the Orthodox Friends, as noted in the item printed the other day with reference to the gilt sign placed on the meeting house on Watchung avenue.

* * * * *

Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, has been keeping watch on a number of Plainfielders who persisted in using a garden hose out of the prescribed hours, and now they are sorry they violated the rules, for they are without city water. Mr. Andrews shut the water off in several cases, and where they had paid the rent recently the money was refunded to them. This ought to prove a good lesson to others.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS

CLASS OF '79 OF HIGH SCHOOL HELD A REUNION LAST NIGHT.

Out of a Class of Eighteen Only Two Are Dead—Entertained in a Pleasant Way by Mr. and Mrs. George Titsworth.

The class of '79, Plainfield High School and their friends were entertained most pleasantly at a re-union held last evening by invitation of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Titsworth, of 415 West Seventh street.

Twenty years ago eighteen members were graduated and sixteen are still living, seven of whom were present: Miss Anna D. Cooper, Mrs. Carrie Ketcham Smith, Mrs. Aline Randolph French, Messrs. Felix G. Fezandie, C. Palmer Hull, Jr., Harry G. Munger and George B. Titsworth.

Words of greeting and regrets were read from Mrs. Emma Cadmus Karner, Mrs. Mary Gardner Downs, Mrs. Addie Gillette Chamberlain, Mrs. Cora Smalley Leppa and Franklin B. Wiley.

During the evening Superintendent of Schools Prof. Henry M. Maxson spoke to the company, using as his subject "Progress" and his talk was most interesting.

Miss Cooper, beside reading a poem from the pen of Franklin B. Wiley, gave a choice selection which was well received.

Mrs. French read from papers which were particularly interesting to the classmate, while Franklin S. Smith read parts of Rolls of Honor from his scrap book as well as some verses written on a particular occasion by the late Julia R. Runyon, who was a graduate of the class.

After this informal programme the guests passed into the dining room where a dainty collation was served.

The house was decorared with pinks and roses and the class colors, cardinal and light blue, encased each napkin used. The class song and several other familiar tunes were sung during the evening.

Beside the classmates there were about twenty guests present and all returned to their homes feeling that an enjoyable evening had been spent with the class of '79.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 21—George Wittaker, a gardener employed by C. Frank Sykes, was bitten by a snake, one of the flat-headed adder species, while working around the garden yesterday morning. Mr. Wittaker has often encounteed the reptiles while at work and it has been his custum to catch them by their tail and with a sharp quick jerk snap their heads off. But while he was thinking of his favorite plan for the extermination of the reptiles, this one in particular, the snake finished thinking first and buried its fangs into his hands. Wittaker killed him, and came to the village for the sure cure for snake bites —Scotch Plains lightning. After imbibing enough to counteract the poison he returned to his work as usual.

that demonstrated the need of Plainfield making every effort to secure lower fares.

City Judge Runyon was called upon for a few remarks, and he responded in an interesting way. He championed the rights of the commuter element and said that it was a mistake to try to put the commuters in the background. To a large extent he said they are the backbone of the city and the borough, and it behooved the association, if it was to meet with proper success, to enlist the aid of every resident in the city, no matter whether his business was in Plainfield or New York.

After a few other remarks arrangements were made to hold the meetings in the Republican Association rooms on the third Tuesday of every month, and as much oftener as it was thought necessary.

W. S. Bullock, W. A. Coddington and Edward White were made a special committee of the association to serve with the general Fourth of July celebration committee.

A SECRET.

Would you learn a charming secret,
Litle maids and men?
Wil you make a solemn promise
Not to tell it then?

I overheard by accident
From across the way
A bluebird tell it to a friend
Just at the dawn of day.

High in the tall old willow tree
I won't tell, will you?
In her nest has Mrs. Robin
Two wee eggs of blue.

A KITE REGATTA.

An Exciting Form of Sport Enjoyed in Wisconsin.

There is an old time sport which is still carried on by the boys who live in the little town of Shawano, in Northern Wisconsin. In this town there is held each spring a kite regatta and prizes are offered for the winners. There are several races, and this is the way they are carried out.

There are two things necessary in this kind of sport. One is a light skiff or canoe, and the other is a lake or body of water large enough to sail it in. Each contestant in the race takes five kites, all of large size, and these are the only motor power used. First one kite is flown in the air, and after some fifty yards of twine have been paid out the end of the string is tied to one of the other kites. This is repeatedly until all of the kites are in the air, flying at a distance of about fifty yards apart. When this is done each contestant gets into his boat, and at a given signal all are off for a certain buoy or some other point agreed upon.

This may read like very tame sport on paper, but the real thing is plenty exciting enough to require the best kind of nerve and a cool head. If there is a heavy wind blowing it will be found necessary to have two boys in the boat—one to look after the kites and one to do the steering. Of course, it goes without saying that the strongest kind of twine must be used. In Shawano, where the sport has obtained a strong foothold, fish line is used, and for the last two or three kites three, four and five fish lines are twisted together. This sport is not without danger, and is no kind of amusement for a boy not accustomed to the handling of a boat or able to swim. It is uncertain sport, too, for, of course, it is necessary to have the wind favorable, but given the requirements, and there are all kinds of opportunity for skill and enjoyment.

"King's Ex!"

When children cross their fingers to keep from being tagged they do not know how people came to do this. Nearly 2,000 years ago all people believed in witches and other evil spirits, which could be kept from doing harm to them by some charm or other. When the Christian religion was born the early Christians at once thought that the surest way to keep these evil beings from casting a spell on them was to make the sign of the cross. They first did this by crossing the forefingers of the two hands, but this was unhandy, and, besides, was not quick enough, when, for instance, they all at once found somebody looking at them whom they thought has the "evil eye," which was an eye supposed to bring bad luck to every person on whom it looked. So they took to crossing the first two fingers of the right hand, just as you do when you are playing tag, when they were in a hurry, and this was so handy that they got to doing it altogether. This did not make a real cross, as using the forefingers of both hands did, but they thought it was just as well.

In some parts of the world, where the people do not know as much as we do, they still believe in witches and the "evil eye," and make this "sign of the cross to keep from being harmed, but for the most part it has come to be used in children's play, and is done when you do not wish to be "tagged." —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Toys of the Chinese Child.

Few indeed would be their playthings if the Chinese children had to depend on the toy shops for them. As it is, the hawker is a familiar sight in every Chinese city, and when the children hear the gong of a toy seller it is a signal for a rush to the front gates. At a call these men slip the pole from their shoulders and set their baskets on the ground, and there is always a group of children ready to gather around them.

A display of toys carried by one of these toy sellers includes many things familiar besides kites, made in the shape of birds, fish, serpents, dragons and even inanimate objects, like bells and houses, will have wind harps fastened on them to make them sing while in the air, and will have eyes set loose in the heads, so that when the wind blows the eyes will turn around and look as if they were winking at you.

His paraphernalia also includes a lot of clay molds of different kinds of animals, or fruits or other familiar objects, and for "one cash you can take your choice."

The seller then opens up the bottom tray in his rear basket, and shows a bowl of yellow sweets set over a pan of burning charcoal to keep them soft. He rubs a little flour in the mold to keep the sweet from sticking, picks up a little of the soft substance, which he works into a cup shape in his fingers, and then draws it out, closing up the hole. One end is drawn longer than the other, and then broken off. He places his lips to the broken place and begins to blow, and the lump slowly swells.

Then he claps the mold which you have chosen around it, and gives a hard blow, breaks off the stem through which he has been blowing opens the mold, dips a little bamboo stick into the soft sugar and touches it to the side of the sweetmeat figure in the mold, lifts it out and hands it to you on the stick, all in much less time than it takes to tell about it.

MAKING UP REALISTIC.

Some American Girls Who Rouge But One Side of Their Faces.

Did anybody ever hear of a girl who rouged one side of her face, but not the other? It looks as though we were all likely to hear of it before long. The latest notions upon the art of complexion-making tally with the latest notions upon the art of writing, painting, acting, music and the rest. Realism is the thing nowadays, even where unrealities are concerned. Some South American girls who lately came to this city have, as is their habit at home, systematically rouged their cheeks ever since they arrived. They have several times remarked that comparatively few New Yorkers rouge, but they were told that such was the custom of the country. While at a reception not long ago, however, they were amazed to see a girl with a great daub of paint upon one cheek while the other was as pallid as nature made it. The sight was altogether so unusual, in any country, that the South Americans, upon meeting the girl, deliberately asked her why she made up in such a one-sided way. "Oh," said the girl, "I'm rouging according to the latest, the most scientific and most artistic theories upon the subject. With both cheeks equally red it is easy to detect that it's artificial, while one cheek flushed and the other pale leaves the beholder uncertain whether it is the result of nature or of art. I'm rouging realistically, that's all." Whether or not it is true that nature sometimes reddens one cheek and not the other, the South Americans were unable to say, as were the Americans to whom they related the experience. Certain it is that since then a number of girls have been seen with one blushing cheek and one pale. It looks as though the fashion had begun to work, and meanwhile it has served for first-rate conversational capital for the South Americans when waxing eloquent upon the curious custom of this country.

Lifting the Skirt.

While it is considered bad form for a woman to carry her skirts when walking, there are conditions and circumstances when she must do so, or else be accounted careless and indifferent, which is worse. The nicest way to do this is the question under consideration, for this is one of the keys to the lock of ladyism, and there is as much individuality in this often overlooked detail as in many others. It is in these so-called minor points that the innate ladyhood of woman manifests itself.

In the first place, unless one is a woman of luxury, a piece of Dresden china, so to speak with those in her service with nothing but her wardrobe to look after, one is not excusable for wearing skirts that in consequence of their all-round exaggerated length are veritable street sweepers.

One's walking skirts should be made to just escape the ground (surely individualty to this mild extent should not be frowned upon), and then they should be allowed to hang free, unless the sidewalks or crossings are too damp or otherwise dirty, when it would, of course, be most uncleanly not to lift the skirts.

And now the way to most effectually and conveniently lift them: Throw the extra back fullness of the skirt over the back of the hand (which should be closed), and placed as a handle at one side of the body, and slightly bend the forearm forward. The fullness of the skirt will thus be found to remain in place and will not cause the fatigue to the hand and wrist that one experienced in the old way.

This is a decided saving on gloves, since it does not stretch them, or soil them, or cause the hand to become overheated ,and skirts lifted in this may look much more graceful than when they are held in the hand.

One's anatomy is also less liable to be emphasized, and it gives one an ease and certainty that all the fullness is properly looked after, while at the same time petticoats, ankles and shoes are more becomingly exposed.

insertion. Belt and collar of pale blue liberty silk. Hat of corn-colored straw, trimmed with black taffetas, white wings and corn-colored tulle. Material required, lawn, 36 inches wide, 7 yards.

TAILOR MADE GOWNS.

Two Bodices Often Made For One Skirt.

Tailor made gowns of thin wool, cloth, pique or duck are very much worn. In having one of these costumes made it is not at all unusual to have two bodices instead of one, as it permits of more variety. One bodice is a neat jacket, the other a bolero, and they may be worn interchangeably with the same skirt as occasion demands. The bolero is the more "up to date," but the jacket is sometimes the more useful.

Blouses to be worn under the jacket or bolero are often marvels of fine needlework. White being in great favor this season, wash materials are largely employed, and chemisettes are often a mass of valenciennes lace, embroidery and tucks. The finest batiste and nainsook are used. These materials come by the yard, also in all over designs of tucking, puffing, frilling and insertion, and usually have much openwork, which renders them cool.

For women who do not care for wash fabrics there are blouses of liberty silk, net or mousseline de soie over silk. These are worn with a soft cravat of the same material or of lace.

The cut shows a tailor made gown of beige cloth. The seamless skirt is closed at the side and is finished with rows of stitching. The bolero jacket has rounded basques, with larger tabs in front, and a collar and revers of white faille. Gold buttons and silk cords trim the bodice and the wrists of the plain sleeves, and all the edges are stitched. The collar and cravat are of white embroidered tulle, the chemisette of bluet mousseline de soie. The hat, of beige straw, is trimmed with bluet flowers and loops of bluet taffeta. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE FASHIONABLE FIGURE.

It Is Formed Upon the Model of a Stove Pipe.

The general style of gowns is now very attractive, clinging attire and flowing draperies being far more pleasing to the artistic eye than the stiff, rigid forms which prevailed a few years ago. Not satisfied, however, with discarding all artificial distension of the figure, such as bustles, haircloth, balloon sleeves and pads, fashion has decreed that the natural contours of the figure should be suppressed and flattened to the utmost degree possible. Of course it is only the blindest followers of fashion who carry out this idea and consent to destroy or straighten all natural curves, but such is the theory at present prevailing. New corsets are constructed with the single purpose of narrowing the hips and converting the back and front profile into a straight vertical line, but as the most effective of these instruments are very expensive there is every prospect that nature will not be entirely subdued and will still be visible in the human form divine.

The accompanying cut shows to what an extent the fashionable ideal of the figure has changed within a short time. The model illustrated is the latest and is immensely long, the front steels being entirely straight, while those at the sides are curved as little as possible. The hips are closely bound by a tight yoke of strong webbing, while the fullness at the top in front is almost entirely omitted. This straight jacket is worn immediately under the gown, except for a little corset cover. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Dieser Tage starb hier der Domkapitular Joh. Bapt. Waffenschmitt, Kanzleidirektor und Sekretär des bischöflichen Ordinariats, im Alter von 49 Jahren.

Ludwigshafen. Neulich Nachts brannte die pfälzische Hohl- und Blendsteinfabrik fast vollständig nieder.

Neustadt. Bei der benachbarten Station Lambrecht wollte ein auf Urlaub befindlicher Artillerist auf dem Nachmittagspersonenzug Kondukteur spielen; er kletterte den Zug entlang, fiel ab, wurde überfahren und blieb todt.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Während der Pfingstfeiertage war hier der 4. deutsche Taubstummenkongreß versammelt, zu dem etwa 200 Taubstumme aus ganz Deutschland erschienen waren. Als erster Gegenstand wurde die Frage der Rechtshilfe vor Gericht behandelt und dazu beschlossen, an den Reichstag eine Eingabe zu richten, daß dazu befähigte Taubstumme sich nicht nur selbst vertreten, sondern auch minder unterrichteten Schicksalsgenossen als Dolmetscher dienen sollen. Die Frage der Gründung eines Centralverbandes deutscher Taubstummen wurde einem zwölfgliedrigen Ausschuß zur Verhandlung überwiesen. —Hier starb der Staatsrath Hohl, von 1882 bis 1895 Präsident der Kammer und langjähriger Abgeordneter für Geislingen, im Alter von 73 Jahren.

Bubsheim. Dieser Tage ist hier Kaspar Stier im Alter von 93½ Jahren gestorben, seit sieben Jahren die älteste Person in der Gemeinde, vielleicht die älteste im Oberamt. Derselbe konnte bis zu seinem Tode noch ohne Brille lesen.

Cannstatt. Aufsehen erregt in interessirten Kreisen die Thatsache, daß die „Hera, Internat. Gesellschaft für Acetylen-Beleuchtung," Abtheilung Mannheim, die ihr auf der 2. Acetylenausstellung dahier zuerkannte goldene Medaille zurückgewiesen hat. Die Zurückweisung erfolgte, „weil minderwerthige Apparate mit derselben Auszeichnung bedacht wurden, während andere gute Fabrikate ganz leer ausgegangen sind."

Ellwangen. Der hiesige „Sängerbund" beging sein 75jähr. Jubiläum.

Heilbronn. Die Neckardampfschifffahrt wird vielleicht nun doch nicht zu Grabe getragen, nachdem Verhandlungen eingeleitet sind mit der Moseldampfschifffahrts-Gesellschaft umlleberlassung eines Dampfbootes. In Heidelberger Kreisen herrscht sehr viel Stimmung für das Unternehmen, und es wird den dortigen Aktionären vielleicht gelingen, im Vereine mit hiesigen Herren dasselbe doch noch in's Leben zu bringen.

Ulm. Die bürgerlichen Kollegien genehmigten das Gesuch des Komites für Errichtung eines Kaiser Wilhelm-Denkmals um Ueberlassung eines passenden Platzes auf dem Heumarkt. Die Ausführung der Kaiserstatue wurde dem Professor M. Unger übertragen. Die Gesammthöhe des Denkmals wird sechs Meter betragen. Die Kosten sollen sich auf etwa 27,000 Mark belaufen.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Dieser Tage weilte der Prinzregent von Bayern beim Großherzog hier zu Besuch.—An Stelle Fiesers wurde Landgerichtsrath Freiherr Rüdt von Collenberg zum Direktor am hiesigen Landgericht ernannt.

Donaueschingen. An Stelle des zurückgetretenen Präsidenten Hentig, der sich wieder als Rechtsanwalt in Berlin niedergelassen hat, ernannte der Fürst von Fürstenberg den Kammerrath Dänzer zum Kammerdirektor und obersten Leiter der Verwaltung des schwäbischen Hausgutes.

Heidelberg. Im 77. Lebensjahre starb hier der berühmte Chirurg Professor Franz von Chelius.

Pforzheim. Reichstagsmitglied Alfred Agster (Sozialist), welcher den Kreis Pforzheim vertritt, hat sich von seiner Partei losgesagt und ist aus dem Verband derselben ausgetreten. Er war seit dem Jahre 1897 Sekretär des neugegründeten Arbeitersekretariats und wurde im Jahre 1898 als Reichstagsabgeordneter erwählt. Er ist Besitzer einer Apotheke in Stuttgart.

Radolfzell. Hier entstand ein großes Schadenfeuer, das neun Häuser und das Spital beschädigte.

St. Peter. Unser Pfarrdorf ist vollständig niedergebrannt; nur die Klosterkirche blieb von den Flammen verschont.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Hier fand kürzlich die Einweihung der neuerbauten katholischen Garnisonkirche durch den Armeebischof Dr. Aßmann statt. Der Feier wohnten der Bischof von Straßburg, Dr. Fritzen, an der Spitze der zahlreich erschienenen Geistlichkeit, die Generalität und die Spitzen der Behörden bei.

HORACE J. MARTIN,

Expert Horse Shoer,

No. 28 Somerset Street.

Don't trust your shoeing to any one who as not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. We are having great success in leveling and balancing horses that have been ungaited by being shod by inexperienced men and boys. Our reference is NOT to people who are out of the State, but to OUR CUSTOMERS, who can be found right here in the city and vicinity. Horses called for and delivered.

THE BRIDGE OF SIGHS.

The Famous Structure That Led to Dark and Dismal Cells.

The Bridge of Sighs spans the Rio della Paglia and connects the ducal palace with the carceri or prisons. The bridge dates from 1597. It is a graceful arch, 32 feet above the water, enclosed at all sides and arched overhead. It contains two separate pass-for trial or judgment. It is in the rear of the palace and hangs over the dark waters of the narrow canal.

The poetic sentiment attached to the bridge, which gave it the famous name it still bears, arose from the belief that many a political prisoner, innocent of wrongdoing, was led over this span and down into the dungeons below, whence there was no escape. So damp and foul are these cells that they are called "wells." Travelers in search of the hideous always visit them. Their gloom and horror have been painted in words in Dicken's "Pictures from Italy."

Standing on the Bridge of Sighs Byron wrote his splendid poem on the rise and fall of Venice.

Some question has been raised as to the stability of the foundations of this bridge. It is known of course, that the mediaeval architects of Northern Italy were men of extraordinary ability; but their skill exhibited itself more in the artistic than in the engineering side of their profession.

In the latter branch they may almost be looked upon as experimentalists, and in view of the nature of the soil of Venice, the wonder is that their structures have lasted five or six hundred years, especially when it is remembered that they did not scruple to add great weight in the way of superstructures to buildings which had been erected for centuries without strengthening the foundations.

Don't Use Blotting Pads.

Said an official at the general writing counter in a big post office: "Be careful how you use the blotting paper."

Remembering that good blotting sheets could be had for a penny, I inquired "Why?"

"We have more inquisitive than ready-going visitors," he said. "Some who have little or no business to mind take pleasure in acting overseer to others. Lots of idle folks drop in here purposely to examine the blotting pads.

"Not that the examination is profitable to the examiners in the general sense, but look there—you observe the old gentleman in the blue pilot coat at the central counter? His hobby is to busy himself with other people's concerns. Today he is quiescent; the pads are new, and offer no amusement.

"I have seen him" (in a lowered voice) "take up pad after pad, place a small hand glass over them, and read what impression the writers have left on the absorbent paper. He is a pest, but we cannot expose him.

"Sorry to say, more than one lady finds amusement in similarly treating the blotters. One, in particular, lingers long in the vicinity of the writing counters. Carrying a small folding glass, she seems to delight in reading snatches of communications which the pads have mirrored on their sheets. When disturbed, she pretends to be interested in writing, or filling a telegraph form. Yes, I warn you not to use the official pads too liberally."

Curious Fishing.

The natives of Kottiar are in the habit of digging every year, in the summer, the dry banks of the Vergel river for fish, which they dig out by hundreds, just as they would potatoes. The mud lumps are broken open and the fish, perhaps eight or ten inches long, will always be found alive, and often frisky, as if just removed from its supposedly native element—the water. In the dry bed of several African rivers a similar practice is often pursued. A kind of mud fish buries itself whilst the bottom is still moist, and remains there all the summer, waking up when the rains commence again.

Boiled Water as a Beverage.

In advocating the practice of boiling water (and milk) of uncertain purity, Professor Bizzozero combats the prejudice against boiled water as a beverage. He maintains that the "taste" frequently complained of in boiled water is really caused by the kettle, and can scarcely be due to the absence of dissolved air, of which water from wells of great depth often contains very little.

$40,000,000 of Jewelry.

The estimated value of the sultan's jewels is $40,000,000. If his majesty has any hobby at all, it may be said to be the purchasing of jewels and witnessing private theatricals. No professional of note—be he actor, singer or conjuror—passes through Constantinople without an invitation from the sultan. He always pays for these performances in bank of England notes.

An Unhealthy Place.

More men have died and are buried in the Isthmus of Panama, along the line of the proposed canal, than on any equal amount of territory in the world.

The Victoria Lily of Guiana has a circular leaf from 6 feet to 12 feet in diameter. It is turned up at the edge like a tray, and can support, according to its size, from 100 to 300 pounds.

MODES OF TRAVEL IN CUBA

Difficulties Encountered By Strangers in Going About the Island.

ITS LIMITED FACILITIES.

Accommodations Fair But First-Class Travel Costs Seven to Eight Cents in Gold Per Mile.

The Trains Are Slow, Everybody Smokes, and the Cars Are Crowded With Baggage—The Hen That Paid Its Fare in Eggs—Decadence of the Cuban Volante—Grasping Hackmen.

Getting about over the island is something that puzzles most of the visitors to Cuba, writes Charles M. Pepper in the Globe-Democrat. Many of them come with queer notions regarding the means and modes of travel. Since more are coming a little information on these points may be timely.

It is possible to go from Havana on the railroad directly west to the town of Pinar del Rio, a distance of 110 miles. A railroad also runs from Havana to Guanajay, thirty-five miles out in the northeastern part of Pinar del Rio province. These two railway lines traverse the Vuelta Abajo tobacco region, and also a portion of the Partidos district, which is in the province of Havana. Coasting vessels make voyages from the city along the north coast west, touching at eight or ten fishing villages. From these villages journeys may be made to the hills of the interior on horseback. Sometimes there is a passable road, but it is usually a short one. On the south coast of Pinar del Rio there is nothing to see except keys and swamps. The only port which is entered by light draught vessels is Coloma. From it a very good macadamized highway traverses the fifteen miles to the town of Pinar del Rio.

Railroad travel in Cuba is not luxurious, yet considering that the distances are short it is fairly comfortable. Fares continue very high, averaging 7 cents or 8 cents a mile in gold, first-class, and half as much for third-class, with the second-class midway. Americans naturally prefer to travel first-class. The passenger coaches on some of the lines are relics of bygone periods. On others they are modern and adapted to the climate. Everybody smokes without first asking permission of the women who may be passengers. It is a custom of the country and a smoking compartment would not be appreciated. Everybody piles his baggage in the spaces between the seats or in the aisles. Often the regular passenger coach might be mistaken for the baggage car. The reason is that baggage is not checked free. The charges for carrying are quite heavy. No limitation is put on the number of pieces which a passenger is permitted to carry with him in a passenger coach. So he stows away all his belongings, and sometimes perches himself on top of half a dozen valises and telescopes. Live baggage is also permitted. Chickens travel either first, second or third-class without paying fare. Generally a pair of them is tied together by the legs and thrown carelessly under the seat. Sometimes they get free from their fastenings. The story of the hen which paid its fare in eggs is not a fiction in Cuba. That has been known to happen.

The Cubans and the Spanish residents who talk of the old times mourn the decadence of the quitrins and volantes. They say these were indigenous carriages, constructed before the age of railways, and holding their own long after the railways came. Twenty-five or thirty years ago the victorias and cabs and coaches of various kinds began to supplant them in the cities. Nevertheless, it will probably be a long time before they disappear from the country entirely, because it will be a long time until Cuba is traversed in all parts by good roads. Except on horseback there is no other means of traveling in the interior of the island. On all the sugar plantations there are volantes stowed away somewhere, and every Cuban family which has a country home possesses one. Some of them are very aged vehicles, yet they do not wear out as the one-horse shay is said to have done. The postilion is usually a sedate colored man who has all the pride of a family coachman. He sits his mount with a grace and seriousness that evokes admiration. To the ordinary rider the short trot at which the horses drawing a volante move would be excessively uncomfortable. It is not so to the Cuban postilion. As he jogs along he seems a part of the lead horse. Sometimes in the hot sun he goes to sleep. He is rarely the victim of an accident. It may be that the enterprising American who is looking for the chance to make money in Cuba will corner the volantes with a view to the tourist travel for the next few years. But he will hardly be able to corner the postilions. They are staid family coachmen and they do not take kindly to innovations.

The Isle of Pines.

The Isle of Pines, south of the western end of Cuba, was used by Spain as a penal colony during the war with the Cubans. It is sixty miles long and fifty-five miles wide at its greatest breadth, and contains six hundred square miles. Its resources have been neglected, and its population is small, numbering barely two thousand, according to the gazeteer. The mountains of the Isle of Pines are lofty and picturesque, and it would appear that the climate is more salubrious than that of Cuba.

The enterprise of American business houses is best shown by the advertisement in the American of Manila. There the back page of the paper contains a page advertisement of a brand of beer which it declares made a certain city in this country famous, and two brands of whisky which have acquired fame in this country. Evidently the Filipinos will in time become accustomed to many American novelties.

There are millions of the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands who never knew the dominion of Spain and never saw a Spaniard.

A $30,000 CARNATION.

The Fabulous Sum That Has Been Paid For This Flower.

The fuss made about this flower and the extravagant prices offered for it by New York and Chicago flower fanciers has created a sort of carnation mania, almost similar to the famous tulip mania that turned the sedate, steady going people of Holland upside down in the seventeenth century. Nothing in the history of flowers ever approached that. Holland, especially in the vicinity of Haarlem, was then and is now the home of the tulip bulb. They are most sedulously cultivated and form an important item in the export budget. As a gambling mania, a wild scramble of silly speculators, a chimera that swallowed up entire fortunes of the unlucky and on the other hand laid the foundation of great Dutch fortunes that exist to-day, the tulip mania rivals in history the South Sea bubble of England. Men paid fabulous sums for a single bulb. Admiration of the flower and interest in its culture was a secondary matter. No one imagines, of course, that the carnation mania is going to assume any such proportions as that, but there is no guessing to what extreme a fad will be carried when richer New York once takes hold of it.

When the Lawson carnation was exhibited at the New York Florists' Club in March, 1898, no one could have foretold for it the distinction it has achieved. It scored ninety-eight points out of a possible hundred, which was considered good, but not remarkable. The flower was exhibited by Mr. Fisher. The specimens shown then were only about three inches in diameter. Since then the flower has been developed to four and four and one-half inches. Its color is a beautiful cerise pink. It has a sturdy stem and most remarkable vitality. Some of the cut flowers have kept perfectly fresh for fifteen days.

Seventh Son.

A popular superstition that has a remarkably tenacious hold in many parts of the world is a belief in the luck of a seventh son. A weaver named "Doctor" Talbot was charged at a London police court the other day with traveling on a railway without having paid his fare. The prisoner said that Doctor was his Christian name, and he had had it given him because he was the seventh son of a seventh son, and therefore possessed the gift of healing. In an English graveyard is the following inscription: "A. Sheperd, the third seventh daughter. Doctress." In Chapton's "Notable Things," edition 1830, we find: "It is manifest by experience that the seventh male child in just order (never girl or wench being born between) doth heal only with touching, through a natural gift, the king's evil, which is a special gift of God, given to kings and queens, as daily experience doth witness. In France, especially in the Orleans district, the seventh son is called a marcon; he possesses healing powers and is marked on the left side with a fleur-de-lis. On the border the seventh son is marked with seven stars, and it is interesting to find that individuals of this class not only possess inherent healing powers, but it is the usual custom to bring them up as "doctors."

About Guam.

One of the oldest maritime fictions has received its deathblow by the raising of the American flag over Guam, in the Ladrone islands. According to sailors, thousands of vessels cleared for Guam from ports all over the world each year, but none ever arrived there. Clearing for Guam was done by ships which wished to conceal their real destination. According to maritime law, when once a vessel has cleared for a port is must proceed there by the most direct route or give satisfactory explanation. Guam was a closed port under the Spanish rule and ships could always give that as reason for not going there after having cleared for the place.

Porto Rican Hotels Are Hot.

The best hotel in San Juan, Porto Rico, charges $2 a day, but the sleeping rooms all open into courts, have no outside windows and are to the last extremely hot. Under Spanish law, in towns where houses join, no outside windows are allowed. This is to avoid the danger of dirt from the interior blowing on to the adjacent roofs and contaminating the water, as all the supply is collected from the rainfall on the roofs and stored in cisterns.

Time for Exercise.

About mid-afternoon is the best time for gentle outdoor exercise. Early morning exercise is as much to be avoided as early mental or physical labor, because at that time vitality is at its lowest ebb, and it needs stimulation rather than further taxing; none but the gentlest exercise should be taken until the exhausted system has been supplied with abundant nourishment.

An Immense Coral Reef.

The great barrier reef which fringes the coast of Queensland north of Brisbane, in the direction of Torres straits, must always rank among the wonders of the world. For 1200 miles the coral animalculae have raised a solid projection against the range of the ocean swell at a distance varying from 20 to 150 miles from the shore.

Nutrition in Oysters.

A quart of oysters contains on the average, about the same quantity of nutritive substance as a quart of milk or a pound of very lean beef.

The trolley cars on the New York and Philadelphia traction line are at a standstill, the motors in several cars having been burned out by lightning.

Rahway Firemen to Parade.

The officers of the various companies in the Rahway Fire Department held a meeting Friday night to take steps for a parade of the Rahway firemen next October. Owing to the fact that all the companies were not present, there was not much done at the meeting except to talk the matter over, and the proposition to have a parade met with general favor from those in attendance. Another meeting will be held next week, at which representatives from all the companies are expected to be present.

Persell, of this city, for the rebuilding of the Middlesex County Courthouse in this city. GUY HENRY AND HIS SCARS

Stories of a Calvaryman Whose Heroic Deeds are Written in His Face.

HE IS A SMALL MAN BUT—

A Sergeant Who Fought Under Him In the Black Hills Says "He's Every Inch a Scrapper."

A Man Who Fought the Indians When the Cheyennes Were Setting the Frontier Ablaze in the Northern Part of Dakota—Pursued Them Relentlessly Across the Border.

"He is a small man, poof! small like my son," exclaimed one of the committee of Porto Ricans selected to pay its respects to the new commanding officer of the island after the ceremony; "but his one eye—Madre de Dios!—it is like a Mauser bullet when it strikes you."

The speaker had just left the palace at San Juan, Porto Rico, with his compatriots, where Major-Gen. Guy V. Henry, the new military and civil Governor of the island, had welcomed the committee with a mixture of old-time courtesy and military brusqueness. That figure was a slight, spare man, attired in a rather faded uniform, and with a lean, brown face disfigured with marks and scars.

Several months before, while in Ponce, Porto Rico, Gen. Henry, "Fighting Guy V." his men loved to call him, stood up in the quaint old plaza of the city and addressed, through an interpreter, a number of natives on the subject of good government and on the value of becoming citizens of the great republic.

As the crowd dispersed after the affair a Sergeant, who also bore marks of long service in the army, turned to a comrade and exclaimed:

"I fought under that man out in the Black Hills in '74. He's a scrapper, every inch of him, and he's the best officer that ever drew a sabre, bar none. And he knows when a good word is better than a good bullet, too. He ain't much to look at, but you can bet every scar he's got has a story."

The stories of those scars are written, not only in the records of the United States, but also in the hearts of every man, officer or private that served with Guy V. Henry in the Indian campaigns of the '70s. In the fall of 1874, when the Cheyenne Indians were setting the frontier ablaze in the northern part of Dakota, Col. Henry, then in command of several troops of cavalry, came upon a village of the enemy nestled among the hills. There was a brief but decisive fight, and the Indians fled toward the Canadian boundary. Immediate pursuit was ordered, notwithstanding the fact that the weather indications gave signs of a blizzard, which meant, in those wild, exposed regions, certain peril of life.

Day and night, with scarcely a halt for food, the pursuit was kept up. The Indians were mounted on fleet ponies, and they were not only acquainted with the country, but also inured to the rigors of the latitude. At first they did not anticipate being chased, but when they discovered that the troops were actually in pursuit, they set out with all possible speed toward the boundary, almost 100 miles distant. Forty-eight hours after the start a fierce sleet and hail storm sprang up, the wind sweeping across the plains. It finally became so violent that the trail was lost, and the troops rode blindly through the blizzard. Presently one of the subordinate officers ventured to ask if it would not be well to camp in the shelter of a rise of ground until the inclement weather had abated.

Col. Henry shook his head. "No," he replied, "we will keep on until we capture the Indians or run them to the boundary line." Drawing down his rough fur cap he urged his horse steadily onward at the head of the straggling troops. That day passed and another morning dawned, but the pursuit continued in the face of the biting gale. Before noon of that day several of the horses gave out. At dark a number of packs were abandoned to provide mounts for those who had lost their animals. Finally a brief rest was called, and, after many failures a fire was started and coffee made. When orders were given to resume the march the surgeon, accompanying the expedition, went to Col. Henry and reported that five of the troopers were suuering with badly frozen feet.

"Help me off with this glove," replied the cavalry leader, extending his left hand. The surgeon wonderingly obeyed, and as he touched the flesh under the gauntlet he cried:

"It is stiff. Your hand is frozen, sir."

"Mount men," ordered Col. Henry calmly. And as the cavalcade prepared to obey the command it was found necessary to assist him to his saddle. When day finally broke a number of black specks were seen moving over the crest of a ridge a mile in advance.

"They are the Cheyenes," said Col. Henry. "And that ridge marks the boundary line between Canada and the United States. We can go no further."

THE RECRUIT'S SOLILOQUY.

I remember, I remember
How I used to sit and scold
When, on getting down to breakfast,
I would find the coffee cold;
How I used to turn my nose up
If the steak was done too rare—
But oh for home and mother,
And the dear old bill of fare.

I remember, I remember
How I used to sit and scoff
When I fancied that the butter
Must be "just a little off";
How I scorned the lowly biscuits
That my sister used to make!
And the things I said concerning
Her attempts at jelly cake!

Oh, it may be childish weakness
That possesses me, but I
Would give a whole month's wages
For one piece of mother's pie,
And I think that I'd be willing
To walk twenty miles to-day
Just for one of those dear doughnuts
That I used to throw away.

SUPT. ADELMAN SPEAKS.

DECLARES STREET RAILWAY COMPANY IS PUT IN A FALSE LIGHT.

Says the Brunswick Traction Company is Charged Only $2.50 for Bringing a Trolley Car to This City From Dunellen.

Superintendent John Adelman informed a Daily Press representative today that Manager Charles Runyon, of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, told what was not so at the Board of Trade meeting Monday evening when he said that the Plainfield Street Railway Company charged $5 to allow a Brunswick Traction Company car to come into and go out of Plainfield. He said that he made the price $2.50 and that was the sum paid. Mr. Adelman states that he did make the price $5 to allow the Brunswick Company's car to come to this city and make a trip over the entire road, but that proposition was not accepted.

Mr. Adelman says that in the discussion regarding the transfer system at Dunellen, the people forget that the Plainfield company accepts transfers from the Brunswick company and transfers the people anywhere in the city on their lines. He claims that they are not compelled to do this, but are generous enough to do so to accommodate the public. He says that the borough of Dunellen was very shortsighted when they did not incorporate in their contract with the Brunswick company that they should be taken from the borough to Plainfield for one fare and returned for one fare, but in their eagerness to get rid of the Plainfield company and give a franchise to another company they did things for which they must now suffer.

JERSEY CENTRAL YIELDS.

Railroad Company Removes Its Own Cars and Other Property from South Cove.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey began this morning to remove all of its property from the South Cove, of which the Street and Water Board of Jersey City took possession Saturday last, it having been decided that the filled-in portion, as well as the water, belonged to the city, and that the Central Railroad was a trespasser. The city had tried for over two years to get the railroad to pay rent for the land.

When the city tore up the Central's tracks on the South Cove land and held up nearly fifty coal cars the Central came to terms, and asked the Street and Water Commissioners to come to some agreement in the matter. The Commissioners could not compromise, and declared that no terms could be discussed until every vestige of Central Railroad property was off the city's land.

Vice-President Williams agreed to remove all of the railroad's property if the Street and Water Board would permit him to lay a temporaey track and would give him five days in which to do the work. The necessary permission was granted at the meeting of the Street and Water Board yesterday. The Central must not only remove its cars and tracks but must also tear down two trestles and a huge shed.

Dispute Over the Land.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 21.—Operations on Jeweler Staats' new building have been suspended since last Thursday because of a dispute about the ownership of about a foot and a half of the land. Rev. Mr. Todd, of Dunellen, owns the adjoining property and he claims that the new building is that much over on his land. He first claimed four feet but the Chancellor decided in favor of Mr. Staats.

Good Outlook for Peaches.

The present outlook for peaches in the neighborhood of Glenwood is very encouraging. It is estimated that 45,000 baskets will be shipped from that station if the conditions remain favorable during the season. Many of the farmers in that section of the country are converting large portions of their farms into peach orchards, and it is said that 100,000 trees are annually set out in that vicinity.

John's Butter-Making Chills.

"I notice there's a good deal of ague in this part of the country," said the tourist, who had stopped at the farmhouse for a drink of water. "That's a great drawback. It unfits a man for work entirely, does it not?"

"Gener'lly it does," said the sallow woman who handed him a tin cup. "Still, when John has a right hard fit of the shakes we fasten the churn dasher to him, and he brings the butter inside of fifteen minutes."

THE "COUNT" FEASTED HIS ERSTWHILE FOES

Peace Jubilee Held at His Shanty Home.

FIRST CAR ON NEW LINE.

CARRIED A DISTINGUISHED PARTY OF GUESTS YESTERDAY P. M.

Big Time Marked the Resumption of Peaceful Relations Between "Count" J. K. VanNess and the Plainfield Street Railway Co.—Cars Run on Second Street as Far as Leland Avenue.

There was a Peace Jubilee yesterday afternoon on the territory over which "Count" J. K. VanNess and the Plainfield Street Railway have been at war for the past few weeks. Tuesday the "Count" came to terms with the trolley people, peace was declared and yesterday morning the "Count" and his artillery evacuated the board shanty which has been the scene of so much excitement.

The "Count" went into the trolley war with heart and hand, preparing to bombard, blow up and incidentally carve his enemies should they advance beyond the "dead line" he laid out on the edge of his property. The flag of truce having waved once more, there wasn't enough that the energetic "Count" could do for the trolley folk. He made ready food and drink for them and received them with open arms all at his board shanty on the trolley line.

Both the "Count" and the Plainfield Street Railway Company took a hand in the Peace Jubilee. The company had two of its best open cars, gaily decorated with flags, on hand to carry the principal characters and a few invited guests over the new Scotch Plains extension, as far as it is completed, and to attend the Jubilee at the "Count's" shanty.

The two cars left the North avenue station at 2:12 o'clock. They were cars Nos. 9 and 10. Superintendent John Adelman was in command and ran the first car. On the platform with him were H. C. VanEmburg, civil engineer for the company, and Edgar I. Serrell, superintendent of construction for the contractors.

Neither President Thomas Nevins nor either of the Rikers could be present but Col. E W. Hine, of Westfield, Dr. J. T. Fritts, vice-president of the company and J. B. Brown occupied front seats as representatives of the trolley magnates. Mayor George W. Rockfellow lent official dignity to the party. There were also present Councilman Frank H. Smith, Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, Chief T. O. Doane, Former Judge William Newcorn, Judge J. E. Mosher, Former Councilman W. A. Westphal, Assessor C. H. Hand, Chas. C. Lister, J. A. Blatz, J. J. Kenney, and W. H. Rogers, of Washingtonville. Lawyer George Ball, attorney for the "Count," was also there. The press delegation included R. M. Stickle, city editor of the Union County Standard, and reporters from the Daily Press and the News. There were a number of other invited guests in the party.

The cars went over the Netherwood line to Richmond street where they turned off on the new line to make the initial trip of it. All along the line they were cheered while many of the houses were decorated with flags in honor of the opening of the line.

One side of the turnout on East Second street was completed while a big gang of men was working on the other. The trip was made without mishap to the end of Second street and out on the private right of way to Leland avenue. The rails have been laid to the edge of the VanNess property but the wires were strung only to Leland avenue. The wiring will be completed today as far as the VanNess line.

From Leland avenue the guests were invited to get out and travel afoot the remaining quarter of a mile to the "Count's" domicile. The shanty is in a little hollow and the grading gang was busily at work making the small embankment nessary. The shanty looked rather sickly for part of the roof and walls had been removed. The visitors caught a glimpse the cots, mosquito nets and slender stock of furniture that the "Count" had used during his occupation.

A keg and sundry bottles were established there under the direction of the genial Bill Emery while Mrs. VanNess looked after a bountiful supply of sandwiches. The "Count" was everywhere, shanking hands and telling everybody how glad he was that it was all over and without bloodshed. He escorted Col. Hine about the place and did the honors of the Peace Jubi-

HONORS FOR GRADUATES

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS HELD COMMENCEMENT.

A New Plan Worked Very Successfully—Large Attendance at Exercises Yesterday Afternoon — Diplomas Presented.

The young people who have completed their course in the Grammar department of the Plainfield public schools had their turn yesterday afternoon. Their Commencement exercises were held at the Franklin building in the Assembly Hall before a large audience of relatives and friends. The audience was so large that it overflowed into the hall.

This idea of holding a Commencement for the Grammar graduates was tried for the first time this year and proved very successful. There were regular diplomas for the young graduates, which were presented by Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the Board of Education, with all the formality that usually attends the High School presentation.

The members of the graduating class, fifty-four in number, were all seated on the left of the stage. The girls were all gowned in white. On the right were Dr. Probasco, Superintendent Maxson and the instructors. The hall was prettily decorated with flowers and potted plants.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and was a very interesting discourse. Superintendent Maxson also added a few words of advice to the groduating class, telling them of the great opportunities offered, which only needed hard and faithful work to secure them.

The programme of the exercises was as follows:

HOT CONTEST OF A WILL.

A GRANDNEPHEW DOESN'T WANT TO BE "CUT OUT."

Testimony Being Taken Before Judge Bartine in Somerset Orphan's Court—Senator Reed Counsel in it.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 22.—One of the most important will contests brought in Somerset county in several years has been started by James A. TenEyck, one of the grandnephews of the late Tunis TenEyck, of North Branch, a devisee under the last will and testament of the deceased, but "cut out" by a codicil. In the original will the contestant was given a farm in North Branch valued at $10,000, but the codicil revokes this bequest in favor of another nephew, who is alleged to have exercised undue influence on the testator, who was eighty-three years old and worth $75,000 when he died. Senator Charles A. Reed, of Plainfield, appears for the caveator, and Hon. A. A. Clark and James L. Griggs, of Somerville, for the proponents. Testimony in the case will be taken next Tuesday.

Graduates of the Normal School.

The commencement exercises of the Trenton Normal School were held in Trenton last evening. Governor Voorhees presented the diplomas to the gradnates. Among the essays was "Children's Pay," by Miss Emma Lois Stevens, of North Plainfield. Among the other graduates were Miss Mary Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Louise Egan, of Sandford avenue, both graduates of the Plainfield High School in 1897. Miss Mabel Cobb, of Newark, a frequent visitor in this city, was in the class.

Teachers to be Taught.

The programme of the Primary Teachers' Union for the second quarter will conclude with the meeting next Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., when a praise service will be held. The lesson, "Gracious Invitations," will be taught by Miss Hawley, and Mrs. Tier will have charge of the praise service.

$75,580 COMING TO OLD GERMAN FARMER.

Reputed Fortune of George John Stutz is a Reality.

ORIGINAL SUM WAS $4,000.

LEFT TO HIM BY HIS MOTHER SIXTY-SIX YEARS AGO.

His Good Luck Came Through an Advertisement Asking for Trace of Him—Has Been a Truck Farmer Near Plainfield for Twenty-five Years—Expects to Receive the Money in a Short Time.

George John Stutz, an aged German, who has been a market gardener on the outskirts of this city, just over the Middlesex county line in Piscataway township, for the last twenty-five years, has received assurances that the reputed fortune of $75,580, resting in a German bank in his name, is a reality and that in the course of a short time the money will be turned over to him.

Last winter John Haight, a son-in-law of Stutz, who is an engineer on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, noticed an advertisement in a New York paper asking for trace of George John Stutz, who was said to have a fortune awaiting him in Germany. Without giving the matter serious consideration Haight showed the advertisement to Stutz and his family one day and laughingly said that the old man might be the person wanted. Stutz and his family scoffed at the idea. Stutz, who is seventy-six years of age, had left his home in Germany when he was twenty-two years of age and he considered if there was any money waiting for him he would have found it out before this time.

Nothing further was done about the advertisement till one day Stutz came to Plainfield and met a young lawyer, whose name he now regards with jealous secrecy, who was complaining about his lack of practice. At that moment it struck Stutz that here was a good chance to find out if he was really an heir to a fortune. He engaged the lawyer on the spot to write a letter for him to the firm that had advertised for information of a person bearing the same name as his. Stutz furnished the lawyer with the necessary data, and the lawyer wrote the letter in answer to the advertisement. Stutz paid the lawyer $2.16.

A few weeks after that the lawyer received a letter from a German law firm in Baden Baden, stating that the facts that had been presented in relation to the birth and life of Stutz seemed to indicate that he was the man that was wanted. It was explained that when Stutz was ten years old his mother had secretly deposited $4,000 in the State bank of Baden Baden to the credit of her son to be drawn by him when he became of age. In the meantime the mother had died without making known the fact that she had deposited this money.

Year after year went on and Stutz finally set sail for America to seek his fortune in this country. That was fifty-four years ago. For forty-seven years he has lived within seven miles of Plainfield, and for twenty years has run a truck-garden at the place where he now lives. The place consists of nine acres, and no matter how much money he secures Stutz says that it will continue to remain his home. Since he was ten years old the original $4,000 has compounded nineteen times until now it amounts to $75,580.

Immediately on receiving the news of the fortune that awaited his claiming Stutz set to work to get it. May 22d the proper papers and other legal formalities had been complied with and the $75,580 turned over to the American consul in Germany to be forwarded to this country and delivered into the hands of Stutz.

Stutz lives with his wife and two sons, William and Adam, on his truck farm, and supplies several of the Plainfield grocers with their garden stuff in the summer. He is extremely deaf, however, and his wife does most of the business in town.

Melodrama in Court.

The troubles of Miss Lizzie Thompson and Mrs. Louisa Smith, at 320 East Fourth street, were dramatically related in the City Court this morning. Miss Thompson was the prisoner and the other the complainant. Judge Runyon fined Miss Thompson $5 and threatened dreadful things if she didn't control her tongue better in the future.

Summer School.

The New Jersey Summer School of Sunday-school teachers and workers will meet at Asbury Park July 3-8 next, and there will be a large delegation from this city in attendance.

ON THE WAY TO 'PLAINS.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN THE RUNNING OF TROLLEY CARS.

Direct Cars From Dunellen to Scotch Plains—Netherwood Cars to Run to the North Avenue Station Only.

The opening of the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railway as far as it is completed was marked by "Count" VanNess's Peace Jubilee yesterday afternoon. Today the cars are running out as far as Leland avenue and will soon go as far as the VanNess property. It will then be only the matter of a week or two before the cars are running all the way to the city line, which is Terrill road. The completion of the line to Scotch Plains will be delayed, owing to more trouble in the rolling mills where the rails are made.

The running of the cars out the Second street route has made a change in the general arrangement necessary. It went into effect this morning according to the directions of Superintendent Adelmann.

The cars that run out West Front street to Dunellen will hereafter go out the Second street line instead of going on to Netherwood. Large signs, announcing that the cars go to Dunellen and East Second street, will distinguish them. The Netherwood cars will hereafter start from the North avenue station and run to Netherwood and back to the station, giving exchanges for all the other lines. The Netherwood cars will carry signs stating that they run from North avenue to Netherwood. There will be no change, at present, in the Somerset and Fourth street line.

AFTER PLAINFIELD TRADE.

Newark Merchants to Run a Free Excursion Next Wednesday.

Merchants of Newark are arranging to run a free excursion for Plainfield shoppers next Wednesday. Those who desire to participate in the excursion can purchase tickets in the regular way at the Jersey Central Railroad station. A special ticket will be sold them. On this ticket will be a coupon, which will be left in the possession of the passenger, who may subsequently present it to firms in Newark and have the amount of money spent for railroad fare refunded to them.

It will not be necessary to make a purchase in the store to get the rebate. The presentation of the coupon will entitle the holder to the return of the money spent for railroad fare in getting to Newark. The aim of the Newark merchants is to get Plainfielders and other people in this vicinity into their stores, the merchants feeling that they will get ample return in the goods sold without forcing the visitors to purchase something to get the benefit of the free ride.

The train will stop at Plainfield at 8:55 a. m., and will make a few stops between here and Elizabeth and will then run to Newark without stopping.

MUST HAVE MONEY.

Celebration Committee Making Efforts in Financial Way.

The subscription committee of the Fourth of July celebration is making energetic efforts to secure the much-needed amount of money to ensure the success of the big affair. The committee has already received substantial encouragement from the citizens. As the time is short—but ten days—it is necessary for those who contemplate subscribing to not wait for the committee to urge them, but volunteer at once to donate as liberally as their means will admit. The subscription committee is to meet at the office of Wm. Newcorn tomorrow evening.

Officers Elected.

Last evening Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, met and after receiving three propositions for membership, elected the following officers: Prophetess, Mrs. Horton; Pocohontas, Miss Ella Sebring; Wenonoh, Mrs. Newton; Powhatan, Mrs. Dencklau; trustee, Mrs. Dencklau; representative to Grand Council, Mrs. Amelia Westphal. After the election a good time was had and a collation was served by the good and welfare committee.

The Red Men Gather.

At last evening's meeting of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red Men seven palefaces were adopted, one member was reinstated and four applicants for membership were received. The nomination of officers for the semi annual election was also made.

SECURED CONSENT OF ROSELLE'S COUNCIL

Riker Syndicate Gaining Ground In Union County.

BLOCKING KEAN'S PROJECT.

CHANDLER RIKER MAKES SOME IMPORTANT STATEMENTS.

He Says That Work on the Construction of the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company Will be Pushed Rapidly—Rahway and Springfield Line to Cross at Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 22—The Elizabeth and Westfield Traction Company, of which Chandler W. Riker is at the head, has, it was said, practically succeeded in securing from the Roselle Council the franchise permitting it to construct its line through that municipality. This francise will complete the chaim from Plainfield to the Elizabeth city line, and, it is declared, practically puts an end to the fight for a franchise between this road and the one controlled by United States Senator John Kean.

The two roads have been contesting for the franchise for the past two years. Senator Kean secured a franchise through Elizabeth and Roselle, and then endeavored to block the plans of the rival company.

Mr. Riker said that the Council had practically agreed to grant a franchise to his line.

Work on the construction of the line will be pushed rapidly forward, Mr. Riker declared, and he hopes that by August 1st the line will be in operation from Elizabeth, through Roselle, Cranford, Westfield, Fanwood and Plainfield to Dunellen.

The Riker syndicate already has the franchises for a road through Rahway and Westfield. This road will be continued, it is thought, through to Springfield. For a franchise in the latter place an application has already been made. This application was requested by many property owners in Springfield, some of whom are members of its governing body, and the officials of the road are confident that they will receive the franchises.

The line from Elizabeth to Dunellen will cross one another at Westfield. As yet, it was said, no connecting links for the ends of either of these lines had been established. It was hinted, though, by a man actively engaged in the enterprise, that at Elizabeth and at Springfield connections with the lines of the North Jersey Company may be made.

CHANGES AMONG TEACHERS.

New Instructors Secured for Piscataway Township Schools.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 22.—On Tuesday afternoon the Piscataway Township School Board met and transacted some business in connection with the schools throughout the township. There will be a few changes during the coming year in the teaching department, but the Board was unable to fill the places at the meeting. Miss Rue, who has taught for eight years at Randolphville, will go to Cranbury next year. Her place has not yet been filled, neither has the place to be vacated by Mr. Gavatt, at South Plainfield, who has resigned. Miss Birtie Gaskill, also a teacher at South Plainfield, has resigned, and her place has not yet been filled. Alfred Wilson has resigned as teacher at Maple Grove, and his place will be taken by H. Pittinger, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Wilson will teach school next year at Milltown. Other changes will also be made.

It is said that the Board is not willing to pay a teacher what the services are worth, hence the difficulty in keeping some of them and avoiding frequent changes.

THEIR FIRST RESPONSE.

West End Apparatus Called Out for a Fire This Morning.

George Feiring and the appratus under his control at the West End engine house had their first run this morning to Box 45 A lively little blaze had started in the hay stored in the shed at Cadmus' Commercial mills on South Second street. It is supposed to have caught from a spark from a passing locomotive.

Fred J. Harris was the first to see the fire and Robert Morley sent in an alarm. Feiring and the old Alert hose wagon were there inside of two minutes and had a stream on it in short order. The fire was quickly extinguished. The loss was to the baled hay and will reach $25. The loss is covered by insurance.

The summer schedule on the Central Railroad of New Jersey will go into effect next Sunday, June 25th.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY.

LITTLE FOLKS OF WASHINGTON PARK BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Clever Interpretations By Youthful Amateurs, Who Are Also Playwriters—Benefit of the Baby Camp Fund.

The success of the entertainment given by the little folks of Washington Park some weeks ago encouraged them to repeat the performance of the play, the "Daughters of Liberty." It was again given last evening in the barn of ex-Mayor W. L. Saunders. The sketch is very clever and was written entirely by the young misses. The proceeds of the entertainment last evening are to be devoted to the Baby Camp Fund. The performance of last evening ran more smoothly than did the one given previously. The youthful actors and actresses apparently had given their various parts more attention and were not amiss on their lines. The attendance was large, the "theatre" being filled to the limit with the parents and friends of the little ones. The various roles were assumed in a highly creditable manner and the applause was unstinted. A clever feature of the finale was the appearance on her pony of little Miss Mabel Hooley, who captivated the audience by her winsome ways. Those who took part in the play are the children of ex-Mayor Saunders, E. S. Hooley, A. E. Faber, Frank Curtis and G. L. Howard. The receipts amounted to about $45. Following is the cast.

WERE WEDDED SECRETLY

COMPTON E. VAIL, JR., TAKES MISS WILLIAMS FOR A WIFE.

The Marriage Performed Last Thursday Without the Knowledge of the Parents of the Bride Who Opposed it.

The secret marriage of Miss May Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David K. Williams, formerly of this city, but now of Perth Amboy, and Compton E. Vail, Jr., of this city, which was performed at North Branch last Thursday, was announced today. The Williams family were visiting at North Branch, and Mr. Vail went there to call on the young lady. They went out ostensibly for a walk, but in reality to visit Rev. John Doolittle, and be made husband and wife. Miss Fannie Williams, a cousin of the bride, and the minister's wife acted as witnesses.

The couple have been keeping company for sometime and were engaged to be married. The union was opposed by the bride's parents, however. Subsequently the couple made their marriage known to the bride's parents. At first they were piqued at the secret marriage, but finally extended the parental blessing.

After a short wedding tour this week the couple will take up their residence on West Sixth street in this city, where the groom has purchased a residence. The groom is a nephew of the wealthy New York laundry man of the same name, after whom he was called.

Invaded a Cherry Tree.

Archie Laramour and John Cochley visited Mr. Trimmer's cherry trees in the rear of the premises, 1039 West Front street. They were arrested and brought before City Judge Runyon this morning. The Judge talked to the boys and then sentence was suspended on them.

TAKING WEDDING VOWS BEFORE THE ALTAR.

Marriage of May Flanagan and Charles J. Ward.

AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

FOLLOWED BY A RECEPTION AT THE BRIDE'S HOME.

The Ceremony Was Performed by Rev. Father Smyth in the Presence of a Large Assemblage—Description of the Bridal Party—The Happy Couple are Popular—Many Costly Presents Were Received.

The marriage of Miss May Flanagan and Charles Joseph Ward was solemnized at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at 6 o'clock last evening.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. P. E. Smyth, assisted by Revs. Father Westman, of this city, and Father Murphy, of Cranford, a former assistant to Father Smyth. The sacred edifice was litterly packed with the many friends of the young couple, and standing room was at a premium.

The bridal party entered the church and filed up the aisle to the soft strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Mary Smith, the well known organist. First came the ushers, Messrs. Joseph W. Winters, Charles J. Smith, Frank M. Bush, Herbert Parks and George Allen, of Brooklyn, and George J. Tobin, of Plainfield. The bridemaids, Miss Elizabeth Flanagan, sister of the bride, and Miss Annie Lenahan, of New York, came next, being followed by the maid of honor, Miss Loretto Flanagan, youngest sister of the bride.

The bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, Patrick J. Flanagan, brought up the bridal procession, which proceeded to the chancel steps, where they were met by the groom and best man, Thomas Reilly, of Brooklyn, who had entered from the sacristy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father who presented his daughter to the groom as the happy couple took their position before the priests, while the rest of the bridal party formed a circle about the bride and groom.

Then the good father, Rev. P. E. Smyth, performed the solemn ceremony that joined in the holy bonds of wedlock May Flanagan and Charles Joseph Ward.

The scene presented was solemn and impressive. The church had been darkened and the only light was that supplied by the many candles upon and about the altar, while choice flowers lent an additional beauty to the scene, which was made the more picturesque by the rich and handsome gowns of the bride and her retinue of waiting maids.

While the ceremony was being performed the soft low tones of the organ reverberated through the church and to some extent prevented the responses of the bride and groom being heard distinctly.

After the priest had pronounced the couple man and wife and given them his blessing, the bridal party wended its way from the church, the newly wedded couple leading the procession, while the rich tones of the organ burst forth in mirthful melody as if in glad tidings of the joyful event.

The bride was richly gowned in white satin, with duchess lace and pearl trimming. She wore a bridal veil, surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a pearl colored prayer book, the gift of her mother.

The bridemaids were costumed in light blue organdie over blue taffeta silk.

The dress of the maid-of-honor was of pink organdie over pink taffeta silk.

After the ceremony at the church the bridal party was driven to the residence of the bride's parents, No. 522 West Fifth street, where a reception was held, lasting until late into the night. The handsome home was further embellished on the interior by quantities of flowers and palms while the grounds presented an inviting appearance with an abundance of Japanese lanterns suspended at convenient points about the place.

The were about 150 relatives and friends present. The cities of New York, Brooklyn, Yonkers, Bridgeport, Conn., Dunellen and this city, being well represented.

While Mr. and Mrs. Ward were receiving the congratulations of their guests, Rogers' orchestra enlivened the occasion by choice selections.

A sumptuous collation, followed the expressions of good wishes which were showered upon the happy couple.

At the south side of the house had been erected a spacious platform which

The Same Old Story.

Told On The Streets of Plainfield as Well as Elsewhere.

Something you cannot tell too often.
Repetition gives it added strength.
The same old story is pleasant to hear.
When it brings happiness to home.
Brings joy to the afflicted.
Tells how burdens can be raised.
How the back can be relieved.
All the pains and aches removed.
Proves how easily it is done.
Plainfield people tell this story.
Friends and neighbors talk of it.
They tell about their kidney ills.
How they suffered, how the cures came.
What they think of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is what a citizen says:

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once, following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble. I have recommended them to a number of my friends and will continue to do so."

HE HAS MANY PRISONERS

General Wheaton Leaves Das Marinas and Returns With His Forces to Imus.

A PRISONER IS SET FREE

The Captured Filipino Soldiers Were Dressed in Their White Costumes of Amigos.

Major General Otis Sends the List of Killed in the Luzon Campaign—McQuesten Strongly Supports the Military Government and Says Gen. Otis Should Have More Men.

Manila, June 22.—General Wheaton has withdrawn from Perez Das Marinas and returned to Imus.

The Americans have many prisoners, taken in the fighting the last few days. A number of the captured soldiers were dressed in the white costumes of amigos.

Articho, a rival of Aguinaldo, who has been in prison since June, 1898, was discovered by General Wheaton at Das Marinas.

Manila, June 22.—The insurgent army has taken to the swamps and hills beyond Imus. The largest force is supposed to be in the neighborhood of San Francisco de Malabon. This place is not far from Imus, toward the coast.

The heavy rains that fall nightly make campaigning uncomfortable. The roads are still good, but the rice fields adjoining them are pools of water.

The Filipinos will not fight unless they can meet our troops in positions most advantageous to themselves or take our reconnoitring bodies in ambush.

It is impossible to learn what effect the recent defeat has had upon their leaders. This should be disheartening, for they had boasted that the Americans could never conquer the province of Cavite, Aguinaldo's home country, where he always worsted the Spaniards.

General Otis recently received a letter signed by native women of the province, declaring that, if all the men were killed, the women would still keep up the fight against the Americans.

Says More Soldiers are Needed.

San Francisco, June 22.—Charles A. McQuesten, who was on the staff of General E. S. Otis, and who was health officer at Manila, has returned home, invalided by the climate.

Captain McQuesten made a close study of the conditions of the Philippine situation. He is of the opinion that it will take from 100,000 to 150,000 soldiers to properly subdue and hold the islands. He also says that the Peace Commission was an absolute failure, and that its work from the start was without effect. He strongly supports the military government of the islands, except that he thinks more men will be necessary than has been estimated.

"Unless troops, thousands of them, are sent to the aid of our men they will be driven back into Manila in the course of the next few months, during the rainy season. Our men simply cannot stand the climate. Fifty per cent. of them will be incapacitated by sickness and the territory overrun will have to be abandoned. Manila will be in a state of seige again.

"Our officers and soldiers have accomplished wonders and have proved themselves the best soldiers in the world. But nothing decisive has come of it, because our men were not in great enough force.

"One of the great dangers that our men have to face is the climate. The new comers will be at a disadvantage, because the volunteers who are returning home are inured to the climate. This will make more men necessary than we would otherwise have to put in the field.

"I want to say a word for the Western volunteers. They make the finest soldiers in the world and their fighting qualities are wonderful. But the volunteers all want to return home, and I hardly think that the plan to enlist three skeleton regiments from the volunteers now in the Philippines will be a success.

Casualties in Luzon Campaign.

Washington, June 22.—The following list of killed in the Luzon campaign has been received from Major-General Otis: Fourteenth Infantry, June 10, Thomas W. Andrews, near Las Pinas; June 13, William Somers and Eli Goodron, at Zapote River; Fourth Infantry, near Dasmarinas, July 20, Corporal Pete Goorske, William Coak, Daniel Donovan and Charles Hope.

Woman Fights the Trust.

Akron, Ohio, June 22.—Nellie M. Hower has filed a suplemental petition in Common Pleas Court asking for another injunction restraining the American Cereal Company from entering any trust. She alleges that the Directors and agents of the company are secretly negotiating with parties unknown for sale of the company's property to a new corporation. A temporary order continuing until June 26 was allowed by Judge Kohler.

Train Wreck in Jersey.

Elizabeth, N. J., June 22.—An axle on a freight car on the Pennsylvania Railroad broke two miles out of Elizabeth. The train was thrown from the track and several cars smashed. Traffic was delayed for several hours.

GORMAN SERIOUSLY ILL.

The Former Senator is Unable to Leave His Home.

Baltimore, Md., June 22.—Former Senator Arthur P. Gorman is seriously ill, being unable to leave his home because of intestinal trouble that may become incurable. Mr. Gorman was advised, after his retirement from the Senate, to rest, but he plunged deeply into politics. He was busily engaged in preparing for the Maryland State campaign, and for the next democratic convention, in which he has been expected to become a Presidential possibility.

He has been ill for more than a month. He was much improved on Saturday, but on Monday suffered a relapse. His condition has been serious ever since.

He intended to go to the Virginia Hot Springs, but will probably rest at Saratoga.

May Go Short on Milk.

Chicago, June 22.—Men with dairy farms in the vicinity of Chicago are becoming alarmed at what they term the wholesale syaughter of cattle for the purpose of making tests for tuberculosis. Directors of the Milk Shippers' Union, at a meeting in this city, resolved to advise farmers not to allow tests to be made in their herds.

Chicago, June 21.—Carriages and vehicles of nearly every description driven by compressed air, will be running on the streets of Chicago by next January, if the plans of the Hartley Power Supply Company are consummated.

The company was incorporated in 1895 wi tha capital of $1,000,000, and it is claimed that this sum in actual cash has been embarked thus far in the enterprise. Most of the capital came from Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

$125,000,000 Distilling Combine.

New York, June 22.—Negotiations have been going on looking to the consolidation of the important distilling interests of the country. Levy Mayer of Chicago is in this city to see about it. It is said that the plans contemplate the organization of a new company with $125,000,000 capital stock. This company, it was reported, will combine the Standard Distilling Company, with a capital stock of $24,000,000; the Kentucky Distilling and Warehouse Company, capital stock $32,000,000, and the Eastern rye distillers, as well as various allied and affiliated interests, including the American Spirits Manufacturing Company, with a capital stock of $35,000,000 and a bond issue of $2,000,000.

President Greeted by Thousands.

Adams, Mass., June 22.—The President broke his rule yesterday, and made a short speech thanking the public for the reception given for him. It was purely spontaneous, and was due to the greeting of fully 35,000 persons who met him at the Springfield reception, in front of City Hall. Former Lieutenans Governor Halle had introduced the President to the multitude, saying that he would not make a speech but the President did speak, and it found hearty favor among his hearers.

Is the Ethelwold Lost.

Philadelphia, June 22.—It is believed that the British steamer Ethelwold of the Quaker City Fruit Company has gone down. A despatch from Kingston Jamaica, said that the steamer Brookline of the Boston Fruit Company had arrived there with one officer and three of the crew of the Ethelwold. The missing steamer left here on June 7 for Port Antonio, Jamaica. Her Captain was John Henshaw of this city. She had a crew of eleven men.

Pearisburg Earthquake.

Pearisburg, Va., June 22.—An unusually severe earthquake shock was felt in this neighborhood. The oscilations, which were attended by a loud roar, lasted nearly a minute and caused much alarm. Brick work was cracked and the stone chimneys of rude dwellings were shaken down. Immediately before the shock the temperature fell so low that frost was feared. The sky was clear at the time. Ever since the shock the unusual cold has prevailed.

Maysville Woman's Plight.

Dayton, Ohio, June 22.—A woman who gave the name of Belle Lauglin, 32, a widow, and her home Maysville, Ky., was found on a street corner apparently suffering from an overdose of morphine. The attending physician said that the woman was manifestly addicted to the use of the drug. She was sent to a hospital.

Bridgeton, N. J., June 22.—Thomas Connelly shot and fatally wounded Sadie Henitz because she refused to marry him, and he is now under guard at the jail. The shooting occurred while Connelly and Miss Henitz were out driving. A number of people witnessed the deed and Connelly was quickly arrested.

MANY SHOTS EXCHANGED

Miners' Strike at Evansville, Ind., Has Assumed Serious Proportions.

FIRED ON FROM AMBUSH

Imported Negroes From Kentucky Placed in an Uncomfortable and Dangerous Position.

Six Men Badly Wounded in a Furious Exchange of Shots—Authorities Seriously Contemplate Appealing to Governor Mount for Military Protection.

Evansville, Ind., June 22.—The local miners' strike has assumed a serious aspect here. Operators of the Sunnyside mine had imported thirty negro miners from Kentucky. The negroes arrived at the mine to begin operations, when unknown parties concealed in the bushes opened fire on them. It was very dark and a stampede followed.

Some of the non-union men responded with revolvers and many shots were exchanged. Six were badly wounded. James Moore, a stockholder in the mine, was shot in the back. Henry Smith and John Philips, both colored, were probably fatally wounded. Edward Geiger, a merchant; Chas. Smith, colored, and John Norsweather, colored, were badly wounded.

A riot call was sent to police headquarters and response was given, but the attacking party had all disappeared.

Physicians were summoned and the wounded men given attention. James Moore was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, and physicians have hope of his recovery.

The Sunnyside mine is closed and the imported men are kept in hiding. The proprietors refuse to discuss the affair or divulge their plans.

The authorities seriously consider appealing to Gov. Mount for troops.

To Settle Cleveland Strike.

Cleveland, June 22.—A determined effort is being made to settle the street railway strike. Committees from both sides have met with the Committee of the City Council appointed to bring the dispute to an end. The meeting was secret.

The serious riot on the South Side was the prelude to a series of minor disturbances carried on for several hours. In every part of the city the switches were destroyed and rails torn up and the tracks piled high with obstructions. These were removed by the police without difficulty, and there had been no more rioting.

The Big Consolidated Company shows signs of yielding and it is generally believed that the strike will be at an end inside of the next forty-eight hours.

Strike in Pennsylvania Depot.

Jersey City, N. J., June 22.—About sixty-five iron-workers, employed in making improvements at the Pennsylvania Depot here, have gone on strike. The men have been working in extending and moving the bagle arch at the east end of the depot to about 125 feet eastward, to afford more train-shed room. The men received $2.50 a day for ten hours' work. They now want $2.80 and eight hours' work. They say that the work is dangerous and that they have been underpaid. They are in the employ of Andrew Brandt.

Was a Great Day for McGuires.

Altoona, Pa., June 22.—Dr. Thomas J. McGuire of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Miss Bertha McGuire of this city were united in marriage by the Rev. Father McGuire. William McGuire was the best man and Miss Genevieve McGuire the bridesmaid. The bride and bridegroom are not even distantly related, nor is either of them related to the priest. Of the fifty guests at the wedding forty-eight were of the name of McGuire.

Killed by an Express Train.

Tarrytown, June 22.—August Schaefer, 35 years old, was struck here by the express train which left the Grand Central Depot at 10:30 o'clock and instantly killed. A freight train had just passed north on the middle track and Schaefer started to cross. The gates were down. The noise of the freight train prevented him from hearing the express. He was tossed fifty feet. Schaefer was a prominent tailor and leaves a widow and family.

$18,000,000 in Gold.

Dawson, via Seattle, June 22.—The season's output in the Klondike gold fields will amount to more than $18,000,000. This is double the output of last year's work, but expert miners agree that the estimate is conservative. The largest amount of gold ever brought to Dawson at one time came in on a train of six mules May 21, each mule carrying 250 pounds of treasure.

Two Fires in Wichita, Kan.

Wichita, Kas., June 22.—The Wichita Mill & Elevator Company lost its buildings, machinery and 10,000 bushels of wheat by fire. The loss is estimated at $35,000, half of which is covered by insurance. At the same hour a fire on the West side destroyed the Badger Lumber yard and a barn. Incendiarism is suspected.

One Dead, Eight Hurt.

A Kentucky editor has a friend who talks to him in this way: "I attribute all the disorders of the system to the stomach: when the stomach is all right, we are well and happy. For a long time I suffered from the worst form of habitual constipation. Sleeplessness and nervousness set in, and at times I was so melancholy and out of sorts that life was a burden. An advertisement in our local paper induced me to give a trial, and they have completely cured me. I can say for Ripans Tabules, they are, in my opinion, the best medicine for constipation on earth. They accomplished for me what all other remedies failed to do. I am all right now—sleep well and life is worth living. I believe the Tabules put my stomach in shape, and the stomach did the rest. My general health is better than it was for years previous."

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

NINE PERSONS INJURED

Explosion of Fireworks in Baltimore Store Burns Many.

Baltimore, June 22.—A terrific explosion occurred at the fireworks store of George R. Bassett, No. 603 Sewell street, near Pennsylvania avenue, last evening, in which nine persons were injured. The injured are: Lucy Bassett, eleven years, burned on hands and body, and right leg broken: Marion Bassett, six years, seriously bruised and burned: Melba Bassett, seven years, burned: James F. McDermott, thirty-eight years, hands and head burned: Fleming McDermott, six years face and hands burned: Archie McDermott, three and one-half years, burned on hands: Firemen Greenberry Chapman, John Gilliland, Howard I. The explosion was caused by a child dropping a lighted match in a box of explosives.

Germany's Assurance.

Washington, June 22.—Considerable surprise has been caused here by the statement made in Berlin despatches that claims would be filed against the United States on account of the destruction of German property by shells from the United States cruiser Philadelphia in the bombardment of Samoan villages in the possession of the Mataafa rebels.

The statement of Baron von Bulow in the Reichstag that despatches have been received from Baron Sternberg the German Commissioner in Samoa, indicating the possibility that the king ship may be abolished, caused much interest here, but it was said that this Government had not received any official information that such an outcome of the deliberations of the Tripartite Commission was likely.

Plan for Disarmament.

The Hague, June 22.—The first committee of the Peace Conference will examine to-day the first clause of the Russian circular of Dec. 30, 1898, concerning the non-increase of military strength by the various Powers and the diminution in the future of these forces and the decrease of the military budgets.

It seems that the Czar ordered his delegates to press the matter with all possible expedition, Russia offering, if necessary, to withdraw her new navy building scheme. The delegates are discreetly reticent as to the possibility of an agreement on the matter. It is probable that to-morrow Russia will submit a plan for decreasing the general military strength.

More Wind for Chicago.

Chicago, June 22.—Carriages and vehicles of nearly every description driven by compressed air, will be running on the streets of Chicago by next January, if the plans of the Hartley Power Supply Company are consumated.

The company was incorporated in 1895 with a capital of $1,000,000, and it is claimed that this sum in actual cash has been embarked thus far in the enterprise. Most of the capital came from Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

Indians Making Trouble.

Spokane, Wash., June 22.—Major Wygan and a detail of twelve men from Company M, 24th United States Infantry, have gone to Chatcolet, on the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation, in Idaho, to put down an uprising of Indians occasioned by the trespassing of whites on their reservation. No serious trouble is anticipated, and the sending of troops is merely a precaution.

Rioters Indicted.

Spokane, Wash., June 22.—The supposed ringleaders in the Coeur d'Alene riot of April 29, in which Bunker Hill and Sullivan mills and offices were blown up, a quarter of a million of property destroyed and two men killed, were indicted by the Wardner, Idaho, Grand Jury. The charges are murder, arson and conspiracy. The men have been given till June 25 to plead.

Cadets' Camp Wrecked by Storm.

West Point, N. Y., June 22.—Many of the cadets are congratulating themselves upon their narrow escape from serious injury. The big storm wrecked their camp. Tents were blown down and cadets, in imminent danger, were buried under them. Those entangled in the fallen canvas were rescued by their comrades.

Altoona, Pa., June 22.—At the Duncansville works the American Steel Hoop Company has announced that puddlers' wages will be increased from $3.30 to $3.50 a day. Four hundred men are affected by the increase, which is the third made this summer.

DELAWARE STORM SWEPT

Great Havoc is Wrought by Wind and Lightning All Over the State.

WORST IN MANY YEARS.

Several Persons Badly Injured and Many Barns and Houses Wrecked By the Furious Gale.

Scores of Trees Blown Down and Crops Badly Damaged—A Number of Horses Killed by Lightning—Severe Storms in Other Sections of the Country.

Wilmington, Del., June 22.—Reports of the disastrous electrical storm and tornado which passed through this state continue to come in from all the country districts and all go to show that great havoc was wrought at every point. It was by far the worst storm that has visited this state in the past twenty-five years, and the property loss is considerably greater than that which has resulted from all the storms combined in the last quarter of a century. Trees by the score were uprooted, fields of grain destroyed, numerous barns and houses unroofed and a great many buildings razed to the ground. Several persons were more or less injured but so far as learned there are no fatalities recorded.

The storm spread pretty nearly over the entire state, and from almost every town comes a tale of widespread destruction. Many barns and houses were struck by lightning and a number of head of cattle are said to have been killed in different sections of the state.

Lightning's Pranks at West Bank.

Red Bank, N. J., June 22.—Lightning played havoc and did much damage near here. A bolt struck John Hoffmire's mill, and in a few minutes the entire building was in flames. Nothing could be done to save the mill or its contents. About the same time lightning struck the house of Frank Bowers, and also the house of Walter Boyd, in Red Bank. Both buildings were more or less damaged, and some of the inmates were severely stunned. Two frame buildings at Middletown, a few miles from here, were also struck by lightning and burned.

Another Tornado in Wisconsin.

Oconto, Wis., June 22.—A tornado swept through this vicinity doing great damage and alarming the residents greatly, though no one was injured. Couillardville, Pensaukee and Brookside were in the path of the tornado and many buildings in those places were blown down or unroofed. At Greenbay the storm swung northward and formed a waterspout, which disappeared around Peshtige reefs.

Wind and Hail in Indiana.

Marion, Ind., June 22.—The worst tornado and hail storm that ever visited this locality passed over here. The full force of the storm did not strike Marion, but passed just south of the city and wrecked dwelling houses and outbuildings.

Water Famine in Sing Sing Prison.

Sing Sing, June 22.—Warden Johnson fears a water famine in the penitentiary. Since the branch Croton reservoir has been undergoing repairs, the village of Sing Sing has been furnishing the prison with water, but the authorities now announce that they will have to shut off because of the long drought. The water on hand in the prison will only last two days. An urgent appeal has been sent to the Aqueduct Commission.

Two Killed by a Train.

Sandusky, O., June 22.—Frank Reynolds and Royal Van Housen of this city and Arthur Richmond of Syracuse were struck by a Lake Shore locomotive in the yards here. Reynolds and Richmond were instantly killed and Van Housen was seriously injured, his right leg and arm being broken. The men had got out of the way of one train and had stepped in front of another.

Trust Outlook Favorable.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 22.—President McKain, of the Indiana Manufacturing Company, who has been fathering the great Thrasher Trust, has returned from New York, and reports that the plans are maturing in the most satisfactory manner. It will require $75,000,000 to finance the scheme, all of which, says Mr. McKain, has been pledged.

Change in American Plans.

Washington, June 22.—The American delegates to the Peace Conference of The Hague have been cabled instructions modifying the State Department's plan of arbitration. As now proposed the plan is practically what prevails now. Nations, when so disposed, can organize an arbitration tribunal.

The Treasury Finances.

Washington, June 22.—The Treasury deficit for the fiscal year 1899, which closes ten days hence, is conservatively estimated at less than $100,000,000. Already the receipts for the year aggregate over $498,800,000, with the expenditures barely $100,000,000 more, with ten days yet to be accounted for.

Chicago Traction's President.

Chicago, June 22.—James H. Eckels, President of the Commercial National Bank and ex-Comptroller of the Treasury, is being considered prominently for the permanent Presidency of the Chicago Union Traction Company.

Fall Kills Schoolboy.

Orange, N. J., June 22.—Bonanzo Church is dead as the result of straining a heart ligament in a fall a year ago. His mates of the graduating class of 1899, whose reception he was to have attended, will be present.

YELLOW FEVER IN CAMPS

Two Deaths at Santiago and One at Puerto Principe.

Washington, June 22.—Yellow fever has appeared at Santiago, as shown by the following bulletin posted at the War Department:—

"Havana, June 21.—Death report, Santiago:—Private David Mulhern, C, Fifth Infantry, died 18th, yellow fever; Private Thomas Jennings, band, Fifth Infantry, died 19th, yellow fever. Puerto Principe:—Private Elliot D. Holderman, D, Fifth Infantry, died 19th, yellow fever; Private Louis J. Wagner, A, Fifteenth Infantry, died 17th, accidental poisoning.

BROOKE, commanding."

Washington, June 22.—Surgeon Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, has received a cable from Dr. Park, the quarantine officer at Santiago, reporting the existence at that port of fourteen cases of yellow fever and four deaths from that cause. This is not the first report the Marine Hospital Service has received of the existence of the scourge at Santiago. Five days ago came the first report of the fever. On that day five cases were reported. There has not been time for a mail report since the outbreak. In addition to the number of cases and deaths, Dr. Park's cable conveyed the information that the American troops had evacuated the barracks and their bedding and baggage, and were being disinfected aboard the marine hospital bark Rough Rider, which is fitted with a complete disinfecting plant.

Almost a Mile a Minute.

New York, June 22.—Charles Murphy, the Brooklyn cyclist, who is training at Babylon, L. I., for a mile-a-minute ride behind a locomotive later this month, had a trying out with the result that he wheeled the mile in the amazingly fast time of 1 minute and 5 seconds. The trial took place over a smooth and level stretch on the Long Island Railroad, near Maywood. A special carload or railroad officials and newspaper men went down to see it, and they as well as fifty or more natives stood along the track and gazed open mouthed at the veteran cyclist as, with no great effort, he hung on to the flying locomotive.

Charles Wadsworth Captured.

Gloversville, N. Y., June 22.—Charles Wadsworth, alleged to be the ringleader of the "Windfall" gang of robbers in Hamilton county, has been captured after a desperate fight in the Windfall region of the Adirondacks. Wadsworth was shot and wounded before he surrendered. He had eluded officers since last fall. Since then several of the gang have been captured. Some were sent to Dannemoar and others are still waiting trial. No trace has been obtained of William Wadsworth, who escaped from Hamilton County Jail two weeks ago.

To End Traffic in White Slaves.

London, June 22.—An international conference on the white slave traffic was opened here, the Duke of Westminister presiding. America and most European countries sent delegates. A letter was read from Lord Salisbury expressing the sympathy of the Government with the objects of the conference, and messages promising support were received from the Queen of Norway, the Empress of Germany and the Czar of Russia.

To Reargue Canteen Case.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 22.—A motion for a new trial in the Camp Meade canteen case, where soldiers were convicted of selling liquor without a license, was made in court, and Judge Simonton ordered it placed on the argument list. All of the legal points in the controversy will now be argued. The report that Camp Meade is to be abandoned as a camp is not correct.

Atlanta Clay Company.

Trenton, N. J., June 22.—The Atlantic Clay Company, organized to carry on the business of digging clay, mining clay and marl, and manufacturing the same into brick, tile, sewer pipe, fire clay, &c., has been incorporated here with a capital of $3,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is to be preferred stock bearing a cumulative interest of 7 per cent.

Our Justice Upheld in Samoa.

Apia, Samoan Islands, June 14, by way of Auckland, N. Z., June 22.—Mataafa has surrendered 1,850 rifles and the Loyalists have given up 2,000. After June 20 a heavy penalty will be forced upon natives found with rifles in their possession. Mataafa promises to turn in more weapons.

Bitten by Mad Calf.

New York, June 22.—Hiram A. Schweppenheiser, of Lime Ridge, near Bloomsburg, Pa., is a patient at the Pasteur Institute, No. 313 West Twenty-third street. He was bitten by a calf and is in fear of hydrophobia as the calf died from this disease.

Dewey Reaches Colombo.

Colombo, Island of Ceylon, June 22.—The United States cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey, arrived from Singapore.

Two Feet of Pain.

Pain is not usually measured by the foot, yet it is a fact that the unfortunates who suffer the miseries of aching feet endure an inch of torture to every square inch of foot they own.

Pain of any kind causes a strain upon the nervous system, and if prolonged and unchecked will create depression of spirits and despondency.

Aching feet are vexatious, aggravating and irritating, and nothing is more annoying than feet deformed and distorted from corns and bunions. Mr. Brown's painless method for the treatment and cure of corns, bunions, ingrowing and club toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty, chafed and burning feet, is endorsed by all eminent physicians. He has made diseases of the feet a life study. Corns, bunions and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago in Plainfield have not come back and the feet today are sound and well. Jersey Farmers Prosperous.

Franklin Dye, secretary of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture, was a witness yesterday before the Industrial Commission and said the general condition of the New Jersey farmer had improved within the past thirty years, although, owing to the opening of western lands, the price of eastern farming land had fallen. He thought that the railroads favored the western farmers to such an extent that a bushel of wheat could be carried to New York from Dakota as cheaply as from Southern New Jersey.

The hours for the farm laborer, he said, had been shortened within the past fifteen years, while the pay had been increased. This labor was, however, he said, mainly transient, the laborers being principally Swedes, Hungarians and other immigrants, who arrived with little knowledge of conditions and work, and as soon as the farmers had instructed them they left for other employment.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, COLONIAL SECRETARY.
If there is a conflict in South Africa it will be because Joseph Chamberlain, England's colonial secretary, meets the firmness of President Kruger in the same spirit. Chamberlain believes in protecting British interests at all hazards, and he will push the Boers to the utmost limit if Oom Paul does not recede from his position.

Notwithstanding the denials of United States Senator John Kean about the projected pooling of interests between the trolley companies controlled by him and those owned and controlled by the Rikers in Union county, the news of which was issued from The Daily Press, there is strong belief that such a combination is not afar off. Perhaps it is policy for Mr. Kean not to concede it at the present time, but to those who have observed the dickering that has been going on in trolley enterprises in Union county for the past year there has appeared a large sized, but well obscured, colored gentleman in the woodpile. Future developments will tell the true story.

After years of agitation Plainfielders were able yesterday to see a trolley car speeding towards Scotch Plains. It was a great event, cherished long in the minds of both the people of this city and the denizens of the historic town nestling close up under the brow of the Watchung mountain. There is old belief that things that come the hardest taste the best, and to transmute that dogma to fit the trolley situation would make us say that the Scotch Plains line ought to be the most highly appreciated of any yet opened in this vicinity.

If Mayor Smalley will head the list of subscriptions for raising a big advertising fund for Plainfield with $50, isn't there twenty other Plainfield men who will do the same? It would seem so. One thousand dollars contributed by a score of townsmen would be a nucleus that would start such a fund in booming shape.

It is understood in political circles that Senator Sewell upon his return late in the summer will manage the campaign in the counties where State Senators are to be chosen, as they will have the most important bearing on the election of a United States Senator.

What with the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals rendering a decision that is to put a quietus on horse racing in this State and the formation of automobile clubs all over the country, the days of the horse, man's best animal friend, would seem to be numbered.

The Plainfield Advancement Association has struck the keynote of success in upbuilding Plainfield by their determination to advertise.

Democratic candidates for county offices are, in comparison to the G. O. P. situation, as scarce as hen's teeth.

Spare a dollar for the Babies' Camp Fund. It will do an immense amount of good to the little ones.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Under the caption "Finds Misleading Statements in the Press Reports," the News of yesterday publishes an article stating objections made by Superintendent Adleman of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, as to what Charles W. Runyon, of the telephone company, said at the meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening when trolley matters were under consideration. If anyone will read the account in Tuesday's Press they will learn what Mr. Runyon said, which was reported accurately.

Attention is again called to the disgraceful condition of the station house which is used for the temporary detention of prisoners. This "rookery" has been once condemned by the Board of Health. Why it should longer be maintained as an eye-sore to the public and a menace to health and good morals of the city is past comprehension. A prisoner who was recently locked up in one of the cells at this tumbled-down apology for a city jail and police headquarters, came forth the next morning to face the City Judge covered with vermin, the result of but one night's familiarity with the pest house.

George Day, editor of The Dunellen Call, is to be congratulated for his enterprise and progress. Owing to an increase in his business he is about to make some improvements about his place. He is to move his present building on the rear of his lot, and he will then make an addition to it to give him more room. He will raise the building making provisions for a cellar. In this basement he will place a new press and a boiler that will amply provide for his increasing business. One part of the building will be devoted to the composition department, while a roomy office will also be set apart in the new arrangement. Mr. Day, and his assistant, Mr. Douglass, are to be congratulated upon their success, and may it always continue.

I lent my friend a dollar and he thanked me, but never returned it. I gave him an opinion, which he returned at once, unused and without thanks.

It's just good-natured raillary when I joke you on your foibles; but its impudent presumption and ill-natured meddling when you make people laugh over my failings.

The old proverb about the barking dog's not biting, doesn't tell half the story; it's the biting dog who doesn't bark beforehand, to let you know he's going to, that plays the deuce.

The new commandment for the new generation evidently reads: Thou shalt not honor thy father and thy mother, lest someone think that thou are not up-to-date; and when they get old thou shalt put them into some "institution," lest they annoy thy wife, thy children and thy daughter's lovers.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on L. W. Randolph, Druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c. and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is health'ul, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nouri-hment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 22.—Last Tuesday evening lightning struck the house occupied by George Shaffer and Edward Uren, and considerable damage resulted. The Christian Endeavor Society of the church held a strawberry and ice cream festival in the parlors of the church Thursday evening of last week realizing $25. This was presented to their pastor to help defray the expenses of the trip and to show him some recognition from them of the work he is accomplishing in the church. Mr. Shott was agreeably surprised by the donation.

Westfield, June 22.—The members of the advisory committee, auxiliary to the Westfield Board of Education, have finished their labors and sent a report to the Board yesterday, embodying their conclusions. They recommend that $31,000 be raised to be expended for increased school facilities; $4,500 to be expended for a schoolhouse at Mountainside; that sufficient money be expended on the Prospect street building to put it in good repair, and the balance be expended to erect an eight-room schoolhouse, large enough to accommodate 400 children.

BAMBOOZLING GRANDMA.

"There never was a grandma half so good!"
He whispered while beside her chair he stood,
And laid his rosy cheek
With manner very meek,
Against her dear old face in loving mood.

"There never was a nicer grandma born;
I know some little boys must be forlorn,
Because they've none like you.
I wonder what I'd do
Without a grandma's kisses night and morn?"

"There never was a dearer grandma, there!"
He kissed her and he smoothed her snow-white hair;
Then fixed her ruffled cap,
And nestled in her lap,
While grandma, smiling, rocked her old arm chair.

"When I'm a man what things to you I'll bring;
A horse and carriage and a watch and ring.
All grandmas are so nice
(Just here he kissed her twice),
And grandmas give a good boy everything."

Before his dear old grandma could reply
This boy looked up, and with a roguish eye,
Then whispered in her ear
That nobody might hear:
"Say, grandma, have you any more mince pie?"

THE BOY AND HIS CAP.

Being a Brief Account of a Familiar Household Incident.

"I can't find my cap anywhere," is a sentence more or less familiar in the household, that being what the boy says, looking for his cap, when he wants to go out to play. Early in the search he enlists his mother, and that may make a serious business of it. She has to drop her dusting or whatever household work she may be engaged in, and the search may take a long time.

"Where did you put it when you came in?" is a question sure to be asked, sooner or later, but all the boy can answer is:

"I don't know."

And then the search goes on. Everywhere, over and under, in all sorts of places, all at a great loss of time, if not of temper. It is found at last, as most things are, in time, and in some simple easy place, which makes the finding of it all the more exasperating.

The boy takes it and goes out to play and straightway forgets all about it; but it may take quite a little time to restore the normal calm in the house.

It is a mystery how the boy manages to lose his cap as often as he does, but it appears to be a boy's way, and common to almost all.

The Story of a Duck.

Once upon a time there was a little duck. He did not know much about the tricks of the world, and he was very saucy.

His mother wanted him to learn to say "Quack," but he thought that word of little account.

One day he said to his mother in a very saucy tone:

"What is the use to learn to say, 'Quack, quack!'"

So his mother began to tell him a story:

"In this very barn was a duck. He learned to say 'Quack,' and one morning the fox came peeping around the farm yard and caught sight of the duck. He caught it and was about to carry it away when it cried, as loud as it could, 'Quack, quack!' and Ben, the farm boy, heard it and saved it."

The little duck ever afterward said "Quack!"

An Honest King.

King Frederick VI. of Denmark, while traveling through Jutland, one day entered a village school and found the children lively and intelligent and quite ready to answer his questions.

"Well, youngsters," he said, "what are the names of the greatest Kings of Denmark?"

With one accord they cried out: "Canute the Great, Waldemar and Christian V."

Just then a little girl, to whom the schoolmaster had whispered something, stood up and raised her hand.

"Do you know another?" asked the King.

"Yes—Frederick VI."

"What great act did he perform?"

The girl hung her head and stammered out: "I don't know."

"Be comforted, my child," said the King; "I don't know either."

The Street Cars of Manila.

All the street cars in the city of Manilla were made in America. The open cars are 13 feet 6 inches long over dashers and have a seating capacity of twenty passengers. These cars are drawn by Philippine horses, which are about the size of a Newfoundland dog, and it was, therefore, necessary to make them extremely light and at the same time of the required strength. The street railway company is known as the Transvias de Filipinas.

Don't forget that an ounce of silence is better than a pound of explanation.

HOW TO DEVELOP MUSCLES.

What Is Necessary to the Maintenance of a Correct Poise.

It is well-trained muscles that give one a graceful carriage. If one is to walk in a becoming manner his legs must be strong enough in every part to carry the body with ease and keep it in correct poise. If one has an unsteady, wabbling gait it is certain that some of his leg muscles are flabby and undeveloped. He may be strong as an ox from foot to thigh, but that may mean uneven development, and while he may be able to carry a heavy burden many muscles that might serve him in the matter of gracefulness have gone to waste. An excellent exercise for the development of muscles that maintain body balance will be found in putting one foot well ahead of the other and, suporting a part of the weight on the tee of the rear foot, let the body fall and rise so that the knee comes as near as possible to the carpet without touching it on every downward movement. One will find after half a minute of it that he has discovered a new pain. That means nothing more than an unused muscle, however, and every one of those he can reclaim would be worth their weight in gold if he were going to buy gracefulness.

What Wives Should Remember.

That Adam was made first.
That "he pays the freight."
That nine men in ten detest gossip.
That all angels are not of your sex.
That confidence begets confidence.
That men sometimes have "nerves."
That there should be no place like home.
That it takes two to prolong a family jar.
That the least said is the soonest mended.
That with all his faults you love him still.
That you should have no secrets from him.
That husbands have troubles of their own.
That "he's all right" when you know him.
That womans' best weapon is her weakness.
That home is more than half what you make it.
That he is just as anxious to get rich as you are.
That wives are unusually favored in this country.
That you can't keep books, and there is no use trying.
That he likes to hear that the baby is his dead image.
That six pairs of slippers are enough for any man.
That a man likes neatness in your attire at all times.
That candy in excess is worse than rum in moderation.
That you should not run up bills without his knowledge.
That "a baby in the house is a well-spring of pleasure."
That she who puts on the gloves should know how to spar.
That he is not in love with every woman he glances at.
That it is a policy to let him believe he is "lord and master."
That your relationship is closer to him than to your mother.
That a prompt and pointed answer does not turn away wrath.
That he does not get sleepy the same moment that you do.
That there are letter drop-boxes on the nearest corners.
That you should not expect him to light the fire in the morning.
That his typewriter cannot help it if she is pretty.
That he expects you to look your best when you go out with him.
That it does not improve his razor to use it for chiropodical purposes.
That house hunting is not reckoned by the average man as a pleasure.
That 8 p. m. is sixty minutes past 7 o'clock, not fifteen minutes past 9.—(Boston Globe.)

The Mistress's Touch.

"Oh," sighed a weary woman, "most of the work that I do is like washing one's face! One receives no credit for doing it, and yet it shows and is a disgrace if it is not done."

She might have added that only the lady and house mother would think of doing just the things she does. It is the trained eye of the mistress that notes the fingermarks on the edge of the door, where it, instead of the knob, has been seized by Bridget's or Norah's not over-clean hand. It is never Bridget or Norah who thinks to wash out the soap cups in the various bedrooms, or who remembers every few days to scald out the water pitchers, lest they acquire a musty odor. And it is the mistress who dusts the upper back rungs of the chair after Norah has given the drawing-room "a thorough cleaning." Only the mistress discerns these things and sets them right. It is the lady housewife's touch and supervision that mark the difference between eye service and love service and makes of an ordinary house a true home. Since her little touches, that she feels do not show, bring about such results, may she not be satisfied?

MILLINERY NOTES.

Both Flowers and Fruit Are Used as Trimming.

There are little hats entirely of flowers, trimmed with changeable ribbon, which are exceedingly attractive. For example, a toque made of mignonette is decorated with green and white changeable ribbon and another of Parma violets with straw and violet ribbon.

The veil is being omitted more and more frequently, even for informal occasions. Of course it is never worn upon occasions of ceremony. Speaking of omissions, the custom of a man offering his arm to a lady is now more honored in the breach than the observance. For a long time it has disappeared from ordinary daily life, although a former generation considered it essential to good manners. The only occasions upon which the custom has obtained of late years have been the walk in to dinner from the drawing room and the promenade in the ballroom between dances, but now promenaders are beginning to walk side by side without touching arms, and no doubt it will soon be possible for a woman to march in to dinner without actual support from her cavalier. Obstructionists will doubtless be able to trace back this change of manners to the higher education of woman and her adoption of the bicycle.

Cherries are a frequent decoration of hats this season. A model of light beige straw is very prettily trimmed with ecru lace and a quantity of cherries of different shades of red, with foliage.

The hat illustrated is of beige straw, the edge being violet, with beige tulle. At the side is a chou of rare ribbon, connected with another chou which rests upon the hair. A trail of pink convolvulus passes up over the crown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER FASHIONS.

Humble Fabrics Exalted to a High Position.

Within the last few years many materials not before considered as belonging to the domain of dress have come into use for gowns, denim and crash being conspicuous among them, but this year there is a yet more striking innovation, burlaps, pure and simple, being introduced as a dress fabric. Of course it is not the coarsest, roughest kind of sacking. It is the comparatively smooth, even quality of the lightest weight used for wall hangings, etc., and is appropriately trimmed with incrustations of duck of a different color and with cotton or linen braid and tape in fancy patterns. An era of simplicity has begun, for, while these coarse goods are so largely employed for ordinary hot weather wear, swiss muslin, both plain and dotted, composes some of the nicest hot weather gowns.

Country hats of lawn and muslin are again in vogue. They are not particularly durable, but as they are inexpensive that is of little consequence, and they are extremely light and cool as well as attractive while they are clean and fresh. They are entirely composed of puffs and draperies of muslin, and the wearer can give them an aspect of originality by the addition of a knot of velvet or ribbon or a bunch of flowers and some quills.

The picture shows a novel tailor made redingote of very thin mastic cloth. It is tight, but forms a sort of stitched plastron in front, which falls from the neck to the foot and is adorned with wooden buttons. Bands of shirred silk are applied to the foot of the redingote and the sleeves in ornamental designs and also decorate the outside of the flaring collar. There is a narrow belt of the silk also.

Wien. Der Kaiser empfing kürzlich Mark Twain in längerer Audienz. Mark Twain siedelt nach zweijährigem Aufenthalt in Wien nach London über und kehrt im Herbst nach Amerika heim.—Hier starb der deutschliberale Historiker Hofrath v. Zeißberg, zuletzt Direktor der Wiener Hofbibliothek, noch nicht 60 Jahre alt, am Herzschlag.—In Erlach unter der Raxalpe starb Graf Josef Hoyos, der vorletzte noch lebende Zeuge der Kronprinzen-Katastrophe von Meyerling. Von den damaligen Zeugen lebt nur noch Prinz Philipp von Coburg.—Ein vom Militär-Aeronautischen Institut aufgestiegener Militärballon wurde durch den Sturm an das große Thor eines benachbarten Zimmerplatzes getrieben, das umstürzte. Der Ballon platzte; die Offiziere konnten sich jedoch, ohne Schaden zu nehmen, retten. Auch die Apparate und der mitgenommene Weinvorrath konnte geborgen werden.

Budapest. Der Beamte der Kommerzialbank, Johann Fröhlich, flüchtete nach Entwendung eines Packets Werthpapiere, wurde jedoch in Karlsbad festgenommen. Fröhlich hatte 27,000 Gulden baar bei sich, außerdem 40,000 Gulden in Werthpapieren nach Prag an die Länderbank geschickt, wo sie mit Beschlag belegt wurden.

Graz. Hier starb im Alter von 88 Jahren der Obergerichtspräsident Josef Ritter v. Wafer, Mitglied des Herrenhauses. Wafer war einer der freisinnigsten Juristen und als Abgeordneter eine Leuchte des Parlamentes.

Köflach. In Puchbach ist die Pulverstampfe in die Luft geflogen. Hütte und Mühlrad zerstoben in kleine Splitter. Glücklicher Weise war gerade Niemand im Werk.

Lemberg. In der Festung Przemysl wurde ein Russe verhaftet, der der Spionage verdächtig ist. Er tödtete sich in der Kerkerzelle. Es wurden bei ihm kompromittirende Papiere gefunden.

Linz. In der Nähe von hier sank der Postdampfer „Kronprinz Rudolf" in Folge eines Bruches der Hochdruck-Kolbenstange. Sämmtliche 120 Passagiere, die sich an Bord befanden, wurden gerettet.—Der Marktflecken Ottensheim, ungefähr fünf Meilen westlich von hier, ist ein Raub der Flammen geworden. Bern. Am Schwarzberg im Lütschenthal stürzte eine Felspartie von mehr als 100 Kubikmetern aus einer Höhe von 1000 Meter in's Thal. Die von der Gemeinde Lütschenthal kürzlich ausgeführte Verbauung (Steinschlagschutz) ist total vernichtet. Unten am Abhang richteten die Felsstücke in den Matten und an den Bäumen großen Schaden an. Im direkten Absturzgebiet befand sich in halber Höhe ein Vater mit seinem vierjährigen Knaben und hütete die Ziegen. Eine Rettung war nicht möglich. Der Mann nahm seinen Knaben an die Brust und blieb im Steinhagel stehen. Wie durch ein Wunder blieben Vater und Sohn unverletzt. Selbst die Ziegen wurden nicht getroffen. Einzig ein Zicklein kam um.

Zürich. Mehrere Zeitungen meldeten, die amtliche Inventarisation des Guyer-Zeller'schen Nachlasses habe ein Vermögen von 15,000,000 Francs ergeben und die Erben müßten dem Staat und der Stadt Zürich 900,000 Francs Nachsteuer entrichten. Diese Meldung ist absolut falsch. Nachdem der Bundesrath den Rückkaufswerth der Nordostbahn-Aktien auf 338 Francs berechnet hat, ist anzunehmen, daß Guyer-Zeller eher zu viel als zu wenig versteuerte.

Don't trust your shoeing to any one who as not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. HELL'S FIRE IS REAL.

AND ITS OFFICE IS TO BURN, TORTURE AND LACERATE.

It Is Everlasting and Unquenchable, Too, For Those Doomed to Damnation—"It Is a Fearful Thing to Fall Into the Hands of the Living God."

The following lecture on "The Fire of Hell" was recently delivered in St. Peter's cathedral, in Cincinnati, by Rev. John M. Mackey Ph. D., Archbishop Elder's assistant rector:

"The beggar, Lazarus, died and was carried by angels into Abraham's bosom, and the rich man also died, and he was buried in hell, and, lifting up his eyes when he was in torment, he saw Abraham afar off and Lazarus in his bosom, and he said, 'Father Abraham, send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame.' Here the rich man is tormented by the flame of the fire of hell. The fire of hell is therefore a true and proper fire, as it produces the effect produced by true and proper—that is to say, real fire—namely, a flame that torments a man exposed to its action in a place of torments, to which the rich man apprehended his five brethren might come. The flame is real and not metaphorical, as water, even the small quantity held on the tip of the finger of Lazarus would cool the tongue of the rich man, as he thought in his forlorn and ineffectual appeal to Father Abraham. The reality—that is to say, the truth of the fire of hell—is manifest also from the environments and conditions under which it is presented to us by our Saviour. Everything in the record is real, not metaphorical. The beggar is real, hell is real, the rich man is real, the tongue to be cooled is real, the torment of the man is real, and the real torment is effected by a real flame, produced therefore by a real fire.

"The objective real reprobate, in objectively real torments, inflicted by obectively real fire, is set forth in the language and conception of our Saviour in order to deter us from conduct inducing the same torments upon us personally as were and are to be inflicted upon reprobates forever and eternally. To argue that the fire is not true and proper—that is, real fire—is to argue against the reality of hell itself, against the reality of torment, against sufferings corresponding to real torments. It is to argue, therefore, against real sufferings endured by real human persons. This would prove too much, and, therefore, nothing. It would divest God of all sanction of eternal laws, and therefore of legislative and real power, as a law without sanction is no law at all. God, divested of power to legislate, is divested of real power to govern. His providence is eliminated, his creative authorship negatived and his reality impugned. Alas, the sad consequence in the train of error impugning the truth of the objective realities presented by our Saviour in his holy gospel for our guidance in the conduct of morals!

"It is against reason and utterly puerile and unworthy of a true philosopher to seek to introduce subtle distinctions where the law itself makes no distinction. It is against the true method of theology to deny objective reality to truths enunciated nearly always and everywhere in the holy gospel by the same terms. Fire is the medium of torments inflicted on the reprobate everywhere in the gospel. True fire alone is a true source, a true medium; therefore the fire of hell is real, true, proper fire. The method of our opponents is the one followed by theosophists, pantheists, agnostics and the whole flock of the execrable modern sects that deny all reality and make the universe consist of airy phantoms.

"The abode of the reprobate is without order and full of unceasing horror and intestine discord. The reprobates chose to tend away from their end; they elected to stray away from their true support. God respected their gift of liberty. He confirmed their choice, and they will famish and languish in all their faculties and powers in never ending misery in a state of true death—deprived of God and without hope. The pain of loss is added to the pain of sense.

"No definition of the church exists as to the true and proper fire of hell, for it is the common belief of the faithful and of theologians that the fire is real and not metaphorical. Temerity alone would part from the common belief of the people and their doctors; hence absolution is denied penitents obstinately clinging to a metaphorical fire, an opinion or a belief in proximity to error, and indeed in real formal error, so to speak, though unsupported by a definition of holy church, as the mind of the church is made manifest by the consensus of theologians and of the faithful.

"St. Augustine, De Civitate Dei, xx, 16, says, 'The fire of hell is something physical, external, a true body which produces such pain as true, real fire produces.' The unanimity of the teaching of the fathers is the recognized exponent of the mind of the church. The fathers, in every page of their treatises on the subject of the pains of hell, designate them by the term fire, and add such attributes and comparisons as clearly exclude imagery and metaphor from the notion and conception of such fire.

"Ignorance of the way fire torments spirits or bodies, acts on spirits, on souls and angels, does not militate against the facts revealed in holy Scripture, for the modes and nexus between causes and effects, agents and acts, even in the natural order, are profound mysteries. To act is to produce an effect; to produce an effect is to be a cause. Fire torments the reprobate, and therefore it acts upon him, as the torments are the effect of fire.

"The fire of hell is as real fire as the natural fire, and has, over and above the active properties of fire as known to science, the property of unceasing duration—eternity. 'Depart from me, accursed, into everlasting fire.' Terrestrial fire is extinguishable by exhaustion of fuel, by water, chemicals and the exclusion of air. Hell fire is not quenchable at all—applied to an object, the contact is inherent. Out of hell there is no redemption. From its fires there is no liberation. The subject burns passively and actively without diminution of the subject or agent or disintegration of the object acted upon. These differences in attributes, powers and qualities are differences as in degree of perfection, not in the essential constituent elements of fire, and are known to us by induction from the facts revealed in Holy Scripture in relation to the reprobate, the fire, torments inflicted, the immortality and eternity of the reprobate and the elements of his tortures. How astounding the words of St. Paul (Hebrews x, 31), 'It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God!'

"But when we contemplate the beneficent goodness of the Creator, his providence and love, and, above all, his infinite mercy, offering pardon and forgiveness and pleading with the sinner, through his church, to accept his gifts, to be reconciled and restored to order and service, and see the sinner, on the other hand, fail to appreciate the goodness of God in his regard and reject all the advances of divine mercy; then we cease to be astonished that mercy gives way to justice for the vindication of the sovereignty of God, who enforced all his precepts in the earlier dispensations by the declaration, 'I am the Lord.'

"Terrestrial fire is a gift of Providence; infernal fire is an instrument of divine justice. Fire takes many different names, according to the elements generating heat and light, which are the dominant properties of fire and ordinarily present together in every fire. Metals burn, stones and clays burn, the oxygen of the air burns—thus we have lightnings, blast furnaces and volcanoes. All differ in accidental properties, but have this in common, that, acting as causes, they produce the same results if brought under intelligent control. The fire of hell is molten fluid, for it is perfectly adapted to receive and contain bodies and interpenetrate them. As darkness is inconceivably an element in intensifying the desolation of the woe of the damned, as light would be to some degree an alleviation, a mitigation of the extreme of misery, the fire of hell, it is concluded, emits no consoling light. Its office is to burn, torture and lacerate.—St. Thomas Supplem., q. 97, a. 4.

"The disposition—the condition—of hell will be such as the supreme misery of the damned demands. There is light or darkness, as the one or the other is instrumental or effective in promoting or securing the supreme end of their existence, the deepest possible suffering of the reprobate. There is enough light, of a dismal and obscure nature, for them to see the instruments of their torture, the cause of their woes—for this of itself intensifies their affliction. The fire of hell is in perfect combustion, and therefore emits no smoke. The soul is agonized in the extreme of misery and sadness as it apprehends the fire and the instrument of divine justice for its affliction. The distress is keenest as it sees itself, though destined by creation to be united to God and to enjoy God, subject nevertheless to things of a lower order than itself.

"Again, it is held that the soul suffers as the sentient life principle of the body if fire be applied to the body with the soul, as it is the human person that suffers. This faculty of suffering through the senses is of the essence of the soul and remains after separation from the body. If fire naturally can afflict the soul through the medium of the body by its heat, there is no reason why God cannot use fire as an instrument to inflict pain on the soul directly and immediately. Such is the power of God as shown by the works of our Saviour recorded in the gospel.

"Schmid says: 'Demons endure the true pain of real burning through fire as an instrument of divine justice. Besides the faculty of understanding and of willing—intellect and will in created pure spirits—they may possess a definite, limited power of movement in space subject to the resistance offered by external bodies. In this case bodies offer insurmountable resistance and therefore act on demons. If bodies could offer no resistance to pure spirits, an angel, even a fallen angel, might throw the universe off its base and destroy all living creatures.'

"This induction explains the sense of pain that may arise from the resistance of bodies. A spirit inclosed by a body of fire which resists all its efforts to escape this instrument of the punitive justice of God suffers through its essential faculty of perceiving physical affliction of a painful nature and, in proportion to its demerits as the divine omnipotence, brings that passive faculty into play. In this way we obtain a conception of the manner in which physical, true, real fire produces excruciating anguish and poignant grief and woe wholly distinct from the intellectual consideration of the objective cause. The sanction of law rewards the subjects who obey it and punishes its violators. A law without sanction is no law at all. Heaven is the reward of the saints, while the reprobates share in the miseries of the fallen angels, in whose rebellion they have participated."

The Evil of Melancholy.

"Sin excepted," says St. Francis de Sales, "there is no greater evil than melancholy. Bear in mind the great principle that no unquiet can proceed from God, who is the King of Peace and abiding with peaceful hearts. The prince of darkness is pleased with sadness and melancholy, because he is and shall be sad and melancholy to all eternity. Therefore he desires that every one shall be like himself!"

THE HORSELESS AGE.

ADVENT OF THE AUTOMOBILE WHICH WILL EFFECT A GREAT CHANGE.

Everything From the Family Carriage to a Heavy Truck Will Be Propelled By Power—The Passing of the Horse—Economy of the System.

The twentieth century promises to change the whole appearance of the streets in the great cities of this country.

It is the beginning of the horseless age.

New York, which usually leads the world in improvements has been far behind in the use of automobiles.

Paris has had the first place in this line of progress. There are over two thousand motor vehicles in operation at the French capital. Its boulevards present a truly twentieth century sight, with their long lines of swiftly moving carriages and bicycles, with scarcely a horse to be seen.

London is only a little behind Paris in this respect. Cabs, coaches and wagons of this pattern now throng its streets.

Even slow-going Germany is ahead of New York. The little city of Stuttgart has issued an ordinance barring truck horses off the streets within the city limits.

This action was taken because it was found that slow-moving draught horses were actually in the way of the swift automobiles. The City Fathers made up their minds that the streets should no longer be congested by horse trucks. By that simple decision they have made Stuttgart an object lesson for the world.

COMPRESSED AIR MOTOR CARRIAGE.

So universal has the motor become that even the Bavarian farmers in the surrounding country use it for carrying their produce to the city market.

The new coaches for Fifth avenue will be unlike anything ever seen on New York streets. They will be car shaped, with the motorman up in front and a broad platform at the rear. They will seat twenty-four inside and be equipped with seats on top for half as many more.

The new compressed air company trucks will be odd sights on the streets. One variety of them will look like a railroad flat car, with the motorman standing at one end on a low running board. These will be for carrying the heaviest kind of freight. Then there will be coal carts and lighter wagons for general express and delivery purposes. The source of their power will be air compressed to 2,000 pounds pressure per square inch. This is stored in steel cylinders under the trucks, and when released runs motive gear with the force of a steam engine, yet with none of the smoke, puffing or the disagreeable features of the locomotive.

The cost of operating motor vehicles is said to be one-half to one-fourth that of horse power.

This opens up a most delightful prospect of a carriage for every family. There would be no need of drivers or stables, for the machine could be kept under the front stoop or run down an incline into a basement room. It would be ready at an instant's notice, and could be managed by any member of the family.

Let no lover of horses regret such a prospect. To exile the horse to the country would be the greatest blessing to that animal.

The passing of the horse would mean also cheaper and more abundant food for people. Farm land now devoted to growing hay and grain, to be sold at high prices in the city for horse feed would then be devoted to cultivating food stuffs for man.

It is hardly to be expected, nor even desired, that the horse should entirely disappear. He is a picturesque animal on the boulevards, in the park drives and on the bridlepath. There he enjoys life and gives pleasure to sport-loving humanity. It will be a happy fate, not a sad one, that restricts him to the pleasure world.

Commendable Editorial Restraint.

A South Portland girl while making some cute little curlicky beau catchers on the back of her neck lost her grip on the curling tongs and dropped them down her back inside her clothing. A great deal might be said in regard to this accident, but it really does not seem necessary.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Edward Mosher, Jr., of Elmwood place, has been presented with a handsome new bicycle by his parents.

Mrs. Lottie B. Griggs and Mrs. John Bonnell, of Union, rode their wheels to Plainfield yesterday and were the guests of their cousins, the Misses Sadie and Anna Searing, of Madison avenue.

The condition of West Front street between Clinton avenue and the city line is not as pleasing as cyclists would like. The road was recently macadamized and yet it is filled with both small and large stones.

Fred W. Voigt, of the New Jersey Racing Association, has applied to A. G. Batchelder of the N. C. A., for a permit to exceed the present amateur value of prizes for the July 4th meet. It is probable he will offer racing wheels as first prizes at the Sunday meets, which have become a regular fixture at the Vailsburg board track. Until a few years ago, when the $35 limit was established by the L. A. W., bicycles were the principal prizes in amateur events, and it is thought the return to the old custom will prove popular among the amateurs.

The motor tricycle, which has attracted the attention of a number of wheelmen about Elizabeth, is the property of Senator Kean's brother. The machine was built in France and arrived in this city but a few days ago. It weighs about 150 pounds, and is said to have cost over $400. The machine is now in charge of William McCulley, Jr., who takes care of all wheels owned by the Senator and his family, and he is riding it about the country to get it in perfect riding condition. The machine is operated by petroleum, and is said to be able to go at the rate of 40 miles per hour.

GOLF.

Richard Cass, the golf expert at the Park Golf Club, is thinking seriously of returning to Connecticut, where he was formerly engaged. Mr. Cass is very well liked at the Park course, and those who know him will be sorry to learn that he intends leaving.

Next Saturday afternoon play for the Gilbert cup will take place on the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. This is handicap play for mixed foursomes, competition open to both the active and associate members. On the following Saturday the event will be men's foursome for active members. On July 4th the Bogey handicap will be played.

Stench from Sewage Beds.

During the past few days people who have had occasion to go out West Front street have noticed perceptibly a foul stench from the sewer beds. Some of the beds have been treated to lime in the hopes of killing the stench.

TAKING WEDDING VOWS.

was used by the young people to "trip the light fantastic."

Here also was given some impromtu theatricals during the evening.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Patrick J. Flanagan, one of the faithful officers of the Plainfield police department. For some years she has been the leading soprano singer in St. Mary's church and has also had charge of the music. In public life the young woman was well known as the superintendent of the millinery department in Lederer's store, where she made many friends among the patrons of that establishment. In church circles and in the social set in which she moved the bride had endeared herself to all by her amiable disposition and many excellent qualities, and she is therefore much beloved.

Mr. Ward is a fresco artist of New York city, but is well-known in Plainfield where he resides with his mother on Clinton avenue. He is popular and counts among his friends many of the most representative citizens of this city.

In an upper room at the bride's home are displayed an array of beautiful and costly presents—gifts from dear friends who have learned to not only admire but love their recipient.

The groom's present to the bride was a diamond ring of beautiful lustre.

The bride's gifts to her bridemaids and maid-of-honor were turquoise, amethyst and sapphire rings.

The ushers received diamond stickpins from the groom, as souvenirs of the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward left on a late train for a wedding tour to Maine. When they return they will reside with the groom's mother on Clinton avenue.

Hosts of friends will join in wishing the popular couple all that is possible of life's blessings.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Annie B. Garretson United in Marriage to Alvah Miller.

A very quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at 315 New street, when Miss Annie B. Garretson, daughter of Mrs. Kate E. Garretson, was united in marriage to Alvah Miller, a contractor, of Somerville. The affair was attended by just the immediate family and relatives. The bride and groom were unattended. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, after which congratulations were offered and a supper was served. At 5 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for Lake Hopatcong, where they will spend a portion of their honeymoon. On their return they will reside at Somerville, where the groom will erect a handsome house for their occupancy.

The bride has been teaching school at Somerville, where she has a host of friends. During the vacation season she would come to this city and remain with her mother on New street. Her husband is a popular man at home, and the couple have the best wishes of all for a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Holland-Gaines.

Miss Cecilia Gaines, former president of the Jersey City Women's Club and New Jersey State Federation, and well-known in Plainfield, was married yesterday to John A. Holland, of Cold Spring-on-the-Hudson. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, 208 Summit avenue, by Rev. E. L. Stoddard.

—The pastor of the New Dover church will conduct the gospel service this evening at the East Third Street mission.

FANATICS IN NEW YORK

One Proclaimed Himself God and Found Many Believers.

In New York City, about 1832, a period of "great awakening" that begat Mormonism and many other sects—among them one in Kentucky, whose members, in order to win heaven by making themselves as little children, used to crawl on their hands and knees in church, play marbles, trundle hoops, and otherwise manifest their infantile madness—one Matthews, a carpenter, having assumed the name Matthias, proclaimed himself to be God, the Father. He found believers, most of them ignorant but some intelligent, procured much money, and ruined many persons. He and his disciples claimed to heal the sick quite as successfully as the Scientists now do. One of them, a Mr. Pierson, a victim of religious delusion, even before the coming of Matthias, had endeavored under most distressing and pathetic circumstances publicly to raise his wife from the dead, accepting literally the verse of the General Epistle of St. James directing the elders to anoint and pray over the sick, and promising that "the Lord shall raise him up."

Matthias, being eventually indicted for procuring $630 from a Mr. Folger under the false pretense that he was God, able to remit sins, and would communicate the Holy Ghost to said Folger, the District Attorney entered a nolle prosequi for these reasons: To maintain the indictment, he said, I must prove that defendant's pretenses were false, and would deceive a man of ordinary intelligence and prudence, but no sane person would believe that Matthias was God. Matthias was, however, convicted on lesser charges.

Funny When You Think of It.

At a small party the other evening those present were asked to name the most common and at the same time the most complicated action in the human phenomena, says the New York Times. Various answers were given, showing all degrees of observation and thought. Not one, however, hit upon the answer that the questioner had in mind, which was walking. What action is more common, and yet, how difficult of analysis! How many persons outside of some special course in physics at the universities can explain the phenomenon? Let somebody try. "Walking," once said Dr. Holmes, "is a perpetual falling, with a perpetual self-recovery. It is the most complex, violent, and perilous operation, which we divest of its extreme danger only by continual practice from a very early period of life. We find how complex it is when we attempt to analyze it. We learn how violent it is when we walk against a post or a door in the dark. We discover how dangerous it is when we slip or trip and come down, perhaps breaking or dislocating our limbs, or overlook the last step of a flight of stairs, and discover with what headlong violence we have been hurling ourselves forward." All this is very true, as we all know, to our sorrow, still, the genial autocrat has not explained the phenomenon.

IN AID OF MISSIONS.

Entertainment to Raise Money for Miss Maire's Use.

The annual missionary entertainment under the auspices of the Jr. Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel, was held in the chapel last evening, and there was a good attendance. Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, superintendent of the society, was in charge. The chapel was prettily decorated for the occasion. The entertainment was given for the purpose of securing money to assist Miss Rachel Maire in her missionary work in foreign fields. In addition to the recitations, vocal solos and concert singing by the Juniors, there was an interesting address by William D. Murray, of this city. His words were applicable to the occasion and listened to with considerable interest. After the entertainment a collection was taken for the mission work. Any friends of Miss Maire who desire to assist her in her work by giving money can send the same to Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, Grandview avenue.

Successful Surgery.

Miss Florence Dunn, daughter of James M. Dunn, of East Fifth street, was taken suddenly ill Tuesday, and the family physician, Dr. G. W. Endicott, was summoned, and the case diagnosed as appendicitis. The doctor urged upon her family the necessity of an operation at once, and yesterday afternoon the appendix was removed by Dr. Endicott, assisted by Drs. Zeglio, Long and Berg. Today Miss Dunn is reported as doing nicely and every prospect of her entire recovery is assured.

Fun for New Jersey Veterans.

New Jersey's Grand Army veterans will receive a warm reception when they visit Camden during the session of the National Encampment in Philadelphia in September. The finance committee in charge of the affair have elected Wilbur F. Rose, president; John E. Fagan and John W. Donges, secretaries; H. L. Harthorn, treasurer. The committee expects to raise $5,000 for the entertainment.

Boy's Camp on Lake Champlain, which was postponed from Tuesday night on account of the rain, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock This talk will be illustrated with lantern slides and the admission is free. All boys, their parents and friends are invited to be present.

—Tomorrow evening the regular prayer meeting service will be held at Warren chapel. The subject will be "Promises of God," and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor, will have charge.

LAST CLASS OF CENTURY.

GRADUATING EXERCISES OF THE PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL HELD LAST NIGHT.

The Exercises Held in Music Hall, Which was Filled by a Fashionable and Representative Audience to Aid the Graduates in a Fond Adieu to Local School Life—Excellent Address Delivered by Rev. Dr. Charles Culbert Hall, of New York—Names of the Prize Winners.

Ninety-nine, the last class of the century at the Plainfield High School, lives now only in memory. Last night saw the culmination of the efforts of the nineteen young people who had passed successfully through the difficulties of the four years' High School course. The Commencement exercises, the great event of the school year, were held in the Stillman Music Hall last evening before a great concourse of people, and the nineteen bright graduates were formally awarded their diplomas. For the twenty-ninth time a new group of Plainfield's sons and daughters were sent forth to meet the stern realities of life.

The Commencement did not differ materially from those of previous years, only it was delightfully cool and no thunder storm appeared at the last moment to threaten destruction to the beautiful summer gowns that brightened the auditorium on every side. As usual there were more people to attend the exercises than the hall could possibly hold, and many were disappointed in their endeavors to secure seats.

The graduates occupied seats on the right of the stage while the members of the Board of Education, Superintendent H. M. Maxson, Principal Ira Winthrop Travell, and the speakers were seated on the left. Palms and potted plants were used by way of decoration. The young women of the class were all in white and made a charming array. Owing to illness, one of their number, Miss Marjorie Canfield Sterling, was unable to be present.

Fanciulli's New York orchestra proved eminently satisfactory and all its selections were well received, particularly the airs from "The Jolly Musketeers," which caught the popular ear.

The invocation was offered by Rev. Charles E. Herring, of this city. The salutatory and oration, "Recent Advances in the Art of Living," was given by William Asbury Fisher. After his words of welcome and excellent expression to the Board, he cleverly sketched the wonderful strides of civilation during the last few years. Electricity he pointed out as one of the great instruments in this advance and told briefly of some of the wonderful things only recently accomplished. The educational advances were touched upon with a tribute to Bishop Vincent, once a Plainfielder, and founder of the now famous Chautauqua system. His oration was an interesting one which he delivered well.

The address to the graduates was made by Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall, president of the Union Theological Seminary, of New York, who made one of the most interesting addresses ever heard at the commencement exercises in this city. After making introductory remarks appropriate to an educational theme, he started with an earnest appeal for the recognition in every home and in every school of the value of the individual and of the rights of the individual. He divided his subjects into three parts: I. "The Undiscovered Self." II. "The Discovery of Self." III. "The Use of Self."

I. "The Undiscovered Self." After dwelling upon the fact that many complicated conditions of inheritance and environment tend to make every life more or less of a problem to itself, he dwelt in detail upon the misfortune of going through life without a clear conception of one's own subjectivity and one's own relation to the world. He brought out this part of his argument under three heads, each one of which was developed in a plain and practical manner, viz: the imprisoned self, or the mental and moral life of the individual shut up and suppressed within itself and denied the opportunities of expression and expansion. The maltreated self, or the violence that one even tends to do to one's own best selfdevelopment so long as one remains ignorant of the nature, powers and possibilities of one's own selfhood. The diminishing self, or the inevitable tendency of an imprisoned self and a maltreated self to grow smaller, weaker, more puny, more insignificant.

II. "The Discovery of Self." This part of his theme was also carefully developed. Dr. Hall advocated three lines along which the discovery of self is most possible for childhood, viz: the contemplation of nature by systematic observation and recording of phenomena; the liberation of power in accordance with Froebel's great law of self activity, (illustrated in manual training,) in recording personal observations, etc.; the discovery of God. Here the speaker dwelt upon the vital importance of the religious element in education, and, while recognizing the political and ecclesiastical embarrassments in the way of an adequate religious influence in the public schools, he expressed the opinion that its absence cannot be regarded otherwise than as a misfortune to youth.

Dr. Hall closed this part of his address by earnestly appealing to parents to assist their children toward self-discovery by sympathetic companionship on the highest lines; and he also appealed to every teacher to regard himself as in loco parentis toward all children deprived by circumstances of the full measure of sympathetic parental influence.

III. "The Use of Self." This, the speaker claimed to be the chief end of education. Self discovery is a means to an end; the discovery of self must issue in the use of self. This use was considered along three lines.

1. The use of self in relation to self. Here were taken up and discussed the care of health, the discipline of the mind, the adjustments and readjustments of the point of view as matters affecting personal life which can only be comprehended and provided for by those who have had the blessing of self discovery.

2. The use of self in relation to society. Here the speaker dwelt upon the obligation for social service that rests on each educated life. The larger mission of womanhood and the especial importance of citizenship were pointed out.

3. The use of self in relation to God. Dr. Hall referred hopefully to the tendency of modern science toward theistic rather than atheistic conclusions. He pointed out that the modern movement of religious thought affirming the immanence of God in His world is in striking correspondence with many of the most recent scientific utterances.

He regarded it as an absolutely essential part of education to direct thought and aspiration Godward, and to lead the mind of youth to look upon life religiously and to use self as an instrument for the service of God.

The presentation of rewards was made by Leander N. Lovell, of the Board of Education. The awards were as follows:

SCENES IN HOLY LAND.

INTERESTING TALK BY REV. DR. E. M. RODMAN.

Delivered Before the W. C. T. U. Yesterday Afternoon What He Saw in Egypt and Palestine—Many Interesting Observations

Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, rector of Grace Episcopal church, gave an interesting talk at the rooms of the W. C. T. U. on East Front street yesterday afternoon.

The genial and talented clergyman said he had been asked by Miss C. R. Yates, the vice-president, to lecture on his recent trip to Egypt and Palestine. He said he had not prepared any lecture, but if the audience would bear with him he would give them a brief account of what he saw while in Egypt and Palestine.

After prayer by Miss Yates, Dr. Rodman said that in the three months he was traveling in Egypt and in the Holy Land he had seen but little intemperance; in fact the only man at all under the influence of intoxicants was his barber, whom he had been compelled to discharge.

He attributed this condition of affairs to three agencies. The first was owing to the great poverty of the country and the fact that the people were compelled to use what money they could secure to buy food. The second reason he believed to be owing to the faithfulness of the Mohammedan's to their creed, which will not admit of drunkenness. The third reason was because light wines were used almost entirely by those of convivial habits. He said he believed that if light wines could be introduced into this country it would prove one of the greatest agencies towards advancing the cause of temperance of anything that has yet been suggested.

For 1,500 years before Christ was born Egypt had been the greatest and most powerful country on the face of the globe. It is composed of Pharisies, Persians, Roumanians, Turks, Arabs and Mohammedans. As to the Turks, they are considered the worst class of people imaginable. The doctor referred to the interesting points in Alexander, Port Said and at Yefa, and hurried along to Jerusalem, which he and his party reached March 27th. This holy city has a population variously estimated at from 15,000 to 50,000. Of this number 30,000 are Jews, the rest of the population being made up of Mohammedans, Syrians, etc.

Palestine has always been considered the central region of all religious history, and every human soul thrills at the mere mention of the name of the sacred place where the Lord was born. The principal streets of the city are known as Christian and David. These streets are but about ten feet wide and the apology for a sidewalk is but little used, and men, women and children and also the cattle walk in the streets. There's little of interest in the city save the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and a piece of the wall outside of which natives tell the visitors that the Lord was buried. It is said that this church was built upon the site of Calvary or where the Lord was crucified and then placed in the tomb, but this is denied by both Dr. Merrill, the American Consul, and Gen. Gordon, who have assumed to carefully investigate the story.

One of the interesting features of Dr. Rodman's description of his travels was the exhibition of a collection of curios which he brought back with him.

MACADAMIZING AN AVENUE.

Property Owners to Pay for Improvement of Sycamore Avenue.

The work of macadamizing Sycamore avenue in the city is to be started at once. C. M. Meeker has the contract to do the job. The persons who stand the expense include George White, Mr. Swartz and Howard Randolph, all of whom own the property facing on the avenue. The agreement made when the street was opened was that the same should be macadamized by the property-owners. The street is to be macadamized a width of sixteen feet and six inches deep in the centre. When completed it will make one of the best drives into the borough.

West End Market.

Charles Arnold has again become the owner of the meat market 203 Liberty street, and after a thorough overhauling and cleansing he will open it up for public patronage on Saturday morning, stocked with the best of meat which he proposes to sell at low cash prices. He invites an inspection of his place and a trial order of the people living in that vicinity.

Alumni to Give Reception.

This evening the alumni association of the Borough Public High School will give a reception in the school building to the 1899 graduating class. Many special features will mark the event.

DEATH CHARGED TO CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Cranford Woman Did Not Have a Doctor Until Too Late.

IMBUED WITH THE SUBJECT.

WHEN IT WAS TOO LATE SHE RENOUNCED THE FAITH.

Mrs. Santiago Porcella Was the Woman—Left the Presbyterians to Join the Christian Scientists in Westfield—Studied to Be a Practitioner—Heavy Cold Developed Into Consumption.

Mrs. Santiago Porcella, the wife of a wealthy New York business man residing at Cranford, where she was a leader in society, died at Crescent Beach, Conn., yesterday afternoon as the result, it is said, of the lack of medical attendance on account of her belief in Christian Science. Mrs. Porcella was thirty-two years of age.

Up to six months ago she a was member of the Presbyterian church in Cranford, but at that time became interested in the Christion Science faith and finally joined the First Church of Christian Scientists at Westfield. She also interested her husband in the faith with the result that the whole family became attendants at the services held by the scientists. Later her husband renounced the faith and tried to pursuade her to do likewise. She refused to do so, and became more and more imbued with the teaching of the "science." After a time she decided to be come a practitioner of the faith herself, and after that she devoted almost her whole time to the study of the teachings of the sect.

During the month of April Mrs. Porcella caught a heavy cold and declined to take any medical remedies or also the consultation of a physician. Last month the cold developed into hasty consumption as a result of her neglect to take medical precautions. Then it was that Mrs. Porcella realized her serious condition and the futility of trying to recover her health without the aid of a physician. Dr. G. W. Bailey, of Cranford, was called in the case and he ordered that she be removed to a different climate, and her husband took her to Crescent Beach, where she died yesterday.

Before the end, however, she renounced the Christian Science faith, and last Sunday sent a letter to Rev. George Francis Greene, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Cranford, asking his prayers for her help.

LITTLE GIRL'S NOBLE IDEA.

Helen Ryder Saved Her Pennies to Offer for the Use of the Babies' Camp.

Little Miss Helen Ryder, five years old, of Central avenue, has set an admirable example for other little people who would aid the babies of poor parents by having them enjoy the fresh, healthful air to be found on the mountain. By saving a penny here and a penny there that had been given to her for her own enjoyment, this little woman has been able to gather together $1 which she offers freely to The Daily Press Babies' Camp Fund.

At the First Presbyterian Sunday-school last Sunday the members became interested in the success of the Babies' Camp, and realizing the importance of The Daily Press fund for this object they decided to appropriate $10 to swell the aggregate. This money was received by The Daily Press yesterday.

The contributions to the fund to date are as follows:

DUNELLEN GRADUATION

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES WERE HELD LAST NIGHT.

Programme Carried Out in the Methodist Church, Which Was Filled With a Large and Appreciative Audience of Citizens.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 23.—A large and appreciative audience assembled in the M. E. church last evening to witness the annual graduation exercises of the public schools. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with flowers and greens, and the graduates, four in number, occupied seats on the platform together with President W. J. Hamliton, of the School Board, Superintendent Leon H. VanSyckle, and Revs. A. I. Martine and E. S. Jamison. The graduates were Miss Nellie Brown, Miss Lulu Gise, Stephen Kennedy and Charles Ward, and instead of the usual declamation the graduates gave recitations all of which were very creditable. Each one of the graduates was the recipient of pleasant words and bouquets of flowers as they stepped from the school into the world.

The exercises were very enjoyable throughout and the programme was exceedingly well arranged. The only address was given by the president of the Board of Education, W. J. Hamilton, and this was given in connection with the presentation of diplomas and awards. The graduation class motto is "Not for Ourselves Only," and the class colors are pink and green.

The programma as rendered was as follows:

Graduates' March, "Majestic," Miss Lizzie Kuldoshes and David Kuldoshes: prayer, Rev. E. S. Jamison; greeting chorus, "Merry June," school; recitation, "John Burns, of Gettysburg," Stephen Todd Kennedy; piano solo, "Whispering Wind," Miss Lulu Gise; recitation, "The Whistling Regiment," Miss Nellie Brown; chorus, "A June Day" and "Over the Sea," school; piano duet, "Othello," Miss Nellie Brown and Miss Irene Day; recitation, "The Death of Jefferson," Charles Ward; chorus, "Swing Song," school; recitation, "The Defence of the Bride," Miss Lulu Gise; chorus, "Down by the Silvery Stream," school; benediction, Rev. A I. Martine. Miss Flora E. Wilguss was the musical director, and Miss Lizzie Kuldoshes, accompanist. After the exercises a reception was given to the graduates.

Yesterday afternoon the closing exercises at the Lincoln School were held at the school building and there was a large attendance of parents and friends of the scholars. The exercises consisted of songs, recitations, drills by the scholars and the awarding of prizes and honors to the scholars entitled to them. There were also addresses by members of the school board. Great credit is due the teachers for the very creditable programme presented.

DR. COLES' GIFT.

Work of Art Presented to Brown University by a Jerseyman.

Brown University has recently received from Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Deerhurst, Scotch Plains, N. J., the gift of a beautiful life-size bronze portrait bust of Benjamin Franklin, a replica of the one made by Jean Antoine Hondon, in 1778, while Franklin was Minister Plenipotentiary at the Court of France. The bust was cast at the celebrated foundry of Bartedinne in Paris.

Dr. Coles gave this choice work of art to Brown University in recognition "of the life-long affectionate regard" entertained by his father, Dr. Abraham Coles, well-known for his admirable translations of Latin hymns and for other literary works, for Brown University, and in remembrance of the fact that the first president of the college, the Rev. James Manning, D. D., going to Rhode Island from the Scotch Plains Baptist church, became subsequently instrumental in effecting the ratification of the Constitution of the United States.

Fine Tenor to be Heard.

George Leon Moore, of New York, will take part in the concert to be given at the First Baptist church next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the hospital, is considered one of the best tenors in the metropolis. The whole programme will be given in a finished manner and those who fail to attend will miss a great musical treat.

THEIR SCHOOL DAYS OVER.

BOROUGH GRADUATES FACE THE WORLD IN STERN REALITY NOW.

Y. M. C. A. Hall the Scene of a Brilliant Gathering of the Smart Pupils Who Have Earned the Right to Diplomas—Practical Remarks Delivered to Them by Rev. Dr. James F. Riggs—Prizes Awarded Presented by Henry J. McGee, a Member of the Borough Board of Education.

Last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall the commencement exercises of the Borough Public High School were held, at which time four young women and four young men passed from the highest seat of learning in the borough into the world, where they will separate and walk various paths in life. It was a triumph in the lives of those who were graduated, and their parents, teachers and friends joined in wishing them all the success possible. Those who were graduated were Charles F. Bryan, Miss Grace Eleanor Codwise, Newton Douglass Drake, Miss Grace L. Emmons, Miss Emma Frances Line, Frederic Stanley Overton, Miss Rita Pond and Arthur E. Smith.

The class colors, purple and white, were arranged in a tasty manner about the hall, while the platform was made attractive through the use of potted plants, palms and ivy. Seated on the platform were the graduates; President S. St. John McCutchen and Henry McGee, of the Board of Education; Superintendent W. J. Wightman; Rev. Joseph Orr McKelvey and Dr. James F. Riggs.

The programme opened with a two-part song by the High School chorus, after which Rev. Mr. McKelvey offered prayer. This was followed with a pretty vocal solo by Mrs. F. M. Ward, entitled "One Spring Morning."

Then came the salutatory by Arthur E. Smith, which was a finished composition and was appreciated by the large audience present. Mr. Smith treated in a masterly way the subject of education, and showed conclusively how important it is to a nation's success and prosperity. He depicted the fall of Rome and Spain, and showed how both had fallen easy prey to all other nations of greater learning. The subject was an interesting one throughout and at the close Mr. Smith received great applause.

The next number was two selections by the school chorus given in a commendable manner. Following these selections the address of the evening was given by Dr. James F. Riggs, of East Orange, formerly a professor at Rutgers College. This speaker is not a new one in this city, and the audience was given a talk of the highest excellence.

Dr. Riggs spoke on the subject of "Literature and Life," and he furnished both the graduates and those in the audience much food for thought. He urged on all the necessity of reading the very best literature and thus making it possible for all to gain the highest moral force to accomplish much in this world. He deemed the present time a serious one for the graduates, for unless they are careful they may lose all interest in educational matters and allow themselves to drift away from what learning they already have gained. He said the teacher and city had done all possible for the graduate and the responsibility now rests with them as to what they will do and become.

The professor spoke of a young man who graduated from Yale University and returned to his room and threw his inkwell as far out of the window as possible. He was so tired of books, learning, etc., that he vented his feelings that way. He afterward repented, but it took him a good while to get back to his proper sphere again, and so he urged the graduates not to throw away their inkwells, for they might need them.

The speaker said that knowledge without moral force is useless, and then illustrated by demonstrating how useless gun powder is useless when it is properly mixed with nitrate, which is the force. He said that he would rather have one fact clearly impressed upon his mind so that he knew it, than to have a hundred facts that he could not find when he wanted them.

The doctor urged that moral force comes through literature, and in that way inspiration was received. He held that literature must of necessity be poisonous or nutritious; it could not be neutral. He then spoke of the newspapers that disseminate bad news, and said that he would like to have all the editors of New York, Philadelphia and New Jersey in a church and preach them a sermon. He would use some of their own writings for his discourse, and from a chapter in Nehemiah he would take his text, "There is much rubbish." In conclusion Dr. Riggs said that as a person must have the best food so they must have the best books that are positively beneficial. Before he closed his address he spoke a few words of congratulation to the graduates.

Mrs F.M. Ward then sang "Secret," Goetz, in good voice, after which the valedictory was delivered by Miss Rita Pond. This talented young woman in a finished manner and speaking on behalf of her associates reviewed the past four years and with mingled feelings of joy and regret voiced the sentiments of all on leaving their studies and those who have been together at this seat of learning. She spoke words of commendation to the teachers, superintendent and Board of Education, and impressed upon them the deep feelings of gratitude felt by each one. Her essay was complete and given in a delightful manner.

At this time Henry A. McGee made a happy speech and presented the two prizes, $15 and $10 in gold, offered by Councilman John Valiant for the best work in mathematics. Arthur E. Smith secured first prize and Frederick Stanley Overton second prize, while Miss Rita Pond, Charles Bryan and Miss Emma Line received honorable mention. After President S. St. John McCutchen made a neat little speech and presented the graduates with their diplomas, the school chorus sang "Blow Soft Winds," and the commencement exercises for 1899 came to a close. Miss Carrie VanFleet, a graduate of 1898, was the efficient accompanist of the evening. After the exercises the graduates received baskets of flowers, presented by parents and friends.

WIFE CAME TOO SOON.

Quickly Ended the Gallant Role in Which "Samuel Perry" Played.

Miss Julia Etta Brokaw, of 189 Handy street, New Brunswick, came to Plainfield last night. She departed this morning a sadder and a wiser young colored woman. A touching little love scene between Julia and a new found beau, who called himself Samuel Perry, was suddenly interrupted by the arrival of Perry's wife. Julia was therefore compelled to go forth into the streets, where Patrolman Myers found her and locked her up for safe keeping.

A copious flow of tears was shed for the benefit of City Judge Runyon, but the Judge was rather inclined to be sarcastic. He finally suspended sentence on the young colored woman and she sobbingly declared that Plainfield should see her no more.

Lowering the Tracks

At present the Plainfield Street Railway Company is busy lowering their tracks on West Fourth street below Plainfield avenue. The track was not laid to the proper grade in the first place, and the change is now being made. Owing to this work now being done the Common Council will not attempt to macadamize that street for the present. The bids submitted for the work will be rejected and later on other bids will be asked for.

Trolley Company Settled.

John Holder, who was recently injured by a fall, occasioned by the sudden starting of a Plainfield open trolley car while he was handing his fare to the conductor, has settled with the company through Superintendent John Adelmann. His doctor's bill was paid by the company and he was also given a small sum of money.

MONEY IN THE BUSINESS.

Manner in Which the Old Man Got the Best of the Magician.

"A number of years ago I made a trip through the West," said the sleight-of-hand performer. "It was not what you may call a startling financial success, but I managed to reach Southern California before I was stranded.

"It was here that I suddenly awoke to the fact that a five-dollar gold piece was my entire capital, with the next town a good many miles ahead of me.

"There was but one thing to do, and that was to walk, as I knew the little money I had would be needed when I arrived for necessary expenses, and I couldn't afford to waste it on car fare.

"It wasn't as bad a proposition as it had looked on the face; the roads were in good shape, and the air cool and crisp, and it was in the midst of the orange-picking season.

"If the town ahead hadn't been so far I might have enjoyed the tramp, but as it was I found myself growing tired, and I stopped for a rest where an old man was engaged in picking his orange crop.

"He was a sociable old chap, and evidently thought I was looking around for an orange orchard, and I didn't attempt to undeceive him, for I found his oranges delicious, and as it was growing near meal time I had high hopes that he might ask me to dine with him. He kept remarking that there was money in oranges, and I finally concluded to have a little sport with him.

"Palming my sole remaining gold piece I reached for an orange and slowly cut it in halves with my knife. With an exclamation of surprise I pretended to pull the coin from the orange, while the old man's eyes fairly hung out of his head as I did so.

"He reached for the coin, bit it, rang it, and then dropped the coin in his pocket, saying as he did so:

" 'Wul, by gum! I always said that thar wuz money in oranges, an' now I kin prove it.'

"I gave a gasp when I saw my last cent go into the old man's pocket, and I tried to explain the situation to him, saying it was only a joke.

"But the old man wouldn't have it that way. He said he saw me take the coin from the orange, and that the orange belonged to him, hence anything that may be found in it was his, too.

"He was a larger man than I, and so he wouldn't listen to reason, and I had to pace sadly on.

"I hired out at the next ranch to pick fruit until I could get money enough to pay my fare home."

SITTING TO BE AT BERNE

Litigants, According to Proposals, Are to Select From Members of the Bureau.

Germany Agrees to the Permanent Tribunal Idea With a Clause for Obligatory Arbitration on Minor Matters—At Least a Partial Success of the Conference Is Assured.

The litigants as proposed by the American and English delegates, are to choose their own arbitrators from the members of the bureau.

Germany, contrary to expectation, has aproved of a permanent tribunal with a clause for obligatory arbitration on minor questions. The English and American delegates continue to oppose an obligatory clause.

At least a partial success of the Conference is now assured.

Murderer Found After 28 Years.

Chicago, June 23.—Word was received here that Alexander Jester, the murderer of Gilbert Gates, brother of President John W. Gates of the American Steel and Wire Company, had been arrested at his home in Oklahoma, after twenty-eight years of unavailing search.

Gilbert Gates was journeying across Missouri in a wagon train with Alexander Jester. On the night of May 2, 1871, they were camped near Warrensburg. There Jester shot Gates in the back, robbed him and attempted to conceal the crime by burning the body. He was arrested later and a hearing was given him at Wichita. On his way to Warrensburg for trial he escaped and had not been found in spite of an unceasing search by detectives, until now. His apprehension was brought about by a letter from Jester's sister, who wrote to Sheriff Simmons of Wichita, Kan., that her brother was living in Shewanee, Oklahoma, under the name of W. H. Hill. John W. Gates is now in New York.

A WELCOME FOR DEWEY

He Receives Cheers and Presents and Makes a Speech.

Colombo, Ceylon, June 23.—An aide de camp representing the Governor of Ceylon, the Right Hon. Sir West Ridgeway, boarded the Olympia in order to welcome Admiral Dewey, and Col. Savage, commanding the troops, also called. The visits were returned by Admiral Dewey and he was received at the jetty by a guard of honor, and, amidst cheering, drove away in the Governor's carriage.

The Admiral afterwards looked rooms at the Galloface Hotel and returned on board the Olympia. There he received a deputation representing the Planters' Association and the Chamber of Commerce, and was presented with a silver casket and an address as a memento of his visit.

The Admiral will remain at Ceylon about a week. He says he had a good voyage from Singapore and that his health is fairly good.

The presentation of the casket to Admiral Dewey was made on board the Olympia instead of in the Council Chamber, because the doctor had forbidden him to participate in any official function.

The delegates also presented a thousand pounds of tea to the crew of the Olympia.

The Admiral, replying to the address of welcome, said he wished he could reply in adequate terms, reciprocating the sentiments expressed. But, he added, he spoke from his heart when he said he deeply appreciated the welcome.

Admiral Dewey added that he would have the very acceptable present of tea distributed as desired, incidentally mentioning that he was a lifelong tea drinker himself, and assuring the delegation that the address would be read at "muster" and afterwards framed and preserved. The casket, he remarked, he would always keep on his table, and he told the delegation that he would report the matter to his Government and describe the cordiality of his reception.

100 MINERS ENTOMBED.

Explosion of Gas Causes a Big Fall of Coal at Ashley, Pennsylvania.

TWO ARE BADLY BURNED

Firece Fire Raging in One of the Largest Mines in the Coal Producing District.

The Men Imprisoned in the Burning Mine Escape Suffocation by Lying Flat on Their Faces—Relatives of the Workmen Gather Around the Mouth of the Shaft.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 23.—An explosion of gas in the Maxwell shaft of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company at Ashley set fire to the mine and caused a fall of coal which for a time imprisoned about 100 miners.

All of the men in peril were got out safe. The only cases of serious injury were Michael Sweeney and Roger Harrison, miners, who were severely burned. Alarming reports that had been spread about soon after the explosion brought hundreds of persons to the mouth of the shaft. Among them were many relatives of the men working within. The fall of coal, which was thought at first to be heavy enough to make the fate of the men beyond it problematical, was removed by heoric efforts on the part of willing volunteers and the colliery stopped work when the men were reached. The cause of the explosion has not yet been ascertained.

It was probably an accumulation of gas in an unexpected place, for the ventilation fans had not stopped. General Manager Richards, Superintendent Morgan R. Morgans and other officers spent several hours at the mine and after the first great danger was over they held a consultation as to the inside fire caused by the explosion.

Just how serious this fire is cannot now be learned, and the managers of the mine are not satisfied as to whether it is beyond control.

The Maxwell is one of the largest works in the coal region. The breaker can prepare 3,000 tons daily. There are about 1,000 men employed inside and nearly as many in the breaker and the outside workings.

The explosion was on the sixth lift of the red ash vein, which is 600 feet below the surface. The fall of coal came in such a way that the passage through was not entirely choked.

A few hundred tons more, or a smaller gangway, would have made all the difference between no loss of life and a frightful disaster. The greatest danger of all at first was from the after-damp, but the men escaped by lying down flat on their faces and the fans were kept working.

Bank Thief Gets $10,000.

Boston, June 23.—A sneak thief entered the Metropolitan National Bank here, and stole $10,00 while the paying teller's attention was drawn away for a moment.

The man entered the bank and at the teller's window asked directions about sending a money order. The teller gave him the information desired and the stranger stood at the counter apparently making notes.

Just then the teller was called to another part of the office, and the visitor quickly thrust his arm through the grating of the window and took fifty $100 notes and five $1,000 notes.

The thief, Philip Lambele, who is one of the cleverest at his line of business in the country, was arrested in New York as he got off the train from Boston at the Grand Central Depot. The whole ten thousand dollars were found in his possession and will be turned over to the bank.

Carnegie Company Bars Union Men.

Homestead, Pa., June 23.—There is a cloud on the labor horizon here, caused by the action of Superintendent Corry, of the Carnegie Steel Works, in discharging some thirty workmen who are prominent in the True Blue Club, ostensibly a social organization. Since the big strike of 1892 the Carnegie Company has refused to recognize the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. It is said that the True Blues are secretly affiliated with the union. They number 500 or more. It is not known what steps they will take.

Drought Destroying Ranches.

Denver, June 23.—According to reports received by Secretary Martin of the National Live Stock Association, continued drought has almost destroyed all the large Colorado ranges. Hundreds of cattle and sheep are reported dying in the San Luis valley, Northern New Mexico, parts of Oklahoma, the Indian Nations, western Kansas, and southern Utah also report the ranges almost bare and it is feared that the loss of cattle will be heavy.

Can't Get Her Children.

Greenup, Ky., June 23.—Mrs Julia A. Ware, widow of Ed Ware, who was killed by Tone Davenport, cannot secure her four children. Two Feet of Pain.

Pain is not usually measured by the foot, yet it is a fact that the unfortunates who suffer the miseries of aching feet endure an inch of torture to every square inch of foot they own.

Pain of any kind causes a strain upon the nervous system, and if prolonged and unchecked will create depression of spirits and despondency.

Aching feet are vexatious, aggravating and irritating, and nothing is more annoying than feet deformed and distorted from corns and bunions. Mr. Brown's painless method for the treatment and cure of corns, bunions, ingrowing and club toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty, chafed and burning feet, is endorsed by all eminent physicians. He has made diseases of the feet a life study. Corns, bunions and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago in Plainfield have not come back and the feet today are sound and well. Read the proof:

D. S. Scheuer, grocer, Front St; H. A. Weber, grocer, Liberty and Second streets; S. Sharkey, grocer, Third and Richmond streets; G. Voehl, bakery, 127 Front street; F. R. Vanderhoof, at F. Endress' meat market, Front street, and many others had corns, bunions, and ingrowing toe nails cured by Mr. Brown ten years ago; no trouble since. Albert Bunyon, 41 Mountain avenue; J. Q. Miles, J. P., 28 Somerset street; F. Cullen, and Mrs. Cullen, 1001 Second street; Mrs. M. C. Terry, 331 East Third street; J. D. Smalley, meat market, 153 Front street; H. L. Overbaugh, 118 Elmwood place; W. W. Warnock, bakery, 138 North avenue; J. J. Stites, blacksmith, Dunellen; and hundreds of others say that Mr. Brown completely cured their bunions, ingrowing toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, sweaty and tender feet, etc. They all say the treatment was painless; no soreness after.

BOY DRIVEN TO DEATH

George Rahe Hangs Himself Because He Can't Be a War Hero.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Dime novels with colored covers depicting blood-curdling scenes were responsible for the suicide of a fifteen-year-old boy named George Bon Rane, whose lifeless body was found hanging in the cellar of his employer's grocery store at No. 1,008 Cumberland street.

The body was cut down by a policeman and taken to Rahe's parents' home, No. 4,555 Alder street.

The boy spent all his leisure time in reading the trashy stuff. Among it was a story about a sixteen-year-old boy in command of a battleship that destroyed a Spanish fleet of twenty armored cruisers. After the battle the hero headed a party of marines on a shore expedition and defeated a Spanish army, himself killing nearly half of them.

That story turned the boy's head, and for weeks he had done little else than talk of his hero. About a week ago he became melancholy and announced that he would either be the captain of a man-of-war or a general after the order of the boy skipper, or nothing. He added that the war having ended there was little chance for him in this world.

Packing House Men Out.

Chicago, June 23.—Nearly 500 men in four packing houses at the stock yards left their work. They inaugurated a strike which the leaders say, will spread, and by July 1, the day chosen for a demonstration, involve the most of the houses in the yards. Special policemen are on the ground watching closely the actions of strikers. The trouble began when 200 platform men and truck handlers in the employ of Nelson Morris & Co., went out to secure an advance in wages of 25 cents a day.

Verdict of Lynching.

Scranton, Miss., June 23.—"We, the jury, find that deceased came to his death by climbing a tree, venturing too far out on a limb and broke his neck." That was the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of Daniel Patrick, colored, who was lynched here. Patrick confessed his crime and begged the mob to shoot him. He evidently feared burning at the stake and was glad to be let off with a rope and bullets. Three hundred of the most prominent men in the city participated in the lynching.

Miles Not for Philippines.

Adams, Mass., June 23.—An official in close relations with the President says that the latter has no present intention of sending either General Miles or General Wood to the Philippines in the near future.

This announcement is made in response to inquiries prompted by the known fact that General Miles is eager to go to the Philippines with a force adequate to the speedy suppression of the native uprising.

Zinc Men at Odds.

Joplin, Mo., June 23.—The fight is on in earnest between the Kansas and Missouri Miners' Association and the zinc smelters. The board of directors of the Miners' Association urgently request that every plant in this district be shut down from June 24 to July 10, 1899. By a strict compliance with this recommendation the directors feel certain that former prices may be restored and maintained.

Big Soda Ash Factory.

Akron, O., June 23.—The largest soda ash factory in the United States is to be erected at Barberton, this county, by capitalists identified with the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company. The corporation will be chartered under the laws of Pensylvania, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. The plant will employ 500 men.

Cemetery Superintendent Shot.

Cairo, Ill., June 23.—A telephone message received from Mound City reported the killing of Major T. A. Fitzpatrick, Superintendent of the National Cemetery, near that place by a man named Tobin. The men quarrelled and Tobin pulled a pistol and shot Major Fitzpatrick. Tobin surrendered himself.

A Yarn Combination.

Boston, June 23.—A combination of nine yarn mills of New Bedford, Fall River and Taunton, to go into effect early in July, will be on a capitalization basis of $15,700,000. There will be issued $5,700,000 5 per cent. gold bonds $5,000,000 7 per cent. preferred cumulative stock and $5,000,000 common stock.

Wages Advanced.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., June 23.—The 200 furnace men and laborers employed at the Carbon Iron and Steel Company's plant at Paryville have been notified that, beginning July 1, their wages will be increased 10 cents per day. This is the second advance in wages since the plant resumed operations ten weeks ago.

Disliked "Dutch."

Kutztown, Pa., June 23.—Because he objected to the use of "Pennsylvania Dutch" by scholars, and because he would not permit visitors at the Keystone Normal School to be entertained with liquor, Dr. Hancher is defeated for principal of the school. He had held the position six years.

Waldvogel's Slayer Caught.

New York, June 23.—After eluding the police for two days, Philip McDermott of 212 East Twentieth street, who on Monday night stabbed George Waldvogel, who died from the wound in Bellevue Hospital on Tuesday morning, was captured in the house at 464 Eleventh avenue.

Only Took Five Hours.

Weston, W. Va., June 24.—French Miller, aged 18, was indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced within five hours for forging a check. He was given two years in the penitentiary.

Launch of the Shamrock.

London, June 23.—The Exchange Telegraph Company says the Cup challenger Shamrock will be launched Monday, and will arrive at Southampton Wednesday to be fitted out.

MUSICIANS GATHERED IN.

A Whole Filipino Brass Band Captured by a Washington Regiment.

EIGHTY-TWO CAPTURED.

Natives Regard Departure of Volunteers as Evidence of Americans Abandoning War.

From This Quarter They Gather New Hope—Arguelles, Who Favored Partial Autonomy, Sent to Prison—More Serious Fighting Expected in Cavite.

Manila, June 23.—The outposts of the Washington Regiment have captured General Pio del Pilar's brass band of eighty-two pieces.

The members of the band somehow became separated from the rest of the army and came near the American lines without having the means of resistence. Some Chinamen of Manila have filed a claim against the Filipinos, who, it appears, leased the musicians from them and turned them over to General Pio del Pillar.

Four of the wounded of the Fourth regiment's recent fight with natives have died in hospital.

The Filipinos have learned that the American volunteers are returning to the United States, and the Filipino newspapers show they comstrue this to mean that the Americans are abandoning the war and are encouraged thereby.

Details of the sentencing of Colonel Arguelles, a Filipino commissioner, to twelve years' imprisonment have just been obtained here. It was at first reported that his condemnation by the Filipinos was due to the friendship he displayed towards Americans, but the information just obtained shows the accusation against him was not based on his peace conferences at Manila, as supposed.

The charge against the Colonel was that in conversation with Filipino officers he predicted that disorders within the native territory would lead to civil war and, therefore, he said he considered autonomy under the Americans preferable to independence.

Washington, June 23.—War Department officers are expecting to receive soon news of another encounter between Gen. Wheaton's forces at Imus and the enemy of the Cavite district. It is apparent that the natives are not so thoroughly disorganized as at first appeared. When Gen. Wheaton captured Imus they retreated about seven miles southward to Perez Dasmarinas. They were not permitted to remain there long, and when compelled to retreat they abandoned the main roadway and fled to Buena Vista to the westward. To do this they were forced to cross three rivers and travel through rice swamps for nearly three miles.

The latest information from Manila is to the effect that the insurgents are concentrating at San Francisco de Malabon. Army officers at the War Department, who are following their movements, say that if the enemy are at Malabon they are very near the American troops. Malabon is directly west of about four miles from Imus, so that the insurgents, after leaving Buena Vista, returned northward and drew nearer to Gen. Wheaton's forces, instead of retreating further to southern part of the province.

There are no roads leading from Imus to San Francisco de Malabon. The country is broken by three rivers, and there is much marsh land which makes it almost impossible for artillery to do much effective work. It is not improbable though that a force of American troops may be sent against the natives to prevent their regaining the country north of Imus.

Gen. Otis informed the War Department by cable that the hospital ship Relief left Manila for San Francisco with 250 sick soldiers on board.

May Enlist 10,000 Men.

Washington, June 23.—Preparations are being made by the War Department which indicate that the Government intends to muster in 10,000 volunteers. It cannot be ascertained definitely whether a call for that number of additional men has been decided on or not, but the best information obtainable makes it appear that such a determination has been reached and that the Department's preparations have been undertaken so there will be no delay should the number of men mentioned be called for. The activity of the Department in the matter, however, is reasonable ground for the belief that the question of securing 10,000 volunteers is under consideration, and that there would be a conference on the subject when President McKinley returns to Washington.

War Department officers are very reticent on the subject. They declare, however, that no order for the mustering in of volunteers has been issued, and that nothing on the subject of additional troops for the Philippines has been heard from Gen. Otis since his despatch saying, in response to an inquiry from the War Department that he could secure enough men from among the State troops under his command to organize three skeleton regiments of volunteers.

Tug Burns; Total Loss.

Alexandria Bay, N. Y., June 23.—The tug Bronson, with five barges in tow, bound for Montreal, took fire at Warner's Island, one mile west of Alexandria, and was compelled to run ashore to save her crew. The tug is a total loss. It was valued at $15,000.

Died in Race Track Panic.

Topeka, Kan., June 23.—One is dead and a score of persons are disabled with bruises received in the fire panic at the race track. The grand stand was entirely consumed.

Sampson's Fleet Leaves Boston.

Boston, June 23.—Admiral Sampson's squadron, the flagship New York and battleships Massachusetts, Indiana and Texas, have sailed for Newport.

"You see, madam, Ivory Soap is really the most economical. The cake is so large that it easily divides into two cakes of the ordinary size. There is twice as much soap as you get in the usual cake of toilet soap. Then it is very economical in use, for although it lathers quickly, it is always firm and hard, even in hot water. As it floats, you can not lose it or leave it to waste in the bowl. We sell it to all of our best trade for general use."

NEW FRENCH CABINET.

Senator Waldeck-Rousseau Succeed in Second Attempt.

Paris, June 23.—Senator Waldeck-Rousseau has completed the formation of a Cabinet.

The Senator, accompanied by the new Cabinet Ministers, proceeded to the Elysee Palace to present his colleagues to President Loubet.

Senator Waldeck-Rousseau was summoned to the Elysee, and President Loubet requested that he make another attempt to organize a Ministry. He consented, with the result already stated.

The new Premier ignored M. Guillan, Krantz, and Poincare because of their attitude during the previous negotiations.

The new Cabinet is as follows: Senator Wildeck-Rousseau, President of the Council of Ministers and Minister of the Interior; M. Delcasse, Minister of Foreign Affairs; General the Marquis de Gallifet, Minister of War; M. de Lanessan, Minister of Marine; M. Monis, Minister of Justice; M. Callaux, Minister of Finance; M. Millerand, Minister of Commerce, M. Leygues, Minister of Public Instruction; M. Decrais, Minister of the Colonies, M. Jean Dupuy, Minister of Agriculture; M. Pierre Bandin, Minister of Public Works.

A Lone Lyncher.

New Orleans, La., June 23.—Louis Guidry, the negro desperado of St. was killed in the St. Mary's parish jail, at Franklin, by a white man named McHugh. Guidry was charged with three murders. He first killed Constable Crossia of Berwick, who tried to arrest him, and then Constable who also tried to capture him. Surrounded by a mob in the swamp he escaped and was subsequently captured in the neighboring parish of Iberia and confined in the parish jail. As threats had been made of lynching Guidry, Judge Allen interfered to prevent this and assured the people from the bench that the prisoner wuold be tried and dealt with as the law provided, and that there would be no unnecessary delay in bringing the prisoner to trial.

As a result all ideas of lynching were abandoned and the Judge was strongly supported in the position he took. McHugh, however, got into the jail by a trick and mortally shot Guidry, who was confined in the steel cage used for murderers. McHugh was at once arrested and is now locked up in jail. A very bitter feeling prevails against him for his murderous action after the authorities had succeeded in preventing lynching, and he is likely to be punished severely for the murder.

Four Days in a Living Tomb.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 23.—Ignatz Cosmos is starving in a living tomb. For four days he has been imprisoned. He is the miner who was shut in the Gaylord colliery by a fall of rock last Monday. The workmen have heard Cosmos shouting and rapping on the rock so that it is known he is alive. They worked furiously and got near enough to him to converse when Cosmos said he was unhurt, but starving. Every effort to reach him is being made, but coal and rock must be blasted away before he is released.

Both Died on the Same Day.

Denver, June 23.—Paul Talley, aged twenty-two, and his sister, Julia Talley, aged twenty-four, of Philadelphia, and Children of Charles W. Talley, a wealthy Philadelphia lumber dealer, are both dead in this city. They succumbed to consumption within a few hours of each other, and now their father is seriously ill. Mr. Talley sent his children here a month ago in hopes that the climate would benefit them, but it was too late.

Ethelwold Safe in Port.

Philadelphia, June 23.—A dispatch from Nassau, Bahama Islands, received here at the office of the Quaker City Fruit Company, tells of the arrival of the missing steamer Ethelwold at that port with a broken shaft. All on board were reported well. The steamer left here June 7 for Port Antonio, and was subsequently reported drifting at sea with a broken shaft. This was followed by a report that she had foundered.

Whitecaps Must Hang.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 23.—Gov. McMillin says that the Whitecaps, Frank Wynne and Lambert Tipton, convicted of the murder of William Whaley and his wife, must hang at Sevierville on July 5. A respite was granted to these men by ex-Gov. Taylor, as their evidence was needed against a man charged with hiring them to commit the crime.

Republicans Begin Work in Ohio.

Washington, June 23.—Judge George K. Nash, Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, was in consultation with Colonel Charles Dick, chairman of the State Executive Committee. They decided that the work of organization shall be begun at once, and the speaking campaign about the middle of September.

Chicago Welcomes Roosevelt.

Chicago, June 23.—Gov. Roosevelt arrived in Chicago on his way to Las Vegas, N. M., to attend the reunion of the Rough Riders, which will take place on June 24, the anniversary of the fight at Las Quasimas. He was given a royal welcome.

All He Craved.

The proprietor of the restaurant had just issued a new advertisement, intended to call attention to a reduction in rates. After quoting the prices of various articles to conclusively demonstrate the fact that everything was cheap, he added at the bottom of the advertisement: "Bread, butter and potatoes free."

He knows better now. If he had it to do over again he would word it a little differently, and all because a solemn-looking man came in one day, and, after taking his place at a table, pointed to the advertisement and asked:

"Is that on the square?"

"Certainly," replied the waiter.

"Then give me some bread, butter and potatoes," said the man.

"Yes, sir. What else?" asked the waiter.

"Nothing else," replied the man. "That's all that's free, isn't it?"

The Height for Brandy.

A steeplejack who was engaged in repairing a tall chimney at some works in Devon slipped and fell a distance of some thirty-five feet. Fortunately, he alighted on some soft sand, and, though stunned and badly shaken, no bones were broken. After water had been dashed on his face he recovered consciousness.

The manager, who stood by, having been summoned to the scene, put a glass of water to his lips, saying:

"Here, Bill, drink this, and you'll feel better."

The injured man raised his head feebly and, gazing first at the glass and then at the high scaffolding from which he had fallen, remarked in a weak voice:

"What I should like to know is, 'ow far a man have got to fall in these blessed works afore they gives him brandy?"

A Matter of Indifference.

Mistress—Why on earth, girl, don't you answer the front door—you surely hear that knocking?

Bridget—An' phwat's the knocking to do wid me? Ol'm not expectin' callers to-day, mum.

Why Bill Was Discomfitted.

Blizzard Bill went up to the new parson's house with an unpleasant errand in view. He meant to run him out of town.

Three hours later he met Ginger Joe. Ginger looked him over.

"Grizzly or Dynamite?" he softly inquired.

Bill looked at Ginger through his half shut eyes.

"You're a derned pretty sort o' friend, you are," he hoarsely growled. "Why in merry thunder didn't you tell me th' parson was an army chaplain."

June 29—Opening of the camp at Northfield, Mass. Information at Y. M. C. A.

Referring to the political events leading up to the appointment of George W. Cooper, Senator Reed's favorite, as postmaster at Somerville, the Unionist-Gazette says: "Mr. Cooper did not have the unanimous support of the Republican leaders for the office, but no other candidate could have expected that. Those who favored some one else will not go over to the Democrats because of Mr. Cooper's appointment. Who ever thinks that is ignorant of the kind of Republicans that grow in Somerset. Furthermore, Mr. Cooper knows that the opposition to him was not on personal grounds. He and his friends won the fight and while he is chewing on the luscious plum he has plucked, he will doubtless feel more like working for the Republican cause than ever before."

Evidently the Elizabeth Journal thinks some explanation is in order to account for the perennial promise of a new line to connect Paterson and Trenton, with no performance in sight yet. It says:

Somewhat of public interest is being revived in a railroad to run from Princeton to Trenton, around by the way of Morristown, Rockaway Valley, Whitehouse and Flemington. A year or more ago it was announced that contracts had been given out for this very road. Now it is announced that the road has been surveyed and staked out, but all this was reported to have been done eighteen months ago. It is to be feared, from all these periodical announcements, that the proposed road is very chimerical indeed. It comes to public notice too frequently, and seems to loose ground rather than to make progress.

THE NEW CUP DEFENDER, COLUMBIA.

The new cup defender, Columbia, which was launched at Herreshoff's, Bristol, R. I., on Saturday, June 10, has a length over all of 131 feet 6 inches, load water line 89 feet 6 inches, beam 24 feet and draft 20 feet. Her sail area will be 13,500 feet, which is 15 per cent greater than that of the Defender, the American champion of 1895.

In an opinion just filed in the Court of Errors and Appeals, Chancellor McGill takes the State Legislature to task for enacting a law with a view of circumventing the constitutional prohibition against special legislation and in direct violation of the principles laid down by the State courts in a long line of cases. The opinion is embraced in a decision on the District Court act of 1898, which is declared unconstitutional. Under this act the District Court of Atlantic City was established, and Robert H. Ingersoll made judge. The opinion sets aside the judgment of the Supreme Court, which held the act to be constitutional.

That advertising is the key to success in the case of aged George John Stutz, who is about to receive $75,580 from a German bank as the result of his mother's desire to give him a good start in life sixty-six years ago, goes without denial. Had it not been for the scanning of the newspaper columns by his son-in-law in a casual way the old German would have probably died ignorant of the fact that one George John Stutz was wanted for the purpose of delivering into his possession an original $4,000 that has compounded itself nineteen times.

There is one class of people who are rejoicing today throughout the State. They are the justices of peace. The declaring unconstitutional of the District Court Act by the Court of Errors and Appeals means that they will be in business for a while yet.

Rev. Sam Jones, of Georgia, says that the country would be better off "if the farmers would only swap some of their jawbone for backbone and muscle."

Down in Union county the electric car sometimes slips its trolley for a little while, but very soon goes marching on again, says the Newark News.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Now that there is a prospect that the Union and Essex trolley interests will be pooled one may expect a cessation of the old hostilities which retarded the advancement of the trolley between the small towns in these counties. Convenience is the great incentive which demands the trolley service in the northern parts of Union and Essex, and if the Kean-Riker combination will give the people what they want there will be no more barriers in the way of trolley progress in that section of the State.—New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

At the commencement exercises of the Borough Public Schools at the Y. M. C. A. last evening the faculty prohibited the presentation of flowers to the graduates during the exercises, which was an excellent idea. The graduates were allowed to receive the tokens of esteem, but not until after the rendition of the programme.

* * * * *

One of the familiar figures seen each year at the High School commencement exercises is that of the venerable Amos Moffett, who boasts of the fact that for twenty-nine years he has collected the tickets of admission. Constable Moffett's tall form and his long, flowing white whiskers gives him a patriarchical appearance that every graduate remembers in after years. In early years the commencement exercises were held in the churches—sometimes at one and sometimes at another. Mr. Moffett, although now well on the shady side of life, is still quite active, and his many friends among the alumni of the Plainfield High School trust that he may have the pleasure of taking the tickets at the door of Music Hall for at least a score of years to come. Constable Moffett looks forward to commencement with as much pleasure as do the graduates.

Fire Chief Doane has again returned to duty after an abence necessitated by illness of several months. During the Chief's illnss Assistant Chief Jennings has been the acting chief of the department. The able manner in which Assistant Chief Jennings handled all the fires during the absence of his commander is the best evidence that he is a most capable and efficient officer of the department. He is a man of excellent judgement and is therefore a competent person to entrust with so important an office. Besides being a born fire-fighter as well as a brave man, Assistant Chief Jennings is popular among his subordinates and has no trouble in maintaining discipline in the department. Fire Chief Doane should be congratulated on having an officer of the make-up of his assistant chief and the citizens can also feel safe in having such efficient men at the head of this very important department of the city government.

Plans for Enlarging Girls' School.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 23.—The trustees of the Girls' Industrial School held an adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon and finally decided to accept the plans prepared by William A. Poland for the new building to be erected at the school near this city. The plans call for a three-story brick structure, which will provide fifty sleeping rooms for inmates, five sleeping rooms for officers, officers' and inmates' dining rooms, reading-room, reception-room, kitchen, storerooms, etc. The Legislature last winter appropriated $17,500 for the purpose, $15,000 for the building and $2,500 for the furnishing.

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 23.—Street Commissioner Staats is now engaged in trimming trees along North avenue, which is quite an improvement.

Miss Lizzie Reusch, of North avenue, who is detained at the hospital in Plainfield, had an operation performed on her nose a few days ago. Several years ago she met with an accident while riding her bicycle and her nose was injured so that an operation was necessary. She is now doing very well.

There is really no improvement in the condition of J. W. Case, who fell from a cherry tree a few days ago. The physician in charge say that no bones are broken, but Mr. Case's condition is still serious.

The loss by fire on the Chas. McNabb house was settled this week through the agency of L. T. Titsworth, agent of the Germania Insurance Company.

A party of people from New Brunswick passed through town yesterday in a private trolley car. They went to Plainfield and returned later in the day.

The first part of next week the public school teachers will leave town to enjoy their vacation.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 23—The Father Lights Missionary society of the Baptist church held a very successful festival Wednesday evening at Friendship Hall for the purpose of raising money to purchase a new carpet for the church. The hall was decorated with flowers, bunting, flags, lilies, etc., and there was arranged a number of booths and tables where things were placed on sale. The apron booth was in charge of Miss Stella Sofield, Mrs. Wm. Giles and Mrs. S. Sofield. There was a pound table, where pound packages of everything were on sale. This was in charge of Mrs. Robert Giddis. The candy table was presided over by Mrs. George Harris, Miss Abbie Giles and Miss Cora Dayton. The lemonade booth and peanut stand was in charge of Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth, while Wm. Giles and Foster Sofield were in charge of the ice cream. The waitresses were Miss Edna Boice, Miss Florence Nelson, Miss Edna Smalley and Miss Alice Pierce.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Patsy Christmas has commenced to make cross connections to the Park avenue storm sewer.

—If you want first-class, honest, fine, good goods, go to Flynn Brothers, 222 West Front street, near Music Hall.

—A mistake was made in the price of new potatoes in Frazee's ad yesterday. The types made it read 60 cents per basket when it should have been 50 cents.

—W. M. Smith, of Elmwood place, the designer, has just completed a very handsome letter head and envelope design for the Westfield Board of Education.

—Rev. Charles E. Herring will address the 4 o'clock meeting at the W. C. T. U. rooms next Sunday afternoon. There will be special music and all are invited.

—The parents and friends of the Loyal Temperance Legion are invited to attend their closing session next Tuesday afternoon, at which time reports of the work for the year will be read.

—Attention is called to advertisement in another column of the three and nine cent store, 83 Somerset street. This store is closing out goods below cost in order to go out of business July 10th.

—Doane & Edsall say that the modern trunk smasher must knock pretty hard to break up a T. B. Peddie trunk, the kind they sell so many of. Buy this make and you are safe. They report the largest shoe business for many years.

—The new Country Club, of Colonia, near Rahway, bids fair to absorb, it is said, the Ideran Outing Club, of Rahway, because of the superior attractions for outdoor enjoyment at the Country Club, including the splendid golf links. Several members of the Ideran have lately severed their connection with it to join the new club, and it is predicted this is but the beginning of the end of the Ideran Club.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

STORE HOSTESSES.

THEY AID WOMEN WHO GO SHOPPING ALONE.

The Role of Hostess Is That of Guide and Adviser—Must Be Thoroughly Informed About Latest Fashions, An Agreeable and Chatty Entertainer.

Five "hostesses" are now included in the staff of one of New York's large department stores. Some people call them guides, but the five women themselves prefer to be known as hostesses. If you ask them their mission in the affairs of the place they will tell you that they extend the hospitality of the store to shoppers. This glittering phase represents a line of duties which will appeal to every woman as exceedingly practical.

Talk of it's not being good for man to be alone! There is one time in all others when it is not good for woman to be alone, and that is when she is shopping. Rather than go forth solitary to a shopping expedition, a woman would take her mother-in-law along. There is, generally speaking, nothing stronger to be said. Nine women out of ten declare, in the moderate terms so dear to the feminine tongue that they simply loath and despise to go shopping alone. The proprietor of the store in question recognized the prevalence of this state of mind and determined that no woman need come to his emporium with such sentiments disturbing her serenity. Hence these hostesses.

They have a little office on the second floor at one corner of the rotunda. Facing the open centre of the building is an array of cords stretched from the railing up to the next floor. It looks as if somebody intended to raise sweet peas or vines. The only blossoms which ever come on this trellis, however, are five bright little satin banners, one for each of the hostesses. One is of blue and white, one of scarlet and white, and so on. If a hostess is not in the office when called for her banner is run up, and that is a signal to her that she is wanted. She is supposed to keep an eye on the trellis while she is away from the office and respond to her banner signal as soon as possible.

The role of these hostesses is that of a guide and adviser. A woman comes in with a list of purchases she wishes to make. She doesn't know the store, and moreover she isn't very sure that she knows just what she wants. She takes a hostess to be her guide, philosopher, or at any rate, counsellor and friend. Her new ally knows all the ins and outs of the store, and can lead the way without loss of time from one department to another, securing immediate attention to each. She is also thoroughly informed as to the latest fashions, the best and most popular materials, colors and designs. She gives her advice as to what will be the most becoming thing to get, how much material to buy, what trimmings to select, every one of the problems in fact, which torture the solitary shopper with dreadful doubts.

Each of the five hostesses has her own clientele of customers, who always depend on her to shop with them. One is a Southern woman, who makes the customers from the South her own particular charge. They find in her a real hostess, who takes away from the strangeness and loneliness of being in a great city wholly different in atmosphere from what they have grown accustomed to. Another of the hostesses is a Catholic, and takes care of all customers from the convents and other essentially Catholic institutions. This privilege of having shopping made easy is not alone for out-of-town customers. Many city women avail themselves of it. There is no charge to the customers at all. The guides are really hostesses, delegated by the proprietor to extend the courtesies of the house, just as they say.

An Unused Type.

I might pile Ossa upon Pelion in the way of description of gray eyes culled from fiction. There is, however, one type of gray eye I have not yet noted.

We have had gray eyes which "resembled nothing so much as moss agates;" sea-gray eyes are not uncommon; Amelia Rives has bestowed upon Ilva in "The Witness of the Sun," great violet-gray eyes, "like rain-washed amethysts;" while Mrs. Paul Leicester Ford has recently introduced to us a pair of slate-colored eyes.

But, at the present writing, I have yet to meet with golden-gray eyes in fiction. They are to be found, however, in nature, the most luminous of all eyes, I think, the iris about the edge soft old-gold or golden brown, gradually melting toward the pupil into a warm gray. This lovely color I have seen in the eyes of a dog and of a child—the eyes of the dog wistful, appealing, pathetic with unutterable things; the child's speaking of a soul as yet undarkened by shades of the prison-house and splendid with the light that never was on land or sea.

To the novelist desiring something new in eyes, I would respectfully recommend the golden-gray.—"Lippincott's."

Chopping Knives.

A man who went into a wholesale hardware establishment to ask about something, saw there incidentally samples representing about thirty different styles of chopping knives with two blades. Two-bladed chopping knives were new to him, but he learned upon inquiry that they had been in use for many years, and for that matter that there were chopping knives made with three blades.

Theoretically things can be chopped up twice as fast with a two-bladed knife as with a one-bladed knife, and perhaps they can be in fact, but for some reason single-bladed chopping knives are still preferred.

Of all the chopping knives sold about one-sixth are two-bladed knives, while the number of three-bladed chopping knives sold is proportionately less.

Till the Tan Wears Off.

For the girl who has just returned from her summer outing flesh colored veiling is recommended. It is the newest thing, and consists of a fine silk mesh, daintily embroidered in black dots. It will hide her freckled or tanned skin, while the small black dots which are scattered here and there are surpassingly becoming over the too ruddy glow of her complexion.

The most weather beaten looking girl will appear trim and neat under its protection until time relieves her of a sunburnt nose and brown fiery red skin.

FASHION NOTES.

Summer Gowns and the Proper Accessories.

The princess gown continues in high favor. The upper part is usually so cut as to simulate a low necked bodice worn with a guimpe of crepe de chine, net or mousseline de soie.

Little capes of beige or gray cloth are seen as part of the summer outfit, for use in the cool of the day at the mountains or seaside. An air of novelty is given to these capes by the addition of a scarf of mousseline de soie of the same color as the cloth. This scarf is arranged over the shoulders to form a capuchon.

Large hats are soon to be worn again. They will be much trimmed, in a way recalling the Louis Quinze period, with large flowers and clusters of plumes.

PRINCESS GOWN.

Strings of silk tulle, to be tied in a large, soft knot under the chin, will be a frequently seen feature.

Hats and gowns en suite, little seen of late years, are beginning to reappear. There is always a certain quality of refinement about a costume matching throughout, and the return of the style to general favor is welcomed.

The princess gown illustrated is of pastel blue cloth. The front is slightly draped across the bust and closes at the left side with groups of buttons and cords. The edge of the front, the foot and the sleeves is stitched, and there are stitched plaits across the top of the sleeves. The valois collar is also stitched. Buttons and cords finish the wrists. The hat of black straw is trimmed with black plumes and yellow roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHITE COSTUMES.

They Are Used For House, Street and Evening Wear.

White gowns are at a premium this summer. They are worn at all places and for all occasions. There are white wrappers, white tailor made costumes, white carriage, visiting, yachting and ball gowns. White waists, with other skirts, are seen in all varieties, from the plainest lawn or pique shirt waist to the mull bodice enriched with the most delicate lace and needlework.

The most generally useful white costumes are those made of pique or cotton duck. The linen duck is heavier and soon becomes stringy. These gowns are made with a plain or a tunic skirt, and are either without trimming or are decorated with braid, bands of insertion or stitched straps. The bodice is in the form of a jacket, a bolero or a blouse. A shirt waist of pique to match the skirt is very pretty. Sometimes white and colored pique are combined in the same gown, or white with a dot is combined with plain white. Little jackets of scarlet cloth are worn very effectively with all white gowns for the country and are decidedly picturesque.

The cut shows an evening gown of white silk gauze embroidered with silver over white silk. The skirt is plain, save for the embroidery. The bodice has a square decolletage outlined with silver passementerie, and there is a large silver motif embroidered at the left side. The bodice is gathered at the waist under a belt of light green velvet. The sleeves are of unlined spangled gauze and have plaited epaulets. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Don't trust your shoeing to any one who as not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. We are having great success in leveling and balancing horses that have been ungaited by being shod by inexperienced men and boys. Our reference is NOT to people who are out of the State, but to OUR CUSTOMERS, who can be found right here in the city and vicinity.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 25—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Spiritual growth.—Mark iv. 26-32.

The nature of spiritual growth is represented in the topical reference by two parables of Christ concerning the growth of seed cast into the ground. The soil is the human heart; the seed is the word of God; the growth is spiritual development; the fruit is Christian character; the harvest is the end of the world, when God distributes His rewards and punishments. The one thought emphasized by the topic and also by these two parables is the nature of spiritual growth, or the growth of the kingdom of God in the heart and life of men. Several characteristics of spiritual growth are pointed out.

1. Spiritual growth is constant. The seed grows continually. The man rises night and day, and the seed springs up and grows. It is not an irregular, intermittent growth, but a constant, steady growth. This should be the nature of spiritual growth. Constant study of God's word, constant communion with Christ, constant abounding in good works, should lead to constant advance of the spiritual life toward God and godliness.

2. Spiritual growth is mysterious. The seed should spring up and grow, he knoweth not how, for the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself. How mysterious is growth! Who can explain it or understand it? The fact we know; the philosophy is unknown. How characteristic of spiritual growth! Spiritual birth is mysterious. "The wind bloweth where it listeth, * * * but thou canst not tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth. So is every one who is born of the Spirit." Mystery is the nature of spiritual growth. Who can explain how the word of God can take hold of the human heart and change it and transform the human life? We know the fact, a blessed knowledge, but the philosophy of it is unfathomable. It is of God and mysterious, incomprehensible.

3. Spiritual growth is gradual and progressive. "First the blade, then the ear; after that the full corn in the ear." Step by step the process continues. The order is always the same; it is never reversed. God is orderly in all that He does. The fact should warn us against too high expectations. We cannot become saints in a day. Saints are not born, but developed. It should act as an encouragement and inspiration. Perhaps we do not grow as we feel that we should. Let us remember that not by giant strides does the seed grow, but gradually and progressively.

4. Spiritual growth is characterized by fruit bearing. The seed becomes the ear, the mustard seed the fruit bearing tree. Spiritual growth will manifest itself in spiritual fruit.

Bible Readings.—Ps. i. 1-6; lii. 7-9; lxlii. 12; Jer. xii. 1, 2; Hos. xiv. 5-7; Mal. iv. 1, 2; Math. xiii. 1-9, 33; Luke i. 80; Eph. ii. 19-22; v. 14-16; Phil. iii. 12-14; II Thess. i. 3; I Pet. ii. 1-3; II Pet. iii. 18.

New Motives.

Christians have new motives for missionary activity in these days. The old theory that whoever does not accept Christ in this life is lost, whether he has ever heard the gospel or not, is seldom broached now by the more intelligent classes of people. But present motives are, or should be, no less strong than those of former days in encouraging missionary activities. To bring light into darkened souls; to encourage the weary and heavy laden, sinking under life's burdens; to uplift the fallen; to give strength to overcome the demons of lust and selfishness; to show the despairing mourner that the grave is but the open portal to heaven—these are the true motives to missionary effort. Could they be any nobler or more potent?—Universalist Leader.

The Constant Builder.

The man of intellect keeps his confession in a book, but has no knowledge of it with the heart, but the real soldier of Christ carries his confession in the consciousness of his own soul. It is with him when he sleeps. Every morning he awakes with it. Throughout all of life he carries it in his innermost soul. And because it is the dominating power in his life, by virtue of his confession, he is a constant builder in the church of Christ.—Translated From the Dutch by Rev. J. Hendrick de Vries.

First of All.

The preacher should, first of all, be a preacher of truth. He is the Lord's messenger and must speak as God directs. He ought to be more anxious about what he says in God's name than about how it will affect the hearers. He who acts upon this principle is more likely to impress the more thoughtful of his audience, as well as receive the Divine favor and approval.—Presbyterian.

Depends on What We Are.

Temptations are the crises which test the strength of one's character. Whether we stand or fall at these crises depends largely on what we are before the testing comes.—Presbyterian Journal.

Consecration.

I bring Thee myself, dear Lord,
And all that I want to be,
My joys and my weary cares,
And consecrate all to Thee.
Whatever the days may bring
Of gladness or grief or pain,
There's nothing to be withheld;
I give it to Thee again.

I wait for Thy blessing, Lord,
The touch of Thy loving hands,
The strength that Thy grace can give
To do what Thy love commands.
The way may be hard and long,
The burden be very great,
But all that I am I bring
And cheerfully consecrate.

And if in my pain, dear Lord,
I sometimes cry for relief,
Thou knowest if Thy dear will
Shall bid me still bear my grief.
I claim but Thy promise, Lord;
Thou wilt not leave me alone,
But close to Thy loving heart
Wilt tenderly hold thine own.

—Christian Work.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 25. "Spiritual Growth"—Text. Mark iv. 26-32.

"As if a man should cast seed into the ground and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how."

The old miracle of seed time and harvest is being again performed before our open eyes. We see the transformation of bare hillsides into verdure clad billows of beauty. Bare seeds are sown, and we watch the breaking graves of soil heaved with mysterious life beneath until the blade, the bloom, the fruit appear. We watch the whole process as we have watched it all the years past with keen eyed wonder and bated breath. Yet we have never been able to discover the power that works in all the process nor to detect the hidden worker who produces the open wonder before our sight.

Last night in a prayer meeting a young lady arose—shall we call her girl or woman? She was on that boundary line so fascinating between the two—girlhood merging into sweeter, deeper mysteries of womanhood, eyes kindling with new visions, lips parted with new speech, ears alert for new music, heart beating with expectancy, feet pressing new thresholds of opportunity. She arose without invitation and said simply, modestly, bravely, "I wish to do all I possibly can for Jesus the coming year." That was all. But how much it meant! The seed of years gone by, watered with prayerful tears by father and mother, watched with heart longing unutterable for long months, had sprung to life. The springtime had come. In that life there had been no lapse into sinful dissipation and agonizing repentance, no special altar service with importunity, hesitancy and final yielding of will. All these are good in cases which need them. In her case there was no such need. In babyhood she was dedicated to God in baptism and daily prayed over, and from earliest infancy the spirit life cared for as tenderly, patiently, skillfully, as the little body was nourished and nursed. From physical weakness she had been developed to robust, young, healthy womanhood. In spirit she had been as carefully reared. The Bible was to her God's truth, to be known, believed and practiced. Jesus was her Saviour. She belonged to Him, was an object of His constant care and assured of His protection, love and direction. Her duty and privilege were to love, trust and help Him. All this had been germinating, growing with her expanding intellect and increasing powers of body and soul, until now it burst the husk and showed the blade of a new existence in upper air and sunshine.

So grows the kingdom of God in the human soul. Plant with patience, water and cultivate with diligence, trust God that good seed in good soul soil shall spring by His unseen power in due time into blade and ear and harvest. The power is unseen, the Life Giver still invisible, but the growth reveals Him near, and the old miracle of life continues with unabated attractiveness in the lives of His people.

Blossoms must bloom of themselves. To force open the calyx and hasten the flowering is to ruin all. If it blooms at all, it must be by inner impulse and not from outward force. Pick open the bud, and you spoil the rose.

A dozen seeds share the same home in a handful of soil, and spring into leaf under the same sun rays and breezes. The same dewdrops and showers water them, yet no two are alike in leaf or root or flower. What mysteriousness lies here! Who dreamed that each of these brown seeds held such power of thought and will and feeling as to select from soil and sun and air and moisture just the elements adapted to develop its own plan? What wisdom in planning and executing the design! Surely a seed is a wonderful thinker and a most skillful worker. Do seeds think and feel and choose?

How seeds grow, who can tell? How souls grow each one can know somewhat if his own soul grows and he watches its development. What can a lily know of the thoughts and feelings of a rose except as it watches itself and supposes the other to be like it? Seeds have impulses; so have souls. Roots meet stones they cannot penetrate and find also soil with elements they can take and in their inner structure change from mineral to vegetable. How they do it, we don't know and don't believe they know. But they do it.

Souls have impulses, meet obstacles, find also material for making manhood and womanhood. But with these there is a consciousness not found in the seed. Souls know good and bad, feel the glow of approval and pang of self scorn, realize the duty of right doing, have power in themselves to make plans of growth and to carry them out. They can't make the soil, the sunshine, the showers of moral and spirit life, but they can determine how they will grow in them and what they will make from them. Oh, a soul is a wonderful thing!

Sorrows may crush you if you let them fall on you wrongly, but if you bend a little they fall on the earth and pack the soil more firmly about your roots, give you a better hold on earth and a firmer lifting of being toward the upper heavens. If a branch is lopped off, perhaps it will help you grow more symmetrical. Pruning and thinning of fruit make the rest of the yield larger and more luscious.

CYCLING COMMENT.

"Zimmy," the Jersey skeeter, who has a race meet of his own at Ambrose Park July 1st, is said by his most intimate friends to be in prime condition. It is claimed that he can make a mile flat in a trifle under a minute, and that those who oppose him in the Zimmy handicap, in which the famous retired champion will be the contestant for the first time in three years, will have to do some pretty tall riding to keep up with him.

Entries are being received almost every day for the 25 mile road meet, which will be contested on the Rahway course July 4th. White and Blake, of Elizabeth, are pushing it, and it will be contested under the auspices of the Century Road Club. Already a number of racers are practicing daily on the course, and some pretty fast time is being made. The prize list will comprise several racing wheels, in addition to other valuables.

Miss Helen Louise Hall delivered the valedictory and essay. "A Cornerstone of Character." Miss Hall's essay was of unusual excellence. She spoke of self-control as a corner-stone of character and pointed out the necessity of looking well at the superstructure as well as the foundation. The dangers of selfishness and self-indulgence were considered and the path toward true success in life outlined She closed with a few words of farewell to her classmates.

The presentation of the diplomas by Dr. J. B. Probasco, President of the Board of Education, ended the exercises. There was a profusion of flowers and other gifts for the graduates which were distributed about their seats on the stage during the intervals in the programme.

ALUMNI RECEIVED '99.

RECEPTION AND DANCE TO THE GRADUATES HELD AT CASINO.

Followed the Commencement Exercises and Was Largely Attended—Excellent Music and a Cool Evening Enjoyed.

After the class of '99 of the Plainfield High School was graduated with all due honor at the formal commencement exercises held in Stillman Music Hall last evening, the members of the class were entertained at the recepion and dance given in the Casino by the classes of '97 and '98. The alumni reception to the graduates proved a great success.

For the last four years these receptions have been held in the Casino and have been made important events in the school year. The cool weather and the excellent music by Fancuilli's orchestra made the affair of last evening particularly attractive. It was well attended, all the graduates appearing and several members of the Board of Education and the faculty looking in on the young people.

There was a goodly delegation from from the alumni present, and there were greetings between those who had not met since the last alumni reception. At midnight refreshments were served by Steward Kane. The decorations, while not very elaborate, were very tastefully arranged.

The affair was in charge af a committee of which Sydney R. Titsworth, '97, now of Alfred University, was the chairman. The success of the reception was the direct results of the energetic labors of Mr. Titsworth.

At remaining stations the amounts vary from a trace to 0.35 inches, the counties of Union, Morris, Essex and Hunterdon receiving the least, almost equal to a total absence.

Wheat and rye are ripening rapidly, and the harvesting of these crops will begin early next week. Orchard fruits are dropping freely, and the twig blight on apple and pear trees is increasing especially in southern orchards.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 23—Mary Sophia Meyer, of Newark, who was convicted in the Union County Court of causing the death of Mrs. Anna Krause, of Elizabeth, by malpractice, and who was sentenced to twelve years in State Prison, must serve her term. Jeremiah Kiernan, her attorney, made a final effort in behalf of his client, and had her taken from State Prison before Justice VanSyckel at Trenton on a writ of habeas corpus.

Justice VanSyckel, after hearing the lawyer's plea, declared the criminal code, since its revision, made no provision for such a plea as that which Lawyer Kiernan made to the court. The Justice then ordered the woman taken back to the State Prison. She completely broke down when she found her last hope of getting a new trial had vanished.

TROUBLE OVER A PIANO.

SEQUEL TO THE ALLEGED ASSAULT UPON THE PIANO DEALER.

The Row Took Place in Brokaw's Store Three Weeks Ago and Was the Result of a Misunderstanding About Leasing a Piano—Mr. Saunders Held for the Grand Jury by Justice Mosher After Examination

When Former Mayor William L. Saunders decided to give Wesley R. Brokaw, the East Front street piane dealer, a piece of his mind, he little thought of the trouble that might follow such a proceeding.

The freedom of speech on the part of Mr. Saunders has involved him in no end of notriety, and the end is not yet. The latest act in this little farce-comedy is the action which Mr. Brokaw has just begun in the Supreme Court against Mr. Saunders for $10,000 damages for alleged assault. The papers were served yesterday by Lawyer Irving L. Brady of this city.

The complaint affirms that the alleged assault took place in his store and by reason of the publicity of the affair the feelings of the plaintiff have been injured and his business and social standing damaged to the extent of $10,000.

Mr. Brokaw's troubles began on or about Saturday, June 3d, when he received a call from Mr. Saunders, who requested the piano dealer to send up an instrument to his barn at Washington Park, where there was to be given a children's entertainment.

When the piano did not reach Mr. Saunders' barn at the hour prescribed in the agreement, the latter called at Mr. Brokaw's store to ascertain what caused the delay. It appears that there was a misunderstanding about the kind of a piano and the men got into a discussion. From the argument a quarrel followed. During the heat of the argument, in which Mr. Saunders gave the piano dealer his private opinion of him in a public manner, Mr. Brokaw alleges that Mr. Saunders punched him in the face and knocked off his hat.

Mr. Saunders denies that he struck Mr. Brokaw. He told a Press reporter that what he said was simply to tell Mr. Brokaw what he thought of him in good plain English; that he (Brokaw) had agreed to deliver a piano at his barn between 4 and 5 o'clock on the day in question, but that he had failed to keep his agreement and he did not believe him to be a man of his word. Brokaw had admitted he said that he die not intend to keep his agreement unless Mr. Saunders paid him more money for the use of the piane than had been agreed upon. Mr. Saunders affirms that he then shook his finger in his face and denounced him as an unfit man for honest people to do business with. He denies emphatically that he struck Mr. Brokaw.

However, be that as it may, Brokaw rushed into the office of Justice Nash and secured a warrant for Saunders arrest, charging him with assault and battery. Mr. Saunders was taken into custody by Constable Mattox. He secured counsel in the person of Attorney John H. VanWinkle, and asked for an adjournment which was given him.

The case was to have been tried today. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Saunders, through his attorney, waved examination and Justice Nash held him to await the action of the Grand Jury, bail for $100 being accepted by the magistrate.

This disposition of the case had scarcely been made before Mr. Brokaw's attorney served papers upon Mr. Saunders in the Supreme Court action as referred to above.

Mr. Saunders does not feel at all concerned at the position assumed by his late antagonist. He says he is prepared to defend his rights and will fight the case to the end.

"Count" Gets More Time.

The trial of "Count" J. K. VanNess, on the charge of shooting firearms within the city limits, was adjourned again this morning, this time at the request of the city. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh is quite ill and City Judge Runyon laid the case over for two weeks at his request.

CARING FOR CHILDREN.

AGENT OF BOARD OF CHILDREN'S GUARDIANS VISITS IN PLAINFIELD.

Two Children Found Who Were Not Surrounded With Proper Influences—One Taken Away Yesterday Afternoon.

Recently there was organized in this State what is known as the State Board of Children's Guardians, an organization that especially looks after dependent children, provides homes or comfortable places for them, and if at any time it is found that the parents of these children are perfectable capable of caring for them they are returned to the parents. The organization is now in operation under a State law that gives this Board full authority to act as their best judgment teaches. The expense attached to this work is paid by the county in which the childred live, and is not paid by the locality directly from which the children are taken.

In view of the fact that there are a few children in Plainfield that come under the supervision of this Board, a representative of the organization visited Plainfield yesterday and in company with Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, agent for the Charity Organized Aid Association, made several visits about the city and learned exactly the state of affairs in relation to the work of the new organization. It was learned that at present there are two children to be taken care of, and one was taken away yesterday afternoon to be placed in a comfortable home. There are other families that will soon be broken up, owing to the fact that the parents are absolutely incapable of taking care of the children, but as stated, if later on they are able to care for the little ones they will be returned.

This new organization is managed by the best people in New Jersey and already they have done a good work. Out of eighty children taken in charge sixty of them have been returned to parents perfectly able to care for them. While the representative was in this city a visit was made to the Children's Home, and it is possible that arrangements will be perfected whereby some children may be placed there. The sum of $1.50 per week is paid for each child, thus assuring good care. After the children are placed in homes or institutions, they are carefully watched by the Board and personal attention is given so that the children receive the very best of care.

HELP SWELL THE FUND.

Subscriptions are Coming in Slowly for the Fourth of July Celebration.

The subscription committee of the Fourth of July celebration met at the office of Mayor Rockfellow last evening. Mayor Smalley, of the borough, was also present. The committee reported that but $700 had been pledged so far. As some members of the committee were not present and had not made a report, it was the consensus of opinion that the committee should meet with the general committee next Tuesday evening, when a full report can be made. The amount of money that has been pledged is by no means adequate for the expenses that will be incurred if the celebration is the success that it is expected. There is but about a week longer to raise the amount of money required. Hard work is before the committee. Let all patriotic citizens who are able to do so, subscribe liberally toward the fund.

Union Lodge's Reception.

The third annual reception of Union Lodge, No. 4026, G. U. O. of O. F., of this city, was held last Thursday evening in Washington Hall. Venable, W. H. Jones. The floor committe comprised Thomas Bowser, Chas. Thompson and William Dempsey, while J. W. Murray, Tucker Johnson and J. A. Scott formed the reception committee.

FUNERAL OVER MRS. PORCELLA'S REMAINS THIS AFTERNOON.

Body Arrived in Cranford Last Night—Mrs. Porcella's Sister Told a Press Reporter That the Family Hoped the Authorities Would Take up the Matter of Prosecution—Mrs. See Denies Charge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 24.—The body of Mrs. Anita Amelia Porcella, wife of Santiago Porcella, the wealthy surgar importer, who died at Crescent Beach, Conn., Thursday, and whose death is laid at the door of the Christian Scientists, was brought here last night and taken to her late residence on Holly street. The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and will be public. The services will be conducted by Rev. John Edgecumbe, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. George Francis Greene, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Miss Christie Munoz, sister of Mrs. Porcella, who was at the bedside of her sister when she died, said to a Press reporter last evening that no action would be taken by the family against Mrs. See, the "healer" of the First Christian Science church, who Miss Munoz claims was responsible for the death, but that they would be glad if the matter was looked into by the proper officials. The feeling in Cranford against the Sees is great and there is talk of taking up the matter, even without the consent of the Porcella family.

Mrs. See, when seen by a Press reporter last evening, said that she disclaimed all responsibility for the death of Mrs. Porcella, saying that she was not treating her at the time of death, and that if she had been Mrs. Porcella would now be alive, as she had never lost a patient and had treated several hundred.

TOO MUCH AMBER FLUID.

Hank Frisbie's Housekeeper Was on a High Old Racket.

It was the beer that did it, although Mattie Turton said she only had a single glass of it. She keeps house for Mail Messenger "Hank" Frisbie, and Frisbie says that she is an "all right lady" as long as she leaves the beer alone. Yesterday he claims to have found her sadly the worse, for the interview and trouble followed immediately.

At the request of the neighbors Chief Grant arrested the colored lady, who, it was alleged, was making a disgraceful racket. She was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning, and, with tears rolling down her cheeks, told her story. Her previous good record secured a suspension of sentence.

Almighty Dollar

This term originated with Washington Irving, as a satire on the American love of gain. It was, to be sure, a rather consequential piece of money even in Irving's day, but if you want to know how much more effective it is today as a purchasing agent, just take one around to Collier's and see what a harvest of satisfaction you can get in exchange.

SOME OF THE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES WILL CONTINUE STUDIES.

Out of Nineteen Who Graduated From Plainfield High School, Eight Expect to Resume Studies at College.

Of the nineteen young people who graduated from the Plainfield High School, Thursday evening, there are eight who will probably continue their education in some of the higher institutions of learning. Miss Helen Louise Hall and Miss Angie S. Kuhl will enter Wellesley College in the fall. Miss Marjorie Canfield Sterling also expects to enter college if her health will permit.

Among the young men, William Conant Morgan will go to Amherst where his brother graduated several years ago. William Asbury Fisher, Merton Whitcomb Davis, Edward Leslie Coriell and Charles Morgan Titsworth will all go to Rutgers College at New Brunswick. Fisher, Davis and Coriell all reside in Bound Brook, Titsworth in Dunellen and Miss Kuhl in Somerville. The other graduates are all residing in this city at present.

GRADUATES' GOOD TIME.

RECEPTION ARRANGED BY BOROUGH ALUMNI RECEPTION.

Class of '98 Make it Pleasant for Those Who Have Just Bid Adieu to School Life—Dancing the Pricipal Feature.

A delightful reception was given last evening to the graduating class of the Borough Public High School by the new alumni association, recently organized. This association is composed chiefly of members of the graduating class of 1898, but there are a few members of the 1897 class who have also joined.

The class colors, purple and white, prevailed in many different styles. The music for the occasion was furnished by P. Ludwig Conde.

It was after 9:30 o'clock when dancing was started, and the programme consisted of twenty-three numbers. During the intermission those present were served with ice cream and cake, after which dancing was continued until a late hour.

The other members of the association are Miss Alyce Barker, Miss Rachel Emmons, Miss May Conroy, Miss Ellen Codington, Miss Laura Codington, Miss Elsie Brokaw, Miss Bertha Stevens, Miss Minnie Marsh, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Edna French, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Bessie Day and Fred Williams.

RECTOR MURPHY'S TRIP.

To Spend Two Years in Europe Traveling to Suit Himself.

One week from today Rev. and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy and daughter, Miss Anna Murphy, will leave the city for New York, where they will remain until July 5th, when they will sail on the Steamship Britannic for Queenstown. They will make a short trip through Ireland, after which they will go to London, where they will spend the summer.

Next fall they wil travel through Paris, Switzerland, Rome, and other countries, and it is their intention of attending the Paris exposition. They do not expect to return to America inside of two years. They will travel to suit themselves and will not be subject to any scheduled time.

For nearly twenty-three years Mr. Murphy has been rector of the Church of the Holy Crass and he has served his people well. With his departure there will be many regrets, but his many friends are wishing both him and his family a pleasant time in their travels, and a safe return home.

CAN RIDE TO CITY LIMITS.

Trolley Cars Will Go as Far as Terrill Road Tomorrow.

Trolley tracks have now been laid across the property of "Count" VanNess and the Plainfield Street Railway Company expect by tomorrow to run their cars over the Scotch Plains route as far as Terrill road. The new tracks thus far laid are being cleaned off and the necessary grading is now being done. There remains a short distance to lay tracks before the entire distance will be covered from this city to the Plains.

The route thus far covered passes through a thickly settled portion of the city and residents in the east end will no doubt appreciate the effort of the company to give them service tomorrow and thereafter.

—A concert, vocal and instrumental, will be held in the Christian church, Thurday evening, as a compliment to the pastor, Rev. H. W. McKane.

May Tennant, of Albany, will be the new instructors in the Washington School. Miss Anna S. Coyle, of North Adams, Mass., at the Lincoln School, will be the only other new teacher.

DEATH OF A. J. GROLLMISCH.

Afflicted With Consumption—Red Men to Attend Funeral.

Last evening at 6 o'clock occurred the death of August J. Grollmisch, aged 55 years, who had been a resident of this city for many years. He was afflicted with consumption. Mr. Grollmisch resided at 223 East Front street and was by trade an upholsterer. He was very well known and a large circle of friends will mourn his death. Mr. Grollmisch was a member of Miantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., having joined that lodge nine years ago. He was an attendant at the German Reformed church. He leaves a wife and a large family of children, most of whom reside in New York and vicinity. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the house at 2 o'clock and from the German Reformed church at 2:30 o'clock. The members of Miantonomo Tribe will attend in a body.

His Thumb Crushed.

George H. Russell, aged 32, colored, residing at 514 West Third street, and an employe of the Pond Tool Works, had his thumb crushed last evening while at work. He belonged to the night gang, and it was about 2 o'clock this morning when he was taken to the hospital. An effort will be made to save the thumb, but there appears to be some doubt about it.

PARK CLUB'S FOURTH.

WILL BE CELEBRATED BY GAME OF GOLF AND A DANCE.

There Will Not be Any Fireworks by the Club But the Members Will Subscribe Toward the Fund Raised by a Committee.

The Park Club will celebrate as usual on the Fourth of July, and arrangements are being perfected to make the celebration as successful as previous ones have been. On the golf grounds in the afternoon the members of the club will compete in an open handicap tournament for a cup. At 4 o'clock a tea will also be given at the golf clubhouse. In the evening a private hop will be held at the Park clubhouse, beginning at 9 o'clock, to which all members of the club are invited. The patronesses will be Mrs. William J. Roome, Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. James T. Scott and Mrs. Samuel Townsend.

In view of the public celebration to be given by the citizens of Plainfield and the borough the customary fire works will be omitted this year that the members may attend the exhibition to be given under the auspices of the general committee on Myrtle avenue, North Plainfield, on the evening of the Fourth. This exhibition will probably be much better than anything the club could offer, and the members request all who desire to subscribe to such general fund to send their subscriptions through the Fourth of July committee of the Park Club, or any member thereof. Arrangements are being perfected for all members who subscribe to this fund to have reserved seats to view the fire works. All members of the club are earnestly requested to subscribe liberally for this patriotic cause.

The Fourth of July committee of the Park Club consists of William J. Roome, Edwin S. Hooley, Edward T. Wilson and Elston M. French.

FIGHT AT SCOTT'S.

One Young Man Hurls a Piece of Iron at Another, Cutting His Head.

Clarence Rittenhouse was arrested today on a warrant issued by Justice Moffett upon complaint of Martin Muldowney, who charged him with assault. Both parties are young men employed at Scott's Press Works. The alleged assault consisted of Rittenhouse hurling a piece of iron at Muldowney which struck him on the back of the head, cutting a gash a few inches long. The assault took place in the shop, where both young men are employed, last Saturday afternoon. William G. DeMeza has been retained by Muldowney to look after his interests in the matter.

CHEAPER FARES NOT THE ONLY ESSENTIAL.

A Correspondent Writes of Plainfield and the Railroads.

DISADVANTAGES PREVAIL.

SEES NO IMPROVEMENT THAT WOULD COME FROM LOWER RATES.

Plainfield's Situation Prevents us From Offsetting by Any Reduction of Fares the Movement in Greater New York—What is Needed is More Express Trains for the Use of the Rich Commuters.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—

Referring to the paragraph which appeared in your paper last week on the subject of "Cheaper Fares" between Plainfield and New York, I would ask permission to say a few words in the matter, first, however, taking care to ask that nothing I may say shall be construed to mean that I am not a well wisher of Plainfield. I believe, however, that a plain statement of facts will do more good than raising fallacious hopes for cheaper fares.

The present rates to New York are 60 cents one way, $1 excursion, and 72 cents excursion when a fifty-trip ticket is used. What cheaper fares may reasonably be expected than these? The article last week spoke of the competition of the suburbs of New York and Brooklyn. For 5 cents or 10 cents a passenger can leave the City Hall, New York, at almost any hour of the day or night, and travel from ten to fifteen miles to Jamaica, Coney Island or Mount Vernon. To meet such competition as this with success the fare to Plainfield, twenty-four miles, should not be more than 15 or 20 cents, and the number of trains at least trebled. Is it to be imagined for a moment that the railway company would be willing to make the fare to New York even 25 cents one way or 50 cents excursion? Such a reduction would not only affect Plainfield, but would cause a reduction in the rates as far south as Philadelphia and westward to Easton, and could not be put into effect without antagonizing other roads, especially the Pennsylvania. The idea, therefore, of a 25-cent fare to New York is not to be thought of, while a reduction from 60 cents to 50 cents, though acceptable, would not affect the present situation. No hope, therefore, in the opinion of the writer can be expected from cheaper fares by rail.

In the matter of competing train service by rail, we are even worse off. The time from New York to Plainfield can with truth be advertised as 45 minutes and the number of trains 40 or more each way per day, but (for practical purposes) for commuters the number is 3 each way, namely 7.26, 7.55 and 8.30 a. m. eastward, and 4.40, 5.30 and 5.45 p. m. westbound, for no one in these days of rapid business life will willingly travel on a way train, but will wait for the next express or quit Plainfield altogether. Plainfield has also the disadvantage as compared with the annexed district and Brooklyn of the "draw" across Newark Bay and the ferry to New York, which frequently cause a delay of from five to ten minutes.

The articles last week also mentioned the advantage that would be derived from a trolley to South Plainfield, there connecting with the Lehigh Valley. I cannot see any good results from this route. South Plainfield is 26 miles railroad distance from New York, two miles further than Plainfield, with higher fares (79 cents and $1.05,) very few trains, and a long trolley ride to reach it; nor can I see any advantage to commuters from an all trolley route to New York via Orange or via Elizabeth. I estimate the fare as 35 cents one way and 70 cents excursion, but the time would probably average three hours each way, and I cannot imagine for a moment any active New York business man spending six hours daily in a trolley car.

The only suggestion I have to make, which I think has a moderate show of success, is to endeavor to persuade the railroad company to give at least six express commuters' trains each way, with no stop between Plainfield and New York, and to rely more on making our city beautiful and desirable for New York business men with incomes of from $5,000 to $50,000 per annum to live in. We have many advantages—good schools, gravel soil, pure water, etc., which it is not the object of this letter to point out, and these we should use for all they are worth.

As the writer understands the situation, the rate which the railway is legally authorized to charge is 3 cents per mile, or 72 cents each way; that

WILL VISIT PACIFIC COAST.

President McKinley To Cross the Rocky Mountains on a Pleasure Trip.

TO REVIEW VOLUNTEERS

The Trip Across the Continent Will be Taken at as Early a Date as May be Practical.

McKinley Will be the Third President to Visit the Pacific Coast—A Raise in the Salaries of Postal Clerks—Other News Notes From the National Capital.

Washington, June 24.—After the President gets back to Washington, he will begin to consider the plans for his Western trip. It is not expected, however, that he will start before the end of July or the first of August, as his programme includes a review of the volunteers returning from the Philippines, and from present indications these volunteers can't reach San Francisco until early in August. The President will, meanwhile, decide whether his engagements and the state of public affairs will allow him to extend his trip to the Yellowstone or to the Pacific coast. The President is very anxious to go to California, and fully intended doing so last winter, but circumstances have arisen which may change his plans.

Only two Presidents have visited the Pacific coast during their terms of office, and the people of the West are most desirous that President McKinley make the third to cross the Rocky Mountains. President Hayes was the first of the Chief Executives to visit the western portion of the United States, and President Harrison was the second. The latter's trip through the South to the Pacific coast was made near the end of his term, and was a memorable one. Before the time of President Grant, it was practically impossible for a President to cross the Rockies, but since then railroad travel has been so wonderfully improved that the journey is a mere outing.

The reports from Chicago that Senator Cullom may have an opponent for re-election in the person of John W. Gates are creating much interest in Washington, although it is thought that Senator Cullom has a point in his favor by residing outside the city of Chicago, while Mr. Gates is a citizen of that place. Senator Mason also lives in Chicago, and the politicians in Washington say that the State of Illinois will not take both Senators from the Windy City. Mr. Gates is quite well known in Washington, as he is throughout the East from his position as president of the American Steel and Wire Company. However, if he should come to Washington, as United States Senator, he would be hailed as an acquisition to society, for he is a royal entertainer.

Western members of Congress who are in the city and who did a great deal to help along Gen. Henderson's campaign for Speaker of the next House are expressing a good deal of doubt about the stories sent out the last day or two from Chicago that the General has had conferences with Republican leaders and announced his decision in regard to the chairmanships of some of the prominent committees of the next Congress. In the first place, these Congressmen say that Gen. Henderson would hardly announce the selection of any chairman before he was actually elected Speaker of the House.

The War Department has received no official advices relative to the grounding of the transport Centennial on the north end of Luzon and the loss of one hundred tons of supplies which were thrown overboard to lighten the ship. According to the records here the Centennial carried 1,800 tons of supplies, and it is believed that they were all the property of the Subsistence Department. The commissary officer at Manila has been queried to know whether it is desirable to immediately replace the supplies which were lost.

The Acting Secretary of War says that so far as the Department is concerned the canteen question was settled in favor of maintaining the present system. Reports from officers in all branches of the service showed that from every standpoint the army canteen, as now operated, is infinitely better for the interests of the soldier than the old system of post-traders and low groggeries on the outskirts of the posts. The regulations under which the canteen operates are already formulated, and there will be no need for further action by the department.

The Navy Department has been notified by the Armstrong Shipbuilding Company, of England, that the recent fire in their ordnance plant at Newcastle would somewhat delay the completion of the cruiser Albany. The fire destroyed about $1,000,000 worth of ordnance and electrical apparatus, some of which was designed for the Albany.

George W. Beavers, chief of the salary and allowance division of the Postoffice Department, has completed his readjustment of the salaries of postoffice clerks throughout the country. In New York City alone there will be over 300 clerks to receive an increase ranging from $400 and $600 to $1,100 and $1,200.

A Leper Station Burned.

Victoria, B. C., June 24.—News has been received of the destruction of the D'Arcy Island leper station by fire. One leper is dead and another, it is feared, will die from injuries received.

New British Consul at Samoa.

Wellington, N. Z., June 24.—Major Nair, a judge of the New Zealand Land Court, has been appointed acting consul for Great Britain at Samoa.

WOLCOTT BESTS CREEDON

There Was no Knockout But the Colored Man Had the Best of It.

New York, June 24.—For the second time in his career as a pugilist, Joe Wolcott has lowered the colors of Dan Creedon of Australia. About 4,000 people witnessed their twenty round bout before the Broadway Athletic Club and all were satisfied that they had seen as fast and furious a go and take battle as has been fought here in a long time. Both of the men had trained long and earnestly for the fight and were in fine condition. Betting at the ringside was brisk and Wolcott was the favorite at odds of ten to eight. It is estimated that fully $50,000 changed hands on the result.

Greedon was not knocked out but lasted the full limit of twenty rounds at the end of which the referee awarded the decision to the colored boxer.

The fighting was pretty even during the first ten rounds but from that time to the end Wolcott had clearly the best of it and the Australian was badly punished.

Talmage Said to be Stricken.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 24.—The Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage was overcome by intense heat in Washington, according to a dispatch received here. Talmage was on his way here from a vacation in the Southern States. He had engaged to preach here on Sunday morning on the steel pier. His physician telegraphed to the manager, Thomas J. Dibble, that heat and the great fatigue of the journey North had completely prostrated him. Dr. Talmage has been in ill health for some time. The dispatch stated that Dr. Talmage was in a serious condition, and it was uncertain when he might keep his appointmnet here.

Watching For Dreyfus.

Brest, France, June 24.—The inhabitants of this port are absorbed in the pending arrival of Dreyfus. The question on everyone's lips is, "When will he arrive?" But no one seems able to reply. The town, however, is perfectly calm. There is no outward sign of excitement any where, except along the favorite promenade, the Cours Dajot, on the cliff overlooking the splendid harbor beneath, in which half a dozen picturesque old three-deckers, lying moored alongside the modern cruisers, can be seen.

Tornado Sweeps Three States.

Dallas, Tex., June 24.—A fierce tornado, accompanied by rain and hail passed through eastern Texas, western Arkansas and northern Louisiana, doing a great amount of damage. More than a score of buildings were blown down and in the entire path of the storm all kinds of growing crops suffered great damage. At Pine Bluff, Arkansas, twenty-five buildings were destroyed and several persons were seriously injured. So far as known there were no fatalities.

Wood Will Stay by Uncle Sam.

New York, June 24.—"I do not intend to leave the military service of the United States, so long as I am needed, for $30,000 a year or for twice that amount. There are other things in the world besides money." In this way General Leonard Wood, who saw President McKinley in Adams, Mass., and who was at the Cambridge in this city, answered a question at to his decision on the offer to become president of the Washington Traction and Electric Company at a salary of $30,000 a year.

Lost a $250,000 Contract.

Derby, Conn., June 24.—The Driggs-Seabury Gun and Ammunition Company, capitalized at $1,000,000 and which last week increased its capitalization to $2,000,000 has been relieved of a $250,000 contract for rapid-fire guns by order of Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn for failure to fulfill the terms of a previous contract.

Father Shot by Careless Son.

Spring Valley, N. Y., June 24.—Casper Zorn is lying critically wounded at his home in Mount Ivy, four miles from here, having been shot in the spinal column by his fourteen-year-old son John. It was the old case of the pistol and a boy who thought it wasn't loaded.

To Use Compressed Air.

Dover, Del., June 24.—A certificate of incorporation of the United States Vehicle Company with an authorized capital of $25,000,000 has been filed here at the office of the Secretary of State. The company was incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing with compressed air as a motive power.

Five New Cases in Sentiago.

Santiago, June 24.—Five new cases of yellow fever are reported—three soldiers and two civilians. No deaths are reported.

The Kaiser Honors Von Buelow.

Berlin, June 24.—Emperor William has conferred the rank of Count on the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Von Buelow.

Reward of Virtue

Being 87 himself and his wife but 17, he regarded the oatmeal with distrust.

"Is there ground glass or poison in this, sweetheart?" he asked.

"No, darling," she replied.

Accordingly he sent the oatmeal to a chemist and had it analyzed, and it was thoroughly established that there was neither ground glass nor poison in it, and the old man was so surprised he drank himself to death.

And his young widow came into all his property.

How much better it is not to be wicked!—Detroit Journal.

Not Till Then

"I suppose you will be ready when your country calls you?" said the friend.

"Yes, sir," replied Senator Sorghum confidentially, "but I'm going to keep right on bluffing till that happens. I'm not going to lay down my hand till my country does call me."—Washington Star.

CLEVELAND STRIKE ENDED

The Big Consolidated Company and Strikers Arrive at An Agreement.

HOSTILITIES WILL CEASE

The Men On Some Points Yielded to Proposition Presented to Them By the Company.

Part of Strikers to be Taken Back at Once and the Balance Later—Agreement Reached After a Long Conference—Cars Shattered With a Dynamite Bomb.

Cleveland, O., June 24.—The Cleveland street railroad strike is ended. At the moment when the struggle seemed about to take a turn that would have been disastrous, when dynamite began to be used, and when the Mayor had notified the commanders of the local military organization to hold themselves and commands in readiness to do immediate duty, the strikers met and accepted the offer of the company.

When President Everett was informed that the strikers had refused to accept the terms of the proposition submitted by him he declared that he would treat no longer with the strikers but would fight them to a finish, regardless of what they might do or desire. He appealed to Mayor Farley for better protection for his new men and the company's property.

Mayor Farley consulted with Director of Police Barrett and Director of Law Hogiett. Then he called in the local military commanders. After the conference it was announced officially that the Governor would be asked to send troops from the southern part of the State here.

All this time the City Council committee had been active in the endeavor to get the strikers to reconsider their action. They finally induced the Executive Committee to call another meeting of the strikers at Arch Hall. The meeting was held, and the attorneys of the strikers explained that, while the terms of the company's proposition provided for the immediate return to work of only 80 per cent. of the strikers, the other 20 per cent. would be provided for inside of twenty days at the most, as the company intended putting on fifty more cars and the non-union men would gradually find that they would prefer employment elsewhere. The company also agreed to put half of the remaining 20 per cent. of the strikers on the extra list and to give preference to the others when employing new men. The result of the strike is a drawn battle. The company agrees to recognize the men's organization, a refusal to do which caused the ordering of the strike, but it does not yield as to the discharge of new men. Dynamite also figured in the strike and for the first time, a bomb was thrown into the Windermere barns of the company.
